Lobbying firm helps WTUA win grant

Federal grant money to offset Western Townships Utilities Authority sewer project costs — $5 million — has been awarded to WTUA.

"We're thrilled to get $5 million in this economic climate," said Gerald Law, Plymouth Township supervisor and WTUA trustee.

Noting that the Plymouth-Canton schools recently failed in their attempt to get a $6 million federal grant for high-tech equipment, Law attributed WTUA's success to the authority hiring a lobbying firm — something the school district did not do.

WTUA trustees had taken some flack for spending $1 million on a lobbyist. Law said that hiring the lobbying firm resulted in a gain of $4 million, to offset project costs.

While WTUA had been seeking $20 million in grant money, WTUA executive director Delores Newell said the authority will seek the remainder of the grant next year.

"We're in the door," Law said.

The grant, included in a water resource bill, was approved by the House on Tuesday and by the Senate on Friday.

The $94 million WTUA project, begun by officials in Plymouth, Canton and Northville townships in response to soaring water and sewer rates charged by the city of Detroit, is scheduled to go on line next year.

Boxes bug DDA

■ To some, sidewalk newspaper boxes are a convenience; to others, they're an eyesore. Members of the latter group hope to banish them from Main Street.

Box ban: While newspaper boxes have long been a fixture of Main Street America, some Plymouth business people want them removed.

CITY HALL

They want to ban newspapers on Main Street.

Banning newspaper boxes from the corner of Main at Penniman is being touted by some Plymouth business folks.

While newspaper boxes have long been a tradition at the corner — and along Main Street sidewalks throughout America — some local folks claim the boxes are "unsightly."

"Some people really feel they're an eyesore," said a Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce official who declined to be named.

"I'm not sure that's the most opportune spot for them," said Fred Hill, local businessman and Downtown Development Authority member.

City attorney Ron Lowe recently responded by letter on the matter from DDA director Stephen Guile. He asked Lowe to find out if the city can regulate newspaper boxes.

"We're not trying to limit access," Guile said. "We're looking at the possibility of relocating them."

He said litter and leaves collect around the boxes, and people sometimes double-park on Main to get a newspaper, causing a safety hazard.

The newspaper boxes "stick out like a sore thumb," Guile said, adding they could be moved just around the corner to Penniman.

"Both the U.S. Constitution and the Michigan Constitution prohibit municipalities from enacting laws that restrain or abridge the liberty of the press," Lowe wrote.

But constitutional protections do "not equate to immunity from municipal regulation," he continued.

"Reasonable 'time, place and manner' regulations of newsracks have been upheld," Lowe continued.

Lowe said he's waiting on further word from Guile on how the DDA may want to regulate the newspaper boxes at Main and Penniman.

Guile said the DDA will likely look at the situation more closely when the streetscape renovation project downtown begins.

One prominent business person, chamber of commerce president Pat Pulkownik, said, "I don't find them that bad, really."

"You go to other big cities, London or Paris, and you see them all over," Pulkownik said.

"They need to be maintained, cleaned," she said.

Thumbs up: T-shirts send message

BY M.B. DILLON

Date: Thanksgiving Day, 1991.

Place: Detroit.

Once the football game was over, the thoughts of most Detroit Lions fans turned to turkey, mashed potatoes, gravy, dressing and pumpkin pie. Not so for Jim Wauldron.

The Plymouth resident, who operates Centrex Office Seating in Livonia, was so taken with Lion Lomas Brown's tribute to a fallen colleague that it moved him to action.

The week before, offensive lineman Mike Utley was paralyzed in a game against the Los Angeles Rams.

As he was carried from the field on a stretcher, Utley gave his teammates and fans a "thumbs up" sign. During the televised game on Thanksgiving, Brown announced to the audience that Utley was as much a part of the team as he ever was, and gave him the thumbs up sign.

"I was thinking it was pretty remarkable," said Wauldron, "that here Mike was paralyzed, and he was giving the thumbs up sign as if to say, 'Don't worry about me.' "

When Brown made the same gesture, Wauldron was reminded of 1984, when sportscaster Al Ackerman christened the phrase "Bless You Boys" in reference to the world champion Detroit Tigers.

It sparked an idea. After conferring with Ackerman, Wauldron printed and sold "Bless You Boys" T-shirts. Sales were brisk, and a large portion of the proceeds went to Easter Seals.

"I saw that a 'Thumbs Up' campaign to benefit the Mike Utley Foundation was something that would work, because of how well 'Bless You Boys' went over," said Wauldron, who designed T-shirts for Canton Township's sesquicentennial celebration.

Wasting no time, Wauldron on Thanksgiving Day sketched a "Thumbs Up" design for a T-shirt and cap and approached a few people with a marketing plan.

"Within a day, NFL Properties called, saying they wanted to get involved. There was a tidal wave of support right away; it was an emotional thing. We called some retailers;

Township supervisor candidates face off

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

The Plymouth Township supervisor race pits Republican primary survivor Kathleen Keen-McCarthy against independent Ron Edwards.

Voters will elect one of the two candidates to a four-year term on Nov. 3.

Keen-McCarthy, a former associate administrator at Oakwood Hospital, said she's running for supervisor "because I'm committed to the idea that people can make a difference in their government."

Edwards, a self-employed accountant, said, "I feel Plymouth Township needs to be more of a community than it is right now."

"I grew up in a community where there was recreation, good libraries, good police and fire departments," Edwards said, adding he'd like to see the schools and township government work together.

On the township budget — administrators will soon deal with a projected deficit — both candidates say the township should seek shared services and review spending in each department.

Keen-McCarthy said since her primary win, "I have been spending a lot of time of my own with department heads, with representatives of neighboring communities, getting knowledge of what's going on" related to the budget and other matters.

She plans on looking at the budget of each department for possible cuts, talking about shared services with Northville Township as well as the city of Plymouth, adding, "you have to approach it cautiously, we don't want to hurt our employees."

Edwards said officials working on shared services should "tell people what it's about."

Edwards said he would seek not to cut jobs or wages of township employees, but raises and bonuses for department heads and supervisors need to be trimmed.

"Manufacturing jobs need to be brought to the community," he said, to boost tax revenue, "or we're going to have problems down the road."

Both candidates say they're for maintaining the current land use plan, adding they're against strip malls on the west end of the township.

Both candidates also support recent changes made by the Western Townships Utilities Authority in hiring and bidding practices, and would meet with residents during the day at the township office or field calls at night.

Computers spur library shift

BY DIANE GALE
STAFF WRITER

A new computer system in Canton's library is the key behind a move to break away from a library federation that local officials say is antiquated.

Canton is among seven communities — Farmington, Rochester, Southfield, Birmingham, Bloomfield and Independence Township — that plan to leave the Wayne Oakland Library Federation.

The inter-library system provides library services to all major communities in Wayne and Oakland counties except Detroit and Highland Park. WOLF allows shared borrowing privileges for residents in those communities.

The seven communities that want to leave the WOLF system are well-stocked and adequately funded by local millages. They want to form Metro Net.

"You have to have a stand alone (computer) system, which is one of the reasons we can break away from WOLF," according to Canton Library Director Jean Tabor.

She insists that if Metro Net is formed that people from other communities who use Canton's library will have access to the current services.

"We have no intention of limiting anyone we currently serve in WOLF," Tabor said.

WOLF is funded by state aid based on a per capita system. It offers member libraries various services, like computerized tracking, book ordering assistance and printing.

"Those of us joining Metro Net don't need all of WOLF services, like the computer networking and consulting services for buying and programming," Tabor said. "Yet, we ultimately pay for those services. We want a cooperative that is scaled down.

"We'll be able to use our state aid dollars to benefit the residents of Canton. We would be able to move forward and make decisions quickly that are now cumbersome, because there are different needs."

The breakaway communities have three areas of dispute — residents in larger communities on the WOLF board are not proportionally represented, some funding goes for services that are not used by Metro Net communities and some services are inadequate.

The earliest Metro Net would be effective is Oct. 1, 1993.

Meanwhile, in a separate issue, Canton's library board is battling Westland officials regarding payment of Westland residents' use of Canton's library.

If Westland fails to pay a portion of Canton's operating costs by Jan. 1, 1993, Westland residents will not be allowed to use Canton's materials.

Westland currently pays Livonia, Garden City and Wayne for library services, Tabor added.

In 1990 it was learned that Westland residents represented 7 percent of Canton library's total material circulation. Canton's library board limited Westland residents to one book at a time unless a $100-per-family annual fee was paid. That fee is currently charged to all library users who live outside the WOLF system.

Westland Mayor Robert Thomas has vowed to fight Canton's tough guidelines.

However, Canton officials say the charge is only fair since Canton residents pay for the services through property taxes. Canton levies 1.7 mills for library services. For instance, an owner of a house in Canton, valued at $140,000, pays $119 annually for the library.

Douglas Whitaker, WOLF's co-interim director, said that while his organization is prohibited from interfering in a local library's operations, it can help resolve disputes. He said he would work on helping Canton and Westland resolve differences.

Kmart, Dunhams and the stadium (Pontiac Silverdome)," all of whom agreed to sell the shirt.

NFL Properties granted Wauldron's corporation a Michigan soft goods license. Last August, the league gave his Livonia company, free of charge, a national license with a value of up to $1 million. It permits the company to distribute Thumbs Up merchandise for all 28 NFL teams.

The NFL offered to donate to the Utley Foundation the full 9-percent royalty it receives for each Thumbs Up T-shirt and cap sold.

The Wauldron Corp. is giving away shirts as fast as it can print them. Thus far it has has shipped 60,000 shirts to 1,000 locations across the U.S., said Ed Raschke, vice president of operations and a Plymouth resident.

Over half of the $250,000 raised by the foundation thus far has come from T-shirt revenues.

The Thumbs Up shirt is the top-selling shirt at the Silverdome. Just about every NFL team, and stores including Foot Locker, J.C. Penney, Hudson's, Target, Kohl's and Wal-mart have expressed interest in carrying the merchandise. Detroit Piston basketball player Isiah Thomas owns one and was filmed at the Silverdome wearing it.

Upbeat despite injury

Thinking positive is the hallmark of Utley's character.

"The challenge we have is getting Mike's story in front of people," said Tony McDonnell of Livonia, vice president of marketing for the Wauldron Corp. "A lot of positive things have happened to Mike in the midst of a very difficult situation. He intends to work just as hard at this as he did playing football.

"The Thumbs Up theme fits in so well because of how hard he's working. It epitomizes the whole spirit of 'Let's not complain, let's get out there and do it,'" added McDonnell, former associate athletic director at Oregon State University.

In a telephone interview from Denver where he is receiving treatment at Craig Hospital, Utley said the Thumbs Up program can be a winner.

"Our goal is to help everyone who's been injured get back on their feet and walk again. With continued support of the Thumbs Up program, this goal will become a reality," he said.

Utley says he's determined to defy doctors by walking someday.

"My attitude is suck it up; go out and kick some butt. If my doctors don't have information I can use, I ignore it," said the Washington State graduate and Seattle native.

When he began his rehabilitation, Utley found that standing for any period of time caused him to pass out. Now he's standing for more than an hour a day.

Lifting weights has paid off. Utley has regained his upper body strength and now drives a specially equipped van.

"People put limits on themselves for whatever reasons. I played sports all my life and never believed in limits. Being a football player, I've had a lot of surgery. Every time I was injured, they fixed me and I went back out on the field.

"I don't understand why they can't fix me now. I think there will be a cure; it takes money. That's what the whole thing is all about."

Utley, 26, said he was thrilled when he first saw his coaches, teammates and Detroiters wearing Thumbs Up shirts. "I had no idea what it was all about at the beginning. This guy has ideas on how to get things out there, and keep going.

"You start out with a small step, and it leads to big things. The T-shirts can pump in $1 million a year or more. We're going to push as far as we can. We're going to go like hell."

T-shirts are for sale at area stores and should be available before Christmas at all the abovementioned retailers. They're also available by mail. Send $14.95 to the Wauldron Corp., P.O. Box 87615, Canton, Mich, 48187.

State's First Lady visits Hulsing

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

In the nearly two years that Michelle Engler has been Michigan's first lady, the press corps probably has learned less about her than Hulsing Elementary School students did in an hour Wednesday afternoon.

Students also impressed Engler with their insight and knowledge.

Engler was hosted at Hulsing by principal Becky Moore and Deborah Whyman of Canton, Republican candidate for state representative in the 21st District. Whyman said she was called by Michelle Engler's office, asking if Whyman would be interested in accompanying her to a Plymouth-Canton school. Whyman chose Hulsing, and Engler came to talk to students primarily about the importance of reading.

In introducing Engler, kindergarten teacher Jean LaPointe asked her students, "Who can tell me what Gov. Engler does?"

"He helps George Bush," answered a squirmy kindergartner. "He works for the government," answered another. "He tries to run the state of Michigan," a third student said.

Engler turned the topic to reading.

"Who knows how to read?" she asked the group of students seated on the floor around her. Several hands went up. "I know what two and two is," answered a student. "My dog knows how to shake," said another. "I know what 200 and 200 is," answered a third.

"You're too advanced for me," said Engler, with a trace of a Texas drawl.

Engler, an attorney and lifelong Texan before her marriage, serves on the board of directors of the Library of Michigan Foundation and the Michigan Historical Center Foundation. An avid reader, Engler had a library card before she entered school.

Engler addressed an assembly of third-, fourth- and fifth-graders in the gym before answering some personal and probing questions.

"Part of my job being married to the governor is to travel around the state of Michigan. I like to travel to elementry schools and speak about the importance of reading. No matter what you grow up to become; a cashier, a salesperson, factory worker, a lawyer or a doctor — even if you stay home and take care of children, reading will be important to your success and your children's success," she said.

Engler introduced Whyman to the student body and said, "I think it's very important for some of you girls to get involved in state government. We need more women in government. We need more women, don't you think?"

It was tough to tell whether the yeses or no's had it.

Engler said she's put her law practice on hold temporarily. "Insted, I'm trying to get to know the state as well as I can. Part of my job is to travel to events like the Holland Tulip Festival and the Thanksgiving Day Parade," she said.

"Sometimes I get to meet important people." When Engler said she met Garth Brooks two weeks ago, a gasp arouse from the audience. Students gasped again when the First Lady, who runs, and plays volleyball and softball, told them she's met Detroit Pistons Bill Laimbeer and Isiah Thomas.

"Are you planning to have kids?" asked a student. "Yes, we would like to hve a family," she said, smiling.

"Has marrying the governor changed your life?" a student asked.

"It's changed it drastically. As a lawyer, I wasn't known by the public. Sometimes it's not easy. People are watching what you do all the time. You have to be careful about what you say. For another thing, you have a state policeman driving you places. When you get to a lot of places, people recognize you."

"Are you 56 or 76?" a third-grader asked. This time it was the adults' turn to squirm. "I'm 34," answered Engler.

"Is your house big?" a student wanted to know.

"Our house is provided by the state of Michigan. It has three bedrooms and three bathrooms. It's one story, but it has big rooms. We have another house on Mackinac Island with three stories. But we can only use that in the summer."

"Do you get to see the Governor a lot?" a boy asked.

"Not enough," she said with a laugh. "He travels a lot, but most of the time he is in Lansing."

"Where did you meet the governor?"

"I was living in Texas and a friend of mine moved from Texas to Michigan to help him with his campaign. I was visitng her and she introduced us. It was a strange meeting."

After Engler left, students shared their impressions.

"I think it would be fun to be the governor's wife, because you get to travel around to see a lot of people and what it's like around the state, " said third-grader Samantha Newton.

"I think it would be nice to be the governor's daughter. It would be like you were a famous person and lots of people would want to see you and stuff," said third-grader Danielle Behr.

Engler also is channeling her efforts into furthering volunteerism in Michigan.

"Money isn't the answer to most social problems, people are. We have the ability within ourselves, today, to make a difference, one person, one family, and one neighborhood at a time. By volunteering, each of us in our own special way can change the lives of others and by so doing, change our own lives as well."

Catholic Central runners to give push in marathon

Anyone wishing to donate pledges for Multiple Sclerosis in Jim Keskeny's name may do so by writing a tax-deductible check to the MS Society and sending it to Keskeny at 2427 Surrey Road, Pinckney 48169.

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Cruise down Edward Hines Drive on an autumn afternoon, and you're likely to see more than one cross country team on a training run. Wednesday was no different; about 50 Redford Catholic Central harriers were clicking off the miles along the trails and up the hills of Cass Benton Park. But something special happened after practice.

The runners, and their coach, Tony Magni, met a former CC football player named Jim Keskeny. Keskeny, 48, of Pinckney, has Multiple Sclerosis and gets around in a wheelchair. He's entered in the Oct. 18 Free Press/ Mazda International Marathon and will complete with the help of runners from CC and Assumption College School, CC's brother school in Windsor. The 26.2-mile race takes runners from Windsor's Jackson Park, through the tunnel, to Belle Isle and the finish line at Hart Plaza.

Runners will push Keskeny a mile apiece, with members of the varsity picking them up in cars at checkpoints along the course.

Keskeny has completed several Paris Marathons as well as local races with volunteer pushers who've raised pledges for the MS Society.

Getting CC involved in his first Free Press marathon struck him as a good idea.

"It seemed like it would be a natural thing. After I talked to Coach Magni, it just kind of fell into place," said Keskeny, who runs his own investment-counseling business.

"I was amazed talking to Tony that more guys than we could possibly handle responded. It's thrilling to have such enthusiasm and support. It's what I should have expected of CC," said Keskeny, who's sponsored in the run by Toyota and Protomatic Co. of Dexter.

"Stuff like this isn't supposed to happen in real life. It happens in Hollywood. But for us to pull this off at an international marathon in the international MS year is an unusual opportunity. It's kind of a lucky break."

CC runners, ranked fourth in the state and undefeated in dual meets this season, say this is a chance to help out a CC grad who's unable to run himself.

Plymouth's Mike Dorrington, a senior who's run cross country for four years and track for three, will push Keskeny most of the final mile. Keskeny hopes to wheel the last quarter-mile under his own power.

Dorrington volunteered because "it seems like Jim really wanted to do it, and it just seems like a good thing to do."

"Mike's been on the team the last four years and has had some tough luck. This will be an honor for him," said Magni, winner of state titles in '83, '84 and '89.

CC's longtime coach said he didn't think twice about saying yes to Keskeny.

"He's a CC grad, and we had the manpower to do it. We thought it would be a neat thing for us. It should be fun. These kids are excited about it." Magni is a marathoner himself. Despite having just a month to train, he finished the 1979 Free Press after his team bet him $100 he couldn't do it.

And the pushers are . . .

Should you see the marathon in person or on Channel 4 or PASS, you're likely to see one or more of these CC runners pushing Keskeny: freshman Matt Borke of Canton; sophomore Mike Danic of Redford (Mike's dad John is running also); junior Kevin Lyman of Livonia; senior Jerry Nozewski of Westland; senior Brandon Dalziel of Northville; sophomore Matt Sroczynski of Livonia; senior Eric Rodegher of Detroit; sophomore Ryan Sokolowski of Canton; sophomore Greg Ayres of Farmington Hills; senior Matt Carmona of Detroit; sophomore Phil Camilleri of Livonia; freshman Mark Wollschlager of Livonia; sophomore Kevin Rucinski of Plymouth; junior Jeff Meekins of Livonia; junior Eric Popiel of Ann Arbor; sophomore Derrick Faunce of Plymouth; sophomore Mark Livingston of Detroit; senior Andy Radzialowski of Northville; junior John Livingston of Detroit; and junior Andy Bennetts of Milford.

Nozewski said runners volunteered because "we just feel that any time you can help someone less fortunate than yourself, you should do it. I know if I was in that position, I would want other people to help me. Plus Jim's a nice guy."

Michigan air is too polluted, feds say

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Your air is still dirty, the federal government is telling southeastern Michigan, and you must clean it by 15 percent by 1996.

The catch: Regional officials, after consulting with industry, will design their own cleanup plan and present it to the Michigan Legislature for enactment.

Most likely solutions: vapor recovery devices on gasoline pumps and stiffer emissions tests for more cars and trucks.

"The whole country is doing the same thing. Many regions have worse situations than ours," said Milton Mack, a Wayne County probate judge chairing a government-industry task force of set up by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments.

"This committee is advisory to SEMCOG. We want to have something before them (the general assembly, representing 140 member governments) by December 1992," Mack said. Deadline for the Legislature to enact SEMCOG's plan is November of 1993.

The cleanup order comes from the 1990 federal Clean Air Act. The feds rate southeastern Michigan's air pollution as moderate.

Under the 1977 act, three counties in southeastern Michigan — Wayne, Oakland and Macomb — had to comply with annual vehicle emissions tests. Under the new act, it's likely that Livingston, St. Clair, Washtenaw and Monroe counties will be added to the program, along with the western Michigan regions of Grand Rapids, Holland and Muskegon, said SEMCOG officials.

Vapor recovery devices on fuel pumps are "a given," said SEMCOG staffer Chuck Hersey. They would reduce volatile organic compounds (VOCs) by 4 percent.

Less likely in this region, but probable in southern California, are "reformulated" fuels like ethanol. "We're not one of the nine worst areas in the country," said Kersey. Consumers will pay the cost of reformulated fuels in affected areas.

Other possible methods of reducing VOCs, at least on paper, are controls on lawn mowers, out-

Commission hopefuls joust in debate

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

In the battle to see who'll represent Plymouth, Canton and most Livonia residents on the county commission, voters may chose between, A) a 27-year-old Republican attorney who writes songs and plays an electric guitar, or B) a 68-year-old Democrat real estate agent who bills himself as "the Smiling Irishman."

Livonia resident Thaddeus McCotter is the young Republican who once played lead guitar in a band called the Flying Squirrels. Since 1989, McCotter, the son of Livonia City Clerk Joan McCotter has been the youngest member of the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees.

Plymouth resident Mike Caffery is a Prudential real estate agent in that company's Plymouth office. He has no prior experience in government, but ran unsuccessfully for the Dearborn City Council 25 years ago.

Caffery grew up on the east side of Detroit, served as a mechanic in the Army during World War II (but never got overseas) and went into the real estate business shortly after the war.

McCotter grew up in Livonia and graduated from Catholic Central High School. He started clerking for a legal firm in 1989 and got his law degree from the

Caffery

McCotter

University of Detroit the following year. Currently he works alone as an attorney, but promises to put his legal career on ice for now if elected county commissioner.

McCotter and Caffery appeared last Wednesday at a League of Women Voters election forum in Livonia.

The candidates agreed that Wayne County doesn't need any new taxes, but McCotter seemed more aware of the relevant issues than Caffery.

For example, when asked about their positions on the county's three ballot proposals, McCotter had an opinion on all of them. But Caffery answered by just saying, "I'm against new taxes." (Only one of the county proposals to appear on the Nov. 3 ballot asks for more taxes.)

When asked specifically about the ballot proposal that could return one-tenth of a 1-mill county tax to cities and townships, McCotter said he favors the proposal, but Caffery chose not to respond.

In an Observer interview, Caffery was asked the same question. "I haven't heard about that one," he said. "I guess I haven't been keeping up to date."

In his closing statement at the debate, Caffery took a poke at McCotter for being a lawyer. "I'm not an attorney," he said. "I never tried to be an attorney. I always tried to be a salesman. They don't need another attorney up there at the county."

The following comments were taken from the Observer's separate interviews with each candidate.

On county Executive Edward H. McNamara, McCotter said, "He's probably the most business-minded Democrat we've got. He's done a lot of things for the county. I'll work with him, but I won't work for him."

Caffery gives the opposite impression. Queried about the ballot proposal that asks voters to tax themselves half a mill for indigent health care, he said, "If McNamara thinks it's necessary, I'll go along with it."

When told that McNamara opposes the ballot proposal, Caffery said, "Then fine, I'll oppose it."

Both candidates also agree that county government doesn't pay enough attention to communities in western Wayne.

McCotter said that the attitude Detroit defenders have toward the suburbs is, "Tax 'em. They can afford it."

Caffery declared that a lack of attention to western Wayne is his main reason for running,

ARTHRITIS & THE ABDOMEN

Tracking the cause of your arthritis can lead to unexpected places, for example to your bowel.

The joints and intestines are linked as follows: there are proteins in the intestinal tract lining, which when released into the general circulation cause a body reaction. White cells react to this protein by making antibodies. The combination of the bowel protein and body response forms particles that may settle into the joints. If irritation to the joint ensues, you will develop the swelling, pain, and impairment of arthritis.

Conditions that inflame the bowel can cause arthritis. Regional enteritis, ulcerative colitis, and dysentary-like infections are known culprits.

Arthritis resulting from bowel problems characteristically occurs in the hips, knees, ankles, and low back. The joints can be involved right and left, one joint alone, or a single side only. The arthritis may strike before the bowel condition is evident, or come on when the bowel problem is seemingly controlled.

Treatment of the arthritis includes identifying the presence of bowel inflammation and concentrating therapy in that area. Therefore, do not be surprised that after your physician examines your painful joints, he calls not for x-rays of your extremities, but of your gastrointestinal tract.

Local teacher honored in Livonia

BY MARIE CHESTNEY
STAFF WRITER

Wilma Wagner of Plymouth has been selected high school teacher of the year by Livonia Public Schools.

Wagner, an English teacher at Livonia Franklin High, came to Livonia schools in 1968.

She earned her BS degree from Rhode Island College in 1960 and her master's from Eastern Michigan University in 1976.

Wagner began teaching in Livonia in 1968, at Randolph Elementary.

She co-wrote the first PA 25 annual report for Franklin High two years ago, is the National Honor Society co-advisor, worked on curriculum alignment for high school language arts, served on the superintendent's task force for environmental concerns, assisted with Special Olympics competition at Franklin, chaired the National Honor Society's Empty Bowls Hunger project and Franklin Honors Night.

She also assists students in submitting their work for the school's literary magazine as well as local, national and collegiate writing contests.

"I have overheard more students characterize Wilma as the 'best teacher I ever had' than for any other teacher I've known," said Jeanne Bageris, a nominator. "She is successful where it counts — with the students."

Added Joseph LeBlanc: "I have never heard anyone utter less than appreciative words about Wilma. Most agree: To know her is to love her."

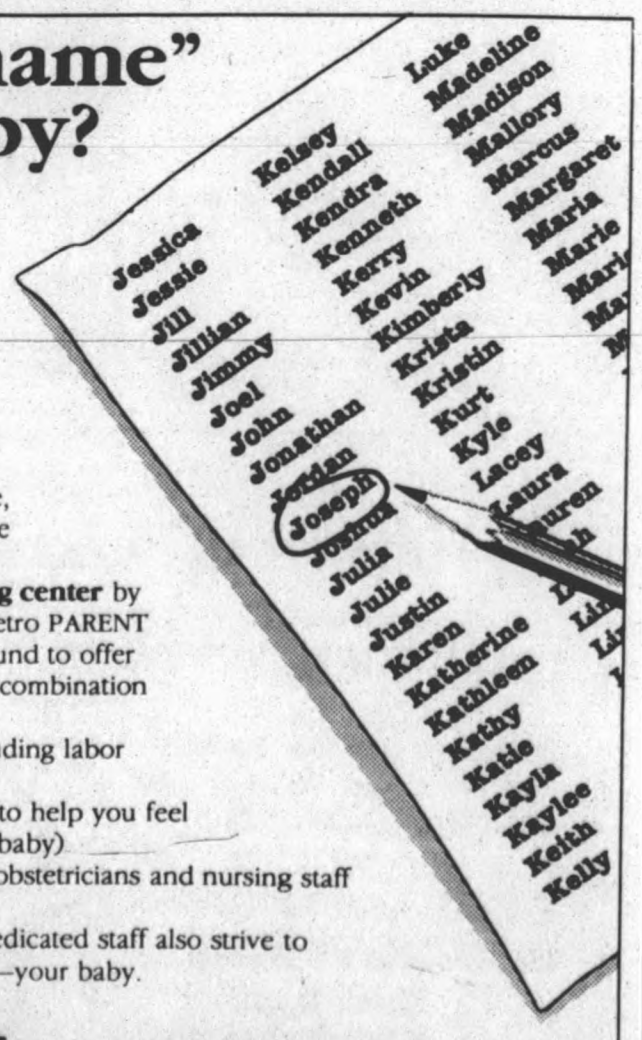
St. Joseph Mercy Hospital (SJMH), that is. Because the McAuley Family Birth Place at St. Joe's in Ann Arbor is fast becoming the name for up-to-date, family-focused maternity care, for some pretty big reasons:
• Recently voted as the best birthing center by readers of both Metro Times and Metro PARENT
• One of the few birthing centers around to offer both LDR and LDRP suites (a great combination of high tech and comfort)
• Lots of options for pain relief, including labor epidurals and Jacuzzi bath tubs
• Tours, classes and other education to help you feel like an expert (even if it's your first baby)
• The excellent reputation of SJMH obstetricians and nursing staff
McAuley Family Birth Place's caring, dedicated staff also strive to be the best for the tiniest reason of all—your baby.



If you're pregnant and looking for an SJMH obstetrician near you, contact one listed here, or call ASK-A-NURSE anytime at 1-800-472-9696.

Stop, thief!

Pedal to the metal?: They're not as fast as a Chevy Caprice. Nor do they pull away from a stop light like a Harley-Davidson. But the Wayne County Sheriff's Department sure likes its four nifty new Raleigh mountain bikes, currently patrolling Metro Airport. Deputy Tim McHugh (left) will take responsibility for repair and maintanence of the bikes. "We are still experimenting with this new program," said deputy airport director Dan Kerber. "But it's already apparent that we can respond more quickly in certain situations with a bicycle than we can with a patrol car." The bikes have air horns, bag racks, locks, headlights and brake lights. Several local municipalities have added bicycles to their inventory, and at least two other airports, Los Angeles and San Francisco, use bikes.

Pedalfest to raise money for Rouge cleanup

Attention serious bicycle riders: This might be your last chance of the year to enter a pedalfest.

The Friends of the Rouge organization is staging a bike ride - rain or shine - beginning 8 a.m. Sunday, Oct. 18, to raise money for river cleanup activities.

The ride will begin and end at Nankin Mills in Hines Park. Rides of 10, 20 and 30 miles are available.

The registration fee is $12 per person or $25 per family. Participants are also supposed to raise money for the Friends of the Rouge by getting pledges from other people.

The grand prize is two round-trip tickets to any place in the continental United States (meaning that Hawaii is out). If you raise $50 you get a T-shirt and one raffle ticket for the grand-prize. If you raise $250 you get a T-shirt and five tickets. And if you raise $500 you get a T-shirt and 10 tickets.

Riders under 16 must be accompanied by an adult. Helmets are encouraged. No headphones will be allowed.

Created in 1986, the Friends of the Rouge is a non-profit organization dedicated to restoring the Rouge River through education, cleanups and government intervention. Formed in 1986, Friends of the Rouge has hosted seven annual cleanups involving more than 15,000 people. More than 20,00 cubic yards of debris have been removed from the Rouge River.

Enjoy Jacksonville's uncrowded beaches year-round

BY RUTH REJNIS
NEW YORK TIMES SYNDICATE

Although 2.6 million visitors poured into the city last year — many of them through the two dozen entrances into Jacksonville from Interstate 95 — the city has never had the cachet of the tourist meccas farther south.

About 25 miles south of the Georgia border, Jacksonville is 350 miles north of Miami and does not have that area's tropical climate; it felt none of the fury of Hurricane Andrew.

In winter the temperatures can be a little nippy for snowbirds, even if the chill lasts only a few weeks and certainly isn't cold by northern standards.

The flip side to having motorists barrel right by you is that sunning and bicycling can be enjoyed year-round on the area's wide, clean and uncrowded beaches and, though summer is the high season, there is usually ocean bathing through October.

Fall and winter can be good for golf. Average lows in the winter months are 42 degrees, with highs in the mid- to upper 60s. There is a sense of the real Florida here too, devoid of theme parks and traffic jams. The area is rife with state parks, nature trails, pine wilderness and, especially, water.

The St. Johns River, at 275 miles the longest river wholly in Florida, bisects the city, and there are numerous other rivers, creeks and streams as well as, of course, the ocean and the Intracoastal Waterway.

Jacksonville and St. Augustine, about 30 miles south, are often referred to as the First Coast. First because this area is often a motorist's introduction to Florida. But there is also its history.

Jacksonville, named in 1822 for Gen. Andrew Jackson, was first inhabited by the Timuqua Indians who lived along its waterways. In 1564 the Huguenots built Fort Caroline, the first Protestant colony in the United States here. The French soon lost that foothold in America, however, to the Spanish, who destroyed the fort.

In 1565 the Spanish built the colony of St. Augustine, which became America's first permanent European settlement, now usually called America's oldest city.

Jacksonville, known here as Jax, is spread over 834 square miles and is the nation's third largest city in area after Juno and Anchorage, Alaska.

Called by some Florida's business center for its many insurance and banking offices and headquarters, the city's population grew by almost 25 percent over the last decade, thanks to business expansion and the many new companies moving into the area.

The city also has several well-regarded hospitals and medical centers, including one of only two branches of the Mayo Clinic outside Rochester, Minn.

Three military installations, including the Mayport Naval Station, home of the aircraft carrier Saratoga, round out a diverse economy, and a variety of attractions that include a jazz festival.

Sights

The Jacksonville Landing offers retail shops, sit-down restaurants, a food court and several pushcart vendors. There's often live music in the evening and at lunch hour.

On the west side of the city, along a portion of St. Johns Avenue, The Shops of Avondale offers about 60 specialty stores and restaurants in restored buildings.

There is an abundance of high-end antique and gift shops here, the latter featuring an interesting array of furnishings for warm-weather climates. While there, old-house buffs can admire the many handsome homes of this historic district, most of which date from the early days of the century.

On the south bank of the St. Johns, across from Jacksonville Landing, is the Riverwalk, a 1.1-mile boardwalk offering magnificent views of the city's skyline. Behind the boardwalk are office buildings, restaurants and a few shops. The Museum of Science and History, 1025 Museum Circle, (904) 396-7062, and the Alexander Brest Planetarium, 1025 Museum Circle, (904) 398-7827, are at the western border of the Riverwalk. Admission is $5 for adults, $3 for senior citizens and children from 4 to 12 years of age. That covers entrance to both the museum and planetarium. Hours are Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Sunday 1 to 6 p.m. The museum is scheduled to be closed until Sept. 25 for annual repairs.

Sixty-seat water taxis running every 20 minutes offer visitors a breezy ride from the Landing to one of three stops along the Riverwalk. Round trip: $3.

About 10 miles north of the downtown area the 61-acre Jacksonville Zoological Park — 8605 Zoo Road, (904) 757-4466, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily — features rides on a miniature train around the grounds, a boardwalk through Florida wetlands, a petting zoo and a high wooden boardwalk above an "African" veld, an 11-acre savannah that includes ostriches, gazelles and antelopes.

Among its more than 700 animals are rare scimitars and one of the few families of marabou storks raising offspring in captivity in this country. Admission: $4 for adults; $2.50 for children 12 and under; $3 for senior citizens 65 and older.

The beach communities of Atlantic Beach (somewhat arty), Neptune Beach (residential) and Jacksonville Beach (the largest), and a mix of both, plus the usual food stands, surf shops, etc., known as the Beaches, lie 12 miles east of downtown and run about 15 miles along the ocean.

North on A1A from the beach communities is Fernandina Beach, at the Georgia border and about 35 miles from downtown Jacksonville. Once a popular tourist spot and boom town Fernandina Beach lost most of its bustle when Henry Flagler built his railroad down through Florida and bypassed it.

What remains today is a 50-block downtown area that is on the National Register of Historic Places for late Victorian architecture.

It's better in the Bahamas for senior citizens

BY GENE MALOTT
AND ADELE MALOTT
NEW YORK TIMES SYNDICATE

Mature Traveler

There is more than one way to visit the senior-friendly Bahamas.

Some mature travelers like to arrange a Bahamian homestay. Hundreds of local families are volunteer hosts for visitors in a well-organized government plan called People-to-People.

The visit may include dinner, stayovers, attending church, going to tea, taking a tour or whatever the hosts and guests arrange.

On a recent trip to the islands we joined the program, with about a dozen other visitors, and had dinner at the Nassau home of Valderine Barrett, 62.

She lives in a fair-size pink Georgian home on about one-third acre of scenic land at the edge of town.

Barrett has been a People-to-People volunteer since the program began almost 10 years ago. She can entertain groups of up to 40 tourists at once.

We shared a cozy evening — with no resemblance to the commercial tone of tourist lodges.

To help fix dinner and host the group Barrett invited her aunt, who is retired, as well as some neighbors. All of us ate Eleuthra chicken, a delicious Bahamian specialty.

After the meal we sat around Barrett's comfortable parlor and talked about shrubbery, birds, local politics, what ails Barrett's big dog Bradley and other such subjects.

"Yes, I do it to show how Bahamian people really live and just because I like to have folks in," says Barrett. "But I kinda like to hear how people live in other places too. I guess we've all got about the same kind of problems."

To participate in the People-to-People get-togethers visitors should contact the tourist ministry at least three weeks before leaving the States.

Travelers are asked to fill out a form that includes age, occupation, club affiliations, church affiliation, hobbies and other general interests. The Ministry of Tourism makes the match with a volunteer host family.

For further information, including a sign-up form, contact the Ministry of Tourism, P.O. Box N-3701, Nassau, Bahamas.

It's also possible to sign up for the program once in Nassau at any Tourist Information Center.

A similar program exists in Freeport, the Bahamas' second major city.

Yet another — perhaps more traditional — way to visit the Bahamas is to stay at a good hotel.

Out in the streets: Senior vacationers tour the streets of downtown Nassau from horse-drawn carriages.

Using senior discounts and other breaks, two people age 49 or older can spend a week on vacation there for little more than $1,000, including airfare.

Good hotels in the Nassau area range from $90 to $300 per night (often single or double occupancy), depending on the season. Prices go up in mid-December and return to normal in mid-April.

But mature travelers can stay for as little as $60 per night at many choice tourist-area hotels offering special senior discounts.

Here are a few examples:

■ Comfort Suites on Paradise Island: This all-suite property is connected by bridge or water taxi to downtown Nassau.

Paradise Island is a private resort island whose big draw is Griffin's Paradise Island resort and casino.

Comfort Suites participates in Choice Hotels, Senior Saver program, offering 10 percent off to AARP members (age 50 and older) and other guests age 60 and older.

Their suites (based on single or double occupancy) start at $149 in high season and $110 in low season. They cost only $77 a night for seniors.

For further information contact Comfort Suites, P.O. Box SS 6202, Nassau, Bahamas or call (800) 228-5150 or (800) 221-2222.

■ Sheraton Grand Hotel & Towers: This resort takes part in the Sheraton hotel chain's senior-discount program, giving AARP members and other guests age 60 and older 25 percent off regular rates.

That means, in low season, mature travelers pay $97 to $142 per night (based on single or double occupancy) for rooms that regularly cost $129 to $189. In high season seniors pay $104 to $149 per night for rooms that regularly cost $139 to $199.

For further information contact the Sheraton reservations center at (800) 325-3535.

POINTS OF VIEW

Scholar relates ghostly tales we may all believe

I expected far more than a collection of spooky stories in "Michigan Haunts and Hauntings," and as usual I was absolutely delighted at the Great Witch Gundella's new book.

Gundella is the witch name and stage name of an entertaining storyteller, playwright and former school teacher known formally as Marion Kuclo, 62, BA and MA, of Garden City.

I respect her work because she has a foot in each camp — the scientific and the occult. That's rare.

Owen Rachleff, a New York University professor and author of "The Occult Conceit," calls belief in the occult "a clear and present danger . . . evident in the widespread proclivity of many immature persons, young and old alike, to govern their lives by the archaic principles of witchcraft and magic . . . ." I'm with the professor — except in Gundella's case.

Back in the early 1970s, when the Age of Aquarius was the rage, our papers considered adding an astrology column. I was adamantly opposed on both theological and scientific grounds.

But Gundella the Witch — ah, she was different. Before I met her, I wondered if she were into devil worship. Never! Although she tells me there are such covens in the wealthiest section of Oakland County.

Marion Kuclo turned out to be the kindest, most charitable person I know. Don't bother asking the jolly grandmother to put a curse on your enemy. In 22 years I've never heard her say "heck" or "darn," let alone the more robust Anglo-Saxon epithets.

I hired her to write a "Witch Watch" column, a rational person's guide to things science doesn't yet understand.

Now Marion Kuclo has cancer — bad. No longer does she do Gundella entertainments. She is wrapping it up.

For Ron Rose Productions of Southfield, she has recorded "Ghastly, Gruesome Ghostly Tales," an audiotape for the Halloween trade.

"Michigan Haunts and Hauntings," hot off the Thunder Bay Press of Lansing ($11.95), is a greatly expanded set of tales. I've read draft chapters of her forthcoming historical novel about

TIM RICHARD

■ But Gundella the Witch — ah, she was different. Before I met her, I wondered if she were into devil worship. Never! Although she tells me there are such covens in the wealthiest section of Oakland County.

Minnie Quay, which takes place on the shores of Lake Huron, and can assert she has saved her best work for the last.

Yes, you'll be entertained by her tales collected in Detroit, Westland, Farmington, Livonia, Southfield, Bloomfield Hills, Novi and several outstate towns such as Oscoda and Jackson. But you'll also learn.

In literature, ghost stories come mostly from Scotland (her ancestors' home) and England. But Gundella makes the connection to Halloween-type observances of classical Greece and Rome. A Biblical scholar, she points out, correctly, that the early Christian church built its practices on top of existing practices, as St. Paul advised. She includes American Indian tales, too. It's a tiny world.

"As a witch," she writes in the preface, "I was taught not to fear ghosts, but to try to accept and understand them.

"Do you believe in ghosts? Most people do, even those who don't acknowledge it. If you believe in a separable soul, or you feel that when you die a part of you lives on in some way, then, my friend, you DO believe in ghosts."

Myself, I'm a poor psychic "receiver," although I did hear footsteps during her seance in a Novi restaurant, and I was personally close to her investigation of a friend's victorian home in Detroit's Indian Village. Both are in her new book.

The night of Nov. 21-22, I expect a mob of people will be in a rural, overgrown cemetery in Spring Arbor Township south of Jackson. Gundella has a tale about a mass murder that occurred on that date in 1883. On the anniversary, the ghost of a young mother visits her father's spirit in his graveyard for a victims' reunion.

Every page of "Michigan Haunts and Hauntings" has a cracking good tale. You also learn the difference between a ghost, a shade (re-enactment of a previous event), an out-of-body experience and a poltergeist — a scientifically identified phenomenon known as psychokinesis.

More often than not, ghosts are our friends.

Tim Richard reports regularly on the local effect of state and regional events.

Seniors ought to listen to youth on new millages

The new user fees have me longing for the good old days when the dreaded Democrats were in office. They raised taxes and spent the money. At least they called them taxes.

For the past dozen years that the Republicans have held the White House captive, new taxes have been disguised as user fees. In those years, the amount I spent on a fishing license more than doubled, and now a pay-to-participate user fee in the Livonia schools has me and other parents shelling out $140 to let our kids get knocked around on the field.

And it will cost me another $140 if my kids want to play basketball. I'll pay it. I'm a sucker. I'd rather see my kid playing a sport than hanging around on the street or playing in a rock band.

The reason for the user fee is obvious. The folks in Livonia didn't want to pass a school millage to pay for sports.

I don't blame them. Taxes are high. But there's a benefit. It keeps the kids off the streets.

Without school sports or activies, such as band or girls' basketball, the streets would be jammed with skateboarding kids listening to Axl Rose or Pearl Jam.

These kids are now smashing heads on the football field. It's a much better sound than Smashing Pumpkins, a new rock group.

Actually, I've wondered if school boards aren't missing the beat on this one. They could probably easily persuade voters to approve millages if they would just send enough kids home early from school for several weeks. There wouldn't be any band or football practice. These kids would be sent out on the streets to disrupt the peace in suburban neighborhoods.

JEFF COUNTS

■ They could persuade voters to approve tax increases if they would just send enough kids home early from school for several weeks.

These kids could spread out on skateboards, ghetto-blaster tape players in hand and easily get the attention of the senior citizens who usually vote against school millages.

Once they have the old coots' attention, easily obtained with 30 seconds of an Axl Rose song, they could tell these folks that for just $5 or $10 a month more in taxes, they would go away.

Let's face it. Most old people are quick to squawk when anybody ever mentions cuts in Social Security payments, but are the first to complain about taxes. They want it both ways.

These folks make the animal rights nuts who have been harassing hunters in the woods look sane by comparison.

But back to Axl. Any sane adult who has heard him would willingly fork over an extra $5 a month not to hear him.

Perhaps we could even call it a user fee. It would allow the resident to use his or her front yard in the afternoon.

As many parents have said about kids: It's better to be seen than heard. And that's doubly true when it comes to Axl Rose.

It's something to think about when the next millage election comes rolling around.

WC3 sheds past problems, seeks millage hike Nov. 3

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

Like Richard Nixon, who fell into disgrace, but has since been "rehabilitated," Wayne County Community College insists that its sordid past is but a memory and it needs a 1-mill tax increase for three years.

In existence since 1967, WC3's history from the late 1970s up to a couple years ago is filled with mismanagement, nepotism and even reverse racism. Voters in the WC3 district, which includes Redford Township and most of Westland, have turned down five proposed tax increases to date, including a 1-mill, 10-year request last August.

Backed by heavy artillery in the form of Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara, college officials pitched their case Friday to elected officials from 15 cities and townships at the Conference of Western Wayne.

"This college is in great jeopardy of no longer existing," McNamara said. "It's a necessary institution. Unfortunately, it has a horrendous past, (but) they've really cleaned up their act."

President Raphael "Ralph" Cortada, who came to WC3 in 1990, said the 1-mill tax increase is necessary because the state is phasing out a $10-million a year subsidy the college had been getting since 1971. By the end of 1994 the subsidy will be gone.

If voters approve the tax increase, Cortada said the college will probably ask for a renewal in 1995. If the tax increase is rejected, one or two of the college's four remaining campuses probably will be shut down, Cortada said.

As part of an austerity program, WC3 has already closed its Belleville campus, laying off 42 people in the process. In addition, more than 100 others have been laid off since June 1991, and the executive staff has been cut from 40 people to 28.

Tuition was raised last month from $38 to $54 per credit hour, and the number of courses offered has fallen from 1,600 in 1990 to 1,100 now. Average class size was 14 in 1990 and has risen to 24 now.

"We're doing it on a shoestring," Cortada said, "using virtually every accounting trick we know."

To illustrate the stigma that still hangs over WC3, vice president of finance Ken LaSalle held up a favorable report on the state's recent audit of the college. He complained that the area media jumped all over the bad news a few years ago but has been far less avid in reporting the good news.

"When all the bad crap came out on WCCC, it was all over the front pages," he said.

So LaSalle delivered some of the good news. For example, five of the six employees who the state audit said were overpaid (by $200,000) have since paid back the college. The sixth is being sued by the college. None is still with WC3.

Another employee was turned in to the Internal Revenue Service for tinkering with deductions. And another was arrested for duplicating payments.

LaSalle likewise reported that the college has a deal with the Ford Motor Co. to operate a sort-of satellite school in that company's Brownstown plant. Cortada called that operation "a national model."

And a deal is being negotiated whereby WC3 would give robotics training to 2,000 other Ford employees.

Millage backer: Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara is promoting the millage because college officials have "cleaned up their act."

The breakfast will occur at 8 a.m. Wednesday, Oct. 28, at Joy Manor, 28999 Joy Road in Westland.

CHEF LARRY JANES

Candy coatings make apples luscious treats

I love fall. The crisp air, crisp leaves turning into an artist's palette of golden hues and red, juicy apples. It just wouldn't be fall around the Janes Gang if we didn't make candy and caramel apples.

Long a staple at state fairs and harvest festivals, these fall treats are now popping up in produce markets all over town. They really aren't that difficult to make. They're a great way to get kids to enjoy one of the old-time rituals of fall, and enjoy a delicious apple, all in a few luscious bites.

Granted, the sugar in the caramel and candy coatings do much more harm than good to any orthodonture; but there's something magical about enjoying a candy apple while traipsing through an orchard on a brisk afternoon.

Making caramel apples

There is little art to making a good caramel apple. All you need is some crisp apples, a few Popsicle sticks, and a bag of Kraft caramels. I subscribe to the eat-one-caramel-throw-one-in-the-pot school of caramel apple making.

The only trick of the trade in making caramel apples is to heat the caramels with just a scant tablespoon or two of hot water on the top of a double boiler and stir, stir, stir, until the caramel melts into a silky coating.

After impaling the apple with a Popsicle stick, just dip, twist and set to harden on a lightly greased sheet of waxed paper. If the mood strikes, you can then roll the apple in finely chopped walnuts or coconut. Since the caramel makes an airtight seal around the apple, simply wrap it in plastic wrap sprayed lightly with a non-stick coating.

Ah, but there is an art to creating a luscious candy apple. First off, you can have all the apples, sticks, sugar, corn syrup and red food coloring in town, but if Mother Nature doesn't want to cooperate, it just isn't worth the hassle.

Candy apples

What this means is that the best days to make candy apples are when it's cool and dry outside. Rainy days make for a gritty melted sugar coating.

Next, you need a good, heavy saucepan, one that will withstand the boiling of the sugar syrup to the needed 290 degrees Fahrenheit without warping or staining.

A good heavy pan also disperses the heat more evenly and helps prevent "burned spots" in the syrup that a cheap, lightweight pan might create.

Johnny Appleseed might begin with a crisp McIntosh, but yours truly loves the size and juiciness of a Delicious apple. Popsicle sticks are de rigeur but if you're lucky you might be able to talk the butcher out of some heavier city chicken sticks on the next trip to the market.

While the apples are being washed, dried and skewered on the sticks, bring the sugar and corn syrup to a hearty boil along with the cinnamon stick for added flavor.

Momma's secret

Boil this mixture for four minutes and whatever you do, once the mixture begins to boil, forget the stirring. A good secret learned from the days when momma made candy apples starts with lightly buttering the sides of the saucepan before boiling the liquid so that sugar crystals will slide back down into the pan. This also makes cleanup a little easier.

Before beginning however, it's best to have on hand a good candy thermometer because the temperature of the syrup is crucial to good candy apple making. You want to reduce the boiling syrup to a slow boil and monitor the temperature to arrive at the "hard ball stage" which is exactly 290 degrees.

Anything less and the candy will not harden, anything more and you'll end up with burnt syrup By the way, once the syrup gets past 280 degrees, watch it carefully as the temperature can rise dramatically in a matter of a few seconds. Old timers might try the water trick when measuring the candy temperature.

Before the days of accurate candy thermometers, a small bowl of cold water was kept next to the boiling saucepan and tiny drips of the syrup were added in one minute intervals. When the syrup hits the cold water, you could judge the hardness of the syrup by then feeling if it did indeed, harden into a rock state. This method does work, but a good candy thermometer works even better, and reduces the risk of under or overcooking the syrup.

The next step is to stir in the coloring, remove the cinnamon stick, dip and again, place the finished product on a lightly greased sheet of waxed paper for easy removal after cooling. All in all, it's not that difficult and the finished product should be nothing less than delicious.

See Janes family tested recipes inside.

Hayride: A group returns from a hayride on a sunny afternoon at Plymouth Orchards. There's no finer way to spend the day than picking apples and sipping cold, sweet Michigan cider.

Local mills have much to offer

Bundle up the family and head for the cider mill. Cider sipping season has begun. You don't have to travel far to find cold, sweet apple cider and fresh doughnuts. Plymouth Orchards offers cider, hayrides and u-pick apples.

BY LARRY JANES
SPECIAL WRITER

Fall in Michigan, the time of year for leaves, crisp evenings and foggy morns also heralds the blossoming apple crop. With many of our area's apple orchards gearing up for hectic weekends, suburban families are loading up the car and heading out for an afternoon of sipping cider, sampling doughnuts and enjoying the gorgeous splendor let loose by Mother Nature.

Among the nation's apple crop, Michigan apples always attain excellent status. The reason in no small measure is because of Michigan's unusual blend of climate and soil.

But more than anything else, it's because of the Michigan apple growers themselves — people with an abundance of apple knowledge and experience, a deep understanding of the latest in horticultural methods and a commitment to making a great product even better.

You don't have to drive way up north to find delicious apple cider. One of the metro area's best cider mills is Plymouth Orchards, just west of Plymouth at 10685 Warren.

In addition to the sweetest and coldest apple cider in town, this orchard also boasts hayrides, a petting barn, U-pick dwarf apple trees, farm fresh doughnuts, pies and pumpkins.

Owned and operated by the Emmetts for the past 12 years or so, this western Wayne County establishment offers some of the best pickings around.

But what makes the best apple cider? Plymouth Orchards says that their award winning cider is a blend of Michigan's best: In the early season, they start off with a blend of Paula Reds and McIntoshes then as the season progresses, they switch to later harvestings of Michigan Delicious and Jonathans.

In the earlier part of the season, it will take about a bushel of apples to make one gallon of cider. As the season progresses and the apples begin to ripen more and soak up more of those crisp fall nights, the yield will be almost 3½ gallons per bushel.

WINNER DINNER

BETSY BRETHEN

Fresh and exciting events have been planned at the Community House in Birmingham, 380 South Bates Street, to encourage people of all ages to attend the "Our Town" art show, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 22, through Sunday, Oct. 25. Admission is free.

In the seven years of its existence, this art show has moved to prominence, and is now one of the most important art shows in the state. Featuring the work of 248 Michigan artists, the show has been juried and will be judged by Glen Michaels, a nationally known art critic.

Miranda Burnett is serving as general chairman of the event for the second year in a row.

A gala preview party on Wednesday, Oct. 21, will kick off an activity-filled week that includes a luncheon featuring celebrity photographer Linda Solomon, an evening of art, hors d'oeuvres, jazz and four different art workshops for children of all ages. For more information, call 644-5832.

This week's Winner Dinner Winners, Meredith Quarrier, Mary Kay Rich and Debby Sloan, are planning the gala opening night for "Our Town." Quarrier and Rich are co-chairs for the event, Sloan organized the strolling supper and take home dessert basket.

They have worked hard to create a memorable evening for those who will attend. Their Winner Dinner menu reflects the fact that they are good cooks on-the-go as their recipes are delicious and easy to make.

Submit recipes to be considered for publication in this column, or elsewhere, to: Winner Dinner, P.O. Box 3503, Birmingham, Mich. 48012. All Winners receive an apron with the words "Winner Dinner Winner" printed on it.

Area mills offer Michigan's sweetest sip — cider

What better way for families to enjoy the fall season than picking apples, sipping cider and munching doughnuts on balmy days and sweater-weather evenings?

Michigan has produced more than 750 million pounds of apples with the harvest still under way, according to the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

An estimated one-third of the crop is sold as fresh fruit, with the remainder processed in apple juice and cider, frozen apples and other apple products.

At Michigan cider mills this fall, visitors will pay an average $3.07 for a gallon of cider, 15 cents more than in 1991. Prices range from $1.89 a gallon to $4.25.

The average price for a dozen doughnuts is up 10 cents over last year, selling now for $2.90. Prices range from $1.75 to $4.20.

Make your own candy apples

See Larry Janes' column on Taste front.

CARAMEL APPLES

1 pound caramels
2 tablespoons boiling water
6-8 medium apples
Popsicle sticks

On the top of a double boiler, melt the caramels with the hot water, stirring until smooth. Insert the Popsicle sticks into the stem end of the apple, dip, turning once to coat.

Apples can then be rolled in nuts or coconut, if desired. Place on a lightly greased sheet of waxed paper to cool.

RED CANDY APPLES

4 medium apples
2 cups white sugar
⅔ cup light corn syrup
1 cup water
⅓-inch cinnamon stick
3 drops (or more) red food coloring
wooden skewers

Wash the apples and dry. In a heavy saucepan or on top of a double boiler, mix sugar, corn syrup, water and cinnamon stick. Bring to a boil and cook, uncovered, for 3 minutes.

Cook without stirring until a hardball stage is reached, approximately 290 degrees on a candy thermometer. Remove cinnamon stick and stir in food coloring. Dip apples impaled on the skewers into the mixture, swirl to coat. Place on lightly greased pans or waxed paper and allow to harden at room temperature.

Chef's Note: Recipe can easily be doubled. Also, for easy cleanup, fill the pot with hardened syrup with water and bring to a boil. Stir and when all coating is loose, pour out and wash as usual.

Recipe from "Apples, Apples, Apples," 1986 Doubleday Press, $12.95.

Seasonal treats so sweet

See related story about apple cider and apples on Taste front.

APPLE CAKE

1½ cups oil
2 cups sugar
2 teaspoons vanilla
3 eggs, beaten
3 cups sliced apples (thin)
3 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking soda
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 cup chopped walnuts

Pour oil into a large bowl. Stir in sugar, vanilla, eggs and apples. Mix well. Sift together the dry ingredients. Add dry ingredients to apple mixture, then add nuts. Stir to mix about 15 seconds. Pour into a lightly greased 9- by 13-inch pan. Bake at 350 degrees for one hour.

FRESH BLENDER APPLESAUCE

4 apples, peeled, quartered, cored
¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
½ cup water
3 tablespoons honey

Place all the ingredients in a blender and blend until smooth. Serve at room temperature or chill. Makes 3 cups.

Store apples in refrigerator

"Michigan Apple season is upon us," said Sylvia Treitman, home economist for the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service. Since apples are in such abundance right now many people like to buy bushels at a time or pick their own from local farms.

For ideas on using apples and other information on food and nutrition, food safety, food preservation and storage, call the Food and Nutrition Hotline, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, 858-0904.

to meet the taste-demands of folks like you and me.

Major varieties grown in Michigan include the late summer Paula Reds followed by major year-round apples such as McIntosh, Jonathans, Ida Reds, Romes, Delicious, Golden Delicious, Winesaps and Spys.

Jim Bumford, the Janes Gang family dentist who practices in Livonia, says that eating apples are great for good dental hygiene. The apples help reduce up to 96 percent of the bacteria in the mouth and their roughage helps massage and clean teeth and gums much like a natural toothbrush.

I know that Michigan apples are good for my teeth doctor, but the Janes Gang enjoys them simply because they taste great. And what better time of year to enjoy the best of what Michigan has to offer!

Warm up: The Olive Garden Italian Restaurant's Pasta Roma Soup with bowties, garbanzo beans and bacon in a hearty vegetable broth is one of the features on The Olive Garden's new Roman Pasta Holiday menu, available through Nov. 22.

Pasta Roma Soup chases away chills

October is National Pasta Month — and it's no wonder that pasta is attracting attention across the country. According to Consumer Reports, Americans currently eat approximately 19 pounds of pasta per person per year — twice the quantity consumed 20 years ago.

To recognize the growing popularity of pasta, The Olive Garden Italian Restaurant is celebrating with a new specialty Roman Pasta Holiday menu through Nov. 22.

Pasta's growth in popularity can be partially attributed to health-conscious consumers: pasta is low in fat, cholesterol, calories and salt and is high in complex carbohydrates. It is also easy to prepare and economical.

According to a study published by Packaged Facts, a New York City-based research company, almost eight of 10 homemakers in the U.S. use dry pastas.

In celebration of National Pasta Month, the new Roman Pasta Holiday menu is available at all metro Detroit Olive Garden Restaurants including — 41980 Ford Road, Canton Township; 14000 Middlebelt Road, Livonia; and 2615 Rochester Road South, Rochester Hills.

Warm up with Pasta Roma Soup, one of the featured items on the menu.

PASTA ROMA SOUP

2 Sixteen-ounce cans garbanzo beans, drained
6 slices bacon
⅓ cup olive oil
¾ cup onions, diced
1 cup celery, diced
¼ teaspoon garlic, minced
1 cup carrots, julienned, ⅛ by ⅛ by 1½ inches
1½ cups canned tomatoes, drained, diced
1 quart chicken broth
½ teaspoon black pepper
⅛ teaspoon rosemary, ground
2 Tablespoons parsley, fresh, chopped
½ cup miniature pasta bow ties, dry

Drain garbanzo beans. Add beans to food processor with blade attachment. Process using on/off pulse until beans are well mashed. Scrape down sides of processor as necessary. Reserve.

Cook bacon thoroughly and drain on paper towels. Chop into ¼-inch pieces and reserve. Heat oil in Dutch oven. Add carrots, onions, celery and garlic and saute for 5 minutes on medium heat.

Add remaining ingredients, except pasta, and bring to a boil. Reduce heat to a simmer and cook stirring occasionally for 20 minutes. Keep warm.

Meanwhile, cook pasta bow ties or other small pasta according to package directions. Drain well and add to the finished soup. Serve immediately.

Microwave oven simplifies cooking

AP — Planning to bake? Don't forget to use your microwave oven to simplify some cooking steps along the way. Your microwave quick-plumps dried fruit for muffins and cookies, softens cream cheese for cheesecake and precooks a pie crust for a cream pie. And, the list goes on Rehydrate (Plump) Dried Fruit: Place fruit in a 1-quart microwave-safe casserole; cover with water. Cook, covered, on 100 percent power (high) until boiling, stirring once. Allow 1½ to 2 minutes for ½ cup dried currants or raisins; 2 to 3 minutes for cup mixed dried fruit; 2 to 3 minutes for 1 cup dried apricots; and 3 to 5 minutes for 1 cup dried apples, currants, raisins, figs, mixed fruit, peaches, or prunes. Drain.

Cook Convenience Pie Crusts: Prepare pastry according to the package directions. Place in a 9-inch microwave-safe pie plate. Flute edges and prick bottom generously with a fork. Cook, uncovered, on 100 percent power (high) until the surface is dry and bubbly, giving the dish a quarter-turn after every 2 minutes. Allow 5 to 6 minutes for one folded, refrigerated, unbaked pie crust and 7 to 9 minutes for one pastry from a stick or mix. Cool before filling.

Soften Cream Cheese: Place cream cheese in a microwave-safe container. Cook, uncovered, on 100 percent power (high) until softened. Allow 15 to 30 seconds for 3 ounces cream cheese and 45 to 60 seconds for 8 ounces.

Soften Brown Sugar: In a 1-cup glass measure, cook ½ cup water, uncovered, on 100 percent power (high) for 1 to 2 minutes or until boiling. Place brown sugar in a microwave-safe container near the hot water. Heat, uncovered, on high until softened. Allow 1½ to 2 minutes for ½ pound brown sugar and 2 to 3 minutes for 1 pound.

Juice Lemons: Halve or quarter one lemon. Heat on 100 percent power (high) for 30 to 45 seconds. Squeeze out juice.

Dissolve Gelatin: In a microwave-safe container combine gelatin and desired amount of water. Let unflavored gelatin stand for 5 minutes. (Flavored gelatin does not need to stand.) Cook, uncovered, on 100 percent power (high) until dissolved. For unflavored gelatin, allow 30 to 40 seconds for one envelope in ¼ cup water. For flavored gelatin, allow 3 to 5 minutes for one 3-ounce package in 1 cup water and 7 to 9 minutes for one 6-ounce package in 2 cups water.

Blanch Almonds: In a 2-cup glass measure cook 1 cup water, uncovered, on 100 percent power (high) for 3 to 5 minutes or until boiling. Add ½ cup whole almonds. Cook, uncovered, on high for 1 minutes. Drain, then rinse with cold water. When cool, slip off the almond skins.

Toast Nuts: In a 2-cup glass measure cook nuts, uncovered, on 100 percent power (high) until toasted, stirring every minute for the first 3 minutes, then every 30 seconds. Allow 2 to 3 minutes for ½ cup pecans or almonds, 2 to 3 minutes for 1 cup almonds, 3 to 4 minutes for ½ cup raw peanuts or walnuts, 3 to 4 minutes for 1 cup pecans or coconut, and 4 to 5 minutes for 1 cup raw peanuts or walnuts. Whole nuts may toast first on the inside, so open a few to check for doneness. At the first sign of toasting, spread whole or chopped nuts on paper towels to cool. Let them stand for at least 15 minutes. They will continue to toast as they stand.

Musical mix: Downy Mildew includes guitarist Charlie Baldonado, bassist Nancy McCoy, violinist Stan Garza, singer Jenny Horner and drummer Rob Jacobs.

Downy Mildew is magic on 'Train'

BY LARRY O'CONNOR
STAFF WRITER

When Los Angeles native and Downy Mildew guitarist Charlie Baldonado talks of fragility and disintegration, he's discussing the riots that took place in his neighborhood.

"It was strange," said Baldonado, whose neighborhood was hit during the unrest. "I always wondered what held the social fabric together and it just fell apart so quickly."

A corresponding feeling can be drawn to Downy Mildew's sound, which teeters on a tenuous base of swirling atmospheric guitars, ethereal textures and a tag-team of bursting harmonic.

When these brooding elements converge, there's magic as the band's High Street/Windham Hill release "An Oncoming Train" attests.

Triumphant in their music, which draws cursory comparisons to R.E.M. and 10,000 Maniacs in most reviews, is a tightness that makes it wholly indeliable. Attribute it to the arrangements says Baldonado, who makes up the band along with bassist Nancy McCoy, violinist Stan Garza, singer Jenny Horner and drummer Rob Jacobs.

Rest assured, Downy Mildew works hard at it.

The band, in fact, waited four years to release this album. Biding time until the right record came along, Downy Mildew forged their reputation as one LA's preeminent club acts.

The lengthy period between albums was rather surprisingly. The group landed opening gigs for the likes of Jazz Butcher and 10,000 Maniacs.

R.E.M.'s Michael Stipe touted Downy Mildew as a band to be reckoned with in 1988 after directing one of their videos.

"He's not a record company," Baldonado said.

Stipe's sterling recommendation actually has been a source of consternation for the group. For one, it has fueled comparisons to the Athens, Ga., outfit.

"You see it all over the place," Balaonado said. "It gets sickening after awhile. . . . It's reference point as far as a genre, but it has nothing to do with us."

Downy Mildew will perform Sunday, Oct. 18, at Alvin's, 5756 Cass, Detroit. For information, call 832-2355.

Punk gives his music emotion

■ Alejandro Escovedo's "Gravity" is a haunting, poignant 11-song journal on the harsh and brutal realities of love. What it doesn't reflect is a music career that has its origins in the punk movement of the '70s.

BY LARRY O'CONNOR
STAFF WRITER

Deep meaning: In his latest release, "Gravity," Alejandro Escovedo looks at the harsh realities of love.

Alejandro Escovedo will stop himself every once in awhile.

"Does that make any sense?," Escovedo will ask periodically after revealing another interesting facet of musical craft in a telephone interview from his Austin, Texas, home.

After becoming familiar with his recent work, "Gravity," a haunting, poignant 11-song journal on Watermelon Records, Escovedo's query proves rather ironic.

After all, Escovedo's capacity to communicate the stark, sometimes harsh and brutal realities of love is what has critics praising his genius.

On the surface "Gravity" is an exceptionally diverse and ambitious in scope, striking chords of bruising rock'n'roll, heartfelt twangs of country and celestial sounding forays. Stripped away from their musical stylings are aching lyrics.

Sings Escovedo in the country setting of "Broken Bottle": "So pour your drink from a broken bottle/And fill my glass with the dirty water/What I've gained has no name/And I'll take my leave once more."

As much as those songs are routed from the heart, they could aptly describe the rough-and-tumble musical resume of their writer.

Starting out of the punk scene in San Francisco with a band called The Nuns in the mid-'70s, Escovedo went on to form the cowpunk outfit Rank and File later in the decade. His punk days continue to serve him to this day, though, using emotion to make the primary connection with listeners.

"You just got up and played what you wanted to play and sang what you wanted to sing," Escovedo said. "We were trying to break down that barrier between the audience and the band."

His impact musically would later be felt in the highly-lauded roots rock outfit True Believers he formed with brother Javier in 1984 (Escovedo's musical lineage includes brother and former Santana member Pete Escovedo and Pete's daughter Sheila E.).

True Believers recorded two highly-anticipated albums for EMI with only one getting released by the label. The band broke up in 1988, which signaled the onset of professional and personal suffering for Escovedo.

He kicked around with Buick Mackane, a raucous bar band in Austin while also turning up for acoustic showcases at coffee houses. Then personal tragedy hit with the death of his wife, Bobbi, in April 1991.

"Gravity" is a culmination of wrought feelings from that desolate period.

"A lot of songs are about break up of relationships," said Escovedo, 41, who has five children and one grandchild. "A lot of them were written during that time (of his wife's death). . . . A lot of them take on a different dimension, though."

One such number open for interpretation is the evocative, soft piano strewn "She Doesn't Live Here Anymore," which Escovedo actually wrote for a friend whose lover had left him ("Your footsteps echo in the hallway/ Your footsteps echo in the hallway/Your picture hangs above/ The faucet dripping in the kitchen/It's just the rhythm of the blues").

His heartfelt lyrics will be at the forefront in his visit Friday, Oct. 16, to the LaCasa Folk Music Series at Birmingham Unitarian Church. Unlike his recent performance at St. Andrew's Hall, Escovedo will perform an acoustic set without his five-piece band.

"It's just the way I've always written," Escovedo said, "what's on my mind."

Alejandro Escovedo will perform with Michael Fracasso Friday, Oct. 16, at the LaCasa Folk Music Series at Birmingham Unitarian Church, 651 Woodward. For information, call 646-4950.

STREET SENSE

More to dreams than remembered

BARBARA SCHIFF

Dear Barbara:

I have the craziest dreams every night. Nothing in them seems to make any sense. Does this mean anything? I often talk to my friends about this, many of whom say they never dream. Do you know anything about the difference between people who dream and those who do not?

In one of my dreams, a big bird picks me up and flies me above the Earth. It is beautiful and I feel suffused with its majesty. In another one I am digging a big hole and in yet another, I am doing intricate ice-skating maneuvers on a small pond. Sometimes my dreams repeat themselves and sometimes the do not.

Can you tell me what my dreams mean?

The Dreamer

Dear Dreamer:

Dreams seem crazy when we don't understand them. When we do understand them, they make good sense and are creative works of art. They may be deliberately jumbled so that the dreamer should not understand them.

Sometimes when the dreamer does not disguise the dream enough and the meaning becomes too clear, the dreamer will awaken so as not to face the full truth. For example, should the dreamer have a sexual dream with an unseeable man, she might awaken with fear as he turns his face toward her so that she could recognize who he is.

Although your friends say that they never dream, this is scientifically untrue. Studies in dream labs prove that everyone dreams four to five times every night during REM sleep. This is true even though they do not remember any dreams.

I cannot tell you what your dreams mean because you remember the observable content of the dream. It would take answers to many questions and your associations to the dream to get to the hidden content of the dream and its deeper meaning.

There are objects in dreams which are called universal symbols and through them we could often get some idea of what the observable or manifest content of dreams is about.

However, I will go no further with your dreams except to say that you sound like a happy, healthy, creative individual with a delightful love of life. I hope I am not wrong in this uncalled for guestimation.

'Glengarry Glen Ross:' Cynical, uncompromising drama

TICKETS PLEASE

JOHN MONAGHAN

"Glengarry Glen Ross" has a lyrical-sounding title and beautiful wide-screen cinematography, but it's by no means a pretty picture. In fact, most moviegoers will walk out wondering why all these critics are drooling over such a depressing, foul-mouthed film.

Al Pacino's career-topping performance is just one of the pleasures of the year's most cynical and uncompromising picture. Pacino plays Ricky Roma, top seller in an urban Chicago real estate office, as an exercise in smooth, sleazy and subtle salesmanship.

He can sit across the bar from a meek little man (here Jonathan Pryce) and in a few minutes of double-talk about women, booze and morality, have this schmo convinced that Roma is the most profound guy on the planet. Give him an hour and Roma will have another sucker signing on the dotted line.

The office motto is "always be closing" (ABC), and for Roma and his three colleagues, it becomes a do-or-die situation. According to Mitch and Murray, the ubiquitous but never-seen downtown bosses, the month's top seller will be awarded a Cadillac. The runner-up will receive a set of steak knives. The other two will get their walking papers.

Shelley Levene, "the machine" as he's known around the office, is an older Willy Loman-style salesman played by Jack Lemmon. He no longer receives the premium "leads," or buyer prospects, from the head office and must rely solely on his antique brand of ingratiating, best-buddy hard sell.

Alan Arkin and Ed Harris round out the sales staff. Harris is especially effective as a bundle of nerves who can't utter a sentence to anyone without spewing hostility and profanity. You think his head is literally going to explode.

"Glengarry" is possibly the best stage work to date from David Mamet, the playwright and sometimes film director ("House of Games," "Homicide"). He creates an existential atmosphere where worth is based solely on the ability to produce. Without numbers on the big board and without the leads to generate those numbers, you are nothing.

When an abusive representative from the head office (Alec Baldwin in a memorable cameo) tells the men to either shape up or ship out (though not necessarily in those words), we don't even know his name or title. He introduces himself solely by the amount of money he made last year, the car he drives and the watch he wears.

With "Glengarry," Mamet hands the director's reins over to James Foley, whose previous film was the noirish "After Dark, My Sweet." The choice was a wise one. Foley has added candy-colored neon lighting to some scenes, a deep dark brown to others. He also shoots in wide screen, perhaps to offset the overall claustrophobia of the film, which takes place primarily in the office and at the Chinese restaurant across the street.

The film and play work best when focusing sharply on the ugliness and major flaws of its characters. So the scenes where Lemmon's Levene calls his daughter at the hospital add an unsettling touch of sappiness. Intentionally so?

Almost all of Mamet's work has a way of making you question dialogue and motivation. A conversation will go 'round and 'round until you are back where you started, tired and beaten a bit, and vulnerable — just where a guy like Roma (or a playwright like Mamet) wants you to be.

Films more real than life for Toto at the 'Paradiso'

PASS THE POPCORN

LeANNE ROGERS

Before the proliferation of television and video made the world smaller, movies were a magical trip to romance and adventure. The wonderful Italian film "Cinema Paradiso" celebrates movies and their importance in a small town.

In post-war Italy, young Toto is a sweet-faced altar boy who dozes off kneeling at the altar while the priest celebrates Mass. The exasperated priest knows what his lax bellringer has been up to that's keeping him up late. Toto, an impish wise guy of kid, spends all his time in the Cinema Paradiso.

Phillippe Noiret plays Alfredo, the crusty projectionist, who eventually warms up to the mischievous boy. The childless man and the fatherless boy find a common bond in their love of movies and the Cinema Paradiso. Alfredo covers for the boy when he has to answer to his irate mother after spending the milk money at the movies. Eventually, Toto learns the business and helps Alfredo run the movies. The boy lives for the movies.

The film captures the different era of society, the parish priest screening the movies and ringing a bell for the parts he wants censored. The audiences groan as romantic scenes appear on the screen because they know as the couple moves closer the film will choppily cut to the next scene.

Movie buffs: Philippe Noiret is the projectionist and Salvatore Cascio the young child who falls in love with the movies in "Cinema Paradiso."

The emotional power of movies is everywhere in "Cinema Paradiso." Walking with his weeping mother after a bureaucrat confirms his long-missing father was killed in the war, Toto beams when a poster advertising "Gone With the Wind" catches his eye. Clark Gable is much more real to the child than a father he doesn't remember.

The audiences are vocally enthusiastic about the films they watch, involved with the picture rather than the rude chatter you get in theaters today from people used to talking over television programs. The Italian villagers view movies as the world saw them in an earlier era, suspending reality and rooting for the good guys. Two men start watching a picture that scrolls a lengthy introduction. Neither can read but it doesn't matter. That's the essence of film's original power.

Noiret gives a wonderful performance as the projectionist, who suffers tragically from the dangers of the old highly flammable film stock. Over the years, he has become a father to Toto, seeing him through his first romance and the usual dilemmas that come with growing up.

It's Alfredo who senses potential in his young charge and forces him out into the world rather than letting him settle into the sleepy existence at the "Cinema Paradiso." That's certainly a mixed blessing. There are always trade-offs in life.

FALL/WINTER CAR CARE

Cars...the true second home

"Home is where the heart is," the saying goes. But home also is where the car is.

People often call the places they frequent — their office, classroom, or the house of a relative or friend — their "home away from home." For those who don't own an automobile, this may be true; but those who own a car also own a second home.

From home to car

It is difficult to leave habits from home inside of the house; they seem to follow people directly to the station-wagon, hatchback, van, jeep etc., and sometimes remain there.

How many times have women been seen driving along the highway, steering wheel in one hand, compact in the other? Or men smoking, drinking coffee, reading the newspaper and driving simultaneously?

People can't wash their hair in the car, but they manage to comb, brush, spritz, or even hot curl it (it is possible, with a battery-operated, portable curling iron).

Hamburger in one hand...

Food can't be cooked in a car, but breakfast, lunch and dinner — and snacks — frequently appear, and sometimes are eaten on plates and glasses fit for a fancy dining room table.

Minor inconveniences, such as the lack of running water, is by no means a deterrent. One woman was spotted on a Long Island throughway brushing her teeth while driving at about 60 miles per hour in rush hour traffic, rinsing with a cupful of unidentifiable liquid, and using the pavement outside as a sink.

Personal hygiene on the road

No time to shave? Not for two men seen driving a minivan on a Connecticut road. Shaving cream and all — they made do.

Many people are absolutely shameless — their car is an important part of their lives, and they will do in it whatever comes naturally, such as changing their baby's diaper or, in some cases, changing in and out of their own clothes.

Business often is conducted while driving, homework is done, speeches are written, notes jotted, and reports and memos are reviewed. And if you have ever seen a person driving with hand to mouth while speaking — he or she may be recording something on a mini-cassette — or just talking to him or herself.

Why wait to be at home to enjoy the luxuries in life? People who own cars can equip them with televisions, CD players, magazines and car phones.

Kids and cars

For children, the car can be a place of excitement and joy — they can play portable games designed for travelling, have sing-alongs and make periodic pitstops at parks, playgrounds and tourist spots. There are times, however, when the automobile can be a place where a child is unable to escape discipline. There are no closets, basements or bedrooms in which to hide, no walking away in a huff — and in a car, tuning out is nearly impossible.

Punishments are twice as unpleasant when stuck in a moving vehicle, because their is no escape. Many a child has been seen in the back seat of a car crying tears of frustration and embarrassment, probably intensified by the audience of curious onlookers in the cars nearby.

Catching some zzz's

Cars are great sleep inducers — sometimes a leisurely car ride is more enticing than your own bed, proven by those who have been seen snoozing across the back seat.

The owners of mobile homes are truly privileged people — what they have is a house on wheels, plus the option to move — at anytime — to the mountains, or to a warmer climate, to a farm, or perhaps to an area with a view of the ocean.

But for people whose homes are forever stationary, the key to a second home is the one that starts the ignition.

How to communicate for better automotive service

Even though today's vehicles are high-tech marvels, when it comes to automotive maintenance and repairs, some things stay the same. Whatever type of repair facility you patronize — dealership, service station, independent garage, or national franchise — old-fashioned communication between customer and shop is vital.

The National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE), a non-profit group that tests and certifies the competence of automotive technicians, notes that customer involvement throughout the repair process can help ensure smooth repairs.

ASE offers the following information on the importance of good communications in the automotive repair process:

Do your homework

Get involved and take an active role. Read the owner's manual, familiarize yourself with the basic components, follow the service schedules listed in the manual, and keep a log of all repairs and service. Get in the habit of keeping good records.

Use all of your senses to inspect your vehicle frequently. Check for:

- Unusual sounds, odors, drips, warning lights, smoke, etc.
- Changes in acceleration, engine performance, gas mileage, fluid levels.
- Worn tires, belts, hoses.
- Problems in handling, braking, vibrations or steering.

Note when the problem occurs. Is it constant or periodic? When the vehicle is cold or after the engine has warmed? At all speeds? When did the problem first begin?

Describe, do not diagnose

Once you go to the repair facility, be prepared to describe the symptoms. Many shops are very busy, so try to be concise, but avoid establishments where you feel rushed, intimidated, or that your comments are not welcome.

Carry a written list to give to the technician or service manager. This is especially important in larger shops, where the work order may be passed from service writer to technician.

Resist the temptation to suggest a specific course of repair or to demand an on-the-spot diagnosis. Just as you would with your physician, tell where it hurts and how long it's been that way, but let the technician diagnose the problem and recommend a remedy.

Ask questions

Ask as many questions as you need. Do not be embarrassed to request every-day definitions and non-technical terminology.

Ask if the technicians have earned ASE certification, the only national, industry-wide credential available. ASE-certified technicians usually wear "ASE" shoulder insignia and carry cards listing their area(s) of certification. Their employers often display ASE signs and decals.

Request that the repairs be performed by a technician certified in the appropriate area, such as brakes or engine performance.

In addition to technician credentials, look for other signs of professionalism such as overall neatness, customer service awards, membership in the Better Business Bureau, up-to-date equipment, and a positive, professional attitude from the shop personnel.

Before you leave, make certain you understand all shop policies, including guarantees, labor rates and diagnostic fees.

Ask to be called and apprised of the problem, course of action, and costs before work begins.

For ASE's free brochure, "Putting It All Together: How to Communicate for Better Automotive Service," send a long, stamped envelope to ASE, Dept. MCF92, P.O. Box 347, Herndon, VA 22070.

OCTOBER IS NATIONAL CAR CARE MONTH

A three-step car tune-up that can save your life

When most people think of auto maintenance, images of high costs, scheduling and dealing with mechanics often pops into mind. As a result, many people put off some routine maintenance that is very critical to safety on the road. Fortunately, there's a quick and easy way to do a safety tune-up on your car. And, best of all, it's free.

First, check your tires. Remember that these are the critical elements that determine how well your vehicle travels on the road and how it stays on the road. Start by looking at them. But don't just stand there and give each a glance. Actually get down on the ground and really look.

Evaluate the tread. Is it almost worn off? Is it worn in only one area? Is the wear dramatically different from any of the other tires? Are there any nails or other objects embedded in the tire? Look at the backside of the tire that faces underneath the car. Are there any bulges? Also measure the air pressure of each tire, and then add or release air to the level specified on the tire or in your car's owner manual.

Should the tire show any signs of problems, consult a reputable tire dealer. They can let you know if you need a patch, need to rotate the tires to even out wear, or if, in the case of irreparable damage, you must purchase a new tire.

Next, do a thorough check of your windshield wipers. Virtually all your driving decisions are based on being able to see, so you must be sure that everything is in perfect working order.

FOR A PERMANENT safety fix, TRIPLEDGE® Lifetime Wipers are guaranteed for as long as you own your car.

To check the wiper blades, simply lift them off the glass and look at the squeegee, which is the rubber element that actually wipes the glass. It should be flexible, with a straight edge that has no cracks, tears or warping. Especially look at the ends, where worn, rotten squeegees often can tear during use. Make sure the entire blade is firmly attached to the wiper arm that moves it across the glass.

Finally, fill your washer fluid reservoir with cleaning solution specifically formulated for this use. Don't try to use household soaps that will foam excessively and possibly damage the paint of your car.

If your blades are no longer in ideal condition, you have the option of purchasing either replacement blades or just a replacement squeegee. If you want to take care of wiper wear permanently, you can install lifetime guaranteed wipers that are sold under the name TRIPLEDGE® Lifetime Wipers or SPECTRABLADE® Silicone Wiper Refills (available in stores or by calling 1-800-55-CLEAR). Instead of being made of rubber, the squeegees on both these items are made of a virtually indestructible synthetic. As a result, the manufacturer guarantees them for as long as you own your car.

The last step of your safety tune-up involves checking your lights. If any of them are not functioning, you are asking for trouble at night and whenever you turn or brake. Turn all the lights on and check their various functions. Make sure they come on, blink and dim as they should. If the lenses have a lot of build up, use a soft bristle brush and a good quality cleaner to make them sparkle again.

If any of your lights are not operating correctly, the problem is most likely a burned out bulb. Replacing a burned out fuse is another inexpensive fix. Sometimes, however, wiring may be involved, and you should stop by a service station for an evaluation.

By taking a few minutes to do this simple safety tune-up, you can not only save money, but also your life.

Canton cagers coast

Plymouth Canton had no trouble protecting its No. 1 ranking in Class A girls basketball last week.

After rolling over Farmington earlier in the week, the undefeated Chiefs won their 11th consecutive game Thursday 73-22 over Livonia Churchill at home.

Senior center Stephanie Gray scored 14 points and pulled in eight rebounds to lead Canton, 5-0 in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Senior guards Christie Saffron and Amy Westerhold added 10 points apiece as all but one player scored for the Chiefs. Kelly Holmes had eight points and Westerhold seven rebounds.

Westerhold also played an outstanding defensive game, according to coach Bob Blohm, with six steals and/or deflections. The Chargers were led by Chrissy Daly with 13 points.

On the night Canton upset then top-ranked Harper Woods Regina and assumed the No. 1 spot, Blohm said: "It's a nice honor but it doesn't mean much. It's more important what you're like in games 19 and 20 and how you're playing going into the state tournament. Obviously, we're moving in that direction, and we need to keep refining and sharpening our game."

Agape girls alone at top

Plymouth Agape Christian took sole possession of first place in the Metro Christian Conference with its 47-31 victory over visiting Wixom Christian in girls basketball Friday.

Agape, which led 19-18 before pulling away in the second half, is 6-0 in the league and 8-0 overall. Wixom is 5-2 and 5-3.

Sophomore forward Tanya Gowen scored 26 points and junior guard K.C. Younkin 11 for the winners. Jenny Walker had 11 for Wixom.

Chiefs pass swim test

Plymouth Canton won its showdown with host Northville and put a virtual lock on the Western Division title in girls swimming Thursday.

The Chiefs are 3-0 in their half of the Western Lakes Activities Association and 6-0 overall. Northville, their perennial division rival, is 2-1 and 4-2.

"I scored it out beforehand, and I came out with all sorts of different things," Canton coach Hooker Wellman said. "We didn't swim as well as we did against Salem, but we did pretty well."

The Chiefs helped themselves by winning all three relays. The medley team of Pam Pritchard, Sara Larson, Jill Mellis and Suzan Daoust, edged Northville 2:01.36 to 2:01.42.

The 200 freestyle team consisted of Daoust, Beth Berger, Danielle Yockey and Susan Pritchard. Katie McWhirter, Susan Pritchard, Yockey and Mellis were on the 400 freestyle team (3:52.81).

Canton's individual winners were Yockey in the 50 freestyle (27.48), Mellis in the butterfly (1:02.26) and Susan Pritchard, 100 freestyle (57.77).

The Chiefs outscored Northville in the backstroke with Pam Pritchard (1:09.1), Jill Barnes (1:09.12) and Jeni Warnke (1:09.3) taking second, third and fourth.

Wellman also cited Yockey for second in the 100 freestyle (59.64), Barnes for third in the butterfly (1:09.65). Brie Wall was second in diving with a personal best of 177.1 points.

Salem overpowers North

Plymouth Salem demonstrated again Thursday how strong a team it has in girls cross country with a 22-38 win over North Farmington at Oakland Community College.

The Rocks are 3-0 in the Lakes Division and 4-0 overall, the Raiders 2-2 and 6-2.

North's Emily Shively won the race in 19:33 and was just seven seconds off the school record set by Lisa Rives at OCC.

Salem captured the next three places and six of seven. Stacy Witthoff was second (20:33), Leah Retherford third (20:39), Emily Farrell fourth (20:42), Lynda Sebestyen sixth (21:26), Sarah Hamilton seventh (21:36) and Stacy Moore eighth (21:47). Kelly Morante was 10th (22:31).

North's Alicia Crossland broke up the Salem pack, finishing fifth (21:13). Kerrie Simpson was ninth and set the freshman course record (22:31). Elaine Wolff was 11th (23:23) with a personal best and Amanda Hough 14th (24:02).

"We knew Salem was tough," North coach Bill Pinnell said. "We scouted them at Cass Benton, and they had seven 29 seconds apart. We knew they'd be tough to beat."

Canton duo paces win

The one-two combination of Laura McWilliams and Kathleen Landelius produced positive results again Thursday for the Plymouth Canton girls cross country team.

Finishing within 15 seconds of each other, McWilliams was first (20:43) and Landelius second (20:58) as the Chiefs defeated Northville 24-31 at Cass Benton Park.

Canton is 2-1 in the Western Division and 2-2 overall.

Karina Kilpelainen was fourth (22:29), Lara Antczak seventh (23:07), Melissa Bastine 10th (23:39), Michelle Magers 11th (23:46) and Sue Ann Farris 14th (30:55) for the Chiefs.

Rocks begin anew with 21-13 win

Plymouth Salem began a new football season Saturday and boasts a perfect record after turning back host Farmington 21-13.

Huh? New season? In Week Six?

After losing three of five games, the Rocks took a fresh approach to their final four — all against comparable opponents.

"Our goal was to create a new, four-game season," Salem coach Tom Moshimer said. "If we could win those four, we would consider (the year) a success.

"All of them are going to be tough. They're going to be like this one, in other words."

Salem, 2-2 in the Lakes Division and 3-3 overall, was evenly matched by an inspired Farmington team that played well before a homecoming crowd despite the need to make many personnel adjustments.

The Falcons, 0-4 and 0-6, were minus six two-way starters. Two running backs were on suspension, two receivers didn't play after failing to show for practice Friday and two linemen were injured early in the game.

"If you knew what we played with, you'd be amazed," Farmington coach Bernie Call said, adding the Falcons played mostly sophomores. "We had so many things wrong going into this game it was ridiculous.

"With all the changes we had to make, the kids still played well. The coaches were afraid (given the many new starters) there was no way we could play well, but we were in the game up to the last."

Salem needed a time-consuming touchdown drive in the fourth quarter to secure the win.

The Rocks used seven minutes and 15 plays to go 66 yards, taking a 20-13 lead on Steve Schumacher's 7-yard run. Anuar Vargas added the extra point with 2:39 remaining.

The Falcons got another chance from their 15 and picked up one first down before giving up the ball on downs.

Farmington had scored just prior to the Salem drive to get within 14-13. Corby Laverty lofted a pass to Ken Johnson, who took the ball away from Salem's Rob Kenney in the end zone. But Nathan Miracle's potential tying kick was wide, however.

"That's another one. He's only a sophomore, and it's the first time he's kicked," Call said, adding that Mike Giese (the regular kicker) sprained an ankle in soccer and couldn't kick.

The Falcons scored first and stunned Salem when Jeff Miller dashed 80 yards around right end for a TD on the third play of the game.

"That didn't set a very good tone for us," Moshimer said. "Our defense played pretty well overall. We just had some breakdowns here and there."

The Rocks, who were minus running backs Andy Szydlowski (thigh bruise) and Brandon Walton (knee), came right back with a 3-yard TD run by Scott Evans.

The halftime score was 7-7, as Farmington was hurt by penalties (eight for 80 yards) and the Rocks by turnovers (three) in the first half.

Salem took a 14-7 lead in the third quarter on a 1-yard run by Kenney, who passed 28 yards to Adam Bakowski (four catches for 69 yards) to set up the TD.

The Rocks got a break after losing a fumble on first down at the 5. Offsetting penalties allowed Salem to keep the ball and get the down back.

Kenney was completed seven of 10 passes for 89 yards. Farmington's Miller had 12 carries for 108 yards.

Patriots smother Canton

What difference does a week make?

At this time last week, Plymouth Canton was still celebrating its first win of the season — a 23-15 win over Farmington Harrison.

Livonia Franklin was still licking its wounds after its first loss of the season, which threatened its chances of winning the Western Division title in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

But the Chiefs came back down to earth Friday and Franklin continued to be a contender as the visiting Patriots shut down Canton, 28-0.

Franklin improved to 5-1 overall and 3-1 in the division. The Patriots are tied for second with Northville and play at division leader Walled Lake Western (4-0) Friday. The Chiefs fell to 1-5 and 1-3.

Franklin coach Armand Vigna admitted being worried about the Chiefs coming off a big emotional win.

"It could have worked against them," Vigna said. "It may have been harder for them to regroup. We had a big letdown after our win against Harrison. I was worried about them coming into the game. But we had something to prove — that we beat ourselves last week."

"It should have helped us. We should have been flying as high as a kite," Canton coach Bob Khoenle said.

Canton only mustered 9 yards of total offense, including a minus-42 rushing against the Franklin defense, which gave the Patriots good field position most of the game.

"They overpowered us," Khoenle said. "We couldn't do anything. They were just too strong."

The Patriots got their offense going with a six-play, 69-yard drive that took 2:06. Senior quarterback David Little, who began the game with five incompletions, connected on four straight passes, the last being an 11-yard strike to a wide open Josh Reynolds in the back of the end zone. Little's first of four extra points gave Franklin a 7-0 halftime lead.

Little completed six of 11 pass attempts for 90 yards. The Patriots rushed for a total of 196.

"A quarterback is only as good as his linemen," Little said. "I had great protection when I was in a shotgun or when I was behind center. I had the best line on the field tonight."

A 44-yard punt by Canton's Ryan Ostach forced Franklin to start its first second-half drive at its own 2, but that didn't stop the Patriots from marching 98 yards in 14 plays. The drive tied the school record set in 1980 against Livonia Bentley.

Senior fullback John Glenn, who gained 74 yards on 18 carries, followed his left tackle on a 2-yard scoring run. Little's point after made it 14-0.

Five plays after an interception by senior linebacker Jason Facione gave Franklin the ball at the Canton 25, Glenn made it 21-0 on a 1-yard run.

Franklin got the ball at the Canton 2 when Ostach's knee touched the ground as he scooped a bad snap from center on a punt attempt. Ronald Troia muscled the ball in from the 2 on the next play.

"We had two goals coming into the year — beat Harrison and qualify for the state playoffs," Vigna said. "Going 9-0 is hard. If you finish 8-1, or possibly 7-2, you can still make the playoffs."

Salem outlasts Raiders, 59-36

BY NEAL ZIPSER

It was raining Thursday night, but lightning didn't strike twice in the same place during the North Farmington-Plymouth Salem girls basketball game.

The Rocks were upset by the Raiders in 1990, and the loss was Salem's only setback in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Salem, two-time defending WLAA champ, entered Thursday's game unbeaten in four league contests. North was no match this time for the Rocks, who ran away in the second half with a 59-36 win.

Salem improved to 5-0 in the WLAA and 5-6 overall. The Raiders fell to 2-3 and 6-5.

North kept the game close by trailing 27-23 at halftime. But the Rocks got their running game going and opened the third quarter with an 11-2 run. After North scored six unanswered points, Salem scored the next 17 to put the game out of reach.

"I thought our intensity level was higher in the second half," Salem coach Fred Thomann said. "Our intensity level was all right in the first half, but it didn't match their level. It took us a half to realize we had to focus more."

The big Salem spurt was keyed by senior guard Leslie Gotts, who scored 11 of her 15 points in the third quarter. Gotts led several Salem fast breaks, which was the key to the second half, according to North coach Lance Davis.

"Salem stepped up in the second half," he said. "They were able to run and get their transition game going. When Salem gets its transition game going, I think they're one of the best teams in the state."

"I focussed more on what I had to do in the second half," said Gotts, who also pulled down nine rebounds. "I think we eventually wore them down. We started passing the ball around more. That's what (Thomann) told us he wanted us to do at halftime."

Gotts and senior center Cyndi Platter combined to score 26 of Salem's 32 second-half points. Platter finished with a game-high 23 points and 10 rebounds.

But Platter's defense was just as important as her offensive production. North's Carey Perkins made six of her seven shots in the first half and recorded six rebounds. Thanks to Perkins' impressive inside play, the Raiders kept the game close.

"I made an adjustment in the second half on Carey," Platter said. "I was playing behind her and then started playing a step ahead and fronting her. That was the original game plan but I wasn't doing it."

Perkins was able to score just four points in the second half and finished with 16 points and 11 rebounds.

"We started to give Cyndi help on her," Thomann said. "I told Cyndi she was a senior and she had to step out and take the challenge — and she did."

Salem led 15-8 after the first quarter. North used a full-court press to tie the game at 17 before Salem pulled away to a 27-23 halftime lead.

"We were a lot more intense in the first half," Davis said. "We came out focussed and ready to play. I think we may have rattled Salem with our aggressiveness, but we didn't sustain it.

"We were doing several different things on defense and at times I think we may have been confused. That hurt us and they wound up getting some easy baskets."

Salem sped up the pace in the third quarter and took control of the boards. After being outrebounded in the first half 17-13, the Rocks finished with a 37-31 advantage.

Salem's free throw shooting also proved to be a factor. The Rocks converted 10 of 14 attempts (71 percent) compared to North's 11 percent (1-for-9).

Davis never thought about trying to slow the game down because it wouldn't have helped his team win, he said.

Dale nets hat trick in Chiefs' 5-0 rout

Sophomore Chad Dale scored three goals Thursday to help Plymouth Canton defeat visiting North Farmington 5-0 in soccer.

Eric Stoecklein and Matt Cruz accounted for the other goals, and sophomore James Bossieux had three assists.

The Chiefs are 10-2-4 overall and finished with the best record in the Western Lakes Activities Association at 8-1-1.

Canton won't get to play for the league title, however, because of its only loss to Livonia Franklin. The Patriots were 4-0-1 in the Western Division and the Chiefs 4-1.

Ryan Henkel played the first half in goal for Franklin and Bill Power the second. Canton led 5-0 at halftime.

The Chiefs will play Plymouth Salem for third place in the WLAA at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

■ SALEM SOCCER

Injuries caught up with the Plymouth Salem boys soccer team last week.

The Rocks, who overcame a rash of injuries for several games, lost 4-2 Wednesday to Livonia Churchill with five starters out of the lineup.

That followed a 1-0 loss to Farmington earlier in the week, a defeat that cost Salem the Lakes Division title and berth in the WLAA final.

Jeff Kley, who returned to play against Farmington, re-injured the same ankle Wednesday, and Brad Jaskolski suffered a pulled hamstring. Tom Baker and Brian Spuck were sidelined with injuries, and Scott Buczek had to sit because of a red card in the Farmington game.

Salem, which plays Plymouth Canton for third place in the WLAA at 7 p.m. Wednesday, finished 7-2-1 in the league and is 14-2-2 overall.

"We just don't have the team work with so many starters out," coach Ken Johnson said. "We did well to hang on and keep the (win) streak going, but we didn't play the top-quality teams. We didn't have the experience to play against the top teams."

The Rocks answered Churchill's first two scores with tying goals by Ryan Phipps (Mark MacInnis) and Brian Wright (Joe Perron). The halftime score was 1-1.

A minute after Wright's goal, the Chargers got the game-winner from Pete Owens in the 52nd minute.

Vince Troiani scored the second of two goals later. Charlie Roberts scored the first for Churchill, 9-3-3.

Buha can't carry Falcon golfers

BY BRAD EMONS AND DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITERS

Even the rain couldn't dampen Livonia Stevenson's parade Thursday as the Spartans captured the Western Lakes Activities Association boys golf championship at Hudson Mills Metropark near Dexter.

Stevenson, two strokes behind last year's team champ Plymouth Canton, relied on its senior class to overhaul second place Farmington and individual WLAA medalist Jason Buha, 414-424.

North Farmington and Northville finished third and fourth with 426 and 428, respectively, in the 12-school field. (See statistical summary.)

Under occasional showers, the par-71 course played long and tough. The greens were also fast.

That didn't effect the talented Buha, one of the state's top golfers, who led Farmington and all competitors with a 3-over 74.

But Stevenson showed more balance, led by senior Mark Peterson, who finished four individually with an 80.

The Spartans also received sterling efforts from Ryan Gusick (82), Todd Lensing (83), Chris Deren (84) and Mark Magnusson (84) — all seniors.

"Everybody kept their scores down and nobody blew up, that was the key," said Peterson, who was fifth a year ago. "It rained for awhile and it got kind of cold and windy, but it wasn't too bad. The course played long, but if you keep the ball in play, the better chance you had of scoring.

"The greens were nice. It was a true surface and that helps people with a feel for the greens."

Buha defended his title with a five-shot victory over Northville's Matt Telepo and North's Drew Sopha (79 each).

"I've played in Jason's foursome the last four years and for me it helps because there's always something to shoot for," Peterson said. "But as always, it's never good enough.

"He's just too consistent. Somehow he always is on the green. He a tremendous putter, too."

Farmington, however, couldn't match Stevenson down the line.

Senior Peter True had an 86; junior Mike Kovach, 87; senior Dan Hryczyk, 88; and sophomore Derek Nelson, 89. Senior Mark Bennett added his best round of the year by 11 strokes with a 91, but the Falcons came up 10 strokes short.

"There was a squall for about 30 to 40, about four holes," Farmington coach James Miner said. "It wasn't enough to shut it down, but it made the kids work harder to do anything, and he (Buha) handled it well, as did a lot of kids."

Stevenson second-year coach John Wagner was elated with his team's showing.

"It was very satisfying for me the way this team pulled together," he said. "We started out the year with seven wins in a row, then we lost a couple of tough ones. We kind of floundered the last couple of weeks and we may have been burned out, but today I told them to go out and have some fun.

"Everyone pulled together. They were very unselfish."

The Spartans averaged 41.6 per man during a dual-meet 10-4 season. They went 8-3 in the WLAA's Lakes Division behind champ Farmington and North.

"Stevenson was the best team we played all year and I knew if they played their best they would be tough to beat," said WLAA tourney meet director Gerry Chapple. "They had the best balance of any team we've faced all year. They were the only team to break 200 against us on our home course at Edgewood."

Canton beats Northville

Plymouth Canton put the first five runners across the finish line Thursday and dominated Northville 15-48 in boys cross country at Cass Benton Park.

Casey Moothart was the top runner with a 17:24 time. He was followed by teammates Dave Yack (17:26), Todd Smith (17:39), Tim Czerniawski (17:52) and Jeff Keith (17:57).

"It was a tough meet to run because it was sandwiched between the RU and Ypsilanti invitationals," Canton coach Mike Spitz said, adding the Chiefs had a lot of personal records. "When you're running that much in a week, they all get tough.

"The kids ran well as a team. They stuck together and helped each other along. That's the kind of thing we've been working on all season — working on getting the bubble down."

Northville's Jeff Cweisler was sixth (18:01), but Canton put its sixth and seventh men across ahead of another Mustang. Ian Bedford and Shawn McNamara ran 18:02.

The Chiefs are 3-1 in the Western Division and 4-1 overall.

■ SALEM BOYS

North Farmington won an important Lakes Division dual meet in boys cross country Thursday, 26-30 over Plymouth Salem at Oakland Community College.

The victory keeps the Raiders unbeaten at 3-0 in the division and 8-0 overall. The Rocks are 2-1 and 2-2.

Salem's Derek Cudini was the individual winner at 16:49, but North had the next three and four of the top six.

Tom Stamboulian was second (17:27), Jeff Howle third (17:35), Brian Rajdl fourth (17:36) and Paul Simpson sixth (17:54). Jordan Soffin was 11th (18:45) and completed the North scoring.

"I'm really proud of the guys," North coach Paul Welch said. "All of them ran very well, and the times keep coming down every week.

"(Stamboulian) ran a lot of miles in the summer, and I'm really happy for him because everything is coming together for him."

Salem's top five included Justin Richardson, fifth (17:48); Andy McDonald, seventh (18:00); Jamie Miller, eighth (18:14); Jared Biniecki, ninth (18:25); and Russ Polcyn, 10th (18:34).

PCA loses to Oakland

Plymouth Christian Academy limited scoring star Laurie Ales to 10 points (15 below her average), but the Eagles couldn't stop the entire Oakland Christian girls basketball team Friday night.

The visitors got 18 points from Julie Lufty and 15 from Heather Davis to defeat PCA at Lowell Middle School, 65-36.

The Eagles dropped to 3-2 in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference and 7-4 overall. Oakland improved to 5-0 and 10-1.

PCA, which made only 10 of 54 field goals, was down 25-16 at halftime, but Oakland outscored the Eagles 22-4 in the third quarter and 40-20 in the second half.

"Oakland is really a talented team, one of the best Class D teams I've seen," PCA coach Dennis Horton said.

Karin Reed scored 16 points and Lauren Horton 10 for the Eagles. Horton also had 10 rebounds and Reed nine.

LADYWOOD 73, ALPENA 70: Sophomore Tara Overaitis scored 21 points, hitting eight of nine free throws in the decisive fourth quarter Friday, leading Livonia Ladywood (10-2) to the non-league win over the visiting Wildcats (9-3).

Mary Jo Kelly and Melissa Campeau chipped in with 13 and 12, respectively, for the Blazers, who withstood a 24-18 fourth-quarter Alpena run.

Senior center Jodi Harbson, bound for Northern Michigan, led the Wildcats with a game-high 28.

NBC's got a gem in 'Jewels'

Steel's story mines drama, romance

By Carl Spinks

With the World Series in full swing, the folks at NBC realize that CBS has a lock on a large, predominantly male audience. But where does that leave the many women and non-sports fans who wouldn't know a home run from a homing pigeon, and don't care, either?

On NBC, that's where. For viewers unconcerned with fastballs and the like, the network proudly presents Danielle Steel's 'Jewels,' a five-hour miniseries airing Sunday and Tuesday, Oct. 18 and 20.

Jewels, Steel's 41st novel, was published in April, and sales quickly went through the proverbial roof. No surprise, though, since Steel is in the Guinness Book of World Records for the feat of 400 weeks aboard the New York Times best-seller list.

As a source for successful movies and miniseries, Steel's qualifications are just as impressive. Danielle Steel's Daddy, for instance, broadcast last October during the Series, ranks as the season's highest-ranked made-for-TV movie. Three notches down that same list, Palomino proved a formidable opponent for one night's broadcast of Monday Night Football. Other winners in the Steel catalog include Kaleidoscope, Fine Things and Secrets.

The winning tradition should continue with Jewels, a glittering showcase of romance, glamour and powerful human drama. Like past Steel dramatizations, Jewels is brought to the screen with top-notch writing, superlative acting and the highest of production values.

Annette O'Toole (Stand by Your Man) stars as lovely Sarah Thompson, a wealthy young American taken to Europe in 1938 by her parents in order to help her recover from a tragic first marriage. At a London cricket match, Sarah meets dashing William, Duke of Whitefield (Anthony Andrews). Although reticent at first, Sarah cannot resist William's easy charm and self-deprecating wit and agrees to spend her remaining time in England with him. At the train station, they share a romantic goodbye, Sarah fully believing their relationship is at an end.

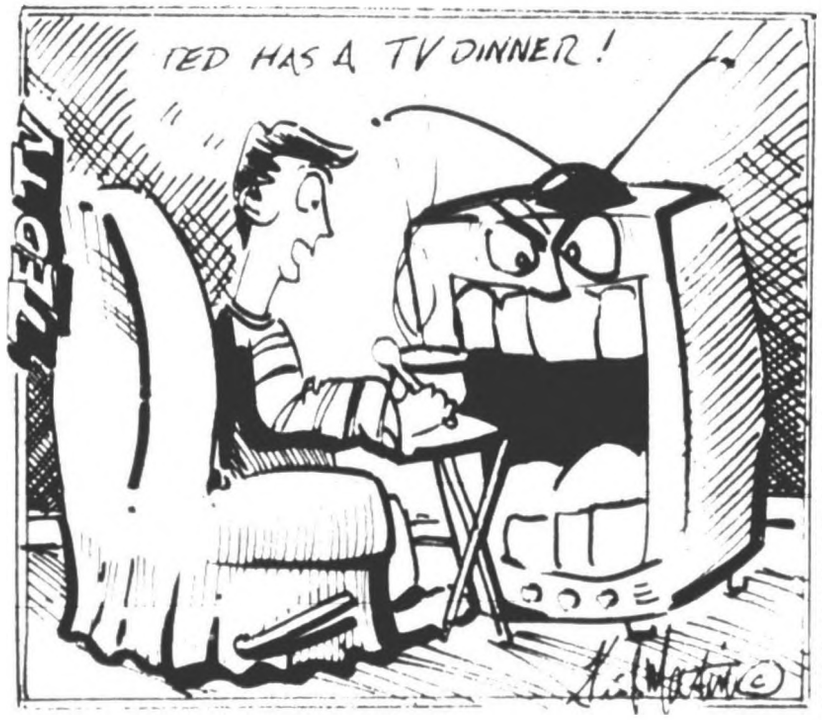
Imagine her surprise when she opens the door of her Italian hotel room to see dazzling banks of red roses and William standing among them, grinning like a schoolboy. "I couldn't let you go," he says.

After a brief courtship, Sarah and William are married. They purchase an abandoned chateau in the French countryside, and Sarah busies herself with its renovation. On the very day of their first son Phillip's birth, England enters the war and William is called into service. Months later, the chateau is taken over by the Nazis for use as a field hospital, and Sarah is not allowed to leave with her son. By war's end, the Nazis are gone and William is home once more, now confined to a wheelchair by injuries suffered in a brutal German prison camp.

Sympathetic to the appalling poverty of their French neighbors, William and Sarah charitable start buying their jewelry and reselling it in the city. As the business expands, stores are opened in London and Rome. All the while, Sarah most cope with the increasingly independent ways of her children (now numbering four) and William's sadly failing health. Through it all, Sarah remains strong and fiercely dedicated to her principles.

Annette O'Toole anchors the miniseries with her strong portrayal of Sarah, though one wishes at times for greater variety in her performance. Anthony Andrews (Brideshead Revisited, Under the Volcano) is perfectly cast as William, a model of British charm and polish. Jurgen Prochnow is memorable in the small role of the Nazi commandant with whom Sarah shares a startling (but chaste) romance.

The supporting cast in Jewels is almost uniform in its quality, from Benedict Taylor's engaging Julian (Sarah's second son) to Corinne Touzet's well-developed portrayal of Emmanuelle, the French peasant girl who becomes one of Sarah's closest allies. One performance, however, stands out for its weakness. Yvonne Scio, though beautiful, is dismally wooden as Julian's treacherous wife.



'Lifestories' offers truth in strong doses

HBO series pulls no punches

By Steven Alan McGaw

Although entertainment programming has always been the mainstay of HBO's schedule, the No. 1 premium channel has long recognized there's another audience out there as well, responding with acclaimed specials such as How to Raise a Street-Smart Child and the award-winning America Undercover documentary series. Now, HBO addresses the problems and perils facing young adults in Lifestories: Families in Crisis, a series of six monthly installments premiering Tuesday, Oct. 13.

HBO vice-president Sheila Nevins says the network sought to create "reality programming that spoke to families." Noting the current buzz-word status of "family values," Nevins asserts, "This is not a reaction to current controversy. But we all have family values, we all care about children and young people."

The first episode is Public Law 106: The Becky Bell Story, about an Indiana schoolgirl who resorted to an illegal abortion rather than comply with state law and ask her parents' permission. (She died of a massive infection just days later.) The events are dramatized, but Bell's real parents appear at the end of the program, urging young women to know their options and parents to keep open the crucial lines of communication. "Remember," says Mrs. Bell, "what it was like when you were young."

November's unnerving episode is The Secret Life of Mary-Margaret: Portrait of a Bulimic. Other shows focus on date rape, pediatric AIDS, drunk driving and teen suicide.

Lifestories is intended as family viewing and material for later discussion, but parents should be advised this is strong stuff. Some scenes are almost alienating in their intensity, and younger viewers may well be frightened.

"But it's not dishonest," counters Nevins. "We didn't want to cut away to the sunset at the crucial moment. The story has to be on the screen."

Tuesday on HBO, Dana Spybey plays an anguished teen in Public Law 106: The Becky Bell Story, the premiere episode of Lifestories: Families in Crisis. The six-part series examines issues facing young adults.

BITS AND PIECES

Comics couture; swan song for 'Fatman'

Comic-book heroes making a fashion statement. [illegible] "The Men in Black" [illegible] Columbia Pictures has bought the film rights to [illegible] series [illegible] "The Men in Black" [illegible] and [illegible] supernatural and extraterrestrial [illegible]

It ain't over till you get that last check. Jake and the Fatman, which continued to earn good ratings even after production ended last spring, may find its way into syndication in early 1993. Star [illegible], who has a financial interest in the show, explains his reasons for quitting his role and ending the series: "We did five years and at the end of the fifth year I said I didn't want to do any more. Of course, they wanted to do more, but I didn't want to ... I was done with it. I had finished it. I thought I had done everything I could creatively ... and I knew for me to stay on the show would only hurt the show because I wouldn't be there because I wanted to be. I'd only be there because of money, and I don't think that's a good motivation to be at a job if you don't have to."

Paula Zahn

But did she say the secret word? CBS This Morning [illegible] Paula Zahn recently won $[illegible] as a [illegible] contestant on Bill Cosby's syndicated game show You Bet Your Life. Zahn's stint on the daily show [illegible] interview with Cosby.

They'll save a lot of money on special effects. NBC is developing a [illegible] drama about Hurricane Andrew, intended for broadcast this season. For full realism, the telefilm will incorporate news footage shot by NBC affiliate WTVJ-TV in Miami.

TIME OUT

Screen gems set in friendly confines

By Michael Scogin

America's fascination with baseball and baseball movies is the subject of Baseball on The Silver Screen, a special debuting Thursday, Oct. [illegible] on AMC. The show, narrated by James Earl Jones, uses clips and commentary from baseball enthusiasts and filmmakers to trace the history of baseball movies from its earliest beginnings to today's big screen blockbusters.

Jones, who appeared in both Bingo Long and the Traveling All-Stars and Motor Kings and Field of Dreams, guides viewers through a history [illegible] [illegible] films and [illegible]

Baseball's first try in film began in [illegible] with The Ball Game. Thomas [illegible] documentary look at [illegible] The silent films of the [illegible] famous for their [illegible] appearances by actual players. Baseball films made a strong comeback in the [illegible] and '50s in a series of biographies which dramatized the lives of some of the greatest baseball heroes of the day, including Babe Ruth, Dizzy Dean and Monty Stratton. Perhaps the most [illegible] was Pride of the Yankees, in which Gary Cooper played Lou Gehrig.

More recent films, such as Bang the Drum Slowly, Eight Men Out, The Natural and Field of Dreams, focus more on the human element of the game. [illegible] Jones points out, "not so much about baseball players as about people that happened to play baseball."

[illegible]

Fridays on CBS, Estelle Getty and Cheech Marin star in Golden Palace. Betty White also stars.

Jazz great Max Roach discusses the art of drumming in Behind the Scenes, Saturday on PBS.

Will Smith returns for the third season of The Fresh Prince of Bel-Air, Mondays on NBC.

SOAP TALK

Victor and Nikki: entertaining friction

By Candace Havens

Dear Candace: I know that story lines are written months in advance, but to say "love never dies" is criminally insane on The Young and the Restless. I can't believe they want Victor and Nikki involved with each other again! There is no way these two characters could ever find happiness together. There is too much that has happened between them.

I simply cannot believe a powerful rich man finds a woman like Ashley with brains and beauty and throws her aside for an ex-stripper who has lied to him on a consistent basis. Give me a break. —An ex-fan of Y&R, Alice Bramon, Abbeville, La.

Dear Reader: When I interviewed Melody Thomas Scott (Nikki), she said she thought there would always be something between Victor and Nikki. The characters would forever be pulled together, only to be forced apart later. You are right in saying that these two could never find happiness, because that would be the end of the relationship. It is the friction between the two of them that keeps people watching.

Now that Nikki has gone back to Jack because she is pregnant with his baby, it looks like Victor has come up dry in the woman department. He has alienated Ashley totally and Nikki is determined to make things work with Jack. I'd like to see a new love interest for Victor, someone as ruthless as he is who could cause him a great deal of grief. One thing we know for sure, ol' Vic is going to make Jack's existence a living hell.

Dear Candace: I think Karen Witter's character on One Life to Live, Tina, has taken a turn for the worse since Cord left. I don't like the idea of Tina and Cain being together. When she's with him, she doesn't think about her children and Cain is too self-absorbed to be fatherly. I wish the writers would find another love interest for her.

I would also like to have seen Lee Ann gain custody of her baby. Kevin might be financially able to care for a child, but he is emotionally immature. —Nicole Thomas, DeRidder, La.

Dear Reader: Tina and Cain certainly spice things up on the show with their shenanigans. Unfortunately, most soap mothers have little to do with their children in general. It is just the nature of the genre.

A simulated landing on Mars is one of the visual highlights of Space Age, a six-part series premiering Monday on PBS. Produced in association with Japanese television network NHK and the National Academy of Sciences, the series examines ongoing international space programs, as well as man's desire to explore.

'Stunt Dawgs' deliver professional-strength fun

By Chris Carpenter

For every 1,000 showbiz hopefuls who've had pet projects chopped up, put down, stepped on and put off, there's one Hal Needham, the rare breed whose ideas look better on film than they probably did in his head.

Needham's experiences as Hollywood's premier stuntman and director of stuntpersons (Smokey and the Bandit, Hooper) are transformed in Stunt Dawgs, 40 original cartoon capers airing weekdays in nationwide syndication.

"Once we decided to make this thing a few months ago," Needham says of the Stunt Dawgs brainstorming period, "I sat down one Saturday morning to watch some cartoons. I watched turtles, I watched it all — none of it made much sense to me. But is it supposed to? I'm not 8 or 9 years old."

Armed with the belief that cartoons should appeal to more than one age group and brimming with filmmaking anecdotes, Needham soon had Stunt Dawgs on the storyboards.

These pooches aren't passive. In one frenzied stunt after another, the Dawgs rip through 30 minutes worth of thrills and spills — with more than a few pokes at filmdom's foolishness — to a hard-rocking soundtrack.

Kids may find more esoteric entertainment elsewhere down the dial, but they'll be hard-pressed to find anything more explosive.

Drop-out teacher lives to laugh about it

By Dan Rice

It helps to have a sense of humor when playing a character called "Gooshie." Dennis Wolfberg, who has the role of the odd-named scientist endeavoring to repair the time accelerator on NBC's Quantum Leap, certainly qualifies. The winner for "Best Male Stand-up" at the 1990 American Comedy Awards, Wolfberg has logged more appearances on Fox's Comic Strip Live than any other comedian.

The native New Yorker attended Queens College (which he describes as "a school that academically ranks up there with the American Bartenders Institute") before becoming a sixth-grade teacher in the South Bronx. After switching to a career in comedy, he met and married fellow comedian Jeannie McBride, also a former teacher. The couple worked the comedy circuit as America's only husband and wife stand-up tandem.

Wolfberg tells of the casting call for Leap's Gooshie: "You get sent out according to type — leading man, boy next door, strange uncle. I was startled when I looked into the casting waiting room and saw the most motley collection of misfits and miscreants — it was human flotsam. I thought, 'I obviously don't belong here,' until the secretary saw me and said, 'Come in and have a seat with the rest of them.' "

When asked what life he would like to "leap" into, Wolfberg replies, "Richard Burton in 1964, because that's the kind of guy I am."

LET'S TALK

Eastwood at girls' school; Spacek in her 'Prime'

By Taylor Michaels

Q: I saw a Clint Eastwood movie some years ago — after his* Rawhide *days. He was very young, and he played a soldier who came upon a girls' school. The girls all fell in love with him but, after having to amputate his leg, in the end they poisoned him with mushrooms. Can you tell me the name of the movie and what year it was made? —Pat Cresseveur, Bardstown, Ky.

A: This slightly offbeat Eastwood outing is titled The Beguiled and was made in 1971.

Clint Eastwood, Elizabeth Hartman in The Beguiled

Q: I'm writing for some information on the Ford supermodel Fabio Lanzoni. He recently appeared on* Maury Povich and is a frequent model for Avon *publications.

I'm interested in details on how he was "discovered" and what his first jobs were. Has he done any acting? Does he reside in the States as well as Italy? What are his agents' or publicists' names? —Lori Gaines, Kilgore, Texas.

A: Lanzoni's publicist, Nadine Johnson, is quick to point out how "very hot" he is right now, and that he is too busy working to grant many interviews.

The son of Milan mechanical engineer Sauro Lanzoni and his wife, Flora, Fabio moved to New York City when he was 21 (he's 31 now) and claims to have signed a modeling contract with Ford "15 minutes" after barging into their offices. It's been wine and roses ever since, as he's modeled for over 300 romance novel cover illustrations (at about 45 minutes and $3,000 a pop) and had cameos in Scenes From a Mall and Exorcist III. He hopes his future will include more beefy film roles, but in the meantime, he's busying himself with a six-figure deal to write (as well as pose for) a few romance novels. For exercise, Lanzoni lifts weights and goes cycling. He lives in West Hollywood with four Great Danes. You may write him in care of Nadine Johnson, CMB Communications, 155 East 75th Street, No. 3W, New York, N.Y., 10021.

Q: I recently saw the TV movie* The Habitation of Dragons. *I didn't realize until I read the credits that Brad Davis is deceased. The credits read "the late Brad Davis." Am I correct when I say he played the part of Robert Kennedy in a TV movie? —Rose Senidio, Warner, Pa.

A: Another reader, Sylvia Cotton from Carthage, Texas, has also inquired about Davis, and I'll try to answer all the questions.

Tragically, Davis' life was cut short earlier this year by complications arising from AIDS. He was probably best known for his brilliant turn in 1978's Midnight Express, which garnered a best-screenplay Oscar for Oliver Stone. His intense portrayal of American Billy Hayes, who was tortured in a Turkish prison for years after being caught drug-smuggling, was most effective. As mentioned, he also portrayed the late Robert Kennedy in a 1985 miniseries titled Robert Kennedy and His Times.

Q: Many years ago, possibly in the late '70s, I saw a Lee Marvin movie in the theater, but I have never seen it again. He played a mobster who was in conflict with another gang. Much of the war was in Kansas, and people in large combines chased others around in a wheat field, and also in a packing plant where butchered cattle hung. Can you tell me what the title was? —Charlotte Anderson, Metropolis, Ill.

A: That film was 1972's Prime Cut, a nifty little actioner starring Marvin, Gene Hackman and Sissy Spacek, in her film debut. The movie is available on video.
