Bombing impresses Vietnam-era pilots

By Diane Gale
staff writer

As the world watched the results of the precision bombing in Iraq, Vietnam pilots remembered a war when things weren't as accurate and as popular.

Area Vietnam veterans said a new generation is experiencing the atrocities of war, but said the troops are better equipped to fight than they were.

While pilots in the Persian Gulf are pinpointing their targets, pilots in the Vietnam War dropped bombs and hoped they would come in the area of their aim.

WAR
Hitting Home

IT'S THE DIFFERENCE between using a hand calculator and using today's computers," said Bob White, a Plymouth Township resident, who piloted an A-7 attack plane in Vietnam.

"It would be like flying in a video game, it would be very accurate and three dimensional," White said. "We had two dimensional pictures and no depth like they have today."

Pilots in Vietnam depended on photos and scouts who reported back what they saw. Today computer equipment eliminates the guesswork.

And, he said, the political climate is much better for the troops in the Persian Gulf, while American soldiers in Vietnam were restricted from carrying out certain missions.

"It (Vietnam) was a terribly political war," White said. "Hopefully they can run their missions the way that they can plan them to be most efficient. When someone in Washington, D.C., decides your targets it makes it difficult."

"One of the things that concerns me is that the media keeps saying it's just the United States. This is a United Nations event and not just the United States," he said. "It's a global peace-keeping force."

A VIETNAM veteran from Canton, who asked not to be named, said he served on a couple of bombing runs in North Vietnam.

"We didn't have the opportunity to pinpoint our bombs," he said. "We had a target, but we pretty much blew up the area to hit the target."

The Canton resident said he was a "kid" when he served in Vietnam. "I went along with what I thought was right at the time. I didn't think that one day I wouldn't want to publicize talking about it."

"When we bombed North Vietnam and killed civilians, we had the whole world on our necks saying that we were terrorists."

George Klepack, a Plymouth Township resident, was a crewman on a SH-3 Delta helicopter in Vietnam. His primary mission was searching for downed pilots.

He said he was pleased to hear President George Bush say military personnel won't go into Iraq, "with one hand tied behind their back" like they did in Vietnam.

Watching war coverage on television "rings some bells," Klepack said. "You get a twang now and again. It's not something that you want to see happen. You see it's necessary, not from a monetary standpoint, but for what was done to the Kuwaitis. For a lot of guys who went to Vietnam it wasn't as clear as it should have been, and there was a lot more protesting at home."

"It brings back memories and you don't want to see the next generation go through a war. It leaves scars physically and mentally. It was weird coming back from Vietnam and seeing guys taking off their uniforms at the airport, because they didn't want people to see them with it."

The public attitude toward troops in the Persian Gulf is better.

"The government is following through and not making scapegoats out of the soldiers," Klepack said.

CHARLES WEAVER, a 19-year-old Canton resident, talked about that same kind of moral support for American troops when he wrote his mother a letter from the Persian Gulf a couple of weeks ago.

Serving in the 3rd Army Cavalry Regiment, Weaver said, he is on the front line.

Local students divided over draft

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

It was finals week at Plymouth-Canton and Salem High Schools, but the pall over students was caused by something much gloomier than exams alone could create. The overriding concern of students was the outbreak of war in the Middle East.

As they headed home, students shared their thoughts about the possibility of being drafted.

To the window of her car, Canton senior Kristina Kozuch was affixing a bumper sticker that read, "Prayer is power, pray for peace."

"If there is a draft, women should be drafted as well as men; sex makes no difference. But I don't think anyone should be drafted at all for this," said Kozuch. "It wouldn't be worth the lives that would be lost."

"Congressmen deciding on all this are pretty old; young people haven't had the chance to live much of their lives yet."

Kozuch's friend Joe Nunez, a Salem senior, presented a different view.

"I like my country, we've been given this school, and I've been to our national parks. If the government says we should do this, I'm going to support my country. A lot of

Bottomless bandit robs station of $57

A clerk at the Top-In gas station reported that a man, who wasn't wearing pants or shorts, came into the gas station/convenience store and stole $57, police said.

The man reportedly walked into the station at Michigan Avenue and Canton Center Road wearing a paper bag on his head. He also was wearing a plaid shirt that was covered with fresh oil.

The clerk said the man was holding a hammer in his hand and said: 'I want all the money," the clerk told police.

The woman ran into the back room where two other women were working. When the clerk locked the door, the man pounded on it with the hammer and made holes in the wood.

He went to the cash register and reportedly took the money. No one was reported injured and no other goods were reportedly stolen.

Group offers plan to halt suburban sprawl

By Diane Gale
staff writer

If your idea of where "the country" is keeps changing, you're not alone.

A decade ago a lot of city folk rightly thought about Canton as country. Now you have to keep driving considerably west or much farther in another direction to find "country."

And members of a local group say they want to put a stop to that ever-creeping sprawl.

"Generally speaking throughout the country and major metropolitan areas, you have more and more concern," said Edward J. Hustoles, Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments deputy executive director.

"While we're developing communities like Canton, we're abandoning the older communities like Detroit and it becomes an increasing burden on the taxpayers in total," Hustoles said.

HE MET with Canton trustees Tuesday during an elaborate year-long SEMCOG campaign to identify the effects of sprawl.

"We're developing more and more sewers, roads and land with little additional population growth," Hustoles said.

Michigan residents will be using 40 percent of the land for 6 percent of the population.

People keep moving farther away from urban areas to escape traffic and other congestion problems, but ironically, Hustoles said, the new area takes on the same old problems.

CANTON WAS a main player in the most recent sprawl.

And it was disappointing that Canton residents more than a decade ago rejected a farmland preservation act that would have preserved Canton's farmland through public purchase of farmers' development rights, Hustoles said.

Currently, less than one-half of one percent of Canton's tax revenue comes from agricultural land owners.

Canadian geese take a walk on the edge of the cornfield abutting Sunflower Village subdivision south of Warren. The geese were feeding in the PORTLAND, ORE., said enough to sprawl by banning sewer and road expansion beyond a boundary line. And Toronto developed a greenbelt around the community, saying that land could only be used for open space projects like farms and golf courses.

Canton Supervisor Tom Yack agreed with the SEMCOG plan to stop sprawl.

"I don't know how anyone can disagree with it," Yack said. "How they will accomplish what they hope to accomplish will be real hard."

Chances are development will continue as planned in Canton, Hustoles said, but then there's the next township and the next development to consider.

things aren't right, but this is war. I come from this country and I would definitely support the U.S.A."

"Personally, I don't think there's really a need for a draft. But if there was a draft, I would go," said Patrick Stanton, a junior who plays football for Salem.

"If my country needs me and calls me to duty, I'll serve or help them. It would be my way of showing a payback for all the things the U.S. has given me."

BOYD RUDY, A SALEM junior, agreed. "I would support it. I'm in full favor of a draft. I figure if we don't do something now, Hussein will just get more power and they could go further with their nuclear capability."

Canton junior Jason Weller would oppose a draft. "I'll be 18 in 11 months, and I just wouldn't want to. It's too scary to go," he said.

Salem junior Diana Christoff said,

"There shouldn't be a draft. But if there is, women should have every right to go."

Shelli Hampton, a Salem junior, said, "I don't think there should be a draft. There's no reason for it at all. I don't support the war. Obviously, something needs to be done, but they should have tried for peace talks," said Hampton.

"If a draft did go into effect, I think women should be part of it."

Keith Viazanko, a Canton senior, said, "I say no, because I'm 18, and I know people who might be going. I definitely don't agree with them going over there."

Donna Norfleet, a Salem senior, supports the war. "If we don't do it now, the aggression will be worse in five years. I say get it over with now."

"It's a long war, there should be a draft, and women want to be treated equally. If they needed me, I'd go. I know there's a lot of protests, but we have a legitimate reason for being there."

SALEM JUNIOR Paul Smith said he wouldn't necessarily oppose a draft, "as long as I don't get drafted. If I was 18 or 19, I'd be worried."

Brook Kelly, 14, said his brother Jim, a Salem graduate, is stationed in Saudi Arabia with the Army. "He's in the 1st Cavalry on the front," said Kelly, who attends Salem.

Kelly said he talked to his brother Wednesday night and "he wants it to be over. He's hoping air attacks will finish most of it."

"I don't think there will be a draft," he added. "I think it will be over before a draft is necessary. We have enough soldiers to do the job."

Ann Bennethum, a Salem junior, said she doesn't think there should be a draft.

"They shouldn't be drafting men or women. But if they do, I think men should be drafted. Women should be able to volunteer. It just wouldn't be me," she said.

"I don't support the war, but I support the people who are over there. We should support them now that they're there. They shouldn't, I don't think, be there," she added.

Stephen Johnson, a Canton sophomore, said, "I don't think there's going to be a draft. I don't think the war will be that long, we're so sophisticated with our weapons."

Canton senior Kim Wade said, "I don't think there will be a draft. The way things are going now, it's an air war."

Shelli Hampton (left) doesn't support the war. She says peace talks weren't given enough time to work. Diana Christoff opposes a draft. She says if there is one, "Women should have every right to go."

"He told us not to listen to war protesters," his mother said last

Weaver attended Plymouth-Canton High School and is married with a son, Adam.

Memory lives on

Students remember King as world goes to war

By M.B. Dillon

staff writer

As the world went to war, children in schools throughout the Plymouth-Canton district commemorated Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday with poems, illustrations, essays and announcements dedicated to peace and understanding.

Activities began on Jan. 15, King's birthday, and are continuing this week.

Canton High School principal Thomas MacKenzie took time out during finals week to speak to the student body about King's life "and the things he stood for in relationships — peace, justice and equal rights."

"I RELATED it to the current world situation in the Persian Gulf and expressed the hope that world leaders would remember the vision of Dr. Martin Luther King," MacKenzie said.

MacKenzie asked everyone in the school, "if they felt comfortable, to join hands wherever they were and observe a moment of silence."

"Everything was totally quiet for a minute. Teachers told me kids put their heads down and held hands. I thanked them and asked them to care about one another and to remember Dr. King's goals and values in their lives. And I wished them good luck on their exams."

SALEM HIGH SCHOOL principal Gerald Ostoin asked school mayor Nicholas Dazer to give an address.

His reading discussed "Dr. King's helping to desegregate many of the Southern states; the major roles he played in securing voting rights for blacks; his march on Washington, D.C. in 1963; his helping to persuade Congress to pass the Civil Rights Bill and the Nobel Prize he won in 1964," Dazer said.

Dazer, a junior, learned much about King from his parents, he said.

"They were pretty interested in civil rights; they lived in Detroit so it was kind of hands on for them," he said.

"Around my house he is revered a lot. I just cannot help but think that anyone who could be like him couldn't do too bad in this world."

GALLIMORE ELEMENTARY first grader Patrick Meyer wrote about King and asked to read it to his fellow students on the public address system, said Joyce Deren, principal.

"It was Martin Luther King's birthday on Tuesday," he wrote. "He tried to change the laws so that black people and white people could be friends. He changed the laws so that black people could sit in the front of the bus and eat in restaurants. Because of what he did we have a special holiday for him."

Brian George, a fifth grader at Bird Elementary, also addressed his fellow students on the P.A.

"Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was a great man," Brian said. "He believed everyone should be treated fairly. He worked very hard to change our country so that all people would be treated equally. Dr. King believed these changes should be made peacefully without violence."

NANCY LARSON teaches first grade at Erikson Elementary.

The children drew a map of themselves and filled in a comic cloud containing the words, "I have a dream for our world and it is that ...," Larson said.

"I have a dream for our world and it is to love one another," Meridith Sims wrote.

"I have a dream for our world and it is that you should not fight," James Toth said. "I have a dream for our world that people don't get into war," Dawn Alsobrooks said.

"I care about others," Ryan Morse wrote.

The children's art work adorns the school's main entrance.

RON MYERS of Fiegel Elementary showed the film, "Little Boy King," to his fifth grade class.

It's a portrayal of Martin Luther King Jr. as an 8- or 9-year-old boy experiencing prejudice for the first time; not being able to play baseball with white children and not being able to buy shoes at the store he really wants, Myers said.

"Little Boy King" also deals with King's involvement with his father and grandmother, and the inspiration his grandmother, after her death, gave King for a speech about prejudice he wrote while he was in high school.

Myers is following through with lessons on black American history for several weeks.

Plymouth expected to make airport decision

The Mettetal Airport issue gets another public airing tonight, as Plymouth city commissioners are to decide whether to join Plymouth Township in creating a governing board to buy and run the Canton airport.

In December most commissioners said they'd likely vote to form that governing board, saying the airport was a valuable public asset.

But after area residents commented for nearly two hours on the issue Dec. 17 — several suggested more study — commissioners voted to delay a final vote until today.

In a report prepared in response to lingering questions about the agreement to form an airport governing board, City Manager Gordon Jaeger said, "Because the airport would have no debt for property acquisition, it would immediately net approximately $225,000 per year.

"There is no reason to believe that the revenue from the airport users will not equal or exceed annual expense requirements, even if improvements are necessary."

"Under the terms of the joint operating agreement, the units of government will not continue to participate if local tax funds are needed," Jaeger continued.

"The evidence at this point strongly indicates that local tax funds would not be necessary," he said.

The Michigan Department of Transportation released a report recently calling for runway expansion at Mettetal Airport.

The commission meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at Plymouth City Hall, 201 S. Main.

A hot time at the ice festival

Canton resident Jeanne Bostic had some company at the Plymouth International Ice Sculpture Spectacular this year.

Bostic, who came to the festival with her two daughters and three of their young friends, was impressed with what she saw Friday afternoon.

"Oh, it's great. It's so unique," the children also liked what they saw.

"I like it because I think that they look really pretty," said Michelle Bostic, 7, a second grader at Metropolitan Junior Academy in Plymouth. She particularly liked a sculpture of a toothbrush and toothpaste.

Her friend Janelle White, 8, was impressed with a swan sculpture she saw in Plymouth's Kellogg Park.

"I like it because it's made out of ice," said Janelle, also a second grader at Metropolitan Junior Academy.

Jeanne Bostic has been to a number of earlier ice festivals in Plymouth. This is the ninth consecutive year the event has been held there.

"I used to bring my daughters when they were little babies."

SHE AND OTHER festival visitors were concerned about the outbreak of war in the Middle East but didn't cancel their plans.

"We all wish that there's peace over there, but we can't stop living our daily lives." Events such as the ice festival help make people happy, Bostic said.

Joyce Foust of Plymouth has also been to a number of earlier ice festivals in Plymouth.

"It makes a fun weekend. I think it's very interesting," she said. "It isn't raining, thank heavens."

She and her husband, Fred, came to this year's event with friends Jack and Barbara Otto of Glen Arbor, Mich., in the northern Lower Peninsula.

"I'm really very interested in it," Barbara Otto said. She'd seen already-completed ice carvings at hotels, but hadn't seen the actual work done until this past weekend.

"I love watching them do it," she said. Jack Otto also liked what he saw during his first visit to a Plymouth ice festival.

"Outstanding and I'm looking forward to more," he said.

ber of Commerce. The combination of war in the Middle East and weather problems kept some visitors away, she said.

"It's no other reason but that," said Toney, a Plymouth resident who started work at the chamber of commerce in October 1989. This is her second ice festival.

Highlights of this year's event have included the presence of carvers from Japan and sculptors from the Soviet Union. The festival was scheduled for six days this year, a shorter length of time than in previous years.

Toney noticed attendance was down a bit as of Friday afternoon, but was optimistic many more visitors would show up Friday evening, Saturday and Sunday. She and other staffers at the chamber of commerce fielded a number of calls from people interested in coming to the Ice Sculpture Spectacular.

"We can say 'Come on out, everything is beautiful.'" The decision to cover sculptures with heavy plastic helped a great deal, she said.

The chamber of commerce doesn't sponsor the ice festival but helps to support it, answering phone calls and handling walk-in visitors, she said. Toney would like to see the annual event continue.

"Oh my goodness, of course. Absolutely no doubt about it." The festival helps to attract people to Plymouth and to promote the community, she said.

"They turn around and come back, buy homes and shop."

War touches life of local flight attendant

By Diane Gale
staff writer

The Persian Gulf war has touched Canton resident Nikki Robiadek's life in more ways than she wants to think about.

Gulf since August and her sister, Cinde Klopfenstein, a Naval reservist, recently learned that she likely will be sent to the war zone.

Area officials on the lookout for war-related incidents

As the war in the Gulf heats up, local law enforcement, school and county officials are taking extra precautions to ensure the safety of those on the home front.

Bureau officials, however, said they were interested in information-gathering, not harassment. They also said they sought information on attacks against Arab Americans.

Plymouth Police Chief Richard Myers said his department has been contacted by federal officials regarding the possibility of war-related incidents here.

"We're not interested in promoting hysteria, but we do want people to be alert," Heiterhoff said. "As far as security, we're asking them to use good judgment."

"The Justice Department has notified police agencies that they intend to aggressively protect all Americans, regardless of their descent," said Myers. "So of course we'd take reports of any activity that."

"I think it is incumbent upon us to realize that school business will be conducted as usual," said Hoben.

Cigarettes taken from party store

More than $1,350 worth of cigarettes were stolen Wednesday from Oakview Party store on Palmer.

Police reported that when they arrived two or three loose cartons of cigarettes were in the parking lot. The thieves broke a door window to get into the building. Damage to the door was listed at $250.

THEFT: A woman, who was shopping Thursday at Meijer on Ford and Canton Center roads, reported that $227 was stolen from her purse. She said she had been given the money by operators of the Marlowe Group Home to buy groceries for the home.

VEHICLE BREAK-INS: A 1986 Toyota, parked in the parking lot behind the Autumn Ridge Apartments, on Reisa was reportedly broken into last week.

She told police that her purse was in the child's seat of the grocery cart when someone removed the envelope from her purse.

The stolen goods included a radar detector, valued at $280; a $400 radio; a $120 tire and tire-jack and a $20 ashtray.

Special primary planned for county commissioner

Canton voters will go to the polls Tuesday, March 19, in a special primary to help select their next Wayne County commissioner.

County commissioners set the primary at Friday's meeting. A general election for the 11th District seat has been scheduled for Tuesday, May 7.

A three-way Democratic Party primary is expected between newly appointed Commissioner Shirley Poling, D-Canton, assistant county executive Bryan Amann and Robert Beeny, a Wayne city councilman.

The district includes Canton, Wayne, Belleville, Romulus, Flat Rock, Rockwood and Van Buren, Sumpter and Huron townships.

Canton planning commissioner Victor Gustafson has already announced on the Republican side, with former Canton Supervisor James Poole also considered a potential candidate.

THE GULF WAR

Hitting Home

"I don't want to worry him." Despite losing a friend who died in the Northwest Airlines accident at Metropolitan Airport last December, she said, she can't imagine having a better job.

"They've told us not to leave our personal belongings so anyone can touch them. They've said don't trust anyone you don't know real well. Everyone is suspect. Let's face it. Anyone can steal a uniform from a cleaners."

But terrorists are nothing new, she said, citing Cuban terrorist attacks in the 1970s.

THE PEOPLE in immediate danger, she said, are the troops, like her brother-in-law and sister.

Her sister, 41, was drawn to the Naval reserves by the benefits and traveling opportunities, she said. She has enjoyed the trips and other military benefits, Robiadek said.

"Now she's going to have to pay her dues."

"Now she's going to have to pay her dues."

Demonstrations against Operation Desert Storm will not wane or die out, protesters vowed last week in the aftermath of the outbreak of hostilities.

"We want to get the troops home," said Lisa Klieger, a 1990 graduate of Plymouth High School. "We'll protest as long as it takes."

Klieger was one of an estimated 1,000 protesters who gathered at the McNamara Federal Building at Cass and Michigan about 4:30 p.m. Thursday. After about 40 minutes of speeches, chanting and marching, the protesters paraded along Michigan Avenue to Woodward on route to the Central Methodist Church less than a mile away.

"We're not here to burn flags or trash the city," Al Fishman told the demonstrators over a public address system. "We're here to protest the war."

Fishman, a Detroit native who also protested the Vietnam War, is a spokesperson for the Committee for a Peaceful Resolution to the Gulf Crisis which has an office in Ferndale.

The committee is a coalition of numerous antiwar groups. Fishman said it has nearly 17,000 members in metro Detroit, including about 11,000 in Oakland County.

"WE WANT to reawaken the conscience of America," Fishman said. "We have no shame for our tears or for our anger."

Marsha Cohen of Farmington Hills agreed. "I don't like this feeling of helplessness about what's happening in the Gulf," said Cohen, who believes that demonstrations she and others staged nearly two decades ago helped end the Vietnam War.

"This way I feel like I'm doing something," stated Cohen, who said she left antiwar pamphlets at Farmington Harrison High School, hoping students would attend the rally.

Kristine Calvin, a 1989 graduate of Troy High School, said the protest was against President Bush and the war, but not against the military personnel fighting it. "We support our troops," she said, "we don't want them to die."

Donna Hommes, an Oakland Community College student living in Troy, agreed. President Bush "was too soon with the planes."

Ari Schwartz of Birmingham was also critical of Bush. "Bush talks about a new world order," he said. "We say it should begin with peace."

"Instead of waging war, the U.S. should be putting its resources into housing for the homeless, or better education," Schwartz said. "How can we tell the world how to live when we have so many problems?"

Protest! Suburbanites march against Desert Storm

By Pat Murphy
staff writer

Demonstrations against Operation Desert Storm will not wane or die out, protesters vowed last week in the aftermath of the outbreak of hostilities.

"We want to get the troops home," said Lisa Klieger, a 1990 graduate of Plymouth High School. "We'll protest as long as it takes."

Klieger was one of an estimated 1,000 protesters who gathered at the McNamara Federal Building at Cass and Michigan about 4:30 p.m. Thursday. After about 40 minutes of speeches, chanting and marching, the protesters paraded along Michigan Avenue to Woodward on route to the Central Methodist Church less than a mile away.

"We're not here to burn flags or trash the city," Al Fishman told the demonstrators over a public address system. "We're here to protest the war."

Fishman, a Detroit native who also protested the Vietnam War, is a spokesperson for the Committee for a Peaceful Resolution to the Gulf Crisis which has an office in Ferndale.

The committee is a coalition of numerous antiwar groups. Fishman said it has nearly 17,000 members in metro Detroit, including about 11,000 in Oakland County.

"WE WANT to reawaken the conscience of America," Fishman said. "We have no shame for our tears or for our anger."

"Instead of waging war, the U.S. should be putting its resources into housing for the homeless, or better education," Schwartz said. "How can we tell the world how to live when we have so many problems?"

Lisa Last, a Plymouth High School graduate, uses a tamborine to make antiwar noise.

Weather Service. "I was in the middle of the group," said David Davidson, a psychologist. "As it turned out, I didn't counsel anyone."

DAVIDSON SAID he believes the media has not objectively reported the depth of antiwar sentiment.

"The church was jammed," he said. But there are a lot more people against the war who haven't begun to protest yet.

Davidson also, insists the media has not clearly reported how many protesters — especially those downtown Thursday — are against the war while supporting the troops.

Danielle Walquist, a 1989 graduate of Plymouth High School, shook her head at what she considered the futility of war. "Any war is inexcusable," she said, "especially this one. It doesn't make any sense."

Donna Hammond (left) and Kristine Calvin, a Troy High School graduate, sported arm bands as well as picket signs.

points of view Low pay has a stiff price

MY LATE and beloved brother columnist Fred DeLano had a skeleton in the family closet. It was contained in a 1944 state publication called the Michigan Manual — a picture of his father, state Sen. Carl F. DeLano, R-Kalamazoo.

Carl DeLano was convicted of corruption charges. So were a former lieutenant governor, 11 other senators, 11 representatives — 18 Democrats and five Republicans. So were scores of prosecutors, police officials and lobbyists — 62 convictions in all.

The case exploded 46 years ago last week — Jan. 10, 1945 — when Sen. Warren G. Hooper, R-Albion, was assassinated, gangland style. On his way back from Lansing, Hooper's green Mercury was forced off M-99 in rural Jackson County.

The tale is told in "Three Bullets Sealed His Lips" by Bruce A. Rubenstein and Lawrence E. Ziewacz (MSU Press, 1987). It happened as Hooper, who had admitted taking money, was ready to sing to a grand jury.

FOR TWO decades, say the authors, rumors had swept Lansing of legislators accepting money and gifts for their votes on "sausage manufacturing, commercial fishing, barber and beautician regulation, naturopathy, chain banking, taxation, kerosene inspection, legalizing dog racing and slot machines, horse racing, small loan company interest rates, the manufacture of oleomargarine and the size of bakery bread pans."

I bring up this sordid chapter not to dishonor my colleague's memory or because of the anniversary, but because of the argument going on in Lansing today: "The Pay Raise."

HOOPER, THE authors tell us, sold his gasoline station when elected to the House in 1936. His legislative salary was $3 a day — when the Legislature was in session.

Hooper became chair of the House Public Health Committee. He also landed a job as executive secretary of the Michigan Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons.

Conflict of interest? Absolutely. Elevated to the Senate in 1944, Hooper hadn't started work in the Desert Storm Fight against Iraq is well justified

FOR SOME reason, many of us look at current situations through the blur of the past. Some are comparing the war in Iraq to that in Vietnam 20 years ago. I don't think there's a comparison to make. That's why I think we're doing the right thing by fighting.

In the past year the world has changed more and for the better than it has in the past 40. It was only a year ago that the Berlin Wall came tumbling down and the Russians traded those old baggy suits for stylish Western clothing and started talking like Wall Street bankers.

And as the old Russian war began headed for what seemed like a permanent hibernation, Saddam Hussein emerged.

Is he the new Hitler? Probably not, but he's the closest thing we've got to a new era emerges in the world. And to knock him off is the right thing.

It seems for the first time since World War II we're doing it the right way. We have the help and approval from the remainder of the world.

Jeff Counts
CRITICS OF the war and those demonstrating that the economic sanctions should have been allowed to work. The anti-war demonstrators are chanting "no blood for oil."
The anti-war folks want us to believe that somehow the war is being fought for the oil companies. They want us to believe that Americans will be dying for the right of Exxon to do business. That's an issue, but one that's distorted.
It's true that oil firms will benefit from a stable Middle East in which they can do business. But then again so will the entire world. When we talk about big oil it's easy to conjure up the image of a fat-cat capitalist. But there's also the Third World family dependent on cheap oil for employment.

There is a new order in the world. It's called peace, prosperity and human rights. That's something the world has been searching for years. And it's within our grasp.

HOWEVER, I find it ironic that it's the peace movement folks who are likely to hold us back. They are trapped in a Vietnam-era thinking that says war is an end to nothing and that all military people lie about everything.

When the Vietnam War was going on, we were right. That war was political. President John Kennedy got us into it to deflect criticism that he was soft on communism, and it was continued by Johnson and Nixon.

In a sense it wasn't really a war, just American guys stuck over in a country they knew little about, mostly fighting small engagements to prop up a corrupt government.

One of our missions was to convince the peasants that capitalism and the American style of life were better than communism. It was a fruitless task, and a fruitless war.

In Vietnam the military objectives were political.

BUT IN the war with Iraq we're bombing Baghdad. I'm glad President George Bush has showed that this isn't going to be a political war like Vietnam or Korea. We're headed for the heart of the beast.

And from initial reports we're doing the bombing in the most humane way possible. We're not palming little children, we're knocking out Saddam's nuclear and chemical warfare capabilities. We're making war on the war makers and their machines, and not on the Iraqi people.

If we can knock Saddam off quickly, we'll have done the world a service.

As for the anti-war folks: Nice try, guys, but you're about 20 years too late. The sentiment is nice, but you're all wet. Get out of your Vietnam-era thinking and try to look at the new situation.

Jeff Counts is editor of the Canton and Plymouth Observer newspapers.

Elected officials speak out...

Reaction was swift from local officials in the wake of Operation Desert Storm's commencement Tuesday night. Here is what our state's U.S. Senators and Congressmen from western Wayne County had to say.

'I hope the experts who said this would be quick, fast and surgical would be right. It's OK with me if George Bush becomes a hero and gets this thing over with as soon as possible and gets us the hell out of there.'

—Rep. William Ford D-Taylor

'The step has been taken. It's goal now is to complete the journey as quickly and efficiently as possible.'

—Rep. Sander Levin D-Southfield

'Like all Americans, my prayers today are with the members of American forces and our allies in the Persian Gulf. I am encouraged by the early indications that our initial bombing raids were carried out with minimal resistance.'

—Rep. Carl Pursell R-Plymouth

'We must do all in our power to support our men and women now fighting in the Middle East, knowing we will prevail and hoping for minimal casualties, swift success and a positive aftermath.'

—Sen. Carl Levin D-Mich.

'This is a very somber moment. This war will change the world in ways that we cannot now foresee. Our prayers and all our support must be with the men and women in our armed forces who have been sent into battle.'

—Sen. Donald Riegle D-Mich.

Vision could have kept us from war

THIS WAR should have been avoided. How so? Well, let's start by recalling those fireside chats Jimmy Carter had with the nation shortly after taking office in 1977.

Dressed in a warm sweater, Carter told the nation he had turned down the thermostat in the White House to save energy. He urged homeowners to do the same, and encouraged businesses to adopt similar measures.

The reason: to cut the nation's dependence on foreign oil. Of the masses of people who elected Ronald Reagan president nearly four years later, many said Carter was weak. To them, the image of Carter urging sacrifices, dressed in a sweater, was a laughable, wimpy one.

If we're going to make a mistake, I would prefer to make it on the side of paying officials a bit too much rather than too little.

In the 1940s we saw one-sixth of the entire Legislature convicted. That was a pretty stiff price for keeping the budget low.

Kevin Brown
played parts that reflected youths' backing of the values Reagan expounded. How ironic it is then, that many young people who backed Reagan's glory-view of America will likely die in a war needlessly joined by George Bush, his vice president.

"We have to stop Saddam Hussein because he's a madman," many say. But so was Idi Amin, Pol Pot and the rulers of South Africa who say blacks are second class citizens. And few, if any, have called for war against these men.

SO THIS war must be over oil. But would you send your son or daughter to the Middle East to die so I can have cheap gas?
Go ahead, call this a peacemaker view. But before you call it wimpy, consider this: Wouldn't it have been more effective to send a few CIA 007-types to Iraq to off Hussein? A different Iraqi leader would likely have been easier to deal with in negotiations over Kuwait.

this one likely won't follow Reagan's John Wayne-like view of movie war. Look for poison gas and protracted, savage ground fighting. Thousands of young Americans could die before this one's over.

And it's all for a damn cheap tank of gas.

Kevin Brown is a reporter for the Plymouth and Canton Observer newspapers.

concerned effort would work. After all, didn't we put a man on the moon?

And had that message been embraced by our leaders, they would have really been doing something to ensure our national security.

Imagine that — Jimmy Carter was more concerned with national security than Ronald Reagan.

BUT REAGAN's message was more appealing to most. We're Americans, he said. We're great, we don't have to change a thing. And we're tired of people saying we have to change. Those people are wimps.

It was often said that Reagan had much appeal to youths. Popular stars Tom Cruise in "Top Gun" and Michael J. Fox in "Family Ties"

COUNTERING THE PAIN OF ARTHRITIS
Taking pain medication when your joints ache may not meet your needs. Pain in arthritis is recurrent, prolonged, and unpredictable. A combination of features not amenable to medicines. If you are elderly, pain medication can cause profound constipation and may impair your responses leading to dangerous falls or faulty driving decisions.
How else can you blunt pain? Heat helps. A heating pad, hot shower or bath, and in instances of hand pain, a paraffin bath, all have a place. Distraction helps. Watching television, speaking with an understanding person, or initiating personal meditation are examples of distraction therapy. Mild exercise can decrease pain. Whether exercise is a form of distraction or a method to bring heat to the joints, is unclear. However, experience shows that if your joints can tolerate the activity, exercise eases distress.
Resting is important. Getting off your feet and lying on the best way to rest. Relax the whole body so you can stop the stress that accentuates joint and muscle pain.
These alternatives to drugs give you control, are initiated with little cost, and are repeated as needed, and do not lose effectiveness through repeated use.

Muscles can get workout

Notin' says lovin' like somethin' from the oven — and when we find ourselves right smack dab in the throes of winter, spending an afternoon making homemade bread not only pleases the palate, it also fills the house with an aroma that signals warmth.

The manual labor involved strengthens the muscles as well as the mind.

Frustrations over credit card bills, the recession and the Middle East take a back seat, if only for a short time, while the hands feel the softness and pliability of the dough.

The hour or so intended for rising can be spent making a homemade soup or just curling up with a good book.

Better yet, take the opportunity to stretch out on the sofa, envelop yourself in the cuddly afghan Aunt Reggie sent last Christmas and just close your eyes for an hour's worth of personal reflection and relaxation.

All the while, the bread becomes more aromatic and full.

BREADMAKING IS being lifted to new heights.

A trip to virtually any grocery store unfolds a breadbasket full of wheats, ryes, sourdoughs, seven grains, oatmeal, bran and interestingly shaped baguettes.

Even the baking section has reduced the amount of plain all-purpose flour and has expanded to include whole grains, regular and quick-rise yeasts and even an occasional jar of sourdough starter.

KITCHEN AID MIXERS are considered the Cuisinarts of the breadmaking group, but on this cold wintery day, the electrical wizard will remain in the cellar, leaving the hands and muscles to do the work.

All-purpose flour is the most widely used flour. It contains a special protein called gluten, the structure builder of bread.

When mixed with liquid and then kneaded, the gluten will stretch and give elasticity to the dough by trapping bubbles of gas formed by the yeast.

Some flours, such as rye and whole wheat, lack sufficient gluten and should be used in combination with all-purpose flour. Self-rising flour, which already contains leavening and salt, is not recommended for yeast breads.

BUT WITH all due respect to the flour, it is the yeast that will transform a bowl of dough into a pillar of subtlety, lightness and great taste.

Yeast is a live plant that releases a gas that makes the dough rise. Unfortunately, for the inexperienced breadmaker, it is also very finicky. Too much heat kills the yeast. Too much cold will stunt its growth.

Unless you have a temperate index finger like Momma, who can discern the temperature of water with simply a feel, an instant-read thermometer is a safe bet.

A FEW simple tips to remember for optimum results include the use of glass or darkened metal breadpans for well-browned crusts. Those shiny stainless pans will suffice, but the crust will be lighter and more tender.

Also, the top of each pan should be level with or slightly above the middle of the oven for best baking results. Stagger the pans so they do not touch the sides of the oven or other pans.

Probably the most important suggestion of all is to remember to remove the bread from the pans immediately and place on wire racks away from a draft to cool.

Of course, when the Janes Gang gets together to make bread, it seldom has an opportunity to cool.

As Momma did and still does, the loaf is marked with a sign of the cross before slicing and then broken by hand and dipped into a stick of butter that has been left out of the fridge to soften just for that occasion.

Tom and Carol Bozadzis of Farmington Hills, who both studied at the Cordon Bleu in Paris, prepare Beef Tenderloin in Aspic.

Cuisine a la Cordon Bleu

By Janice Brunson
special writer

IN 1990, ANASTASIOS "Tasso" Bozadzis of Farmington Hills realized a dream come true when, after thousands of hours of effort and some $24,000 in cost, he was awarded a coveted Grand Diplome from Le Cordon Bleu Ecole de Cuisine et de Patisserie in Paris, perhaps the most notable academy of cuisine in the world.

In 1991, Bozadzis, a chemical engineer trained at Wayne State University, hopes to realize a second and equally impressive goal.

With wife Carol, he plans to make cuisine a full-time endeavor, launching an unusual business concept — an outlet for gourmet cuisine-to-go, named Tasso's Cuisine Nouvelle.

"I loved cooking and baking from a very young age. I can remember helping my mother fry potatoes when I was 6. I've spent 27 years as an engineer. I'm taking a different direction entirely. It's a very good change," Tasso said.

The business, Carol said, will not be your typical run-of-the-mill cuisine outlet. "It will be authentic gourmet," she said, envisioning Tom's roasted stuffed duck artfully reconstructed, life-sized rosettes of tomato or beet, and charlotte russe or cream gelatin molded with decorative fruits and lady fingers.

Each creation will be "decorated and presented, authentic displays of artistic food," Tasso said. Food also will be prepared with an eye toward health, in keeping with American preference. In recipes calling for cream or eggs, Tom normally halves amounts to appeal to the American palate.

"I ACTUALLY THOUGHT I knew everything. Midway through, I realized there is still more to learn," Tasso said of the five three-month courses he completed at the Cordon Bleu academy.

Studying 12 hours a day, six days a week, he mastered basic, intermediate and superior cuisine and basic and advanced patisserie in record time. He also studied

A cheer for Franco's Cafe: Italian food to remember

At a time when the opening of yet another Italian restaurant could elicit a yawn, Giolando Franco has opened a place in Troy worth cheering about.

Franco's Cafe features wonderful spaghetti with meat sauce, terrific Sicilian treatments of such things as scrod or steak, excellent yeast dishes and pizza that will spoil your taste for any other. It's good enough to make Franco's a regular haunt.

In fact, the cafe would qualify as a great neighborhood gathering place if it weren't so difficult to establish a "neighborhood" along busy Rochester Road. In the corner of a strip center, the restaurant is small, tastefully decorated, friendly, and accommodating beyond a doubt. It's not unusual to see the chef whisk a curious guest into his tidy kitchen where he will talk endlessly about the proper way to take veal off the bone or how to make his favorite dessert — cannoli.

JUST TASTING his food convinces you his enthusiasm is real. Franco's sauces have the body and flavor that suggest the freshest of ingredients and the extraordinary patience of a chef who is unwilling to hasten the cooking. Because the meat sauce isn't highly seasoned, the taste of fresh, ripe tomatoes shines through. The alfredo sauce tastes of butter, cream and cheese — not of flour.

Likewise for soups. It seems that wherever we have had really superb soups, a memorable meal followed. That's true here. We've been at Franco's often enough to try two soups from the regular menu — the minestrone and the tortellini in broth, and two specials — a lobster bisque and a cream of sorrel. All were excellent, especially the sorrel which included small wedges of potatoes and scallions.

The entrees were equally satisfying. Not enough can be said about the pastas because the sauces are so good. The veal parmigiana is very good, again because of the freshness of the ingredients, in this case the veal. The dinner menu offers a wide variety of pastas, plus vegetarian dishes, steak, seafood and chicken entrees. Included is a reasonable children's menu of hot dogs, chicken tenders, spaghetti and hamburgers for $2.50 to $3.95.

On the lunch menu is an especially good Sicilian scrod entree in which the fish is rolled in seasoned bread crumbs and gently cooked. Accompanying that entree was a medley of sauteed vegetables, including green beans, cauliflower and carrots — all cheeses and wine tasting. Additional courses include table setting and flower arranging.

Owned by the Cointreau family (of the renowned liqueur), the academy is considered the finest in the world. Each course accommodates some 100 students, of which 30 to 40 percent are American. Many students also hail from Japan and South America, according to Tasso.

Cooking, he said, is a very personal expression requiring clear, concise thinking. "Fortunately, I have an analytical mind."

Individuality at the academy was striking. If 12 students prepared an identical recipe, the result was 12 dishes of varying taste and appearance. "It was remarkable. The same recipe. Different taste and different look."

Tasso rarely follows recipe directions exactly as written, preferring to personalize amounts by increasing, decreasing or even omitting ingredients. "I always put my own feeling into it."

CUISINE IS NO STRANGER to the Bozadises household. The couple's courtship during the early 1960s centered around parties catered by Tasso for extra spending money while both he and Carol attended Wayne State.

Tasso was born and reared in Greece, and his specialties then were rich Greek moussaka, leg of lamb and a mouth-watering battisio of creamed macaroni and minced beef.

Once married, the couple enjoyed their favorite form of entertaining — having guests for dinner, at elaborate affairs involving multiple courses beautifully presented on a table set with linen, crystal and china.

Even during the early years of marriage, Tom was poring over English language editions of the French publication "Larousse Gastronomique" and experimenting with recipes and ingredients in a continual search for excellence.

"Food is another type of art. Art is conceived by the individual touch and you put part of yourself into a dish," he said.

Pattock is married and the mother of two young children. Her husband, a self-employed construction worker, often works outdoors, and during the cold winter months she makes a lot of chili for dinner. Whenever she has any left over, she heats it up and puts it in his thermos so he will have a hot and hearty lunch.

Pattock and a friend recently started a cake decorating business called Create-A-Cake, with their specialty being birthday cakes decorated and designed to look like different characters. They also took orders and baked Christmas cookies this past holiday season, in addition to making cakes for birthdays and showers. Pattock loves what she is doing and derives much satisfaction watching children's faces light up when they see the cakes she has decorated for them.

Exceptional chili recipe a great winter warmer

Legend has it that the last words uttered by the famous American frontiersman, Kit Carson, before he passed on to the big prairie in the sky were, "Wish I had time for just one more bowl of chili."

That was in 1868, more than 100 years ago, and the popularity of chili continues to grow and grow. A heart-warming, sometimes even heart-burning Southwestern dish, chili is a winter favorite and often the subject of fun-filled but competitive chili cook-offs.

This week's Winner Dinner Winner, Sandy Pattock of Canton, submitted her family's chili recipe. It is one of the best I have ever tasted. Served with freshly baked bread and honey, a marinated broccoli salad and no-bake peanut butter bars, this is one dinner that promises to become a family classic, loved by young and old alike.

VELOUTE OF FENNEL SOUP
4 tablespoons or 1/4 stick unsalted butter
6 large heads trimmed, sliced fennel
2 tablespoons or 1/4 stick unsalted butter
6 tablespoons all-purpose flour
8 cups chicken stock
4 egg yolks
1/2 cup whipping cream

Fresh ground pepper
Fresh chopped chives

Melt 4 tablespoons butter in large skillet over medium heat. Add fennel, cover and slowly braise until completely softened and lightly browned, stirring occasionally for about 30 minutes. Transfer to processor and puree.

Melt remaining butter in large heavy saucpan over medium-low heat. Add flour and stir with wooden spoon until flour is cooked but still light in color, approximately 15 minutes. Slowly add stock to flour mixture, beating constantly. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat to low and simmer gently for 30 minutes. Stir in fennel. (This can be prepared ahead.)

Just before serving, bring soup to a simmer. Combine egg yolks and cream in small bowl and beat well. Gradually add about 1 cup stock to yolk mixture, beating constantly. Slowly blend yolk mixture back into remaining stock. Be careful not to let soup boil or eggs will curdle. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

If fennel is unavailable, substitute with 1 pound celery and 1 tablespoon fennel seed.

cooked perfectly, and the excellent rolls and garlic bread Franco makes daily. At $4.95, this was a bargain.

As a one-time pastry chef, Franco also turns out some great desserts, from tortes to cheesecakes.

AS WITH ANY new venture, there are glitches here and there. Specials of the day are listed at the restaurant entrance, and the wait staff seems to assume guests have seen them. The restaurant's dinner menu is presented at lunchtime too, presumably to note all the salads, soups and desserts. But most customers order lunches from a card at the table listing about a dozen entrees all priced between $3.50 and $7.50. Dinners range between $6.50 and $14.95 and include soup or salad and the fabulous bread basket.

Overall, the restaurant is genuine. It's friendly, priced competitively and definitely committed to offering fine food.

clarification
The recipe for Blueberry Pancakes that appeared with the article "Cooking from Scratch" in Taste on Monday, Jan. 7, should have read: 3 teaspoons baking powder (not 3 tablespoons).

Larry James' column Taste Buds on Monday, Jan. 14, should have stated, "The best that money can buy is dubbed Minor's soup base." The name of the brand was inadvertently omitted. Soup bases may be purchased at Leone's, 30660 Plymouth Road, Livonia, phone 427-7650; Leone's on Stevenson Highway, between 13 and 14 Mile roads in Madison Heights, phone 585-6095; Miesel Sysco, 41600 Van Born, Canton, phone 397-7900, and at R. Hirt at the Eastern Market in Detroit.

Observer & Eccentric Winner Dinner Recipes

SANDY'S CHILI
Rich in flavor and texture, this tasty dish is an ideal dinner for the busy family on the go. It takes about 30 minutes to assemble; can be made ahead and freezes well. This recipe makes 4 quarts of chili, leaving enough for leftovers or another meal.

BREAD AND HONEY
Following package directions, prepare a loaf of frozen bread, allowing enough time for it to rise. Bake and serve hot out of the oven with butter or margarine and honey.

BROCCOLI SALAD
Wash off and trim 2 stalks of fresh broccoli. Cut the broccoli into bite-sized pieces and marinate in half a bottle of Kraft Zesty Italian dressing. Refrigerate until serving. The longer the broccoli has to marinate, the faster it will be.

NO-BAKE PEANUT BUTTER BARS
Quick and easy to make, these peanut butter bars are delicious.

1 3/4 cups butter or margarine, melted
1 1/2 cup powdered sugar
1 1/2-1 3/4 cups graham cracker crumbs
1 1/2 cup crunchy peanut butter
1 package semi-sweet chocolate chips, 12 ounce-size
1 tablespoon solid shortening oil

Melt the butter or margarine. Mix in the powdered sugar, graham cracker crumbs and peanut butter. Press into a greased 9-by-13-inch pan. Melt the chocolate chips and the shortening together and spread over the top. Score with a fork before placing in the refrigerator. Keep refrigerated between serving.

Saute peppers slowly in salad oil for five minutes. Add onions and cook until tender, stirring frequently. Add garlic and parsley.

In a large skillet: melt butter or margarine and cook the beef and sausage until done, about 15 minutes. Drain meat and add to onion mixture. Stir in chili powder and cook another 10 minutes.

Add the remainder of the ingredients, except for the cheese, and simmer for 3 hours.

1 cup diced zucchini
1/4 cup finely chopped onion
1/4 cup margarine or butter
1/2 cup cheddar cheese
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon white pepper

Scrub potatoes; prick each with a fork. Arrange potatoes in a circle on an absorbent towel. Cook on high (100 percent power) 13 to 15 minutes, rotating 1/4 turn after 7 minutes. Let stand on counter 5 minutes. Meanwhile combine red pepper, zucchini, onion and 2 tablespoons of the margarine in a 1 1/4-quart microwave-safe baking dish. Cook on high 4 to 6 minutes, stirring after 3 minutes. Cut potatoes in half lengthwise and scoop out centers, being careful not to break skins. Mash potatoes until light; whip in hot milk, remaining margarine, salt and pepper. Stir in vegetables. Spoon mixture into potato shells; place on a 13-inch microwave-safe platter. Cook on high 5 to 6 minutes or until heated through. Makes 6 servings.

Small owners farm their plots in Burgundy

Bordeaux, the wine region along France's Atlantic coast, is organized around the chateau concept. Here the vineyards that produce wine surround a large domicile. Once ruled by the English, Bordeaux vineyards are still controlled by wealthy land owners. Burgundy's vineyards on the other hand, were divided among the peasants after the French Revolution. The atmosphere in Burgundy is one of a farming community without much aristocracy.

Ownership of Burgundy vineyards is a complicated network of small growers, many of whom farm their tiny plots in the evening and weekends after working a full-time city job.

Clos de Vougeot (25 vineyard acres owned by 77 growers) is a classic example. Ownership of thousands of small vineyard parcels is constantly changing as heirs take possession of family plots and land is bought and sold. It is difficult to keep track of who has what grapes available for making wine from one vintage to the next.

How can the wine consumer sort out the Burgundy puzzle? Since the wines of France are given place names, consumers could familiarize themselves with the names of the refocus on wine

Eleanor and Ray Heald

gion's appellations.

BUT IT MAY BE more important for the neophyte to become familiar with the names of the best producers rather than remembering the great Burgundy vintages or the long list of appellations. The best producers make good wines even in lesser vintages.

Considering that Burgundy produces only one-tenth as much wine as Bordeaux, that Burgundy suffers from huge vintage variation and the weak American dollar, it is inevitable that prices of Burgundy wines will continue to escalate.

"Not all Burgundy wines are very expensive," said Pierre-Henry Gagey, assistant managing director of Maison Louis Jadot in Beaune. "There are many fine Burgundies, both red and white, that I would classify as affordable."

"The current vintage in the market is 1988. It is a great vintage because the tannins are softer and the quality from the small grower is high. Throughout 1991, the 1988 vintage offers a fantastic opportunity to discover the affordability of many Burgundy wines."

To begin a discovery of white Burgundy, produced entirely from chardonnay, Gagey suggests searching out wines from four small villages in the Cote d'Or: Savigny-Les-Beaune, Pernand-Vergelesses, Auxey Duresse, St-Aubin, and Rully in the Cote Chalonnaise.

For red Burgundies on a budget, Gagey recommends selections from the villages of Pernand-Vergelesses, Marsannay, Santenay and Cote de Beaune.

IN ADDITION to touting the new 1988 Burgundy arrivals, Gagey points to 1987 as an underrated vintage. "We're now realizing that the '87s are interesting wines that are developing well in the bottle," he states. "Frequently, when Bordeaux has a poor year (like 1987), Burgundy is lumped in with its image. This concept has kept the prices of the 1987 Burgundies low and they are good consumer values."

In addition to Louis Jadot, we recommend the following Burgundy producers for quality, value and availability: Joseph Drouhin, Louis Latour, Etienne Sauzet, Pierre Bourée, Georges Deleger, Georges Dubouef, Jean Grivot, Robert Jayet-Gilles, Mongeard-Mugneret, Christian Serafin, Talot-Besaut, De Villaine, Lucien Bollob, Lupe-Cholet, Chartron et Trebuchet, Alain Geofroy, Remoissenet, Coche-Dukry, Philippe Rossignol, Robert Chevillon, Francois Raveneau, Francois Jobard, Olivier Leflaive, Dauvissat, Hospices de Beaune, Jaffelin and Henri Jayet.

Ownership of thousands of small vineyard parcels is constantly changing as heirs take possession of family plots and land is bought and sold.

Chef Larry gives recipes for bread

See Larry James' column Taste Buds on Page 1B.

TRADITIONAL WHITE BREAD

- 6-7 cups all-purpose flour
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 2 tablespoons shortening
- 2 packages dry yeast (or 2 tablespoons bulk)
- 2 1/4 cups very warm water (120-130 degrees)

Mix 3/4 cups flour, sugar, salt, shortening and yeast in a large bowl. Add warm water. Mix well by hand, using a wooden spoon, for 2 minutes. Stir in enough remaining flour, 1 cup at a time, to make the dough easy to handle.

Turn the dough onto a lightly floured surface; knead until smooth and elastic, about 10 minutes. Place in a lightly greased bowl; turn greased side up. Cover and let rise until doubled, about 40-60 minutes. Punch down the dough; divide into halves. Let rest 5 minutes. Shape into loaves and place in lightly greased breadpans. Brush lightly with margarine, if desired. Allow to rise until doubled, about 35-50 minutes. Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Bake until deep golden brown, about 25-30 minutes. Remove from pans, cool on wire rack.

Vegetarian pizza has fontina cheese

AP — Fontina cheese pairs perfectly with vegetables in this vegetarian pizza.

CHEESE AND VEGETABLE PIZZA

- 1 tablespoon oil
- Salt
- Freshly ground pepper
- 1 cup shredded fontina cheese (4 ounces)

On a lightly oiled baking sheet, press chilled dough into a 9-by-12-inch rectangle with raised edges. Brush with the oil. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Sprinkle evenly with cheese. Do not permit dough to rise. The pizza may be held briefly in the refrigerator before baking.

Bake in a 450-degree oven about 15 minutes, or until crust and cheese are lightly browned. Makes four servings.

Sweet potato is so versatile

When Columbus discovered America in 1492, he also discovered a yellow-brown vegetable, the sweet potato. Guess what he did? He took some roots home with him.

By the 1600s the delicious, edible sweet potatoes were a leading crop of the Virginia colonies, and by the 1800s more than 200 varieties were grown in the South. Sweet potatoes are available year round but are most plentiful from September to December for holiday eating. However, sweet potatoes are great for eating all year.

Sweet potatoes are versatile, easy to prepare and have great potential. They can be served as an appetizer, salad, main dish or dessert. They seem to have taken a bum wrap because of the name or the heavy amounts of sweetener that is added to them. Actually, a sweet potato has no more calories by weight than a white potato. As with other potatoes, it's what you add to them that makes the fat and calories add up.

The darker the orange color of the vegetable, the more beta carotene (which the body transforms into vitamin A). A serving of one sweet potato has two to five times the recommended amounts of beta carotene.

A sweet potato serving has more potassium than an orange, plus some dietary fiber. It also contains about half the amount recommended for a daily allowance of vitamin C and about 120 to 140 calories. All this nutrition inside the skin of a sweet potato!

SWEET POTATOES come in two versions: the light or pale-skinned type with yellow pulp that remains firm when cooked, or the bright orange, more moist, rough-skinned variety that becomes soft when cooked. The moist, flaked potato tastes sweeter than dry varieties due to the starch converting to sugar while cooking. Some people call the softer, more moist version a "yam."

But a true yam is really a starchy white root grown primarily in the tropics of West Africa, the Caribbean and Latin America. Select well-shaped (tapered toward the ends), firm, plump, brightly colored skins that are free from decay. Do not choose one that has cut holes or blemishes. Best supplies of potatoes generally are in the winter months. Store in a cool, dry, dark, well-ventilated place. Do not store in refrigerator. If you have purchased more than you can use in a short period of time, cook, mash and freeze for use later.

Cook a sweet potato in the skin to help preserve the vitamins. Treat just like a white potato. The skins will slip off easily after cooking, but it is also edible. Since the skin is a little tough you may want to rub with a little margarine and wrap it in foil to bake. Place sweet potatoes on a baking sheet and bake at 375 degrees for about one hour or until tender. To boil, place chunks in saucepan (leaving skin on), add water, bring to a boil, cover, reduce heat and simmer until tender. Drain well. Slip the skin and use in whatever dish you are making. Pierce sweet potatoes several times with a fork before microwaving to prevent exploding. Microwave on high six to seven minutes per pound.

ENJOY SWEET potatoes combined with white potatoes to make your favorite potato salad recipe. As a main dish, bake or microwave in their skins. Scoop out the pulp and mash it, add pineapple or orange juice, or diced apples and raisins with spices, and return the pulp mixture to skin and reheat, and you have twice-baked sweet potatoes. Mashed sweet potatoes can be put into a casserole. Add fruits, juice, spices and top with chopped nuts for a great side dish (skip the marshmallows).

Mix shredded sweet potatoes with chopped apple, flour and onion and fry as pancake in a little melted margarine or oil. Shred raw into salads for crunch, or pare and slice and serve raw with a dip. Raw sweet potatoes taste like a sweet raw carrot. They will darken quickly so soak in water before serving and refresh frequently if served on a raw vegetable tray.

Soup can be made by pureeing

Lois Thieleke home economist, Cooperative Extension Service

baked or boiled sweet potatoes. Add defatted chicken stock, herbs and spices, and before serving stir in low-fat buttermilk or yogurt.

Try pureed sweet potatoes for pies, breads, biscuits, muffins, cookies, cakes, croquettes and custards. Sweet spices such as cinnamon, ginger, cloves, nutmeg and allspice compliment sweet potatoes very nicely. Remember, a sweet potato by itself is not fattening. It's the caramelized or candied versions that add calories. Be like Columbus and take some nutrient-dense sweet potatoes home.

Start fresh in '91, making meals without fuss

The new year has arrived. What better time to get back to the basics, in the kitchen. Using fresh ingredients including fruits and vegetables is not only healthy, it's smart.

By following recipes that include little fuss, such as Spicy Winter Chili and Beans, you can create a delicious homemade meal in no time. Chili also freezes well. Just reheat and you have a warm welcome to enjoy after a busy day. A simple tip is to heat the chili in the oven, not on top of the stove, so you don't have to worry about burning it. Favorite Vegetable Soup is another delicious recipe that can be made a day or more ahead and enjoyed all week long.

Warm Brown Bread Muffins are the perfect accompaniment to chili or soup. In fact, muffins made from scratch become a tasty and nutritious breakfast treat — easy to grab on your way out the door in the morning.

Nothing warms and fills you up on a brisk winter evening like pasta. Ratatouille-Pasta Gratinée is delicious with the zest of eggplant and zucchini. It's easy to prepare and the sauce is easily frozen and reheated when needed.

Today's kitchen appliances are also helpful time-savers. Food processors chop our vegetables and puree our fruit in seconds. The microwave oven is a cook's best friend when it comes to defrosting and heating anything quickly.

Shopping for fresh ingredients and preparing recipes ahead of time makes it easy to get back to the basics of nutritious eating.

Salem swim stars outshine Canton

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

There were individual stars on both sides Thursday night, but Plymouth Salem had a few more and won its annual swimming duel with rival Plymouth Canton.

Curt Witthoff and Joe Pawluszka were at the forefront of the winning effort, which carried the Rocks to a 108-78 victory over their host. Salem is 2-3 in dual meets, Canton 1-1-1.

Witthoff won the 200-yard individual medley in 2:09.37 and the backstroke in 59.47. He and Pawluszka helped Salem win the 400 freestyle relay, and Witthoff was the leadoff man on the second-place medley relay.

"He's really come on for us," Salem coach Chuck Olson said. "He's one of those guys the last couple of years we had looked to be backing up in a lot of events. This year he's taken that next step and is not afraid to go out there and race people. We're real happy with the way things are going for him."

Pawluszka's successes came in freestyle races. He won the 50 in 23.37 and the 100 in 52.10. He was on the winning 200 freestyle relay team, too.

"HE'S DONE a heckuva job for us," Olson said. "Tell him 'You gotta swim well' and he gives you everything he's got."

Olson added it was a big night for the Salem senior tri-captains, which includes Gary Bergman, who finished second in the 100 freestyle (53.54) and third in the 50 freestyle (24.33). He anchored the medley relay and joined Pawluszka on the 200 freestyle relay.

"That kinda shut the door on any hopes they had of coming back," said Olson of Bergman's second in the 100 freestyle.

"There was a lot of discussion it was going to be a very good meet, and (the seniors) didn't want to be the first to lose to their buddies across the creek."

Olson also was pleased with the performances of Brett Petroskey, who was second in the 200 freestyle (1:59.85) and helped the Rocks win the 200 and 400 freestyle relays.

"He's starting to come around for us," Olson said. "Once you break the two-minute barrier (in the 200 freestyle), you're starting to get serious."

Pawluszka, Petroskey, Albert Sneath and Bergman had a 1:35.89 time in the 200 relay, and Sneath, Pawluszka, Petroskey and Witthoff were clocked at 3:33.54 in the 400 relay.

SNEATH ALSO had a good meet for Salem, winning the butterfly

'In some of these other meets, we may have to start backing off. But this wasn't the meet we could afford to back off. The boys probably would have mutinied if I had.'

— Chuck Olson
Salem swimming coach

(59.43) in addition to his relay contributions. He was second in the IM with a 2:13.22 time.

"That's still not a good time (in the butterfly) for Albert," Olson said. "He should be a little bit quicker than that, but we'll take the first place."

Olson added the 400 freestyle relay team should have a time under 3:30, but it's difficult for Witthoff to swim the backstroke and go again two events later in the 400 relay.

"In some of these other meets, we may have to start backing off," Olson said. "But this wasn't the meet we could afford to back off. The boys probably would have mutinied if I had."

A standout for the Chiefs was freshman Mike Orris, who won the 200 freestyle (1:53.18) and the 500 freestyle (5:07.91). He also anchored Canton's second-place teams in the freestyle relays.

"He had good times in the 200 and 500 and fast splits in the relays," Canton coach Hooker Wellman said. "He's in here for the four-year program, and he's doing exactly what I'd like him to do now."

"HE'S WORKING hard and swimming fast. He has a great attitude, and that's good for the kids around him."

Ron Trosin won the breaststroke in 1:05.82 and combined with teammates Doug Nevi, Mark Ealovega and Craig Steshetz to win the medley relay in 1:45.78, a season best.

"All the people on medley relay went faster, so we've got a real good chance to qualify that relay for state, I think," Wellman said.

There was an upset in diving where Canton's Nick Atwell defeated Salem's Steve Salhaney and Pat McManaman. Atwell scored a career best 206.8, Salhaney 201.15 and McManaman, the all-area diver a year ago, 195.55.

"What I really liked is when (Atwell) got down to his last dive and was beating two kids who have gone higher scores than him, he didn't choke," Wellman said.

one down, say he owes us one and collect another night."

Others finishing in the top three for Salem included Matt Erickson, third in the butterfly, 1:00.59; Brett Meik, second in 500 freestyle, 5:22.15; Aedan Berlin, third in 500 freestyle, 5:24.58; Scott Helmstader, second in backstroke, 1:01.46; Jon Stridiron, second in breaststroke, 1:06.26. Witthoff, Stridiron, Matt Erickson and Bergman were second in the medley relay (1:46.14).

Canton swimmers with top-three places were Pat Lancaster, third in 200 freestyle (2:02.13) and backstroke (1:01.87); Doug Nevi, third in IM, 2:17.96; Steshetz, second in 50 freestyle (23.98) and third in 100 freestyle (53.54); Mark Ealovega, second in butterfly, 59.98; Shawn MacInnis, third in breaststroke, 1:08.57.

Dave Nevi, Jeff Clark, Josh Blunt and Orris swam the 200 freestyle relay in 1:39.42, and Steshetz, Lancaster, Doug Nevi and Orris were timed at 3:37.19 in the 400 freestyle relay.

"We did OK," Wellman said. "This meet — if you can't win it — it's very important to come and do the best job you can and, for the most part, we did."

Salem swimmers cheer for a teammate in Thursday's dual meet with host Canton. The Rocks won the annual contest 108-78.

Brett Meik of Salem finished second in the 500-yard freestyle Thursday in competition with rival Canton. Meik had a 5:22.15 time, contributing to Salem's 30-point victory. Mike Orris won the event in 5:07.91, one of two firsts for the Canton freshman.

Salem pins North

Plymouth Salem set up this week's wrestling showdown with Farmington by trouncing North Farmington 54-21 Thursday night.

The Rocks, 3-0 in the Lakes Division and 4-0 against Western Lakes Activities Association teams, will wrestle Farmington in the opponent's gym at 6:30 p.m. Thursday.

The Falcons are 2-1 in the division, losing to Westland John Glenn and defeating North and Stevenson.

Salem started with five consecutive pins to establish a 30-0 lead. John Moran (103) pinned Mark McDonald in 1:04, Scott Martin (112) pinned Dan Cassidy in 5:57, Dan Bonnett (119) pinned Jeremy Moy in 1:46, Chad Wilson (125) pinned Eric Grant in 1:14 and Dan Phillips (130) pinned Dan Greenhaigh in 3:03.

Marcus Brown (135) scored the first points for the Raiders, pinning Jeff Shumate in 5:44.

The Rocks came back with two more wins to lead 42-6. Jeff Coleman (140) won by void, and Josh Viau (145) pinned Kevin Demeter in 1:02.

North won three of the next four bouts to make the score 48-21. Jared Lawrence (152) pinned Bob Hansen in 3:52, Aaron Lawrence (160) pinned Phil Haynes in 12 seconds and Bob Chika (189) won a 7-4 decision over Wade Langdon.

Salem's Charlie Apigian (171) returned to the lineup for the first time following surgery to remove a cyst from his neck and pinned Rob Chuba in 1:19. Heavyweight Ken Coker won on a forfeit for the Rocks.

Gymnasts prevail

Plymouth Salem's top-ranked gymnastics team had its lowest score of the season Thursday, but the Rocks were in no danger of losing the meet.

Salem scored 126.65 in the absence of five gymnasts but easily defeated Ypsilanti (108.4) and host Ann Arbor Pioneer (82.05).

The Rocks competed without Alysa Sofios, Sue Farmer, Kim Miller, Courtney Gonyea and Sarah Makins — all of whom were recovering from food poisoning, according to coach Kathi Kinsella. They became ill after team members ate at a restaurant following the Troy Invitational on Jan. 12.

Salem's Autumn Bunch was first on vault (9.35), balance beam (7.65) and floor exercise (8.8). She also scored 7.05 on the uneven parallel bars and had an all-around total of 32.85.

"It was a strange meet," Kinsella said. "The scoring was really different. The judges were tough on bars and floor."

Stefanie Angiulo was the only other Salem gymnast to do the all-around. She won the bars competition (8.0) and scored 8.5 on vault, 7.6 on beam and 8.6 on floor. Her total score was 32.70.

Other scores included Jenny Wong on vault (8.7) and bars (7.6), Aimee Wong on vault (8.5) and bars (7.8), Theresa Glacherio on beam (7.3), Dana Driscoll on floor (7.25) and Leanne Savola on beam (7.05).

The Rocks competed in the Midland Invitational on Saturday and travel to Walled Lake Western today.

Rocks undefeated in league

By Neal Zipser
staff writer

Plymouth Salem and Northville entered Wednesday night's Western Lakes Activities Association volleyball match at Salem having identical seasons.

Both teams were 2-0 in the WLAA and had beaten Farmington and Walled Lake Western in four games. But it was the Rocks who came out of the match with an exciting 7-15, 15-7, 6-15, 15-13, 15-11 victory.

"This was our week for finals and we didn't practice well Tuesday and we were scared about this match," Salem coach Brian Gilles said.

"I think two things won it for us: our team's athletic ability and our conditioning. We have a lot of girls on the team who play several sports, and they kept their composure toward the end. Also, toward the end, I think our team's good conditioning showed."

The Rocks improved to 3-1-3 overall and 3-0 in the WLAA.

With the fifth game tied 10-10, Salem jumped ahead to a 12-10 advantage. Northville got the serve back but served the ball into the net. That volleyball

gave the Rocks all the momentum they needed, according to Gilles.

Sophomore Shelby Carey led Salem with six kills in 22 attempts, five aces and 10 serve receptions. Junior Julie Thomas added four kills in 18 attempts and eight blocks. She also received 12 serves.

Senior Andrea Welling chipped in six kills and nine service receptions, while junior Martha Bol added eight blocks. Juniors Sarah Krieger and Jenny Emmett had four and five aces, respectively.

"We didn't find out until right before the match that they had the same results we did," Gilles said. "They were a very good team, and we are fortunate to come out of the match with a win."

Salem's victory sets up a matchup between 3-0 teams when Salem clashes with Livonia Stevenson today.

Chiefs stare down division foe

By Neal Zipser
staff writer

Walled Lake Western's basketball team was looking up to the taller Plymouth Canton squad for all of Friday's game, but when the final horn sounded, the visiting Warriors left the court with their heads definitely down.

Even though seven Chiefs were taller than the tallest Western player, the visiting Warriors almost pulled off the upset. They wound up falling on the short end of the 50-43 Western Lakes Activities Association game at Canton.

Leading 39-37 with 3:55 remaining in the game, Western let victory slip through its hands by committing basketball

three turnovers and managing only one field goal the rest of the way.

Meanwhile, the Chiefs finished with a 13-4 run, led by senior guard Karl Wukie's eight points. Wukie finished with 15 — 13 of them coming in the second half.

"When the game is on the line, Karl rises rises to the top of his game," Canton coach Dave Van Wagoner said.

CANTON IMPROVED to 6-4 overall and 4-0 in the WLAA, while winning its first Western Division game. The Warriors are 4-5 overall and 1-2 in the league.

"We're happy being 4-0, but for us to contend with the elite in the league, we have to improve in every aspect of our game," Van Wagoner said.

The Chiefs held a slim 33-29 lead entering the final quarter, but Western scored 10 of the next 14 points. After a Canton basket, senior Bill Hulme hit successive layups to bring the Warriors to within two. With 5:52 left, junior Todd McMillan nailed a three-pointer to give Western a 36-35 lead.

After two Derrick McDonald free throws put Canton up by one, Western regained the lead on two free throws by junior Dan Doerfling and one by senior Jeff Kubik. Canton junior Jon Paupore's two free throws knotted the score at 39-39.

After a free throw by Canton's Wukie, Kubik was freed by a baseline pick and scored easily on a layup to give Western its final lead, 41-40, with 2:57 remaining.

THE REST of the game belonged to Wukie and the stubborn Chief defense. Wukie hit a three-pointer from the corner to put Canton ahead for good. Senior Brett Howell's two free throws gave the Chiefs a 45-41 advantage. Kubik countered with two free throws with 2:06 left, but it turned out to be Western's final points of the night.

 Ten linebacker. And I don't think I'm wrong on this.
 "Michigan State said they're looking for another Percy Snow and at this time they didn't think Blazo could be one. And Michigan didn't give any reason. Penn State said Blazo's good enough to play for them, but they have linebackers in Pennsylvania just as good as Blazo and they'd just as soon recruit them first — which makes sense. Central loves him."
 The 6-foot-3, 230-pound Sarcevic said he carries about a 3.0 grade point average and "education is going to play a big part" in his decision. He said he enjoyed his visit to CMU, the Mid-American Conference champion which played in the California Raisin Bowl.
 "It's pretty nice," Sarcevic said, Wednesday, Feb. 6, is the first day high school athletes can sign binding national letters of intent.
 Sarcevic is scheduled to visit UCLA Jan. 27, but isn't sure what the other two weekends have in store for him prior to the signing date.
 "I kind of want to go out of state and I'd like to play in the Big Ten or PAC 10 — big-time Division I football," Harrington said. "In the next few weeks I'll know."
 Redford Catholic Central won football

the Class AA state title, and as expected the Shamrocks are the most recruited senior class in Observer-Land. As many as 10 players could receive some kind of football scholarship.
 "Right now I'm taking a close look at each (U-M and MSU) and if I don't fit in at either State or U-M I feel pretty secure with Central. (MSU coach George) Perles is a great guy. If I choose to go there, he should be a great father figure."
 While Thomas admits the recruiting season is exciting, CC coach Tom Mach has found it somewhat hectic. The football season ended for CC in late November and college coaches were able to begin contacting players Dec. 1.
 "It's fun, because the kids have a chance to go to school, but hectic because we have a banquet coming up and I've got films out on kids all over America," Mach said. "I'm trying to figure out who has sent film back and who hasn't."
 Plymouth Canton's Karl Wukie, the first-team All-Observer quarterback, wants to play at the MAC level, according to Chiefs coach Bob Knochen, but few teams have shown interest.
 "Kalamazoo College wants him pretty bad, but there's nothing definite," Knochen said.
 Following is a look at Observer-Land's top players and which schools they are considering (or which schools have shown interest in them):
LIVONIA FRANKLIN: Tony Fajon (Wayne State); Bobby Johnson (visited Saginaw Valley, and has talked to Eastern Michigan).
REDFORD THURSTON: Steve Koss (visiting CMU, Saginaw Valley, Northwood, Ferris State and Western).
WESTLAND JOHN GLENN: Tony Prey (visits to Grand Valley and Wayne State); Jason Gould (visiting

Balancing muscles limits body aches
 Dear Myrna: I used to bowl at a fairly competitive level, but stopped six months ago because of continuing back and joint problems. My joint problems were diagnosed as synovitis of the wrist and tendonitis of the elbow and shoulder. The back injuries were never significantly diagnosed, though one chiropractor suspected a displaced rib. I would like to know if the Nordic Track cross country ski machine can correct these problems.
 I'm assuming you bowl more than once a week in order to be at a competitive level. Let's analyze the physical activity of bowling.
 Bowling is an asymmetrical activity. The pendulum motion of the shoulder and twisting action of the wrist and forearm as you lift the ball is asymmetrical. The twist and the torque of the lower back during the same motion are probably the cause of some of your lower back stress.
 The Nordic Track ski machine has been used by many people, including those with back problems, I'm sure. The gliding minimizes jarring, and the crossed extension of the arm and leg seems to help balance the muscle exertion on the lower spine.
 Since the exercise involves both arms and legs equally, this will help to balance your muscles and, therefore, put you in a less injurious position altogether.
 I ALSO recommend light weight training to especially strengthen your upper body. Possibly, a carefully planned program consisting of both weight and stretching (to add flexibility) would even enhance your bowling.
 If you like a little company, try a weight training class (we call it muscle madness). Whichever, make sure you consult an exercise expert and do tell about your joint problems.
 Depending on how bad your symptoms are, you may need to see a doctor. Possibly, anti-inflammatory agents may be needed to get your synovitis and tendonitis under control.
 Remember, bowling is an asymmetrical activity. In order to combat all future injuries, you must make sure you strengthen your muscles in a well-balanced manner. Let your body recover from injury first.

Canton stands tall in win over WLW

 Wukie added a layup and two more free throws. Canton converted 10-of-13 free throws in the fourth quarter and 15 of 20 for the game. Western hit six of their 10 attempts.
 The Chiefs also committed only one turnover in the second half of Western's six. Canton also held a 28-19 rebounding advantage.
 "We made a couple of critical mistakes, including three turnovers in the final four minutes which really hurt," Western coach Chuck Henry said.
 Early in the game, it was Canton's 6-foot-8 Tony Coshatt who did the damage. The junior, guarded by a Warrior a half-foot shorter, scored three consecutive layups. Coshatt finished with a game-high 18 points and pulled down eight rebounds.
 WESTERN COUNTERED by employing a slow, deliberate offense.
 "We had a game plan of running time off the clock and shortening the game and knew we could do it, especially if they stayed in their zone defense," Henry said. "We were able to do that eight or nine times to get the momentum, but we couldn't pull it off."
 "Walled Lake did a good job controlling the pace and making us play defense, at times for 30 to 40 seconds," Van Wagoner said. "I decided that if we were going to win, we would do it with the man-to-man defense. My assistant coach, Leigh Langkabel, told me to go to it and I was smart enough to listen."
 Henry didn't believe it was the type of defense his team had trouble with, as much as how the Chiefs played it.
 "It was Canton's intensity playing the man-to-man defense," Henry said.
 Senior center Randy Calcaterra was the high scorer for the Chargers and went on to score 22 points and 14 rebounds in the Western Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association. Brian Johnson and Marcus Sarnecky contributed 10 points apiece for Churchill.
 Northville, which is 6-3 overall and 1-0 in the Western Division, was led by Mike Lang's 19 points. The two teams were tied at 10 after one quarter but Northville outscored Churchill, 14-6 in the second quarter to lead, 24-16 at halftime.

Salem cagers defeat Vikings

Plymouth Salem outscored host Walled Lake Central by 10 points in the third quarter Friday to solidify its 58-43 basketball victory Friday night.
 The Rocks improved to 8-1 overall and 3-0 in the Western Lakes Activities Association.
 Salem took a 14-10 lead in the first quarter before the Vikings battled back and closed the gap to 28-26 at halftime. The Rocks outscored Central 14-4 in the third period to lead 42-30.
 Senior forward Jake Baker paced the winners with 19 points, and sophomore forward Eric Leaf led Central with 12 points.
 The Vikings are 3-6 overall and 0-3 in the league.
HURON VALLEY FLY, PLY. CHRISTIAN 67: Melton Souderme scored a school-record 38 points Friday night as Huron Valley Lutheran rolled to a 77-67 boys basketball win over Plymouth Christian at Marshall Junior High.
 Souderme showed consistency the whole way, scoring 12 points in the first quarter, eight in the second and nine each in the third and fourth quarters. The record eclipsed the old mark of 37 points, set last year by Matt Henzi.
 Souderme, a sophomore guard, also had six rebounds, six assists and seven steals. He was three-of-five from three-point range and made 13-16 free throws. His previous high was 30 points against Lutheran Westland.

Bowling champ refused to quit

THE WAYNE-WESTLAND Men's Bowling Association held its annual "79 Tournament" last weekend at Westland Bowl.
 Vpianiti's Milo Quiton walked away with the title of tournament winner. He had a 200-100 average and was open to association members who have bowled a 700 series.
 Milo and his son Andy Quiton both qualified for the semi-finals as 79 bowlers on Saturday. During qualifications Milo shot a 703 series and Andy scored a 300 game.
 It was dad who made the final six on Sunday along with N. 1 seed Russ Gaggad of Canton, Anthony Woods of Taylor, Jeff Wojcik of Livonia, and Ken Paczas of Westland.
 In being the fourth seed, Milo had to win every match. He beat Ken Paczas, 217-198, wound up in a tie with Jeff Wojcik at 187-187, and took care of him in a two-frame off-bowling. Milo then proceeded to knock off Tony Woods, 221-214, in the semifinal.
 In the final match against Russ Gaggad, Russ came out of the gate with the first seven strikes, but Milo kept up after a spare in the first frame and fought it out to the last pin. The result showed a tie at 256.
 The final score was determined by a few pins in handicap, and Milo Quiton was the winner of the $700 first place payoff.
NOW THE REST OF THE STORY:
 Milo Quiton really did it the hard way. This was the climax of years of recovery from two heart attacks and two strokes. Milo is partially paralyzed from his illness. This is a story of a man who refused to quit in the face of adversity, endured years of treatment, therapy and pain to fight back and compete again at the age of 57. Most people would simply give up, but not Milo Quiton.
 As he said, "Bowling gave me the incentive to keep going."
 Bowling runs in the family. Milo's wife, Jo, still has her name on the board at Westland Bowl for a 275 game way back in 1961. They have six children and 10 grandchildren, many of whom are bowlers, including sons Andy at a 200-plus average, and Darryl in the 190s. Milo started bowling 47 years ago and was also a 200 plus bowler years ago. He also became an accredited instructor in 1962. Not many people win a tournament, not very many can survive strokes and heart attacks. Milo Quiton has done it all and is truly an exceptional man.

 Continental Cabelvision will televise the taped replay of the tournament. Check with your local office for date and time.
 Many league officers are experiencing "contract shock," as the bowling centers are sending out the new contracts for next year. Many bowlers are sharply raising the line fees. This is a reflection of our inflationary times, although the owners can say the rates are still a bargain compared to most of the rest of the country.
 Detroit area rates are generally much lower than other cities around the nation. Conversely, we also have by far the largest bowling population, so perhaps the lower rates have had something to do with that.
 The proprietors deserve to operate profitably, however. A price increase could be a "double-edged sword." Economists refer to the "law of diminishing returns."
 If some bowlers drop out because of the higher costs, it would only hurt the future of the industry. Bowling must grow in order to flourish. There is a need for innovative marketing and sound management by the proprietors.
 The first annual "Expressway Classic" tournament will run from Feb. 2 through Sept. 2 at Lodge Lanes on the I-94 Service Drive in Belleville. This is a doubles event pitting either two men, two women or mixed pairs.
 First place pays $2,000, second pays $1,000 and third pays $500 guaranteed. Entry blanks are available at centers throughout the area, or call 697-9170 for details.
 Sam Santilli, a sixth-degree black belt, will be the instructor. Classes are for ages 7 and up. Call 397-5110 for information. Registration is on a continuous basis.
 Soccer Meeting
 High school girls (grades 9 through 12) interested in playing soccer for Plymouth Salem this spring should attend an informational, sign-up meeting at 5 p.m. Friday, Feb. 1, in Room 2703 of Salem High School. Coach Ken Johnson will take questions at 397-0668.
 Teen Ski Trip
 A teen ski trip to Alpine Valley is planned for Friday, Feb. 1, through Canton Parks and Recreation Services. The cost is $14 for teens with their own equipment and $20 for those who must rent equipment. Call 397-5110 for further details.
 Ski Lessons
 The Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department, in cooperation with Riverview Highlands, is offering a learn-to-ski program. The cost is $46 for the four-lesson, two-week program.

Spartans top Churchill

Livonia Stevenson captured 11 of 12 events Thursday, dunking city rival Churchill in a boys swim meet. The host Spartans are now 3-1 overall and 2-0 in Western Lakes Activities Association dual meets.
 Aaron Rieder and Bryan Morrison each captured two individual events for Stevenson.
 Rieder, swimming for the first time in the 100-yard backstroke, earned a state qualifying cut of 54.42. He also took the 200 freestyle in 1:52.22.
 "He (Rieder) scored in the state meet (200 individual medley) as a sophomore," Stevenson coach Doug Buckler said. "This is a real good time (in the backstroke). He's a real good kid and a hard worker. I have a lot of high hopes for him."
 Morrison added victories in the 50 freestyle (22.27) and 100 butterfly (57.76). He also teamed up with Eric Peterson, Taki Caramicolas and Alex Goecke to win the 200 freestyle relay in 1:35.35.
 In the 200 medley relay, the foursome of Ryan Freeborn, Goecke, Mike Gravina and Joe Petrillo took first in 1:48.52. Stevenson 400 freestyle relay team of Jason Fried, Caramicolas, Petrillo and Jason Fried also finished first in 3:41.22.
 Other Stevenson individual winners included: Rich Bennett, 200 IM, 2:14.8; Jason Norrid, diving, 229.55; Caramicolas, 100 freestyle, 53.47; and Freeborn, 500 freestyle, 5:08.32.
 Churchill's lone winner was Jeff Danner in the 100 breaststroke (1:06.6).

Falcons thump Stevenson

The strength of the Farmington wrestling team can be found in the upper weights, and that was the deciding factor in dual-meet action Thursday night.
 The Falcons scored 39 points in the last seven weights and routed visiting Livonia Stevenson 31-8.
 Farmington is 2-1 in the Lakes Division and 11-6 overall.
 David Link pinned Stevenson's John Marshall at 1:52 of the 140-pound bout to tie the score at 18. David Monge followed with another pin in only 24 seconds over Tate Dobbs at 145 to put Farmington in front to stay, 24-18.
 Farmington's Chris Kresl (152) and Mike Pallo (160) won by void in the next two weights to boost the lead to 36-18.
 Steve Walter won a 6-1 decision over Chris Lehti at 171, and the Falcons finished with two more pins. Matt Siskosky (189) pinned Eric Kirkland in 1:22, and Larry Melchep pinned John Hull in 1:10 to complete Farmington's comeback victory.

 Interested teams should call the Canton Parks and Recreation Department at 397-5110 for information.

COVER STORY

"Hey, am I crazy to do this or what?" That's the question Staff Writer Sharon Dargay asked before taking her first spin down the luge run at Muskegon State Park. She dressed for the weather, but had to admit on equipment/clothing gaffe - her heavy boots. Not bad for a novice, huh?

MOVING PICTURES

Dennis Quaid plays Jack McGurn and Tamlyn Tomita daughter, Lily and Mini, in Alan Parker's 'Come See the Paradise.'

'Paradise: A good topic doesn't mean good flick

"Come See the Paradise" (B-, R, 130 minutes) opens with a finely textured, nicely detailed depiction of labor unrest in the mid-'30s, specifically 1936.

Jack McGurn (Dennis Quaid), an organizer for a Brooklyn film projectionist union, is too honest for union politics and is advised to "Get out of town or else." He winds up in Los Angeles with his brother's family.

Like so much of "Come See the Paradise," all this background on Jack, including a lengthy and abrasive dinner with his brother in L.A., is nicely done and characterizes him quite well but — and this is a very big but — it has little to do with what the film is all about — the terrible treatment of Japanese-Americans in the '40s.

Unfortunately, a significant topic and sensitive issue doesn't automatically make a terrific film. Just as "Hidden Agenda" is a boring, preachy movie about the terrible tragedy in Northern Ireland, "Come See the Paradise" degenerates from a stately, graceful statement about human suffering to routine and ponderously slow motion picture with a number of loose ends.

THE STALEY grace revolves around the Takamura family who run a Japanese-language movie house in Los Angeles "Little Tokyo" where Jack gets a job as a film projectionist. The Takamura family's self-respect and charming, well-mannered conduct are fine statements about human conduct at its best.

Jack quickly falls in love with Lily Takamura (Tamlyn Tomita). Her father objects and California law prohibits their marriage so they head for Seattle and marriage.

Shortly before Pearl Harbor, Jack gets arrested to union activity and Lily returns to L.A. with her daughter. She and her family are interned in the camps and Jack gets drafted. Jack keeps showing up in his Army uniform at the Japanese DP camp but his appearances add very little to the suffering of the displaced Japanese. With one exception, his presence garners no anti-Japanese commentary from Americans in the vicinity. Given the passions of 1942, that's a rather strange facet of this film.

Additionally, a number of his appearances have unclear dramatic functions as do many events in his life. Aside from his love-affair with his wife, Lily, Jack is largely irrelevant to the Takamura family and their problems.

The bottom line is that "Come See the Paradise" is too long, too slow and has too many confusing distractions to do justice to such an important, significant topic.

IN "GREEN CARD" (C, PG-13), George (Gerard Depardieu), a bumbling French music-composer, and Bronie (Andie MacDowell), a horticulturalist, are paired in a marriage of convenience. He does it to get a green card — an alien resident/work permit — and she wants to rent an apartment restricted to married couples.

When a government team investigates them, they find it necessary to live together for appearances sake. They create a fictitious life and, naturally, fall in love in this plausible but uneventful film.

When the Immigration and Naturalization Bureau finally investigate George, they ask him some really obscure questions about his wife's life and personal habits. If answering similar questions successfully was the criterion for allowing husbands to remain in this country, America's male population would be reduced drastically.

Depardieu's attempts at comedy are clumsy and not very appealing. He's much better in more serious roles — "Jean de Florette," "Danton" and "Cyrano" — which better

This 'Sky' goes on forever

By John Monaghan special writer

In "The Sheltering Sky," an American composer and his wife embark on an odyssey to remote parts of the globe. The difference between tourists and travelers, they say, is that tourists are always thinking about going home.

Aside from some opening shots of New York City, home is physically and emotionally very far away. Why they left is unclear, though it's obvious that with unlimited financial resources, they plan to stay for quite a while.

Solid details are few and far between in "The Sheltering Sky." Bernardo Bertolucci's latest melodrama — currently playing at the Maple Theater — has some moments of existential power, though as a whole, it's incredibly dull to watch.

Aside from Bertolucci — who brought the screen such gems as "Last Tango in Paris" (1973) and "The Last Emperor" (1987) — the movie employs two of Hollywood's brightest actors. Surprisingly, John Malkovich and Debra Winger give perhaps their weakest performances to date.

Malkovich with his alligator grin and wild eyes looks more and more like Jack Nicholson every year. Perhaps intentionally, he's like a sleepwalker moving farther away from civilization with every leg of the journey.

Debra Winger is Kit Moresby, a playwright who runs off and crosses the desert with a nomadic tribe in "The Sheltering Sky."

He lands in an African village literally swarming with flies. Do you think we could live here? He asks. He's deadly serious.

Winger, meanwhile, must single-handedly hold together the last hour of "The Sheltering Sky" as she takes off alone across the desert with an Arab tribe. The film goes nowhere even faster.

Cinematographer Vittorio Storaro, best known for his work on "Apocalypse Now," captures vividly the first place. Too much of the action relies on interior monologue.

chets of New York City skyscrapers. The film takes place in the 1940s, but it exists in a vacuum. Malkovich is a composer, Winger a playwright, though they might as well be modern day accountants. There is a little reference to their previous lives and not much more about what they're thinking now.

Which brings us to the real problem with "The Sheltering Sky." Paul Bowles' semi-autobiographical novel should never have been filmed in the first place. Too much of the action relies on interior monologue.

HE'S NOT remotely happy until

VIDEO VIEWING

By Dan Greenberg special writer

Obscure videotapes, television sitcoms and major motion pictures continue to appear on home video cassettes even though January is slower than most months as distributors and consumers recover from December's hectic holiday pace.

Some theatrical films now appearing on video cassette were, indeed, "High Sierra" (USA — 1941), 10 a.m. Jan. 22. Humphrey Bogart is "Mad Dog" Earle, a killer on the loose who falls in love with a blind woman (Ida Lupino). This sentimental melodrama, directed by Raoul Walsh, added a new dimension to Bogart's tough-guy persona. Scripted by John Huston. As part of a monthlong tribute to Bogart.

"To Sleep with Anger" (USA — 1990), 5 and 9:15 p.m. Jan. 21. Charles Burnett's story of the inner workings of a contemporary American black family won vast critical acclaim but a small audience. Danny Glover plays the old friend who blows back into town and stirs up all sorts of trouble. The movie laces standard family melodrama with offbeat humor.

"Smiles of a Summer Night" (Sweden — 1955), 7 p.m. Jan. 22-23. A rare comedy from Ingmar Bergman, about the lives and loves of a group of visitors to a country estate.

"REDFORD THEATRE, 17360 Lahser, Detroit. Call 537-2560 for information. ($2.50). "With a Song in My Heart" (USA — 1952), 8 p.m. Jan. 25-26 (organ). STREET BEATS

Detroit rocker Mitch Ryder, after making a comeback in 1983 with "Never Kick a Sleeping Dog," is in the process of trying to get signed with an American record company.

Mitch Ryder: Tuning in a comeback

By Jill Hamilton special writer

Mitch Ryder is legendary around these parts. He's the original local boy who made good.

In the mid-1960s when America was in the throes of the British invasion, Ryder and his band, the Detroit Wheels, helped keep American rock on the charts with a string of top-10 hits like "Devil With a Blue Dress On/Good Golly Miss Molly," "Jenny Take a Ride" and "Sock It to Me — Baby!"

After Ryder decided to go solo, his career suffered until 1983 and the release of "Never Kick a Sleeping Dog," which included an infectious cover of Prince's "When You Were Mine." He's currently in the process of trying to get signed with an American record company.

In a telephone conversation, Ryder talked about his current mini-tour, his past and his thoughts on music.

What have you been up to lately?
"Well, we've had about five releases in Europe (since "Never Kick a Sleeping Dog"). We just returned from a tour there. This is our off-season right now. I've got some new material and I've been working on that."

"We don't have a deal yet. I passed out seven demos about seven months ago, and haven't heard anything yet, but that's just part of the game."

"When we did it, we all lived with mom so we could just be wild men."
— Mitch Ryder

Do you play old songs all the time but won't listen to your newer music?
"It's frustrating."

Your album "How I Spent My Vacation" was very personal. Do you think it was too far ahead of its time?
"I'm not sure. It wasn't on a major label (many of the songs dealt with sex between men). It think it was a magnificent effort."

Any plans to re-release it?
"No. It needs to be treated like a diary — something that's looked back on occasionally."

John Cougar produced "Never Kick a Sleeping Dog." Are you going to work with him again?
"John is going to be a film star. I talked to his brother, and he said that John's working a movie he's been making for years. He's also an artist of some repute now — he paints pictures. So if you want to see John, you'll have to look for him in a museum."

You rose from the Detroit local scene. It is different now?
"It seems like there are enough

new. We don't get dressed in any particular way."

No spandex pants?
"I do own a pair, but I don't wear them. They fit, that's the important thing. We usually dress in black. The color black is a good rock'n'roll color. It conveys darkness."

What do you think of the music today?
"I like it. I listen to it on the radio every day. It's very familiar, not alien to me. What does sound alien is new age music. I like it, but it's alien. Toads croaking, the sound of waves... The people who listen to it probably work in vitamin stores and run 25 million miles a day."

Speakers Corner will perform Friday, Jan. 25, at Cross Street Station, 511 Cross St., Ypsilanti. For information, call 485-5050.

CULTURE SHOCK
Culture Shock will perform with guests, Lunacy, Friday, Jan. 25 at Club Heidelberg, 215 N. Main, Ann Arbor. For information, call 994-8555.

What you probably are not a health-sustainer?
"Well, I had to become that way. There was too much self-indulgence and obsessive behavior left over from the '60s. It took its toll on me physically."

You're into clean living then?
"Publicly, yes."

Mitch Ryder will perform Saturday, Jan. 26, at the Blind Pig, 208 S. First, Ann Arbor. Show times are 8 and 11 p.m. Tickets are $10 in advance and available at all TicketMaster outlets. To charge by phone, call 645-8666.

STANDING LIKE SHADOWS

— The Ragnar Kvaran Group

With "Standing Like Shadows," the Ragnar Kvaran Group shows the results of more than a decade of inventive music making. This band is fronted by Kvaran who writes many of the songs, sings vocals and plays the guitar.

Kvaran is a native of Iceland and also attended high school in India. (He's now based in comparatively non-exotic Ann Arbor.) He uses his experiences in these countries as the basis of many of his well-written songs.

His song, "Children," for example, has lyrics that manages to be at once masterful, strange and touching — quite simply, they'll blow you away.

In the epic, Kvaran describes the "hills to the north" where he talks with a boy and a girl who died in a fire in the hills in 1945. "To the best of my knowledge, no one else sees them. This must have to do with the fact that I was born on that day. Something was passed along," Kvaran sings/talks.

What do they talk about? "Metaphysics is a waste of time with them, however. Gassing on about the meaning of life and death confuses them... They ask me if I go to the movies, if I like spaghetti, if I can dance. They know they're lost. I

RAGNAR KVARAN

— Ride

Ride is somewhat of a rock'n'roll retrospective, grasping at those neo-fuzzy psychedelic guitar melodies of the 1960s and dressing it up in a 1990s perspective (sans bell-bottoms and platform shoes, we hope).

And their contemporaries Stones, Roses, Charlatans UK and Inspiral Carpets, Ride might be the artist of this bunch.

Let's say Ride's music is a tad impressionistic. Mark Gardener's vocals and guitars swirl in grand strokes designed to be mind altering as well as engaging. In essence, Ride tries to capture the moment on musical canvas.

The vibe is there, man. Dig? Body, mind and spirit are working as one, even if Gardener is left repeating "paralyzed" over and over in one number. It's a cool dadd-y-O.

Of course, aimless lyrics are only part of the equation. Numbers on "Nowhere" are also about with protracted guitar lines that are dizzying and dazzling in their pinnacle. At their worst, Ride executes what can be described as guitar masturbation.

NOWHERE

The extremes of this are borne out in the song "Dreams Burn Down." A gorgeous, cascading guitar melody is rudely crashed into by the worst Sonic Youth feedback drone heard this side of the Holland Tunnel. Trying to merge the past with the future apparently has its drawbacks.

Oh, and yes, the touch of the violin at the end of "Vapour Trail" further enhances the image of these moody Brits as artists.

A tad cynical? This latest parade of musical archivists have become as wearisome as an unsightly bunch of nose hairs. They need to be clipped.

GRADING THE MOVIES

Queen Gertrude (Glenn Close) feels she can no longer listen to any more of Hamlet's (Mel Gibson) words as her emotions are exhausted in the latest version of Shakespeare's "Hamlet."

suit his physique, character and talent. MacDowell's performance is forgettable.
"Eve of Destruction" was not screened and it's probably just as well. Stop me if you've heard this one before.
THE "EVE" is not the brink, but the name of an android played by Dutch actress Renee Soutendijk who also plays Dr. Eve Simmons who created the android in her own image. Gregory Hines is counter-insurgency expert Jim McQuade out to stop the insane creature out of control.
To film an adaptation of any Shakespearean play is a risky venture in the best of circumstances. Rarely is the medium able to capture the nuances of language and thought that characterize the Bard's writing. Doing so has long been a challenge to filmmakers since the immediacy of the big screen is friendly to subtle manipulations of meaning and emotion.

This version of "Hamlet" (A, PG, 133 minutes) is faithful to the spirit, if not the letter, of the original. It is a convincing and engrossing interpretation of the classic tale of one man's obsession with love and revenge.
Mel Gibson and Glenn Close lead an international cast of actors, all of whom deliver gripping performances. Gibson, in particular, stands out in an exhibition of depth and humor which is delightfully unexpected but entirely believable.
While it was understood that he would be at the very least adequate, he surpasses expectation and may just introduce Shakespeare to a new generation of students. So, maybe it was "Lethal Weapon II" or "Mad Max" that got them in the theater. Once there, however, magical things are likely to happen.

GLENN CLOSE is radiant, even in her most tortured moments, as Gertrude, Hamlet's mother. She appears in many more scenes than in the play but to the credit of adaptors, Christopher DeVore and Franco Zeffirelli, who also directed, this variation works.
Gertrude is not given unnecessary dialogue and Close relies on sheer talent to convey context and meaning. It is these new observations which remind the audience of the humanity lost to the depravity of vengeance. Hamlet has never been for the faint of heart nor has it ever been an easy read as our English Lit student will remind you.
Zeffirelli rises to the challenge of exploring these complexities without making concessions to them. This version should stand well the test of time. (Reviewed by Susan Fincham)

Timing, they say, is everything and the success of "Flight of the Intruder" (B, PG-13, 95 minutes) may be, however unintentionally, directly dependent upon current events. A well-executed film about an A-6, aka the Intruder, a bomber squadron in Vietnam, may just score in these troubled times.
BRAD JOHNSON and Willem DaFoe star as hot shot pilot and ace bombardier who take it upon themselves to destroy "Sam City," an outdoor service to missiles in downtown Hanoi. They do so to avenge lost comrades and give meaning to their war.
"Flight of the Intruder" effectively recalls a war which few servicemen knew but many Navy pilots experienced. These men flew dangerous missions yet enjoyed relative safety aboard aircraft carriers in their off times.

Clock helps her meet her curfew

Dear Barbara,
My 16-year-old daughter has a curfew. Last year, when she was in the 10th grade it was midnight. This year, when she began the 11th grade, she asked that I extend it to 1 a.m.
That is fine with me, except that I was struggling to stay up until midnight and do not want to go to sleep later. I have three younger children, so I know this problem will recur.
Joan

Barbara Schiff to ask you.

Dear Joan,
Set an alarm clock for 1 a.m. and put it next to your bed. If your daughter comes home before it is set to ring, she will turn it off and you will not be awakened.
If she doesn't, you will hear the alarm and thus be disturbed. You can then impose whatever are the consequences.
Let me know if it works or not. If it doesn't I might be able to come up with additional suggestions.

STREET CRACKS

Messiah or maniac? Only Brad Stine knows for sure

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

Brad Stine unusual? Not really. He's just your average fire eating, razor blade chewing, steel rod swallowing and nose flossing screaming comedian. Oh, and yes, Stine adds, he's the chosen "Messiah of Improv."
"What can I say, I'm the comedy of the '90s," said Stine in a telephone interview from Anchorage, Alaska. "Leno's called and he's quitting. Seinfeld's quitting. They said, 'Please get out of the business. We have families to feed.'"
Messiah of Improv is perhaps stretching it a bit. Funny, definitely. Stine produces more laughs during a 15-minute phone conversation than a feather tickling contest.
Every question is promptly turned into a stand-up routine on the war in the Persian Gulf, the slumping auto industry and alleged comedic hotbed of Indianapolis, Ind.
Then he stops abruptly.
"Are you getting this all down?" he asks, sounding concerned. "Don't ask me to repeat any of this. I just rambled."
From the ramble this much is gleaned. Stine was born in Indianapolis, Ind., and moved to Los Angeles when he was 9.

"Besides when's the last time you've seen a magician having a TV sitcom."
Stine has appeared on the Ha Channel, MTV and Showtime. He's a growing force on the club circuit, though his upcoming appearance at Mark Ridley's Comedy Castle this week is his first engagement at that club.
Much of his act, such as swallowing nose floss and then having it re-emerge from his nostrils, was perfected as a magician. His comedy heroes are Steve Martin and Monty Python, both masters of the absurd and off-beat.
"Steve Martin and Monty Python were geniuses," he says. "What's amazing is they did that show in 1969. Also, they came from England, and no one is funny from England."
Stine screams a lot during his stand-up routine. He also sweats "like a pig." Since his act is high-energy, improvisational, comparisons to Robin Williams are natural. Stine doesn't like it.
"That's like saying the wheel on the tractor and the wheel on the car are the same," Stine said. "Just because it's improvisational and high-energy, they look for a hook."
But, unlike Williams, Stine's routine is squeaky clean. He prefers it.

How far Stine runs remains to be seen. The ability to make up comedy routines as you go along is left but to a few.
Then again, this is a "Thor-like" guy we're talking about here. Comedy comes natural.
"It's like passing the mantel down," he said. "We had Jonathan Winters who was a god of improvisational comedy, and then we had Robin Williams."
"It's like they said, 'It's Bradley's turn now.'"
Brad Stine will appear Tuesday through Saturday, Jan. 22-26, at Mark Ridley's Comedy Castle, 269 E. Fourth, Royal Oak. Show times are 8:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 8:30 and 11 p.m. Friday and Saturday. For information, call 542-9900.

Brad Stine may be stretching it a bit in classifying himself as the Messiah of Improv, but his audiences do admit that he can make them laugh.

Of particular interest is "Simon and Garfunkel: The Concert in Central Park" (1982, 86 minutes) which is a video record of their famous Sept. 19, 1981, concert in New York's Central Park which attracted over a half million people.
THE REMAINING two videos in this collection are "Give My Regards to Broad Street" (1984, 108 minutes), starring Paul McCartney, and "Running Out of Luck" (1986, R, 88 minutes) which is a musical-comedy-adventure starring Mick Jagger and Rae Dawn Chong in a vehicle which attempts to bridge the gap between music video and musical comedy.

There's also something on Jan. 17 for laserdisc players - "Though Lovers Be Lost," the feature-length movie special from the "Beauty and the Beast" TV series, was released for the first time on that date along with Kris Kristofferson in "Night of the Cyclone" (R, 90 minutes), "De-ceptions" and "Playroom."

The last two don't look all that promising but until more laserdiscs become available these may sell. Republic Home Video has another group lined up for mid-March.
One of those is "9½ Ninjas," billed as an erotic martial arts action comedy. What more can you ask for? It will debut Jan. 24 on video cassette and March 21 on laserdisc.
Republic also has eight episodes of "Car 54: Where Are You?" available for the first time on home video. If "Car 54" is for you, these eight episodes, two per tape, will be waiting for you at the video store on Jan. 24. These episodes were first aired in late 1961 and early 1962.

"HARDWARE" (1990, R, 94 minutes) is a post-apocalyptic disaster film that had a brief run in the theaters here last year and will be released Wednesday by HBO Video.
On the same date, "The Freshman" (1990, PG, 102 minutes) also will be available. Here's yet another film with minor theatrical success and a quick trip to the video market. It's worth watching Marlon Brando satirize himself and his role in "The Godfather, Part I" although for the most part the film doesn't live up to its potential as Matthew Broderick sleeps through most of his performance.
January also opened with a number of animated items for the younger set. In the Ninja Turtle market, there's two more "Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles" episodes on the racks. "Attack of the Big Mac" and "The Old Switcheroo" were first broadcast in 1989. This tape runs 47 minutes and is priced just under $15.
Also released on television two years ago, but in a classier vein, "Treasure Island" and "Prisoner of Zenda" are from Family Home Entertainment's "Classic Tales" series.

Interested in film noir? Street Scene's Alternative Viewing columnist John Monaghan will bring his knowledge of film history to a six-week course, "Film Noir Rediscovered," beginning Tuesday, Jan. 29, through the Southfield Community Education Program.
The class will meet 7-9 p.m. in classroom C-201 of Southfield-Lathrup High School, 12 Mile Road between Evergreen and Southfield roads. The fee is $29.
Monaghan will analyze that cycle of mystery films of the 1940s and '50s that include such classics as "The Postman Always Rings Twice," "Double Indemnity" and "Kiss Me Deadly."
Rare examples of the noir style will be screened and discussed as will the work of such directors as Alfred Hitchcock, Stanley Kubrick and Robert Siodmak.

ALTERNATIVE MOVIE

Author Rowles actually shows up at the beginning and end of the film to offer some helpful insights, but we need more of him to chart the action. Superdirector Bertolucci has proven himself incapable of making a movie under the two-hour mark. If the world is indeed broken up into tourists and travelers, I must be a tourist. After less than an hour in "The Sheltering Sky," I wanted desperately to go home.

When it comes to luge, Sharon Dargay found tightening the chin strap of her helmet the hardest part. As for the ride . . . AUGHHHHH . . .

A luge kind of a day!

By Sharon Dargay
staff writer

I have lugged and lived to tell about it. I have toured Muskegon — home of the Midwest's only Olympic-sized luge run — during the height of a winter blizzard and survived. I have careened down an icy-slicked chute, a human bullet out of control, without screaming "OMYGOD, OMYGOD, OMYGOD, I'M GOING TO DIE." Sound like fun? Well, you can do it too! Luge is a cross between sledding and roller coaster riding — not the German term for "death trap." Europeans excel at the sport. East Germans took gold medals in all three luge events in the 1988 Olympics. Most Tyrolian tots learn to handle a luge sled at about the same time Americans are swinging their first T-ball bats. During snowy, northern European winters, "sliders" of all ages practice informally on mountain roadways (a sport called turbine) or on luge runs specifically built to accommodate the one- and two-person sleds. Americans have climbed steadily toward the top in the Olympic luge event — Bonny Warner went from 15th place in 1984 to sixth in 1988 — but haven't won medals.

OLYMPIC COMPETITORS head for the luge run built on a mountain at Lake Placid, N.Y., to practice for international events. Novices and some Olympic hopefuls work out on smaller runs built on a sand dune in Muskegon State Park. The park hugs the Lake Michigan shoreline — a landscape littered with snow boulders and icy surf during the winter — north of Muskegon. Two luge tracks run by a consortium of civic groups, are open from November through February.

Visitors pass by a warming house, snack bar and luge rental facility before setting foot and sled on the icy, downhill tracks that wind with serpentine, gently turning and angular curves through the forest. Sliders speed along at 25 miles per hour on the lower track (if it's icy and well-groomed) or hold on for dear life at 45-65 miles per hour on the upper run. The wooden structure resembles a double log flume and is elevated several feet at the top and about one foot from the ground at the bottom. Luge coach Jim Rudicil starts novice sliders off on a lower section of the smaller run before letting them propel themselves off the take-off ramp. After about 30 runs on the lower ramp they advance to the faster, taller run. Snow on the tracks cut speeds considerably the day I visited, but turned the surrounding pine forest into a delicate snow shaker scene.

"IT'S REAL PRETTY up here, but as you're going down you don't see anything. I mean, you're looking at the sky, right?" I asked Rudicil. "Yeah, yeah. It's not a nature ride. You just lay flat the whole time." And hold onto the 40-pound sled with pinkies and the neighboring two fingers, with head craned up and encased in a crash helmet. As I zipped a tape recorder into my parka (to capture my blood-curdling screams), Rudicil claimed that although he once cut his eye on a luge run at Lake Placid, the sport is relatively safe. "Don't worry, we've only had sprained ankles and scraped elbows here." I lingered inside the warming house, then at trackside, stalling my inevitable first run on the luge. When I couldn't stall any longer, I met my first challenge head on. "How do you do up the little strap?" I asked, fumbling with the helmet. "Everyone has trouble with this. Don't be embarrassed," he reassured me. "This is the hardest part." All suited up in my head gear and sunglasses, I waited at the top of the entrance ramp. "Oh, shouldn't I have goggles?" I gasped. This wasn't the Indy 500, Rudicil reminded me. I just needed to keep snow off my face. "He cut his eye once at Lake Placid," I ventured meekly, fishing for sympathy from onlookers before heading to the 13-foot ramp.

NEXT CAME A quick coaching session: Keep your legs extended with feet wrapped around the ends of the blades, (koufens). Two fingers on each hand grasp the bar on each side of the sled. Head up. Watch the track. Lean with your right leg and left shoulder to go left. Reverse to go right. Stay in the middle of the course. Hit the wooden side walls and you'll ricochet off the sides like a pinball. DON'T LET GO WHATEVER YOU DO! Easy enough. "Just relax," Rudicil coached. "And put your butt here." "Oh, I think I'm going to scream right now," I said, settling onto the canvas seat. "Ready?" "Oh God. Oh God. Go ahead," I sighed, tensing every muscle in my body.

If Sharon was looking for a place to relax after her quick trip down the luge run, the shore of Lake Michigan at the Muskegon State Park wasn't the place. In the dead of winter, it was none too inviting.

Want to luge? Here's how Muskegon State Park is about a 3½-hour drive from Oakland and Wayne counties. Take I-96 west to the Muskegon-Ludington exit at US 31. Go north for about two miles. The road will veer to the left toward North Muskegon. Go one mile. Stay to the right. You'll pass two traffic lights and a flashing light. At the next traffic light, Giels road, make a left turn. Follow Giels to the stop sign and take a left onto Scenic Drive. The winter sports activities entrance is about 1¼ miles into the park from that point. The telephone number for Muskegon State Park is (616) 744-3480. The number for the lodge at the luge and ski rental site is (616) 744-9629. The Muskegon Harbor Hilton Hotel offers a cross-country ski weekend package in conjunction with the park. The $90-per-day ($130 for two days) rate includes a one-day park pass and discounts toward food purchases at the hotel. Reservations can be made by calling the hotel (616) 722-0100. The Muskegon Chamber of Commerce, (616) 722-3751, has a list of other hotels, inns and bed and breakfast facilities in the area.

He gave the sled a shove and yelled "Here we gooooooooooooo . . ." Seventeen seconds later I coasted to a stop. "I couldn't see daylight between you and the wall," noted an onlooker. If the track had been icy slick instead of dusted with snow, I wouldn't have seen daylight again. I probably would have killed myself. There was just enough fresh powder falling to cut the speed of my glide. AND JUST ENOUGH weight from the sled (40 pounds) to slow my walk back up. At Lake Placid, a truck transports luge sliders from bottom to top of the mountain. At Muskegon, you walk. "Hey, this is the worst part of the ride," I yelled, lugging my luge sled to the ramp. I tried the run again, this time launching myself by holding two fixed-poles and pulling myself over the top of the incline. The ride was fast, thrilling and a challenge to keep on course. Steering the sled by shifting my body, using subtle leg and shoulder movements, I never completely lost control, although I edged up the wall on "Kiss and Tell" curve. Rudicil said no one has flipped over the run walls or capsized, although there have been other kinds of "close calls." A dog jumped onto the bottom of the track last year, but was rescued by a bystander seconds before colliding with a sled. Another time, a slider's down jacket ripped when it scraped the wooden wall, spewing feathers over the icy hard track. "We've got plastic on the side walls now that kind of take care of that," he said. But he suggests that sliders leave designer parkas, high heel boots and heavy snowmobile pants at home.

TENNIS SHOES with heavy socks or casual leather shoes, lightweight insulated clothing such as stretch pants, padded vests and ski shells worn in layers, won't feel as bulky and restrictive as thickly-padded snow gear. The park provides the coaching, crash helmet and sled for $10 a day. Rudicil says that's a bargain compared to Lake Placid's $10 per run admission. He said 50-120 people of all ages use the luge tracks daily during the season, which runs from November to early March. With sleds making a run about every 13 seconds on each track, the longest wait to go down is about 15 minutes on peak days. The average wait is five minutes. "That gives you a chance to rest up." And to muster enough courage to try again. Rudicil said the sport demands more brain than brawn, more mental focus than dare devil bravado. "It does take some coordination. It takes more brain power to operate the sled than physical ability. The heavier you are the faster the sled will move on the ice," he noted. Heavier luges are permitted on the runs "as long as they fit on the five-foot wide" sleds, Rudicil noted. Shorter sleds are available for youngsters.

"IT'S A FAMILY sport," he said. And a group activity as well. Corporate leagues compete 6-9 p.m. Mondays and Tuesdays and school leagues race 5-9 p.m. on Wednesdays. Races also are held on Saturday mornings. The luge is open to the public 5-9 p.m. Thursdays and Fridays and 2-9 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays. "At night it's a whole different feeling. You see the formation of ice and the lights," Rudicil said. "You can see everything at night." The park also rents cross-country skis and boasts the longest — six miles — lighted trail for night treks.

Materials aid in artistic expression

By Linda Ann Chomin
special writer

ARTISTS CONTINUALLY search for materials to express ideas through their creations and evoke emotions in those viewing them. Albert Young successfully uses the hardness of steel and fragility of glass to depict the rise and fall of the industrial revolution and cities effected by its demise in his sculptures, on exhibit through Jan. 29 at Habatat Galleries in Farmington Hills.

"Albert told us he used a variety of different remnants of architectural structures," said Steven Richmond, assistant director of Habatat Galleries. Poured concrete, coils of steel cables, twisted girders and tears of glass create powerful symbols, which evoke sadness over the passing of an era.

Young, an instructor at Center for Creative Studies in Detroit, created the sculpture entitled "Fallen Angel" using a rectangular piece of glass as the center of focus. Encircling the glass form, he wound a coil of steel, placing both on a rusted, flowing sheet of metal then balancing all on a twisted, contorted beam of iron.

The symbolism behind this particular work is quite moving: once a giant in the industrial revolution, now a fallen angel.

IN "TOWER Fragment at 200 Feet," Young welds together three building beams that focus to a point at the bottom of the sculpture. Within the interior space, poured glass with a greenish cast cascades to a point like an inverted, elongated pyramid. A bubble of glass seeps through a hole that once held a riveted bolt. Snaking around the corroded iron and glass contaminated with rust, metal particles, and air bubbles, Young wraps a coiling cable of steel.

Young's sculpture, "From The Wall of Reuther II," is created with straight lines of vertically upright steel girders which he welds together. Falling from the top, sliding down the sturdy symbol of an industrialized society are tears of glass, rolling one upon another.

"From The Wall" seems to say, a once vibrant structure, now in a state of decline and decay cries from the pain.

"Albert first brought From The Wall of Reuther to the gallery," Richmond said. "That is what made Mr. Hampson want to exhibit Albert's work."

Hampson is Ferdinand Hampson, co-founder of Habatat Galleries with Thomas and Linda Boone when Habatat "came into existence in 1971."

HAMPSON IS one of the leading authorities in the nation on the contemporary glass movement in art. He has written several books on the subject, which include "Glass: State of the Art II." Hampson co-authored "Glass: Artist & Influence." He has extensively lectured on the subject of contemporary glass in Europe and the United States. His articles have been published in numerous magazines.

The gallery exhibits approximately 20 artists at any given time, except for the Annual International Glass Invitational held in April when 90 artists exhibit their work.

"Some of the artists have been with Habatat since International Glass, 1972," Richmond said.

Besides the exhibit of Albert Young's sculptures currently on display in the Sculpture Atrium outside the gallery, inside the gallery is glass in all its magic and glory; prisms of color and light, play and dance inside spheres, Exhibited among the fountains in the Sculpture Atrium outside Habatat Galleries is the Albert Young sculpture, "Fallen Angel." The towers and abstract shapes of glass.

Rhode Island artist Steven Weinberg creates sculptures from cubes of cast lead crystal, which resemble blocks of ice, sometimes sparkling clear and pure, sometimes swirling and smoky. Inside the crystal sculptures, architectural forms predominate in relation to space within the cube.

ARTIST STEPHEN Hodder of Minnesota uses glass like paint to create the glass wall hanging of thoughts circulating inside of a man's head in "Jealous Heart." Hodder fills the man's mind with symbols of jealousy: a figure of a man, an exchanged glance between a man and woman's eyes; spirals to denote anger, and bolts of lightning to depict rage.

William Carlson creates sculptures utilizing geometric forms, predominately encasing blocks of glass within structures of granite and marble. Carlson considers his work "sculptural and architectural."

Over the last six years, developments in science and technology have truly innovated the area of hot glass techniques where glass is in a molten state, or the area of cold glass techniques where glass is laminated and fabricated. The versatility of glass as a medium of expression continues in growth, bounded only by an artist's imagination.

Habatat Galleries is in the Triatria office complex, 32255 Northwestern Highway, Suite 45, Farmington Hills. Gallery hours are Tuesday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Sculptor Albert Young created "Mr. B" using industrial colors and such materials as weathered concrete, steel and metal — once pure, now rusted and discolored. Poured concrete, coils of steel cable, a twisted girder and a circular cut of glass are powerful symbols that evoke sadness over the passing of the industrial era and the affected cities.

Left: Sculptor Albert Young welds together three beams, which focus to a point at the bottom of the work, to create "Tower Fragment at 200 Feet." In the interior, fractured glass cascades to a point like an inverted, elongated pyramid. Young snaked around the work a cable of steel.

Cultural crisis

Planned budget cuts would upend the arts

By Ralph R. Echtenaw
staff writer

Gov. John Engler's proposed budget cuts in the arts area are having an impact in small local arts programs all over Observer & Eccentric communities.

While proposed cuts to high-profile institutions like the Detroit Institute of Arts and the Detroit Symphony Orchestra are grabbing most of the headlines, programs in Plymouth, in Southfield, at Cranbrook Academy of Art and at Meadow Brook Theatre are already affected.

In keeping with his plan to reduce overall state spending by $1.1 billion, Engler has issued an executive order that would drastically reduce support to arts programs throughout the state. Although the cuts must be approved by appropriations committees in the Michigan House and Senate, a freeze on all grant payments was put into effect earlier this month.

"Temporarily, everything's stopped," said Patrick Diehl, administrative assistant to Sen. Jack Faxson, D-Farmington Hills. "Monies owed all over the spectrum of government services are frozen."

Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, a Senate appropriations committee member, said he expects the votes to take place Tuesday.

Geake said the Senate committee will probably approve Engler's executive order and the House committee will reject it. In that case, Engler would have 30 days to submit another executive order. The order's purpose is to balance the state budget for the current fiscal year.

BUT MANY state arts organizations are already feeling the bite as grant payments due them have been frozen.

The Michigan Council for the Arts (MCA) has $9 million spread over 465 grants scheduled to be paid by Sept. 30, but had issued only $3.8 million when the freeze order arrived. Engler's executive order proposes to eliminate all MCA grants beginning next October and cut the MCA staff budget by half.

MCA spokeswoman Martha Gibiser-Shea is worried the MCA grant freeze will become permanent even if the legislative committees force Engler to reduce the severity of the arts cuts.

"It's not something we can assume is going to go away," she said. "We're not sure if they're negotiable in the grants area."

The Southfield Symphony Society is perhaps the most affected program. Society president Charles Marx said the organization will fold if it doesn't get its $9,900 grant. "If we do not receive the money promised us, the Southfield Symphony Society will discontinue," he said.

Kathryn Savitskie, Plymouth Community Arts Council executive director, said the $6,800 grant her organization may lose represents 10 percent of the budget.

Cuts may be made, she said, in the

FILE PHOTO

Plymouth Community Arts Council hopes to convert the 67-year-old Wayne County-owned Wilcox Mill, at Wilcox Road and Edward Hines Drive, into an arts center. Now a parks system maintenance garage, the mill once was home to Plymouth Mill, one of Henry Ford I's village industries.

"Music in the Park" program, "Art Rental Gallery" and the program whereby performers are brought to local schools.

Also, plans to move the arts council into the historic Wilcox Mill and develop a community arts center there would be severely hampered, Savitskie said. "People don't realize what they will be losing."

CRANBROOK ACADEMY of Art in Bloomfield Hills and the Meadow Brook Performing Arts Corp. in Rochester Hills also stand to lose a lot of money.

Engler has frozen $166,200 of a $233,200 grant due Cranbrook Academy. The difference reflects grant payments made before the freeze order.

Cranbrook Academy president Roy Slade said loss of the grant would have the greatest effect on the museum, tours and outreach programs.

Architects challenged by $65,000 idea house

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Given the right circumstances — cheap, developed land and no stringent lot size requirements — new houses can arise with construction budgets of $65,000 in the Detroit market.

That's what architects say.

The houses probably won't be the 3,000-plus-square-foot estates erected for recent Homearamas, and they likely won't be found in tony northern and western suburbs.

But they can be built and stylishly, too.

Progressive Architecture, a magazine for professionals, recently announced a competition for architects and designers to do just that. The winning plan will be built on a 103-by-66 foot corner lot in Cleveland.

The challenge — to design a single-family house of at least 950 square feet not to exceed 35 feet in height with a construction budget of $65,000, moderate income housing in Cleveland.

"A lot of architects are involved in high-end housing, expensive housing," said Thomas Fisher, executive editor of the magazine.

"A lot of architects have ideas to reduce the cost of affordable housing. It's not often they're given that opportunity or perceived to be interested in that field."

ARCHITECTS HERE detailed how they would approach the task.

"The answer has got to be in manufactured housing," said Francis Bartlett, a Rochester architect. "We just can't go run around in the muck and cold weather and nail 2-by-4s together. It's dumb."

Prefab housing, built to specification in a factory, then transported and assembled on a building site, is safer and more attractive than traditional stick construction, Bartlett said.

Robert Ziegelman, chairman of Luckenbach/Ziegelman and Partners of Birmingham, figures that elements of a prefab project designed for overseas markets could be adapted here.

"Now we're in the midst of going back to prefab, modular housing for Israel and Czechoslovakia," Ziegelman said. "It's basically three-dimension steel trusses 12 feet high, 36 feet long and 9 feet 4 inches high."

"YOU TAKE a multiplicity of that module. You can hang on any kind of exterior, any floor system. All materials are top grade.

"You can go faster (with modular)," Ziegelman said. "Money costs money. The faster you go, the more you pick up on interest and carrying charges."

Ease of expandability is another good feature of modular housing,

Ziegelman said. "You can start with three boxes and add more."

But what of interior elements?

"I would really start out with some very open floor-plans, one or two major open spaces public in character where you can bring in guests," said Robert Clarke, president of CBI Design Professionals of Birmingham. "That would include a kitchen/eating area and possibly including an entertainment area."

"I'd do some loft-type things. The house probably will be two-story, one or two bedrooms. A loft can serve as a guest area, entertaining area, a play area if you have children."

"ONE OF THE problems in that level of housing is a lack of storage space," Clarke said. "I would look at a basement dedicated to utilities and storage. It's good, cheap space."

Bartlett believes that ego has surpassed need when it comes to housing for many buyers in this country.

"In America, bigness is ego. The bigger the house on the block, the bigger the ego. I think there's a lot of duplication today. House design can be used and should be used to get costs down. People buying for $65,000 want something very comfortable, very cozy, low maintenance."

"You need a conversation area to talk. It can easily be the same place you sit down to dinner," Bartlett said. "Obviously, you need a bedroom for parents and children. The real question is do you need a (separate) bath for parents and children? It could be combined with the right design."

"I DON'T THINK you need an enclosed garage. That's a tremendous cost," Bartlett continued. "Perhaps just a covered area."

Ziegelman talked about movable pods within a large shell.

"What you can do is give one great space and pods, like a kitchen pod, and allow the owner to break up space any way he wants," Ziegelman said. "It doesn't have to be permanent walls. The kitchen and bathroom are the only ones that have to be private spaces."

Fisher, an architect in addition to his duties at the magazine, expects that a couple of hundred architects will submit entries to the contest.

"I think we're going to see various kinds of prefabrication, stress skin construction, things that go beyond 2-by-4 stud construction," he said.

"Another big area is the way houses are planned internally. The emphasis is on flexibility. The standard dining room, living room, kitchen, three bedroom, bath is a considerable luxury in the way space is used."

"Architects are creative people," he said. "They always surprise you."

Wall maps have evolved from an instructional item for the classroom to a decorating item for the home.

Maps as decorating items are just out of this world

Maps that aren't for getting anywhere are becoming hot items for the home. Decorators and home owners, rather than the usual collectors, are buying them up.

It's not that these newcomers to the wonderful world of maps have suddenly started poring over navigational charts or town plans; they're just interested in the maps' aesthetic value.

"Maps have great wall appeal and come at the right price," Sandra Brusewitz, director of design for Environmental Graphics, said. "But it's only recently that Americans have discovered this. Probably it's a trend triggered by the English look. Once Americans fell in love with the way English country homes look, it was inevitable that they would discover maps as a decorative tool."

But the irony is that an interest in maps would occur at a time when people seem to know less about geography.

"We read about all those studies that bemoan the knowledge of geography among students," she said. "Yet people travel more and they see maps all the time on television news. But I guess a TV map of the Philippines or Israel with stars indicating Manila and Jerusalem flip by, and people don't grasp where those countries really are. And in school, kids don't learn about maps anymore."

One of the favorite rooms in the house for maps is the family room.

"In family rooms, frequent travelers often adorn it with pins to show off ports of call," Brusewitz said. "And since this is an inexpensive decoration, it's even OK for family members to use Magic Markers to highlight countries, cities or memories. After all, one reason that people are drawn to maps is that they relate to personal experiences."

"People like to look up places where they spent their vacation, hon-eymooned or where their ancestors came from."

BRUSEWITZ ADMITS there's a tendency to think that maps have a masculine bend and work best in dens, offices and libraries, but she believes that thinking is outdated.

"Sure, that's the way they do it in English manor houses. But this is the here and now. Women travel just as much as men and are as interested in world affairs as they are. They're no longer sheltered from the world. The topic is so interesting that it would look great in any contemporary and informal setting, even a dining or living room."

She also likes the idea of using maps in hallways.

"It's hard to find something interesting to do with hallways," she said. "Besides in hallways one can get close up and study it real good."

And she sees them complementing home offices.

Members' income shouldn't sway board

I am a newly elected board member in a condominium project where the units range from $79,000 to $105,000. I am truly amazed at how cheap the other members of the board are to spend any money on anything significant. All they seem to do is talk about the fact that they need to save money because some of the members of the association are on a fixed income and that therefore they must reduce the level of maintenance to accommodate these people's economic needs. How do I convince them that they are wrong and are running a potential risk in regard to their responsibilities?

You have encountered a situation where your board is not aware of its fiduciary/legal liabilities and of the distinct possibility that the board can be sued by a co-owner or other person for breach of these duties. It would appear that only through education, short of the "school of hard knocks," will your board understand its legal responsibilities and of the necessity to run the condominium association properly. Perhaps you should consider attending a seminar or obtaining some information on the subject of condominium operation.

condo queries
Robert M. Melsner

I am a member of the board of directors and want to get rid of another co-owner/director whom I and the other members of the board suspect has been pocketing funds. One of the directors says we should just throw her off the board, but I am not sure the bylaws allow for it. How can we handle this matter?

More than likely, your condominium bylaws provide that a director of the association cannot be removed unless 50 percent of all the co-owners at a special meeting agree to do so. This requirement must be confirmed, but assuming that is the case, you will have to convene such a special meeting and request that the co-owner/director be removed. Obviously, this is a very difficult task to undertake, resulting in great internal decisiveness and embarrassment to all parties. If, in fact, you have documented evidence that the co-owner/director has absconded with funds, you should approach that director and advise her of your knowledge and request that they resign from the board immediately. Otherwise, consult with your attorney as to what course of action the association should take against the director. Basically, the association should initially be concerned with recouping any funds that were improperly taken, and it may be necessary to immediately notify the association's insurance company regarding any alleged pilferage. You may also have to consult with local police authorities, depending on your discussions with legal counsel and the board member in question.

I am a developer who is planning on doing an airport hangar condominium. Have you had any experience in this area?

Airport hangar condominiums can be a viable form of development if the developer is careful about defining the particular areas that are being sold off and allowing for adequate expansion or contraction, if necessary, of the condominium space. As in the case of parking facilities, recreational condominiums and boat slip condominiums, airport hangar condominium projects can be a viable way of insuring one's ownership interest, particularly from a commercial standpoint. I would strongly recommend that you thoroughly review from a marketing standpoint the feasibility of the airport condominium and then consult with an experienced condominium lawyer who can provide you with the flexibility that you will no doubt need in preparing the condominium documents.

HOROSCOPE

January 20 through January 26

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
Insulting others, especially those close to you, only brings you grief. Don't flatter them either; just accept them as they are.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
If you are not sure about doing something, don't do it. Talk to loved ones concerning finances and let them know they have your support.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
You lose your temper about a specific authority figure. Frustration over this person will have you in a bad mood. Realize what is happening.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Don't let others push you too hard. Stand up for yourself and help them realize the pressure you are under. They will listen if you are sincere.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Small details on the domestic front need to be attended to immediately. Once these projects are out of the way, you will have time for fun.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Remember that taking out your frustrations on others offers temporary relief, but it in no way solves the problems you must deal with.

By C.C. Clark

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Pull in the reins where frivolous spending is concerned. Build up your savings because you will soon want to make a major purchase.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Someone who never thought much about you will suddenly take notice. This could bring you good luck in either your love or career sector.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
Be honest in affairs concerning the heart, and things will turn out for the best. Financial duties should be re-evaluated this week.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
Trust instincts concerning loved ones and work. Don't let others tell you what to do. Listen to advice, but don't be quick to accept it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
Try as you might, people misinterpret almost anything you say. Keep cool and try to be rational when explaining your actions.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
This is not a good week to ask for more money in the workplace. Don't fret; things will change soon, and it will be clear sailing.

STAR NOTES

Boyish capers familiar to comic Chris Elliott

By Christy Bergslien

Who is that crazy guy posing as a prepubescent riding a bike and delivering newspapers on Fox's Get a Life?

The man behind the boyish antics is comedian Chris Elliott. Elliott portrays 30-year-old Chris Peterson, a free-spirited man who refuses to grow up. His father, played by his real-life dad, Bob Elliott (of the legendary comedy team Bob and Ray), wishes his son would become something other than head paperboy, and possibly even move out.

It all began in 1983 for the younger Elliott, then an NBC tour guide, when he recognized David Letterman taking his mother on a tour of the studios and joked with the talk-show host.

When Late Night With David Letterman was launched, Elliott was hired on — to make coffee and run the office copier, that is.

"I almost left after the first month," said Elliott. "I was screwing up the coffee, and I wasn't answering the phones. I was scared I was going to be fired."

But Elliott's antics would eventually take him out of the office and put him in front of the camera. He became famous for his "Panicky Guy," "Fugitive Guy" and Marlon Brando and Morton Downey Jr. parodies. He also won four Emmy Awards for his writing contributions to the show, and in 1989 he published a book called Daddy's Boy, lampooning novels such as Mommie Dearest.

TIME OUT

Louisville meets UNLV in hoops competition

By Steve Paschal

The Louisville Cardinals could take a giant step in the direction of the NCAA Basketball Tournament when they face the top-ranked Runnin' Rebs of Nevada-Las Vegas before a national television audience on CBS Saturday, Jan. 26.

Louisville won two national championships and made three trips to the final four during the 1980s, but coach Denny Crum is rebuilding this season after the NBA and academic problems robbed his team of most of its veteran players. With All-Metro Conference center Felton Spencer passing up his final year of eligibility and super-sub Jerome Harmon sidelined by grades, the Cardinals have at best an outside shot of making it to this year's sweet sixteen.

Nevada-Las Vegas, on the other hand, is a team with a mission. A year ago the Rebs proved beyond a doubt they were the top team in the country when they pounded Duke 103-73 for the national championship. They seemed destined to watch this year's tournament from the stands until a miracle ruling by the NCAA in November. Faced with a lawsuit, the NCAA, in effect, allowed Coach Jerry Tarkanian to dictate when the Rebels would have to face the music for recruiting violations. As a result, Nevada-Las Vegas will be back to defend its national title when the big boys gather for post-season play.

Cable Comments

By LARK L. SAMOUELIAN
Executive Director,
SW Oakland Cable Comm.

How we think and what action we take is taking on a serious dimension.

There is no kidding around we are now to be accountable for our luxurious lifestyles which result in solid waste. What a disgusting topic! And yet how ironic that we must go back to basics because of our need for instant results.

Community television is turning out to be a perfect vehicle to inspire each of us to follow through with necessary routines to assure that our environment improves quickly. Oakland County has an authority established to analyze and develop policies and educate the public as it pertains to recycling opportunities. Their purpose is to "establish the most cost efficient and environmentally sound manner to best serve the residents."

In Oakland County the Resource Recovery and Recycling Authority of Southwest Oakland County was formed in 1987. Lenora K. Kadun, P.E. is their General Manager. Lenora's educational background has major emphasis in Civil Engineering and Public Administration. Her primary responsibility is to plan, construct, and manage a Materials Recovery and Transfer Facility. Such a facility is crucial as landfill space across the nation is quickly running out. The RRRASOC has member communities of Farmington, Farmington Hills, Novi, South Lyon, Southfield, Walled Lake, and Wixom. As an educational tool, the authority has produced programming which may be seen on Community Television Channels which explain exactly how we may plan our home and office environment to recycle, reduce, and re-use our solid waste. Wayne County has established the Conference of Western Wayne. This is a consortium of 18 communities which are: Belleville, Dearborn, Dearborn Heights, Garden City, Inkster, Livonia, Northville, Plymouth, Wayne, Westland, Canton, Huron, Northville Township, Plymouth Township, Redford, Sumter, Romulus, and Van Buren. The Board of this consortium serves as a program planning and development entity as it pertains to special projects.

Materials Recycling Facility

They are to monitor design, and implement programs. On the subject of recycling, the consortium acts as a central network for all the communities. They have received a grant to facilitate Resource recovery education to residents. To receive a free presentation, those residents living in the communities of Western Wayne may call 525-8690. The Executive Director of the Conference of Western Wayne is Daniel Gilmartin. Marcia Bianconi is the Assistant Director. Each community in Oakland and Wayne Counties have established their own procedure for recycling, such as drop off recycling centers, composting areas, and curbside recycling procedures. In one of the educational pieces about recycling, it states, "every day each of us generates an estimated 3½ pounds of garbage. At face value, this seems like a small amount, however, compounded by the population of Michigan we collectively create enough garbage to fill the Silverdome each and every day of the year." Education and television programs tell us what we can recycle. The following are the basic rules of thumb:

PAPER Newspaper: collect and tie in bundles. No books, magazines or catalogs please.

METALS Tin or metal cans such as soup or vegetable cans. Rinse out, remove both tops, and flatten.

GLASS Any non-deposit glass bottle or jar: clear, brown, or green. Rinse and remove lids for deposit in color sorted bins.

PLASTICS Cloudy, opaque, and colored plastic containers such as milk jugs, laundry detergent, and bleach. Rinse out and remove caps.

Most centers vary on what grades of plastic they accept. There are two other programs on recycling which may be seen on Community Television. Community Forum: Environmental Concerns is a panel discussion program about recycling in the home, underground water contamination, and techniques used to recycle. The other program is Rescuing and Recycling It's Cool To Care. It is hosted by fourth and fifth graders at Allen Elementary. They ask questions, which they have written, of guests Jan Hoffman and Janet Cameron.

As the future unfolds into the present, our local channels will help each of us as we sit in our own living rooms feel confident that we are doing our share to take action and make initial decisions which will help clean up our environment. As you can see by reading this article, the recycling issue is important to all ages. Let your television turn into an educational tool for your family as residents and local government staff create a team that will conquer every challenging issue that comes to each of our communities.

To find out more information, contact your respective township or city hall and they will direct you to the correct department to learn the procedures for recycling in your community.

Super Bowl has had ups, downs

Game one of TV's most-watched shows

By Steve Paschal

In the 25 years since the National Football League championship game became known as the Super Bowl, there have been quite a few games that didn't live up to the expectations the name implies. But, cliff-hanger or blowout, ABC knows it can count on a Super Payoff in the A.C. Nielsen ratings when the AFC and NFC champions meet Sunday, Jan. 27, in Tampa, Fla.

The best of the two conferences have battled for the Lombardi Trophy 24 times beginning with Green Bay's lopsided 35-10 win over Kansas City in Super Bowl I.

According to Nielsen Media Research, which began monitoring the television viewing habits of the American public in July of 1960, 17 Super Bowls are among the top 50 watched programs of the last 30 years.

Super Bowl XVI between the San Francisco 49ers and Cincinnati Bengals became the top-rated sporting event of all time, garnering a 49.1 rating and a 73 percent audience share for CBS. The only programs ever to draw a larger audience were the 1983 final episode of "M*A*S*H," the Nov. 21, 1980, "Who Shot J.R.," episode of "Dallas," and "Roots, Part VIII," which aired on Jan. 30, 1977.

Super Bowl XVI was one of those games that lived up to its advance billing. With more than 150 million people watching, young Joe Montana led San Francisco to the first of three Super Bowl titles that gave the 49ers the undeniable right to be called the "Team of the '80s." Montana, who completed 14 of 22 passes for 157 yards and a touchdown, was named the game's Most Valuable Player. Although the 49ers built what appeared to be an insurmountable three-touchdown lead by the middle of the third quarter, they had to rally to defeat Cincinnati 26-20 after the Bengals came back to score three times in a 10-minute span.

There have been other games that truly deserve to be called "Super." Perhaps the most memorable Super Bowl of all time was played two years ago at Joe Robbie Stadium in Miami when Montana directed a 92-yard drive in the game's final seconds to beat the Bengals again, this time 20-16. All-pro wide receiver Jerry Rice was named the game's MVP after catching 11 passes for 215 yards and a touchdown.

The 1970s saw two unforgettable clashes between the Pittsburgh Steelers and the Dallas Cowboys. In Super Bowl X, the Steelers won the second of four titles in the 1970s by scoring twice in the fourth quarter to beat the Cowboys 21-17. Two years later, Steelers quarterback Terry Bradshaw had one of the most unforgettable days in the game's history when he threw for 315 yards and four touchdowns in a 35-31 victory over Dallas.

But, there have been laughs, too. In Super Bowl XVIII, underdog Oakland faced a Washington team that had pounded its way to a 14-2 record behind the bruising running of fullback John Riggins. However, the day belonged to Raiders running back Marcus Allen, who ran for 191 yards and two touchdowns as the Raiders crushed the Redskins 38-9. Then, last year, the 49ers put the crowning touch on their dream decade by humiliating the Denver Broncos 55-10.

The silver anniversary of the Super Bowl will be ABC's third presentation of the post-season event. The "ABC Monday Night Football" trio of Frank Gifford, Al Michaels and Dan Dierdorf will be in the broadcast booth, while Brent Musburger will serve as pre-game and halftime host. He will be joined by commentators Bob Griese, Lynn Swann, Dick Vermeil, Beth Ruyak, Jack Whitaker and Jack Arute.

own prejudices — prejudices we all possess.

During the 1960s, Morris Dees became active aiding minorities in court. In 1971 he opened the Southern Poverty Law Center, a non-profit legal organization handling cases dealing with employment discrimination, hazardous working conditions, tax inequities and the death penalty. In 1980, the center founded Klanwatch, which monitors hate groups and develops legal strategies for protecting citizens from violence-prone groups. Most recently, Dees was successful in prosecuting White Aryan Resistance leaders Tom and John Metzger in a highly publicized trial in Portland, Ore.

"I hope the spirit of the civil rights movement is revived in those who see this movie," said Dees.

Q: My question concerns Vivien Leigh. I recently watched Vivien Leigh: Scarlett and Beyond on TNT. It mentioned that she had a daughter and grandchildren. I would like to know if the daughter is in the acting profession, where she and the children live, etc. —Beverly Owens, Ridgeland, Miss.

A: There seems to be very little written about Vivien Leigh's personal life before her marriage to Laurence Olivier. Her first marriage to Herbert Leigh Holman, a barrister in England, resulted in the birth of her daughter Suzanne in 1933. She also used her husband's middle name as her stage name. Even though Holman refused to grant her a divorce in the beginning, she joined Olivier in Hollywood. It was several years later that they were married. Her daughter remained in England with her father. I haven't anything in print about a granddaughter and there isn't any mention of her daughter's involvement in the theater.

A white southern lawyer takes on the Klan in the true-life drama A Season for Justice: The Morris Dees Story, Monday on NBC. Corbin Bernsen plays the title role.

True Klan story earmarks Martin Luther King Day

Arnie Becker gets a conscience

By Christy Bergslien

In the spring of 1981, a young black man named Michael Donald was murdered in Mobile, Ala., and hung from a tree. On behalf of Donald's mother, attorney Morris Dees, founder of the Southern Poverty Law Center, filed a civil suit against the United Klans of America and won. The landmark case proved the killers carried out a policy advocated by the Klan, and therefore, the Klan itself was responsible.

This is the compelling story behind NBC's A Season for Justice: The Morris Dees Story, broadcasting Monday, Jan. 21, on the birthday of Martin Luther King Jr. Actor Corbin Bernsen, well known for his role as Arnie Becker on L.A. Law, will play a more serious attorney when he depicts the courageous Alabama lawyer.

"There's a certain breed of people, and you've got 250- or 400,000 of them over in the Gulf right now," said Bernsen. "And Morris' life, as you may or may not know, is pretty much threatened day in and day out. And yet he's still defending human rights, and these kids in the Gulf are defending freedom.... I'm very impressed by people who do that," said the actor.

Bernsen also said filming the movie made him take a good hard look at his

SOAP TALK

Eileen Fulton on extended leave

By Candace Havens

Dear Candace: I have watched As the World Turns for many years and now wonder what happened to Eileen Fulton, Lisa from way back.

Also, on China Beach I read where Dana Delany at one time was on ATWT. Could you tell me what part she played? —Thank you, Henretta.

Dear Henretta: Eileen Fulton is on an extended leave of absence from the show due to illness related to a recent surgery. After her recuperation, she should be returning to the show.

You are correct about Delany. She played the character Haley Wilson on ATWT during 1981. It was one of the first television roles she played, and she wasn't really on the show all that long.

Dear Candace: What has happened to Mason on Santa Barbara? I liked him on The Young and the Restless and was amazed how soon he became Mason on SB. The Mason they have now is a good actor, I guess, but why mess around with the viewers like this? Just when we get used to good actors, wham, they are gone! —Thank you, Bea Emery, Duncan, Okla.

Dear Bea: Terry Lester left SB of his own accord when his contract was up this past October. He surprised everyone — especially the show's execs — with his decision to leave, and he cited only that he wanted to go on to do other things. This decision was made just one year after his messy departure from Y&R.

Dear Candace: I watched General Hospital the other day and was surprised to see Dr. Steve Hardy on. Is the woman who played his wife, Audrey, still on GH? How about nurse Jessie? —Thank you, Myra Martin, McMinnville, Tenn.

Dear Myra: John Berardino (Dr. Steve Hardy), Rachel Ames (Audrey Hardy) and Emily McLaughlin (Jessie Brewer) are all still on the show. They just haven't had storylines that are on the front burner lately. It should be interesting to see if the return of Gloria Monty, executive producer of the show, brings about some new storylines for these favorites.

I want to hear from you! If you have a favorite soap scenario you would like to sound off about, or a question about the soaps, write to Candace Havens, Soap Talk, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, TX 76102-0748.

FAMILY FARE

New Kids featured in prime time

By Christy Bergslien

Hailed "the biggest teen sensation since the Beatles" are the boys from Dorchester, Mass., known to the world as New Kids on the Block. On Friday, Jan. 25, the popular quintet will star in their very own made-for-TV, prime-time special on ABC.

Video footage of the five heartthrobs traveling in their tour bus and performing in concert at Walt Disney World in Orlando, Fla., will be featured. Also appearing on the one-hour program will be a number of yet-to-be-announced sports and entertainment personalities.

Among the numbers performed will be from their latest release No More Games/The Remix Album.

Also for the young at heart, Saturday, Jan. 26, is Dorf's Family Stump broadcasting on CBS. Tim Conway first created Derk Dorf, a four-foot-tall, badly toupeed man with an exaggerated walk and a Scandinavian accent on his prime-time show in 1981.

Dorf's Family Stump is the first TV special devoted entirely to the zany character and his wacky siblings. A spoof on the world of sports, the hour-long comedy sketch stars Conway and addle-brained members of his "family stump" played by Ruth Buzzi, Harvey Korman, Bob Uecker, Tom Poston and Cathy McCauley. Also guest-starring will be sports greats, Billie Jean King, Joe Namath and Willie Shoemaker.

LET'S TALK

Goldie Hawn's forebears have impressive credentials

By Polly Vonetes

Q: I recently saw the movie Bird on a Wire and fell in love with Goldie Hawn and the movie. Could you get an address to which I could reach her? Also, could you include some background information on her? —D.J., Nacogdoches, Texas

A: Goldie Hawn is a native of Washington, D.C., born Nov. 21, 1945. She once had her own dance school in the nation's capital. Her successful transition from Laugh-In's dizzy blonde to executive producer and leading lady has included two down-the-tubes marriages to director Gus Trikonis and comedian/musician Bill Hudson. She has three children (two boys and a girl) and has homes in Pacific Palisades, Calif., and Old Snowmass, Colo. Goldie (it's her real name) enjoys making her own clothes, cooking and playing tennis. And here is an odd trivia item: Hawn's father, Rutledge Hawn, is a direct descendant of Edward Rutledge of South Carolina, the youngest signer of the Declaration of Independence. Write to: Goldie Hawn, c/o William Morris Agency, 151 El Camino Drive, Beverly Hills, CA 90212.

Q: I would like to know if the Linda Evans who starred in The Big Valley series years ago is the same Linda Evans who starred on Dynasty. If not, then would you please tell me the age, place of birth and credentials of the actress on The Big Valley? —Brian Burchardt, Watertown, S.D.

A: The Linda Evans of The Big Valley and Dynasty is one and the same. Of course there are quite a few years in between these roles. She was 23 when filming The Big Valley and 39 when production started on Dynasty.

Q: Thought I would write you and hope you get this letter. In answer to a question asked by Cheryl Durbin, Devils Lake, N.D., in the Dec. 1 issue where she wanted to know Gail Davis' address, it is: 10625 Moor Park, Apt. No. 1, North Hollywood CA, 91602. Now that I've helped you, could you give me the address of Johnny Carson? I need to write him. —Alan Carney, Powell, Tenn.

A: Thank you for your interest, Alan, and that's a great photo of you with Gail Davis. Why don't you write and tell me about the Riders of the Silver Screen. Meanwhile, "Heeere's Johnny's" address: Johnny Carson, c/o

Goldie Hawn
The Tonight Show, 3000 W. Alameda Ave., Burbank, CA 91523.

Q: I would like the address of Michael Landon. I have some books I think he would be interested in having. —Sadie Stidham, Corbin, Ky.

A: Send your books to: Michael Landon, 1930 Century Park E., No. 407, Los Angeles, CA 90067.

Send your questions about the world of entertainment to: Polly Vonetes, Let's Talk, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, Texas 76102-0748. Because of the volume of mail, only questions of general interest can be answered.
