Airport meeting draws parties to talks

By Sherry Brunson Apopka Chief Staff

Representatives from more than 14 state, county, municipal, and private agencies sat down at the table Wednesday, June 22, at the Apopka Community Center/VFW, to discuss their differences and how they might work together to create an airport in Apopka that would bring economic advantages to the areas surrounding Lake Apopka, yet leave the increasingly diverse wildlife population untouched.

WOAA Chairman Guy Haggard said the purpose of the meeting was to get everyone pushing the ball in the same direction, and according to what individuals shared at the meeting, that goal was met, as long as their individual concerns are addressed in the process of making the plan a reality.

West Orange Airport Authority (WOAA) invited everyone who has an interest in the airport project to the table, and that included representatives of FDOT, Orange County Planning Department, Orange County director of transportation, Lake County Economic Development, St. Johns River Water Management District, the cities of Apopka, Ocoee, and Winter Garden, members of the XO4 Condo Association, the Friends of Lake Apopka-an environmental group, and numerous representatives from private businesses and financial institutions.

Several people gathered Wednesday, June 22, in Apopka to talk about the potential commercial airport in Northwest Orange County.

Haggard shared the history of WOAA, previously known as the Tri-City Airport Authority, and the goals in the early part of the workshop. "We have four airstrips in the area," he said. "Our goal is to make the whole area one of economic development for aviators. We have rail in the

Update on Errol, Highland

By John Peery Apopka Chief Staff

Apopka police are still investigating the operations of the former Highland Manor restaurant that was housed in the city-owned building at 604 E. Main Street.

In addition, city officials are continuing to work with those who had special events scheduled when the restaurant was closed down by the city due to more than $300,000 in rent owed by Richard Wilhelm, who ran the business.

In an unrelated matter, the Errol Estate Resort and Country Club dining room and bar are still shuttered, but the member-owned club's board of directors began meeting Thursday, June 23, past press time to try to chart a course of action for the 40-year old country club.

Mike Robinson, interim general manager of the club, said the board of directors would also meet today, Friday, June 24.

The golf course, golf pro shop, tennis courts, and swimming pool are open for business.

With modern technology reaching the point that physical disabilities can be accommodated without embarrassing and unsightly assistance, the city of Apopka might soon see one being implemented for its hearing-impaired citizens.

Jim Scott, president of Complete Hearing Solutions based out of St. Petersburg, was asked by the Foilage Sertoma Club of Apopka to make a presentation Tuesday, June 21, about his company's Induction Loop Systems and the feasibility of implementing it inside the City Council chambers at Apopka City Hall.

"Several of us are members of the Sertoma and City Council," City Commissioner Marilyn Ustler McQueen said.

"As such, we are always keeping our eyes and ears open for ideas which will positively affect the city and community, so we wanted to get more information. The city wanted the Sertoma Club to take the lead and then present the information to it. Mr. Scott coming to the meeting and doing the presentation was one of the steps

In the investigation of Highland Manor, Apopka Police Chief Rob Manley said his department was at a standstill while waiting on various documents. "Right now, we're waiting for (Highland Manor) bank records to come back," he said. Those documents have been subpoenaed and the banks have two weeks to get them to the police, Manley said.

In addition, Apopka police will interview the restaurant's account and events coordinator, and are seeking a warrant to get information off the business' computer, the police chief said.

"We're still plugging along every day," Manley said. "Usually, these cases do take time because you're waiting on someone else to get the information. I'd like

Record numbers of birds love Lake Apopka's shores

By Sherry Brunson Apopka Chief Staff

Officials at the St. Johns River Water Management District have been increasingly excited about the numbers of birds and the new species that are being sighted on the marshland on the north shores of Lake Apopka.

"We have seen record numbers of white ibis," said Jim Peterson, a field program supervisor with the St. Johns River Water Management District. "This time of year, they are finishing up their nesting and so they fly back and forth from their roosting area to Lake Apopka to feed."

Record numbers of roseate spoonbills, a long-legged pink bird similar to a flamingo, have been seen. A main obvious difference is a flat "spoon-shaped" bill. During the second week of June, more than 50 of the birds were spotted, a record number for Orange County, since the birds typically are found in south Florida.

"I think they may have come here because, due to the drought, areas where they have been may be drying up and there is still water here," said Peterson.

Whooping cranes, the largest bird in America, have also recently visited the marshland. The white birds can stand taller than five feet and have a wingspan of approximately seven-and-a-half feet. They have red crowns and dark-colored bills. When they fly, their necks stay straight, but their long dark legs trail behind.

"We believe the female is about five-years-old and the male is about eight-years-old," Peterson said. "The Fish and Wildlife Department track them, so we have a pretty good idea."

White pelicans, which usually winter in Florida but fly to North Dakota to breed, during the summer, have also been seen on the marshlands.

"It's really unusual to have them in the summer in Florida," Peterson said. "There were 16 white pelicans counted on Wednesday."

Harry Robinson, a renowned birder from England, is often found on the property.

Robinson's grandfather, Edward Kay Robinson, the founder of the British Naturalist Association and who taught a young Rudyard Kipling in India, passed on his love of birding to his son, Warhan Robinson. Warhan was Harry's father and a correspondent for the Times newspaper of London. Warhan then passed his love of birding to his son, Harry.

"Harry has a knack for finding rare birds," Peterson said. "He knows birds so well that he can see detailed differences between species. He is responsible for identifying at least three new species to our area - one of which is the Eurasian kestrel.

"We have had people fly into the Orlando airport from the West Coast, come out to see the Eurasian kestrel, and fly back home again," Peterson said.

Peterson said Robinson is area, and the Wekiva Parkway is coming through. We understand that no other airport in the state of Florida have all three of those modes of transportation. We plan to tie the airports together through roadways."

Haggard said the Orange County government approved the Orlando North Airpark, which is located off Jones Avenue in the Zellwood area, as an airport growth center on Tuesday, June 21.

Susan Caswell, manager of the Orange County Planning Division, said the designation is a county legislative process that changes the future land use designation from agriculture to an aviation growth center in the county's 20-year-comprehensive plan.

Rodger Anderson, manager of the Orlando North Airpark, said the designation approved approximately 450 acres of land, which includes 2.8 million square feet for industrial use on the north side of Jones Avenue and 750,000 square feet for aviation use, such as airplane hangars and a passenger terminal.

"They set 50,000 square feet for commercial business and 150,000 square feet for office space," he said. "We should be approved for zoning by the end of July and it should go before the Orange County Board of Commissioners a month later. It is the only land designation for an aviation growth center in the state."

Caswell said a growth center is a designated area that affects the county's economic development, but of which the county does not provide services and facilities, such as fire and law enforcement services.

"In this case, the city of Apopka will provide those services," she said.

Jim Wikstrom, FDOT District 5 Aviation and Seaports programs supervisor, said the two most critical factors they use in the approval process are the capital improvement and the demand shown. He said the next step typically would be the airport master plan in which FDOT looks to see how cost effective an airport in WOAA's geographic area would be and a survey process, where local people and businesses are asked if they would use such a facility, and, if so, how much. He also said a wildlife management plan is always part of the approval plan for the FAA.

'We will look at all the airports in the area to see if there would be a better airport or location that would suit the local needs better than the current location as well," Wikstrom said. "We are here to help you, but our first concern is safety and birds are an issue. The incident on the Hudson River is an example." In that situation, a jet taking off from New York City's LaGuardia Airport in January 2009 struck a flock of birds and was forced to land on the Hudson River. No one was killed in the situation.

Wikstrom said he asked the FAA and a general consultant to review WOAA's concept and he expects to receive a response from them in the next two weeks. The state's aviation manager will make the final decision regarding WOAA's plan.

"If the plan is approved, becoming a part of the state system plan does not promise national funding," Wikstrom said. "The national plan doesn't say there is a need for an airport in this area at this time."

He also said a he expected the plan to come before a regional committee in September. Haggard asked if it could be considered before a statewide FDOT committee meeting in July, and Wikstrom said he would ask the appropriate authorities for consideration.

Haggard also mentioned that a similar plan had already received FDOT approval in 2004, but that the plan had expired before action was initiated, and Wikstrom replied the economic climate is considerably different today than it was then.

Richard Anderson, the city of Apopka's chief administrative officer, disagreed.

"Things haven't changed that much in Apopka," he said. "We are looking at rail improvements now and we have all we need in one place."

Anderson shared the city's position in a positive and aggressive manner.

"West Orange County is the fastest-growing area in Central Florida," he said. "We have put a lot of money in the infrastructure and other areas to focus on the economic side of the issue. We are having meetings right now with aircraft manufacturers who are interested in relocating here. We have land zoning, an improved railroad coming, the Wekiva Parkway coming, water sewer and reuse all out there and ready to go. We have been working closely with the cities of Ocoee and Winter Garden and we are putting all our eggs in one basket – that is the city of Apopka's vision. "We have had two competing properties," Anderson said speaking of the Orlando North Airpark and Orlando-Apopka Airport. "We believe we need to work together, not against each other. In the long-term we need to think bigger. The only thing that is holding us back is money. We need the government to step up. We want all around the runway to be privately owned business to get taxes to help build and grow our communities." Apopka's Anderson said the city's purchase of the fixed base operations of the Orlando-Apopka Airport, located off U.S. Highway 441, should close this month, and they plan to contract the services out to be managed for the city, so they can receive government perks at the location, such as the ability to offer lower gas prices and property tax breaks.

Simple tips to prevent infection, not just react to it!

Florida Hospital is encouraging all residents in the community to take action in preventing infections, not just fighting them when they occur. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) provides simple tips for preventative measures to ensure you and your family remain safe during flu season and everyday life in general. Learn more as the Florida Hospital Apopka Infection Prevention team points out some highlights and additional tips for staying germ-free

The most important (and easy) preventative tool out there...

Hand hygiene is the most preventative tool to ensure infection prevention because it links back to everything. Hand washing is an important sanitation technique for every hospital and parents should emphasize it regularly to their children. And adults need to practice these same skills themselves! This will reduce infection among the family alone by just implementing this easy daily task.

According to the CDC, hand washing should occur before, during, and after preparing food, before eating food, after using the restroom, after changing diapers or cleaning up a child who has used the restroom, before and after caring for someone who is sick, after blowing your nose, after treating a cut or wound. What is the right way to wash your hands? According to the CDC, wet your hands with clean running water and apply soap. Then rub your hands together to make lather and scrub them well. Be sure to scrub the backs of your hands, between your fingers and under your nails. Continue washing hands for 20 seconds each time, and sing the "Happy Birthday" song two times. Rinse hands well, then dry hands using a clean towel or air dry them. Although hand sanitizers are not effective when hands are visibly dirty, using an alcohol-based sanitizer that contains at least 60% alcohol can reduce the number of germs on hands when water and soap are not available.

Other easy, but important tools to follow... but equally

Making sure that you and everyone in your family receive regular vaccines is pertinent to prevention. For adults and children alike, an influenza shot is a must each year. The CDC states that there are about 411 deaths per year due to the influenza virus. Children need to receive all of their vaccines year round as well, especially at the regular vaccinations comes from the idea of measles making a comeback in our society. For whatever reason, parents are not getting their children regular vaccinations as frequently as in the past. In regards to herd immunity, if the majority of school children were vaccinated for measles, then the five children that weren't would be immune as well due to their company during school hours. Unfortunately, the majority is not being vaccinated anymore and therefore these once rare sicknesses are now making a comeback.

Ways to be a safe patient...

Perhaps you were watching the introduction to NBC's Sunday coverage of golf's U.S. Open. But, if you weren't, you probably have heard the firestorm that quickly built after the introduction aired.

In case you missed it, NBC began its coverage of one of golf's majors with a classroom of elementary school students reciting the Pledge of Allegiance. It was edited to intersperse poignant scenes from America's military. The introduction ended with scenes from well-known memorials in Washington, D.C., near where the U.S. Open was held at Congressional Country Club in Bethesda, Maryland.

NBC had a chance to build American pride and give itself many brownie points with Americans of all stripes with the introduction. As it was, the television network absolutely blew it.

Instead of presenting the Pledge of Allegiance as it has been written since 1954, the network decided, on its own, one even think about that, much less actually do it?

At first, NBC tried to say that it had to do with time issues. Huh? In a broadcast that lasted most of Sunday afternoon? A few more seconds to make sure all the words of the Pledge of Allegiance were recited is only logical.

What else is logical is that the people responsible for the horrendous mistake should be fired from their jobs. On something like that, it takes several people to make the decision and approve the editing of the Pledge of Allegiance.

Each one of those people who were involved in approving the introduction as it was broadcast should lose his or her job.

There is no excuse for what happened. None.

We are sure the corporate attorneys at NBC would be all in a tizzy if someone referred to NBC as just NC. Well, the people of the United States of

There is good news, and there is bad news.

I dread that phrase. Frequently, it is a disguise for, "There is bad news and worse news." That may be the case herein; however, at the present, we must wait to find out.

I remember the line, "It is better to cushion the bad news with the good. Therefore, I will give you the bad news first."

The director of the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), Lisa Jackson, said the agency does not consider economic impacts when issuing regulations. The assistant director of the Environmental Protection Agency explained that, while they may study some economic impacts, they do not calculate job loss from new rules.

The good news is about the EPA's numeric nutrient criteria. You may recall that little more than a year ago a special interest group got a federal judge to allow the EPA to impose a set of rules for Florida different than the other 49 states.

Florida's existing rules for water quality are in narrative form. The EPA and their special interest lackey want Florida to impose rules far more stringent than any of the other states. These rules will have a hugely negative impact on Florida's economy and especially on its dismal job condition. The positive impact of these regulations upon water quality remains speculative.

The outcry against the EPA proposal has been huge. Homeowner groups, business owners, government agencies and elected officials all implored the EPA not to impose its heavy-handed regulations. Until now, all was for naught.

Recently, the Florida Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) requested that the EPA consider DEP's revised water quality rules beto edit out the words "under God" twice and "indivisible" once during the introduction, which included two recitations of the abbreviated Pledge of Allegiance.

A couple of hours later, during the broadcast, the network issued an on-air apology, but it was way too little, and it was certainly much too late.

Instead of having to issue an apology, the network should have presented the Pledge of Allegiance as it is written. Why would anyone even think about leaving out words from the Pledge of Allegiance in the first place? Why does America are the ones who NBC slighted with its production, as our Pledge of Allegiance is much more important than the television network's initials.

Oddly, the introduction mentioned America's virtues that have been handed down from generation to generation. Is changing the Pledge of Allegiance one of these virtues, now?

The bottom line is that NBC deserves all the criticism it has received. We can only hope that those out-oftouch employees also receive what they deserve, the unemployment lines.

Year 2010 brought a continued property value slide, and the average home in Apopka was down another 17 percent to $137,694. So far this year, the slide has continued another 6.5 percent and the average home just value is around $128,812. # Fear of own incompetence, ignorance drives Socialists to seek power

JUNE 24 - How dangerous is the liberal progressive mentality to this country's present and future? Consider the proclamation of our Vice President Joe "The Napper" Biden who, while campaigning for the Dem candidate in the recent New York congressional special election: "Every (emphasis mine) single great idea that has marked the 21st century, the 20th century, and the 19th century has required the government's vision and government's incentive."

His audience must have been public grade school students or ACORN stooges, otherwise there would have been an immediate emergency call for transporting him to the nearest mental institution.

The best thing about avoiding the drive-by broadcast and print news media is that you have plenty of time to absorb excellent publications like the relatively new and outstanding Townhall monthly magazine, which reported this insanity.

In their May issue, they covered this "Biden Bulloney" claim that covered all of U.S. history except for 11 years, seeing that the Constitution was adopted in 1789. And to think, Obama assigned this nerd to negotiate his budget fiasco with the Republicans. Of course, the scary thing with liberals is their belief that this is true.

According to Biden, people named Thomas Edison, the Wright Brothers, Henry Ford, Albert Einstein, Jonas Salk, and thousands of others were all inspired by the government.

Townhall noted that "these 'great' government ideas include abysmal programs like Social Security, the Post Office and public schools where only 35 percent of students are proficient in reading."

What Biden's comments illuminate is the complete disdain liberals have for the private sector who made a small group of people (compared to the billions in world population) become the wonder of the world in productivity, finances, living standards, freedom, space travel, sciences and everything else that is measurable except for poverty and ignorance.

Now, despite the opposition of virtually all of the scientific community and revelations of fraud, the "Obamagang" and a group of federal grant-receiving scientists are plotting the destruction of this greatness with global-warming conspiracies and renewable energy development programs that are costing all citizens $billions.

The magazine contains a stunning chart on the decline of automobile carbon monoxide emissions (the warmers' chief villain) showing that, without government interference, manufacturers' technology achieved a virtual elimination of CO per mile, with new autos today emitting less than 4 grams per mile as opposed to 80 grams per mile in 1965. Actually, they managed to hit the 4 gram-per-mile mark in 1981, substantially before the global warming nonsense began with the al-Gore gobbledygook.

Another devastating aspect and government- (taxpayer) sponsored ethanol program not only gives drivers up to 30 percent fewer miles per gallon, but is actually bad for the environment. Townhall reports that according to the Associated Press, ethanol's corn requirement requires millions of pounds of nitrogen fertilizer.

And, in 2008, Time reported that "ramped up ethanol production was destroying forests that store carbon, and deforestation accounts for 20 percent of all carbon emissions." Did Obama run on deforestation as part of the "Change" thingee?

Both Mr. Greenjeans (al-

Gore) and Newt Gingrich curried favor with Iowa farmers for political advantage. Townhall related that "a Wall Street Journal article titled 'Professor Cornpone,' slammed Newt for his Gore-like pandering to the ethanol lobby, stating that "the only difference between the two is that Gore admits he was wrong."

Personally, one of my beefs is with gasoline companies like Chevron, which are spending a fortune in research and development of "renewable energy" and advertising it for P.R. purposes, although it represents only 8 percent of energy consumption in the U.S., according to the U.S. Energy Information Administration.

Search for brighter future elsewhere

Editor:

The mayor and city administrator have paid out almost $17 million, in taxpayer money, to buy the land that two failed business ventures called home, if only for a little while. The spending does not stop there. They have also paid more than $600,000 to keep these businesses afloat, again, if only for a little while. If this is not a misappropriation of taxpayer money and the prime example of incompetence, I don't know what

I hope that city administrator Richard Anderson owns up to this failed venture and reimburses the depositors and employees that did not receive compensation for their labor. If Anderson's past record is any indicator of future action, I'm sure Wilhelm will receive his $300,000 and a ticket back to the green fields of Ohio. Regardless of what some city administrators would like to believe, when the city owns the property, it is their problem. The city is not a victim. When they invested into those ventures, they did it with all the risks that come with a free market. City Commissioner Kathy Till is correct in her statement that was printed Friday, June 3, in The Apopka Chief, "This is a city problem and it is a black eye on this community."

City should admit responsibility

Editor:

Mr. Chase is right; not all the blame for the Highland Manor debacle rests with the city. But, they are the primary players in this escapade. And, they should admit their responsibility and quit playing the victim card. They should be man and woman enough to admit their mistakes. Instead, what we have is city officials understating the amount of money that the city failed to collect. The figure went from $100,000 to $300,000 in a period of weeks. One news story even stated that the city was in contact with the old tenant in Ohio via his attorney. So, suppose this news organization just made this up.

As for my wife's alleged negativity and Monday morning quarterbacking, well, let's just say that Mr. Chase is wrong on both parts. When there is something positive to be stated regarding this, rest assured, she will comment on it in a positive way as she has in the past.

Now, for the Monday morning quarterbacking aspect of Mr. Chase's letter. Well, first off, you can't call her criticism of the incubator project Monday morning quarterbacking. The incubator has not even gotten off the board yet. No group of elected officials and quasi-gov-ing and choosing which business will exist in the city. Secondly, the city of Apopka is a Johnny-come-lately on this incubator idea. These incubators have popped up all over the Central Florida area. So, how much resources is UCF going to be able to devote to our city's incubator? In addition, there is an old saying: "those that do, do; those that can't, teach." Also, there are organizations that provide these same resources at no cost to the business or taxpayers.

Apopka shouldn't be landlord

Editor:

I have to agree wholeheartedly with Barb Zakszewski's letter printed in the June 10 edition of The Apopka Chief about Highland Manor. The city of Apopka needs to get out of the business of being a landlord and developer of properties for private ventures. Government is to provide services and safety for the citizens and set and administer public policy. Nowhere can I find any definitions of local government to be a landlord for the private sector.

The city is doing a great job of providing services for us citizens. Along with the ISO 1 rating of the fire department on down to the communication systems, water and waste treatment, and police protection, we look very good to neighboring communities. The Northwest Recreation Complex and the amphitheater are very impressive to all that utilize them. As always, there are a few items that can be improved, and I will address them later.

I totally disagree with the letter by Dexter Chase in the June 17 edition of The Apopka Chief. The city deserves all the blame, not for the business failure, but for being a terrible landlord to have not evicted the tenant much sooner. The city had no role in controlling the day-to-day business operation, and should accept no blame for the business failure, and I don't believe anyone is blaming the city for the business failure. Put the blame on Mr. Richard Wilhelm where it belongs for the business failure and those he unfortunately took deposits from for events in the future. Once again, we citizens bear the burden of an empty city-owned property and all the fallout. As City Commissioner as some have. I'd want to know that my very expensive education had equipped me to communicate well enough to be understood... that I got my money's worth.

Speaking of getting one's money's worth: I think that when elected officials are "forced" to resign, in disgrace, he/she shouldn't be allowed to take away an obscene amount of money. The most recent example, of course: Anthony Weiner (D-NY). can't decide which is more disgraceful, his recent cameraphone/online behavior, or the disgraceful amount of money with which he leaves office. He's not alone. Many other congressional members make out like bandits when leaving office... all it takes is 2-years of service!

PayScale.com, an online salary database, has some interesting earnings information. For instance, the median earnings for people in the U.S. between 55-64 years (the median age of U.S. Congress and Cabinet members), with at least a bachelor's degree, working full-time, is $73,000.. far below the $174,000 earned by Congress and Cabinet members. Then, we have Senate and House Majority/Minority Leaders: $193,400. Cabinet members: Speaker of the $199,700. House: $223,500. VP: $230,000 and last, but certainly not least, President: $400,000. Interesting, eh? Oh, and to put to rest the idea that Republicans are the only rich people holding Federal office, 91% of Democrats and 92% of Republicans are earning more, on average, than they likely would make out in the real world. Getting the biggest pay boost in this rarified atmosphere the 31 senators and are representatives who have only a high school diploma, certificate or associate's degrees. Can you imagine making $174k without having to put in all that school time and expense??

I don't know if "Only in America" applies here, but I do know this: If you have a high school diploma, need (but, can't find) a job ... political office looks like a great paying gig. So, instead of pounding the pavement in search of a virtually non-existent private sector job, you might want to hit the campaign trail. Whatever you decide, just remember, you heard it here first (maybe): there may be good money in government jobs, but that doesn't change the fact that, there's no "F" in With. And just saying it (wrong) whether on the news, in class, or in court, doesn't make it so.

C.A.R.E. sets open house

The C.A.R.E. Foundation, a sanctuary for animals, will hold an open house on Saturday, June 25, from 10 a.m.- 5 p.m., at 4609 W. Ponkan Rd., Apopka.

"While the C.A.R.E. Foundation is a sanctuary for animals, I wish it to be a place of peace and sanctuary of sorts for people as well," said a spokesman for the organization. "We are pleased to be involved in a special program, 'Predatory Perceptions,' using our big cats and bears. It was specifically designed to help those suffering from Post Tramatic Stress Disorder, so it helps people, but has also become a great source of enrichment for our animals."

The requested donation is $8 for adults; $4 for children ages 4-14; children aged three and under will be admitted free. Military, law enforcement and fire/rescue personnel are admitted free with identification.

Sabbath Grace congregation surprised by marriage proposal

The Sabbath Grace Fellowship congregation experienced a surprise wedding proposal during the June 11 worship service. Michael Mitchell knelt before Catalina Alain and asked for her hand in marriage.

"It was a surprise both for Catalina and for our congregation," said Pastor Terry Pooler. "The result was an energetic 'yes' from Catalina and explosive applause from our congregation."

"This was one of the most powerful worship illustrations I have ever seen," Pooler said. "I reminded our worshipers that, in the Bible, Jesus often refers to himself as our spiritual groom and we, the believers, are his bride. Every time we worship, we need to picture Jesus kneeling before each person and asking 'will you give me your heart and walk the rest of your life with me as your spiritual partner."" Mitchell, the groom-to-be, is a nurse anesthetist and his bride-to-be Alain is a major in the U.S. Air Force Reserve. They plan to wed in a few months. "At Sabbath Grace Fellowship, our theme for this year is '2011 YES," Pooler said. "The 'YES' is an acronym for 'Year of Exceptional Service.' Our church is passionate about serving this Apopka community in any and all possible ways." The campaign runs from now through June 30.

Rising fuel costs have impacted the nonprofit's ability to recruit and retain Meals On Wheels volunteers. Just this year, 10 percent of their drivers have left the program. This week's historical house story is doubly an attention grabber, because it is a most unusual story of two houses that, for a while, were joined to become one house.

And, each housed early Apopkans who were very important to the building of this community.

The larger and older frame vernacular W. T. (Wallace) Champneys House was constructed in Clarcona circa 1895. The F. E. (Francis) Zepp House was built in Apopka about 1910.

The church was also a gold star fundraiser and served free meals from its mobile kitchen at the American Cancer Society Relay for Life. "If there's any way we can serve, we will. Our working motto is 'Service without Boundaries," Pooler said.

"The funny thing," said Pooler, "is that our congregation loves to shout 'yes' any time I say 'our theme for this year is 2011 . . .' This marriage proposal in worship went right along with our '2011 YES' theme as the bride passionately said 'yes' to Michael's request."

Apopka woman weds in Thomasville, Georgia

Marguerite Lowe Jordan and Thomas Evan Martin were married at Pebble Hill Plantation in Thomasville, Georgia. The bride is the daughter of Zack and Laurie Jordan of Apopka, and the groom's parents are John and Joyce Martin of Gainesville.

The bride's grandparents are Mrs. J. L. Peacock Jr. and the late J. L. Peacock Jr. of Tifton, Georgia, as well as the late Mr. and Mrs. James H. Jordan of Winter Park. Grandparents of the groom include the late Mr and Mrs. Richard Pearson, and the late Mr. and Mrs. Tom Martin, all of Gainesville.

A 1998 graduate of Apopka High School, the bride has a radio-television degree from the University of Florida and recently received a master of science in applied American politics and policy from Florida State University. She is employed by the Tallahassee Museum.

The groom is a 1998 graduate of Buchholz High School in Gainesville and continued his education in Forestry at the University of Florida. He is employed by the Florida Park Service at Alfred B. Maclay Gardens State Park in Tallahassee.

During the 4:30 p.m. wedding ceremony on February 26, it was sunny and springlike in the garden area in front of the Main House at Pebble Hill Plantation. The Reverend Wayne Helms, uncle of the bride, officiated the doublering ceremony. Mason jars with blush and white roses accented with baby's breath decorated the aisle and rose petals scattered on the ground marked the walkway.

Marguerite arrived at the ceremony in a horse-drawn carriage pulled by the Plantation's Clydesdale, Sally. The Plantation resident border collie Mandy, also rode on the front of the carriage with Brenda, the carriage driver. Marguerite carried a bouquet of blush-andwhite roses with baby's breath accents and was accompanied on the carriage by her father.

The bride wore a Vera Wang strapless blush dress of silk organza. The bodice of the gown was accented with pink ruching and a platinum ribbon sash that included a brooch in front and flowed down the back of the dress. Small fabric buttons also adorned the back of the dress. Her floor-length veil was designed and made to complement the wedding gown by the groom's aunt, Lisa Martin Stewart.

Bridesmaids were Sara Jordan and Rebecca Jordan, sisters of the bride, and Maria Camacho Moody and Wendy Simon. They wore emerald green Sara Claire and Esther dresses accented with vintage buttons and long blush gloves. The dresses were designed by the bride's sister, Sara Jordan. The bridesmaids also carried bouquets of blush-and-white roses accented with baby's breath.

Groomsmen included James Lovely, Brett Hipsley, Joshua Moody, and Matthew Spence. They wore black tuxedos with black vests and gray ties. Evan, the groom, wore a black tuxedo with a white vest and white tie. All of the men in the wedding party wore boutonnieres made of pinecone wooden roses and pearls.

Flower girls included Annabelle Helms and Flora Rochelle Konz, cousins of fire, police, and infrastructure, not commercial business. A city government's mission is to use financial and human resources to provide services and ensure civil order for its residents. The city needs to support our businesses, not compete against them.

The incompetence does not stop at the restaurant industry. Keeping in mind the $19 million spent on two failed ventures, $307,000 is set to be squandered on revamping a 1920s rail line, as well as thousands of dollars being handed over to an airfield that is not solvent in this economy, and a traffic nightmare at the fork of U.S. 441 and SR 436. At what price tag is Mayor John H. Land going to demand the resignation of city administrator Anderson? The mayor is the executive, not Anderson. The mayor should make him accountable for the waste of city funds. I hope he does so before Anderson and city attorney Frank Kruppenbacher change the city charter, which would oust the mayor and put this fiscally irresponsible person in charge.

she called for the city to terminate the lease agreement. Back then, she saw the writing on the wall.

When some of the partners started bailing, it indicated a problem with the operation. It showed that they no longer had faith in the venture. If the city had done so back then, the amount of back rent would have been almost $100,000 less. The city could have been looking for another tenant, or, better yet, put the property on the market.

If this city's commission-

The commission had mixed visions on the Highland Manor. They had one vision of grandeur about the development of the property and, yet, they felt that the economics of today would dampen the success of the venture.

What Barb and I saw was a group of individuals with no vested interest in the success of the endeavor.

In closing, someone should never presume to know how good another person has it. Barb and I have worked hard to get to where we are.

That is why we fight so hard to keep what we have and not let governments reach so freely into our pockets.

Apopka: Use funds to employ police bike patrol

Kathy Till said, it is a real black eye on the community.

The Highland Manor building and other surrounding properties need to be sold and let our government get back to governing our city. The idea of a town center owned by the city is a terrible idea.

First of all, you can't get there from here. The location is as bad as it can get. The traffic pattern at that intersection does not allow easy access or exit. 7-Eleven stores will build a new store across the street from an existing location to make it easier to access.

Second of all, I believe a private developer at some point the decision was not appealed either. This is not rocket science, just common sense.

We have two private entities, Errol Estate Country Club and Sweetwater Country Club, in the nearby geographical area that have facilities for and are in the business of providing services for wedding receptions, banquets, luncheon meetings, and other gatherings of this type. This building that housed Highland Manor is set up for the very same type of operation and is in direct competition with those privately owned country clubs for any gatherings of this nature.

If our city is so flush with funds to purchase millions of dollars of property other than the city owns and not pursue other restaurants to build in the city? I am not trying to necessarily promote Darden in particular, just some additional popular restaurants that will provide the citizens variety and employ citizens.

How about also using some of these funds to employ a police bike patrol in the downtown area?

The downtown area has a beautiful million-dollar bridge over U.S. Highway 441 and three traffic lights in less than a mile and yet people are still crossing a major U.S. highway in many uncontrolled locations.

People standing in left-turn lanes, and some with children or on bicycles are continually seen jaywalking and obstructing the normal traffic flow – a very dangerous situation, to say the least.

to play in the private sector, form your own private group and do what you like with your own money, not our taxes. In my normal day-to-day travels, I have had many conversations with Apopka residents and from those, I know I am not the only citizen who has this opinion.

will legally challenge the city of Apopka for using public funds to compete against private industry. I personally saw this type of challenge in another state when a public gas utility was beginning to go into the business of servicing gas water heaters, stoves, dryers, and furnaces. The heating and air conditioning contractors and their association brought suit, and the public utility was ordered to immediately cease and desist this operation, as you cannot use public funds to compete against private industry. Incidentally, for city operations and services buildings, why don't we use these funds for additional public safety and economic development in our city?

We are the second largest city in Orange County, approximately 41,000 residents covering 25 square miles, and we do not have even one Darden restaurant in our city. Does anyone see anything wrong with this picture? The city should be avidly pursuing businesses to operate in our city. Could it have been a conflict of interest to have a restaurant in a building

When the bridge was built a few years ago, supposedly tickets would be given for jaywalking. Have any tickets been written or warnings given? Are we waiting for a life to be lost before action is taken? Let's get proactive instead of reactive!

While I feel that generally our city government is doing well, the mayor, manager, and City Council need to get out of the private sector. If you want

Apopkan in Price is Right

By Sherry Brunson Apopka Chief Staff

Apopka native Jessica White, 24, thought she had lost the opportunity to be in the television audience for The Price is Right game show when the episode she had tickets for was cancelled. But not only did she eventually get tickets for the TV show, but her dream really came true when she was chosen to be a contestant.

She had planned to be in the audience when her family spent two weeks in California after attending the law school graduation of her brother, Damien, in San Diego. Then, while on the trip, in San Francisco, she found she could buy tickets for the following week.

"The first tickets were on my birthday," White said. "I was so disappointed when the show was cancelled."

The avid Price is Right fan, Damien, her mother, Patricia, and her aunt, Joyce Kirby, flew from San Francisco to Los Angeles, and stayed at the Roosevelt Hotel in order to make it to the show on time. They were in line at 6 a.m. on May 23. The CBS Studio is in Burbank, White said.

"There were about 100-150 people in line before us," White said. "Some of the people had overnight gear and had been in line all night. I wasn't prepared to do that, but I really wanted to be in the audience. There were about 400 people total, in the line, and only nine were chosen to be contestants."

White said producers went down the line and spent about 10 seconds with each person, asking quick questions. Each was issued a number and given a name tag. The whole process took about six hours. The taping didn't actually begin until about 12:30 p.m. PST.

"No one knew who was selected until the show started and they called out our name," White said. "Now I know why people give dumb answers when they are on the show. I was so excited I could barely hear anything or could barely concentrate. I was actually so nervous, when I was up there that I felt like I could vomit."

White said show host Drew Carey kept the crowd pumped through the game, especially during commercial breaks.

"It only took an hour to tape," she said. "We still took the commercial breaks, even though it was taped. The studio is a lot smaller than it seems on television."

During the show, White was chosen to play one of the hardest games offered. She had to guess the national average of five grocery items within two dollars. If she got the answers correct, White would win a car.

When Carey showed a can of Easy Cheese, White guessed $3.75. The national average, on the cheese, was listed as $6.99.

"When the show went to commercial, Drew felt so bad he grabbed the can of Easy Cheese and said he would give it to me with his autograph on it," White said. "I was so mad that I told him I didn't want the can. I don't know if I'll ever eat Easy Cheese again, I was so mad."

Fortunately, White did win a new Hewlett-Packard computer and printer.

After the show, the contestants were ushered backstage to sign contracts that stipulated the prizes couldn't be sold until they were actually in hand, and that the contestants could either accept the prizes, or not, but could not ask for cash value, White said.

"It was so interesting to experience the excitement and to see what goes on behind the scenes that you don't necessarily see on television," White said.

White's friends agreed that the television price of the cheese seemed a bit high. As a result, White has received numerous Easy Cheese photos, on her phone, from a variety of local grocery stores.

"I tell them to send it to CBS and tell them they owe me a car," she said.

White, a 2005 graduate of Apopka High School, is currently an interior design student at Seminole State, due to graduate in December. She is working this summer as an intern for TJNG Partners, an interior design firm in Maitland.

Talk: Birds are a concern for airport

the WOAA project is de-

The economic development of concern. All aircraft will be required to come in at a certair heading and depart at a certain heading, kind of like a highway. If we can have that corridor, it will be a lot more controlled."

"I think we are the largest land-owners in the area," said Robert Christiansen, director of the St. Johns River Water Management District Department of Operations and Land Resources. "As neighbors, I don't think we have any qualms, but it does have one of the highest densities of a variety of species of birds in the continental U.S. How does the bird/airplane situation work out is our biggest question. The area is developed to attract birds, so it is a definite issue. If it can be demonstrated that the birds and the airplanes can co-exist, we are open to the idea."

Christiansen said the federal government is also involved with the wildlife in the Apopka area. "As long as there are endangered species in the area," he said, "and there are a lot of endangered species there, then there is a lot of federal involvement. I can assure you that they keep their eyes open and they are very interested in the health of the area. I believe the required continued studies will reveal the problems."

Much of the land belonging to the water district could not be used, Christiansen said, because grants have been received that forbid that it not be used for conservation.

Major William Maxwell cited a precedent to Christiansen, in which the Orange County Convention Center swapped acres of land with the district that were more useful for conservation. Christiansen replied the district would definitely be interested if land was offered that was more accommodating to conservation needs than some of the land currently occupied by the water district.

"Every hill is climbable," said Rodger Anderson. "What we want to do is work out a win-win for everyone and bring economic development to the area that will give people jobs so they can feed their families.

signed to bring 2,400 jobs to the area, that usually pay 10-15 percent higher than other jobs in the area, and there will be no houses - it will be all businesses. "Northwest Orange County has kind of been a step-child; it has been neglected in Orange County," he said. "We have got to do something to improve our economy."

Jim Thomas, spokesman for the Friends of Lake Apopka, said his group is neither for nor against the project.

"The airport scares us," he said. "Sanford has had a terrible time with birds (at its airport). They spend a lot of money every day to deal with the impact of birds on planes and they had to buy an expensive permit that lets them shoot bald eagles as well. You talk of expanding the length of the runway, which will allow corporate jets. There is a liability issue. There are large flocks of pelicans - great flocks that fly at high altitudes and it seems that would be a real problem with us. Who's liable when there is an accident with birds? The city of Apopka? The state? I think it would be the taxpayer who ends up paying. I don't personally see how the issue can be resolved. We are not opposing it, but we are not supporting it either."

Mona Phipps, an Oakland town commissioner and another spokesperson for the Friends of Lake Apopka, said she felt there would be a battle with people who are environmentally sensitive.

Bob Loomis, one of the owners of the Orlando North Airpark off Jones Avenue in the Zellwood area, said he felt the WOAA plan would improve the situation between birds and airplanes. "We are currently approved as a training area," he said. "If we are approved, then there will be a specific air traffic control in the area, and it won't have people flying low directly over the sensitive areas

"I can say we are on board with what is going on," said Allen Brinkerhoff, a representative from the X04 Condominium Association Board at Orlando-Apopka Airport, off U.S. 441 near the entrance to Zellwood Station.

Ninety-year-old Capt. Leroy Brown, director of the Airlines Industry Museum at the Orlando-Apopka Airport, said the board of the museum felt Apopka was a developing area and a good location for the museum. Brown has been a pilot for approximately 70 years.

"I have flown over Lake Apopka since 1939 or '40," he said. "I have flown as a pilot for Pan Am Airlines and as a crop-duster, and I have spent many hours in the air and I have never had bird problems. In all those years, I have only hit one bird, and that was not over Lake Apopka."

Brinkerhoff said he has been flying for 42 years, in both military and commercial planes, and he too had only hit one bird in all those years.

Haggard said the plan calls for a runway of approximately 6,000 feet and instrument approach system, both qualifiers for corporate jets. Plans are for a general aviation airport, similar to the Kissimmee facility.

Commercial lending bankers were present at the meeting to better understand the economic development impact the project could bring to Apopka.

"I thought the meeting went well," Haggard said. "It was nice to have everyone concerned at the table, so we can all discuss the issues and push the ball in the same direction. I was glad to hear from St. Johns River Water Management District and the Friends of Lake Apopka – all the people that came."

WALK HUMBLY WITH YOUR GOD

(See Bible verse below above church list.) n the sixth chapter of the book of Micah, there is a string of questions concerning how one should "come before the Lord." That is, should one come before Him bowed down with burnt offerings, with year-old calves or rams, or with offerings of oil? Should one offer up one's firstborn? Micah's answer is a summary of the Law and the prophets, telling us that "He has showed you, O man, what is good; and what does the Lord require of you but to do justice, and to love kindness, and to walk humbly with your God?" (Micah 6:8) We hear this message again and again in the prophets, i.e., that God doesn't want sacrifice but loving kindness and justice, but Micah's twist on this is unique. He tells us to walk humbly with our God. Why didn't he simply say to walk humbly with God? Micah recognizes that we all have different visions of God. We tend to think that our view of God is the true one, that somehow our view of God reflects His true nature. But, that is just another version of creating God in our own image. Just because God created us in His image does not mean that we are in possession of the truth about God. We may have some small sliver of truth about God, but we certainly don't have the entire truth. So, we should walk humbly with our God, and allow others to walk humbly with theirs.

The world's financial markets are all connected

By Jeff Lareau Special to the Chief

What is the deal with Greece? You may have heard about a "crisis" going on in Greece, but it is something that has been building for years. The Greek debt crisis has recently been headline news because it has the potential to rock the world in the same way the 2008 collapse of Lehman Brothers caused financial turmoil in the United States and world economies at that time. The bankruptcy of U.S. investment bank Lehman Brothers was a defining moment in the financial crisis. Lehman's losses from the subprime mortgages saw it enter liquidation on September 15, 2008.

The secondary effects spread across the financial markets, in the U.S. and abroad. Investors lost confidence in the markets, and hedge funds and asset managers who used Lehman's prime brokerage arm were suddenly unable to trade. Investors who had bought so-called low-risk securities backed by big Wall Street investment banks suddenly found themselves exposed to a major corporate collapse. The $700 billion in bad debt on Lehman's balance sheet was a surprise to investors.

The Greek debt crisis has not been a surprise to anyone. The fact that Greece would eventually not be able to repay its huge debt has been known for more than 18 months, giving investors and policymakers time to make important fiscal decisions. This is not to say, however, that all that extra time has made it possible to resolve the debt crisis.

Even with increases in taxes, cuts in spending and European Union bailouts, there is not much of a light at the end of the tunnel for the Greeks. The recent riots in Greece show that the tax raises and spending cuts have taken their toll on the Greek people, but there will be more to come. Earlier this week, the heads of the European Union committed to give Greece its second bailout, provided the country keeps to its strict economic reforms and cutbacks. Times will be tough for the Greeks for quite some time.

Why should I be concerned about Greece's economy? As long as my favorite Greek din-

The amendment also adjusts the cap a property appraiser can raise property values on commercial and non-er keeps making those awesome Greek omelets, I should be fine, right? Wrong. The world financial markets are all very much connected. According to former chairman of the Federal Reserve, Alan Greenspan, default by Greece could "almost certainly" trigger another recession in the U.S. I take what Mr. Greenspan says with a grain of salt, but I do agree that what happens in Greece could set off a chain reaction. Other countries such as Spain, Portugal, and Ireland are in similar situations. Even with bailouts and government cutbacks, they may end up in the same state as Greece. U.S. banks alone have millions of dollars in Greek debt instruments, meaning they will be experiencing losses directly. This is directly reflected in our stock market, which seems to fluctuate wildly in reaction to any world event. In addition, as European economies deal with their financial turmoil, they will have less money to spend on American goods, further contributing to job losses.

In conclusion, we should recognize that Greek economic troubles do affect us in America. The troubles that the Greek citizens are experiencing are unusual, and may never happen to us here. We will experience some shockwaves from the problems being experienced in Greece. Most importantly, I believe we should prepare ourselves for our government to take its own austerity measures. Our government debt is at a high level, interest rates have been as low as they can get for too long, and we have historically low tax rates and loopholes available. We need to personally take advantage of those things now. Even though our elected politicians will always put the hard decisions off for the next guy to make, I believe eventually taxes will have to go up and spending will need to be cut. Nobody wants to be the guy to run on that platform, but the day will come when those measures will be unavoidable.

Forest Lake Seventh-day Adventist Church is currently holding an eight-week Creation Health seminar from 3-5 p.m. every Sunday, now through July 31.

The multimedia seminar will be held in the church's classroom #6. Forest Lake Church is located at 515 Harley Lester Lane in Apopka across from firehouse #13 on State Road 436.

To learn more about the principles of Creation Health, log onto www.creationhealth. com.

For more information or to register for the seminar, call the church office at 407-869-0680.

Burke J. Martin, (r), a member of the Apopka High School Class of 2007, graduated from the Navy Nuclear Power Training Center on Friday, June 17. After a few months on a nuclear prototype system, he will be stationed on either a surface ship or submarine. Pictured with him is his younger brother, Army SPC James P. Martin, a 2008 Apopka High graduate, who was able to attend the graduation ceremony and serves as a part of the 603rd Infantry Unit based in Savannah, Ga. SPC Martin was in Afghanistan from October 2009 to November 2010. His wife, Amber Martin, a 2007 graduate of AHS, is currently in Army boot camp at Ft. Jackson in Columbia, S.C. Burke and James Martin are the sons of Jim Martin of Apopka.

Churches, band set July 4 celebration

The Trinity Baptist Church worship choir, orchestra, and drama ministry, along with Northside Baptist Church of Apopka adult choir, and Apopka High School Band members will present "Celebrate America, Celebrating Patriots" on Sunday, July 3, at 7 p.m. at Trinity Baptist Church, 1022 S. Orange Blossom Trail, Apopka.

The event will take place outside at Trinity Baptist Church weather permitting.

In case of inclement weather, the presentation will be moved indoors.

Jay Kimbro, worship pastor at Trinity Baptist, said the public is invited and those attending are asked to bring lawn chairs and/or blankets on which to sit.

Concessions will be available by donation and proceeds will help send children to summer camp.

Kimbro said public dignitaries will be present and honored, as well as military, police, fire fighters, and a Boy Scout honor guard. The program should last about an hour and is free to the public, he said.

Once a Cub, now an Eagle

Michael Angelo Alfano of Apopka celebrated earning his Eagle award in 2010 with 283 other young men at the Central Florida Council Recognition Banquet on June 10. He started with Cub Scouts in first grade with Pack 22 in Lockhart. At the end of fifth grade, he crossed over to Troop 601 at First Presbyterian Church of Apopka. Michael's Eagle project was refurbishing land to create a garden for Lovell Elementary School in Apopka.

Eligibility for WIC program outlined

Department's Women, Infants and Children Program (WIC) is a Special Supplemental Nutrition Program that provides eligible participants a combination of supplemental nutritious foods, nutrition education, breastfeeding information as well as referrals to health care and social services.

Eligible women and children participating in the WIC program receive food checks that specify which nutritious food items may be purchased. These WIC food checks can be redeemed at any of the 2,000plus authorized grocery stores in Florida. In addition to of-

The Orange County Health fering supplemental healthy foods, WIC provides the following additional services at no cost: nutrition education and counseling, breastfeeding support and referrals for health care.

To be eligible for WIC you must be a pregnant or breastfeeding woman, a woman who has recently been pregnant, an infant, or a child under age 5.

The applicant must also have a low or moderate income, live in Florida, and have a nutrition need that can be helped by WIC foods and nutrition counseling. Applicants can be income-eligible for WIC if they are currently receiving Medicaid, Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program or Temporary Assistance for Needy Families. Applicants do not have to be on a public assistance program to qualify for WIC.

WIC is a federally funded nutrition program for women, infants and children who are determined to be at nutritional risk. A review of each applicant's current health information (height, weight, and hemoglobin) along with past and/ or present medical conditions that have a clear link with dietary choices are considered in determining each individual's nutritional risk

WIC saves lives and improves the health of nutritionally at-risk women, infants and children by reducing fetal deaths and infant mortality, reducing low birth weight rates and increasing the duration of pregnancy.

The program also improves the growth of nutritionally at-risk infants and children, decreases the incidence of iron deficiency anemia in children and improves the dietary intake of pregnant and postpartum women.

community south of Apopka," states the Apopka Historical Society's Northwest Orange County Register of Historic Places.

Transported via roller logs, the Champneys house first was relocated in west Apopka, then was moved "next to the filling station on Main Street," the Register states.

"In 1912," according to information researched and documented by the Society's Historic Preservation Council chairman Angela Nicols for the Register, "it was the home of William T. and Chattye H. Champneys."

"Wallace and Louise Champneys (later) moved into the big house and used their home for their office. Louise's sister, Verna H. Finney, lived upstairs in the big house and taught second grade in the school across Main Street, now City Hall."

By the 1980s, however, the historic home's longevity till then and future survival had become highly endangered.

Wallace Champneys hanging low over the house's destiny, yet another move was the only way to save this historical heritage for future generations. A moving company convinced the estate that the old house could be moved to another location again - and the higher cost of demolition and removal thus could be avoided.

"Robert and Deborah Gillis, and three other interested people put a deposit on the house. After the other three (bids) were eliminated, the Gillises got the house. In November 1993, the Gillises moved the original Champneys house from U.S. 441 to their property on Ustler Road. They received the Certificate of Occupancy and have been living there ever since."

The 15-years-younger Zepp House, constructed in Apopka circa 1910, was not included in the move.

Historian-author Dr. Jerrell Shofner recorded in his 1982 History of Apopka and Northwest Orange County that F. E. (Francis) Zepp arrived in Apopka in 1884. Here he began a 40-year career as a construction contractor.

Zepp became one of Apopka's biggest builders, along with being one of the organizers of the Apopka Board of Trade in 1912.

"After the Apopka School was destroyed by the 1918 tornado, plans for a new building were completed within a month. F. E. Zepp was given the contract and the school was constructed in time for fall classes," Shofner wrote.

"In 1924, the area's growth and consolidation of several country schools a second school building was needed in Apopka and Zepp again was the builder."

Among Francis Zepp's many other construction projects was the expansion of the ice plant in Plymouth.

He was also a prominent city official. His extensive public service included several terms on the City Council, and, in 1927, being named to the board of State Bank of Apopka.

Champneys was also an early local land developer who filed his plat for his Champneys' Portion of Apopka as early as November 1895.

Shofner relates in his local history book an intriguing story about William T. Champneys and the infamous tornado of 1918 that destroyed much of early Apopka's downtown

"In the early evening of January 11, 1918," Shofner wrote, "a vicious tornado swirled across Lake Apopka, mowed a wide swath though the pines in between and ripped into the center of town.

"W. T. Champneys was lying on a sofa in his living room when the storm struck. When it was over, he was still on the sofa, but it was out in the yard."

In July 2010, the abovementioned athletic program was held in conjunction with the city of Apopka after being precipitated and orchestrated by present and past professional athletes, including numerous local sport figures.

It was indeed an enormous success by all standards, especially when you evaluate the attendance by coaches from the Pop Warner youth football league, parents of participants, physical education instructors, as well as a great number of young girls and concerned citizens.

Slim spoke with a youth combine architectural board member Melvin "Grounds Boss" Jones after reading publications regarding two outstanding NFL players, Deacon Jones and Brandon Meriweather, whom youngsters relish the mere thought of being in their presence wherein to ascertain concrete knowledge of playing football. Possibly "Grounds Boss" Jones will intercede with an invite to the 2011 youth combine in July for these two illustrious outstanding players of the NFL.

Slim hopes that the combine activities can be ongoing from year to year so that the efforts of players will give our youngsters the proper frame of reference as to the importance of academic achievements, perseverance, and hard work if they aspire to reach the ultimate level of being a professional athlete.

Orlando Heart Specialists offers new tips to help promote heart health cardiovascular disease is the and stroke is the number three cause of death!

At Orlando Heart Specialists, they recognize that the best defense against heart disease and stroke is your lifestyle and therefore they are committed to education and awareness in their practice and community outreach.

The consequences of poor lifestyle choices are staggering and it is becoming more and more widespread. In fact, 65% of all adults in the U.S. are obese or overweight. The rate of incidence and the age at which heart complications begin have dramatically changed in the past ten years and, with childhood obesity increasworse.

The Orlando Heart Specialists practice is dedicated to teaching their patients about the modifiable risk factors and providing them with the knowledge they need to proactively take control of their health and ensure an optimum quality of life in the future.

They would like to supply you with some quick and easy tips on the modifiable risks that you can control and take responsibility for as Heart Association.

In the United States, Manage Blood Pressure

High blood pressure number one cause of death is when the blood running through your arteries flows with too much force and puts pressure on your arteries, stretching them past their healthy limit and causing microscopic tears. The body then kicks into injuryhealing mode to repair these tears with scar tissue. Unfortunately, that scar tissue then traps plague and white blood cells, which can form into blockages, blood clots, and hardened, weakened arteries.

To control your blood pressure: eat a heart-healthy diet, which may include reducing salt; enjoy regular physical activity; maintain or obese, you can reduce a healthy weight; manage stress; use positive self-talk; find pleasure with a hobby/ ing, are only going to get personal interest; get daily relaxation; limit alcohol; and avoid tobacco smoke/products.

Lose Weight

Among Americans age 20 and older, 145 million are overweight or obese (BMI of 25.0 kg/m2 and higher). This is of great concern, especially since obesity is now recognized as a major, independent risk factor for heart disease. If you have too much fat — especially if a lot of it is at your waist diabetes. — you're at a higher risk for promoted by the American such health problems as high to exercise for 30 minutes a often paid as a contractor for the water district, but has such a passion for the birds, he often works gratis as well.

"This area is not touched a lot," Robinson said. "There are so many birds out here that it varies all the time. This week, we had the highest count ever of white ibis – a total of 11,210 – the most in any one location."

Two trails are open to the public that enable bird-watching, the North Shore Trail and the Clay Island Trail. The latter has an observation tower near which a bald eagle was sighted earlier in the year. Bicycles, hiking, and horseback riding are currently permitted on the trails.

The Apopka Loop Connector Trail, scheduled to open early in 2012, will begin at Magnolia Park and lead to district trails.

More bird species have been noted at Lake Apopka than any other inland site in the U.S. As a result, birders currently visit Lake Apopka from all over the world, said Hank Largin, a spokesman for the water district.

Other wildlife species include numerous turtles, frog species, snakes, otters, alligators, green herons, native rats, foxes, bobcats, coyotes, panthers, deer, wild turkeys, and black bears.

The district is working to restore the wetlands through a variety of means, Peterson said. One means is through the planting of native wetland trees such as cypress, ash, and Tupelo. "Although we are currently managing the land to restore the wetlands, it has become such a bird habitat that we can see the land being managed in the future for the bird population," he said.

When Wekiva High's head baseball coach Eric Entrekin resigned two weeks ago after leading the program for three years, he left it in much better shape than he found it, as the Mustangs won 20 victories last year and came within one run of reaching the regional playoffs.

Now, James Anderson is being entrusted with not only maintaining what was left, but to further build it into being an even more relevant and viable program on the state scene, as a new generation of players take over.

"The athletic ability in the area and the opportunity for it to develop is well known," Anderson said. "It makes for some very exciting possibilities. And the program is definitely heading in the right direction. Coupled together, it makes for a good situation to coach. The program is still building. It has tasted success, but it is still desiring to do more. It is just that it is about building on becoming a viable and relevant program in baseball, not trying to become a successful program. Wekiva is still a fairly new school.

"So there hasn't been a lot of time for it to do what it needs to at this point and, as a result, there is still some building to be done. Coach Entrekin did a great job getting the program to where it is now, being a relevant and important one, so there are several key components already in place. But regardless of which one it is, every program is presented with challenges to continuing to build on its success, because of graduation. It makes every season something of a rebuilding one. Even when a program loses a small number of players, they are still key simply because of the experience they have as seniors."

Anderson began his coaching career at Martin County High School. He spent five years at that high school coaching under Gary Smith. He was the assistant coach for the first two years and then served as the associate coach. During his stay there, 10 players went on to the collegiate level and three were major league baseball draftees.

He then moved to the Orlando area and to Freedom High School in 2009, taking over for legend George Kirch-

"Please have your child wear a T-shirt, shorts, and cleats to every camp session.

The Apopka area has a rich tradition of athletic success and the end of June/early July has always been the time of the year Little League baseball takes its turn, including a berth in the 2001 Little League World Series.

Five teams will be attempting to return Apopka to its familiar place of competing for championships, as only one team advanced to a district championship game last year and only one played for a Tournament of Champions title earlier this month.

"All five teams have good ballplayers and they play hard," Gary Odom, president of the Apopka little league said. "Not all of them are the favorites going into the tournament, but they can hold their own and compete. If they play hard and with the intelligence the way they did during the regular season, they should be in all the games and have a good tournament. This is more of a rebuilding year for Apopka Little League compared to the last two years or at least by Apopka standards, but we teams to lose. There is only one winner. So everybody plays until all but one team has lost. That is not an easy thing to do. So it takes some experience as well as talent, but it also means every team has a chance because one bad game can eliminate the favorites."

The Little League all-star teams are divided into four age groups, 9-10 years old, 10-11 years old, 11-12 years old, and 13-14 years old.

Apopka's teams will start play on Monday, June 27, and will enjoy familiar surroundings as their games will be played at the Little League's facility at the Northwest Recreation Complex off Ponkan Road and Jason Dwelley Parkway.

The Apopka Little League will be fielding two teams for the 9-10 year olds and the 11-12 year olds. The league will field one team for the 13-14 year olds. No teams for the 10-11 year olds will be fielded. The two age groups

Teams look for competitive edge in fuzzy parts of rule book

"t's long been a fact that for NASCAR teams to improve the performance of their cars and gain an edge on the competition, they have to work in the "gray area" of the rule book. That is, they have to come up with something that isn't specifically prohibited and hope it will be ruled illegal by series inspectors.

But the "gray area" for fans and people outside NASCAR is whether those enterprising mechanics are innovators or cheaters.

The issue arose again last week at Michigan International Speedway, where all three Sprint Cup cars from Joe Gibbs Racing were found to be equipped with engine oil pans that had not been previously approved by NASCAR. Many in the garage said the pans, which were changed before the race, were significantly heavier than a normal oil pan. A heavy oil pan would allow a team to have weight in an advantageous place on the car, as Ford driver Carl Edwards pointed out in his petitive standpoint, for the Gibbs teams to be under some extra scrutiny from NASCAR officials. (Gibbs also had a problem at Pocono where Kyle Busch's car was found to be too low in a post-race inspection.)

"It is good for us because NASCAR will be watching those [Gibbs] guys harder and paying attention to their cars a little more,' Edwards said. "That is good for the rest of us."

Denny Hamlin, who drives the No. 11 Toyota at Gibbs, went on to win at Michigan, breaking a 16-race winless skid by capitalizing on a quick pit stop that put him in position to lead the final eight laps. In his pre- and postrace interview sessions, he found himself in the awkward spot of answering questions about his team's issues with the rules.

"For me, I don't know a whole lot about it, to be honest with you," he said during his regular pre-race press conference. "We continue to evolve our cars and things like that through the course of a season. It's just, all teams do. And usually when you have something new a new part – sometimes you submit it and sometimes you don't and I feel like this is probably one of the parts NASCAR wants you to submit. Hamlin's crew chief Mike Ford said the team's victory on Sunday, after the controversy related to the oil pans, says a lot about the team. "I think it speaks volumes to the experience and the resilience of this 11 car that you can start the week off with a down note and put that behind you, and make sure that it doesn't affect what's getting ready to happen," he said. "We turned a negative for us to a positive, and we'll see where it goes from there. This team usually comes out swinging when its back is against the ropes. Sometimes we connect and sometimes we get dotted in the eye."

NOTEBOOK Martin, Earnhardt have words

Dale Earnhardt Jr. had some unusually harsh words for his Hendrick Motorsports teammate Mark Martin after the two bumped late in Sunday's race at Michigan.

"I perceived that he didn't know I was on his outside," Earnhardt said. "He came up there. He knew I Dale Earnhardt Jr. was up there, but he was just running hard. "If the tables were turned, I would have been smarter and given plenty of room ...

"He is older than me, been racing forever and knows a lot more than I'll ever get - or he has forgot more stuff than I'll never know. Still, I take better care of people than that."

Martin's response: "I don't have a history of having problems. I don't think I have one now. I think we will get it sorted out. I feel like I give everybody on the race track respect. I made a mistake."

Edwards hopes for car changes

Carl Edwards, who finished fifth in Sunday's Sprint Cup series Heluva Good 400 at Michigan, said he hopes NASCAR will make changes to the 2013 cars to make passing easier than it is with the current car.

"Sadly, downforce is such a big factor in these cars, and I am really hoping that NASCAR will take the opportunity in 2013 to take downforce away so the fans can see the guys race race cars and not race downforce," he said, explaining that with the way the air affects cars, the leader of a pack has a great advantage over those behind him.

"Let's say all of the cars are a tenth [of a second per lap] apart, and you are behind two or three cars, your car is two-tenths of a sec-ond slow," he said. "You can't make it up.

"Denny [Hamlin] earned this win and those are the rules we are under. Track position was huge, and I just wish it wasn't like that."

Michigan track to be repaved

In an effort to prevent the possibility of potholes developing in the track and causing embarrassing delays such as the ones during the Daytona 500 last year, Michigan International Speedway officials are repaying that two-mile track.

The work will begin this week, with the repaying of pit road. The track itself will be tackled after the Aug. 19 Cup race.

The track, built in 1968, has been repaved three times already, in 1977, 1986 and 1995. During the upcoming project, workers will remove the top two inches of asphalt and replace it with two layers, each about 1.5 inches. The first will be a leveling course and the second a final wearing course.

weekly meeting with the press.

"I am certain that they were trying to achieve some balance with the car," he said.

Edwards, who has seen his own team have a run-in with NASCAR officials over technical issues, said it's tough for a driver, the most visible member of the team, to defend the work of his crew in a situation that looks like cheating.

"It is hard to explain," Edwards said, adding that he got an eye-opener on the subject when he was chosen for the President's Council for Fitness, Sports and Nutrition.

"There is a big vetting process that goes with that. I had to be on a 30-minute phone call about every bad thing I have done in my life.

"They really wanted to talk about these times that our team had been caught cheating. They were like, Why were you fined these points and this money? You guys were cheating.

Edwards said he answered by saying that auto racing is different from other sports, at least as far as "cheating" is concerned.

"I am like, 'No, you don't understand, this is auto racing. The guys at the shop build the most trick thing they can and bring it to the race track. I hop in and drive it, and if you run well or some part falls off or the heights aren't right, then it looks like we were cheating, but that is just part of the sport," he said. "It is hard to explain that to some people. They think that if it didn't fit the rules, then I was cheating?

Edwards also said that if a team isn't being creative, the driver won't be winning many races

'You want your guys at the shop pushing every edge of the rule book," he said. "That is what you want."

And he said that it doesn't hurt, from a com-

Daytona Superspeedway being repayed to repair potholes that delayed last year's Daytona 500. Michigan International Speedway has announced a preemptive repaying plan to avoid a similar situation. (NASCAR photo)

Not resting on laurels, Gordon preps for Infineon road race

Even after scoring 84 victories on the Sprint Cup circuit, Jeff Gordon is still willing to go the extra miles to try to make his race cars faster. He recently traveled to the Mid-Ohio Sports Car Course near Lexington to work on his team's preparation for this week's race at Infineon Raceway in Sonoma, Calif.

The Mid-Ohio track has two primary configurations: a 2.4-mile, 15-turn, and a 2.25-mile, 13-turn circuit.

Gordon tested alongside road racing specialist Boris Said, who will be driving the No. 51 Chevrolet, which is built by the same Hendrick Motorsports people that prepare Gordon's car.

"I thought we had a good test," he said. "I thought Mid-Ohio was a departure from what we normally do to try to learn something and make some gains.

"I feel like we made some gains and I hope it shows up out on the track out in Sonoma."

Gordon acknowledged that his team hasn't been as good as it should have been in recent road races, especially at Sonoma, where he leads all drivers in wins with five, top-five finishes with 11 and top-10s with 15, but hasn't won since 2006.

"We have not been competitive enough to win there," he said. "Probably better there than at Watkins Glen, but even at Sonoma the last couple of times felt like we haven't been good enough."

He said testing at Mid-Ohio made sense to him. especially compared to the other road courses that teams use now that testing is banned on tracks where the NASCAR circuits actually race.

"None of [the road courses] are anywhere close to the tracks that we go to," he said. "VIR (Virginia International Raceway) - it's a nice track and there are some hard braking sections, so if you want to go test out your transmission and get used to doing some shifting and down shifting and check out your brakes, great, go to VIR.

"If you want to try to get handling characteristics for Watkins Glen or Sonoma, forget it. We got to Road Atlanta because it's a faster road course, which is more like Watkins Glen, which is a fast road course. Again, handling characteristics I think are really minimal.

Gordon said that Sonoma is a low-grip road course with a lot of elevation changes, and he feels that Mid-Ohio offers some of the same challenges.

"It's not Sonoma, but I kind of like some of the transitions in the corners and some of the elevation changes that I thought could help us for Sonoma," he said. "We'll find out."

Herrera reflects on win-win decision he must make

By Neal Fisher Apopka Chief Staff

It was no surprise that the University of Miami Hurricanes wanted Wekiva's Jace Herrera to play for them as he is tall and lean, and he looks the part of the ace of a pitching staff. But after spending the four years of his high-school career proving he is as good as advertised and to put himself in a good position with his commitment to Miami, he finds himself in an even better position as June comes to an end.

It is the best possible kind of position for a recently graduated high school player, as major league baseball's Boston Red Sox concurred with the local assessment and drafted him. He is the first Mustang to be drafted by a major league baseball team.

"Of course, it's a great position to be in," Herrera said. "It's what every player strives for because it's a win-win situation. But for me, it is special because, I can finally say it has happened. It is something I really didn't think a lot about it as a child because it just seemed so far down the road even if I was good enough to be drafted. Now, I have accomplished both (college signing and pro draft). I felt a big sense of success accomplishing one, but successfully accomplishing both is a huge deal because it is unique.

"Not a lot of players are in this position and even more so in the position of choosing between two premiere programs at either level of baseball. I am very aware of just how special it is to be where I am."

Jace Herrera, a recent graduate of Wekiva High School, must choose between playing baseball for the University of Miaimi or the Boston Red Sox, which drafted him in the 36th round.

Herrera signed with the University of Miami in November. While he was offered scholarships and there was heavy interest from other schools, Miami, as a part of the very select group of elite programs, was by far the best option. The Hurricanes have won four national championships and earned berths in the NCAA College World Series 23 times while advancing to the postseason every year since 1973. Miami has also compiled a 1,964-716 overall record, a winning percentage of .733 since 1968.

Of course, the Boston Red Sox are not only one of major league baseball's most identifiable teams, but the franchise is among that group for all of professional sports, as it is steeped in tradition and has been a part of some of baseball's most iconoclastic moments. However, in the past decade or so, Boston has raised itself from one of major league baseballs better franchises to an elite championship team as it has won two World Series championships and earned playoff berths in seven of the past eight years.

As of Tuesday, June 21, the Red Sox were in first place in the American League East division with a 44-28 record, 1.5 games ahead of the New York Yankees.

Herrera was taken by Boston during the 36th round of the major league baseball draft. He was also named the Florida Athletic Coaches Association's district Player of the Year.

"Herrera is good enough to play for Miami because he throws three pitches for strikes," recently resigned Wekiva coach Eric Entrekin said after Herrera signed with Miami. "That is unusual for a high school pitcher. He also throws them in the upper 80s. He throws strikes consistently because his two off-speed pitches, when combined with the other one, make for an effective combination. He will probably be a middle reliever and make an occasional start with the intention of him growing into a full-time starter.

"When we (the coaching staff) took over the program, Herrera couldn't bench 100 pounds. Now, he benches 225 pounds. He trusted us and our plan, but he was the one who did the work and put the time in. He was the one who made the commitment to the plan and believed in it. He was the one who lifted the weights. He was the one who did the running. He was the one who played travel ball."

Herrera expects to meet with Red Sox officials within two to three weeks. He will make his decision after the meeting.

His decision will be based on the contract offered to him, both financially and its length, as well as if he is ready to give up his desire to earn a college degree at least for now.

If he chooses to go into the Red Sox farm system, he will not be able to pursue a college degree, as in his words "he will have to eat, sleep and, in general, live baseball," leaving no time for academic study.

"If I go to Miami, I am going there to play baseball, but also to get a degree, and academics is the other primary reason players go to Miami," Herrera said. "But, again, either way, it is a great honor. Miami has been a collegiate power since the '70s and they put ballplayers in the major leagues. Boston is one of the few teams ballplayers hope to get drafted by, because they are a major league baseball tradition.

"Having the opportunity to add to the organization's tradition is an honor. It is one of the historic teams of the sport and it has a great fan base. I am where I am because I have a will and want to train hard. I was willing to put in the work and time. My work ethic is my greatest asset and that is what has been the most important reason I am facing the decision of going to Miami or playing in the Red Sox system.

Herrera, who graduated from Wekiva High earlier this month with honors, compiled a 6-2 record and 1.74 earned run average during his final season at Wekiva. He pitched a total of 68 innings and gave up 17 earned runs. He struck out 84 batters while giving up only 15 walks.

"I think the Red Sox picked me because I am almost 6 feet, four inches tall and can throw upwards of 91 mph," Herrera said. "There is a lot of potential for me to continue to get better at understanding how to use my physical attributes as an advantage and how to use them to improve my skill set."

Mustangs: 12 seniors graduated from the 20-7 Wekiva baseball team

gassner, who had 619 victories as of 2010. Anderson led the team to its best season ever. Freedom put together a 25-5 season while claming its first district and Metro Conference championship.

Most importantly, they also won the Class 6A-District 4 tournament championship to qualify for the regional playoffs. They advanced to the regional semifinals before losing to Timber Creek, which went on to the state semifinals.

The new Wekiva coach takes over a program which went 20-7 last season, its most successful. But the Mustangs lost 12 players to graduation. On the other hand, the feeder programs were greatly improved during the last three years and most of those players were already considered talented and ready to step into varsity competition.

Anderson also decided to join the Wekiva staff because he will be a physical education teacher. After teaching history, he is looking forward to the change. He is certified in both teaching disciplines.

"We feel in the end we got the man we wanted," athletic director Lamarr Glenn said. "We like his high energy and, most importantly, we feel he is a teacher of baseball. With the 12 seniors graduating, that is what the program needs. That is an element which the program and the players need. That is one of the qualities which coach Entrekin has. The two coaches have several qualities in common and approach the game the same way.

"We felt like we weren't making a drastic change in how the program will be managed with hiring Anderson. He is straight forward, upfront, honest and a goal-setter. That makes him a good communicator and will work well with the Wekiva community. As far as his abilities to coach baseball, he is well organized, has a good practice plan and is aggressive, especially on offense. Those characteristics are what 15- and 16-year-olds need to become better ballplayers. They need somebody who will lead and set expectations for them."

Glenn finished by saying Anderson's willingness to get his hands dirty, doing maintenance on the field, was the other deciding factor and all of those factors, as a whole, are the keys to winning.

Applications were accepted immediately after Entrekin resigned two weeks ago. The field was reduced to three last week. Anderson was then selected.

"The fundamentals are always the most important aspect of baseball and the starting point where a coach is," Anderson said. "That is where we will start. We will focus on pitching and defense and be aggressive on offense. That is my nature to try to put pressure on the defense, not react to it. But it is going to be even more so at Wekiva because of the district it plays in. With the district being so competitive, in order to win it, teams have to play good defense and put pressure on the opponent's defense.

"But it is also where good coaches start from, because in order to know what they have to work with, they need to know the players can execute the fundamentals first. Specifically, a coach can't move on as far as being able to develop a style according to his players' strengths unless they can throw strikes and get hitters out first. As far as joining Wekiva's staff, I am impressed by the vision of Dr. Gruber and Glenn. They are focused on developing young people who will contribute to society. The coaches believe in developing strong student-athletes and that is as important as putting a competitive team on the field."

Entrekin remembers his time at Wekiva High fondly

By Neal Fisher Apopka Chief Staff

When Eric Entrekin took over the Wekiva High baseball program after its first year of existence, he was hired because he had proven himself as a head coach.

With his hiring, the program quickly began to develop an optimism of decisively moving in the right direction as Entrekin nurtured, yet exerted and pushed the athletes into becoming better baseball players. Unfortunately for the Wekiva faithful, that success and ability was to its detriment as the head coach accepted the same position at Lake Brantley last month.

Longtime Lake Brantley head coach Mike Smith was relieved of his duties in early May. As Smith's right-hand man for a significant portion of his time there, Entrekin was the natural choice to follow his mentor.

"I have been very happy and enjoy working at Wekiva, but the one coaching position I would leave Wekiva for opened up," Entrekin said. "The Lake Brantley coaching position is the only one I would even consider leaving Wekiva for because it is where I started my teaching and coaching career. When I was starting out, coach (Mike) Smith gave me my opportunity to learn how to manage as a third base coach. It is always good to go back home and I have the opportunity to further build on the success of coach Smith.

"However, it is not easy to

leave Wekiva. It has been difficult for me to leave the players, the athletic director (Lamarr Glenn), the parents, and the community, in general. It has been a great three years and experience which is not easy to leave behind."

The head coach began his coaching career while a student at the University of Central Florida in the early 1990s. While playing baseball for the university, he also served as a coach in the Valley and Cape Cod summer leagues from 1991-1994. After graduating from UCF in 1994, the then coach of the University of Central Florida, Jay Bergman, hired him as a student assistant.

Entrekin then served as an assistant coach at Lake Brantley High School for 11 years. The stint included the 1997

Class 6A state title as the Patriots defeated Apopka in the finals. He was hired by Ocoee High as its first baseball coach, when the school reopened in the fall of 2005. It was also Entrekin's first head coaching position. In only three years, he guided the program to its winning record during 2008. He then came to Wekiva during the summer of 2008 and 2009 was the first season with him at the helm of baseball program.

After a 6-21 record during Entrekin's first year as a Mustang, the program enjoyed its first winning season (15-11) during 2010. Wekiva won nine of its last 11 to finish the regular season. However, the Mustangs were whipped in the Class 6A-District 5 tournament's first round by the then three-time defending champion

West Orange.

Learning from that disappointment, the team came back in 2011 with unfinished business on its mind and it was clearly felt from the start to end of the season. The result was the program's first 20-win season at 20-7 and Wekiva become a legitimate contender, as well as relevant among the state's landscape for the sport. His personal reward was being named the Florida Athletic Coaches Association's district coach of the year.

Unfortunately after defeating Apopka in the opening round of the district tournament, there was one factor the team just couldn't prepare for, nor find an answer for, topseeded Dr. Phillips (18-9). For the Mustangs, the season of so much promise ended one game short of the postseason regional tournament with a 1-0 loss to Dr. Phillips.

Reflecting on his time at Wekiva and after winning the 2011 FACA district coach of the year award, Entrekin was animate in his appreciation of the players' hard work. As he moves on, he talked about that work being the key to his success as Wekiva's coach and the bright future the program he is leaving has.

"The players showed what hard work will do, first hand," Entrekin said. "They didn't just show up and win games. There was a lot of behind-the-scenes work. I told them (the players) when we (the coaches) came to Wekiva, it won't be easy. If winning was easy, everyone and every team would be able to do it. They lifted weights during the summer and winter. They hit the ball during the summer and off-seasons. They fielded balls during the summer and winter.

"Again, they put in the time and had the commitment, as well as dedication it takes to get better. Because of that, we can now say we won 20 games. Not a lot of teams win 20 games per year. We also have a good eighth-grade program. It won the fall championship of the league it played in. All of these play into being as successful as we were last season and the program having continued success."

He continued to say 12 of the players played for him all three of the years he was Wekiva's head coach and four of them were four-year starters. "They set a standard. The coach of the year award is because of them. It is an honor to them and setting that standard," Entrekin said.

"The Mustangs will continue to be a good team and program," Entrekin said. "It is not going to fall apart because I am leaving. There is a lot of talent coming in and they have an example of what it takes to be good to follow."

Eddie Doyle, Ocoee's former head coach, coached with Entrekin at Lake Brantley, and will join him as the top assistant at Lake Brantley. When Entrekin coached at Ocoee, Doyle was one of his assistant coaches. When Entrekin accepted the head coaching position at Wekiva, Doyle was promoted to the same job at Ocoee. With Entrekin accepting the head coaching position at Lake Brantley, Doyle will once again join him. The other coaches have yet to announced.

"It (Lake Brantley) is one of the top five coaching jobs in the state of Florida, maybe even the country," Entrekin said. "It has tremendous resources, including its feeder system. That was the other reason besides me returning to where I started I took the position. We (the coaches) have big shoes to fill taking over for Smith and our goal is to build on the tradition he set. We will make some changes, but keep a lot the same. In particular, I want to get the alumni more involved with what is currently going on.

"But, again, it is not easy leaving Wekiva. I am proud to say we did what we did, turning the program into a very good one. I am grateful to Dr. (Elise) Gruber (principal) and Lamarr Glenn (athletic director) for giving us that opportunity and my hope is they feel we not only left the program better than we found it, but it is now among the top ones. I built some great life-long friendships working at Wekiva and that is never easy to say goodbye to. I will miss those friendships and working with them every day."

Entrekin also said those friendships were among the whole athletic department, not just the baseball coaches and wishes all of the sports' programs the best of luck, as well as he hopes to see them win championships in the near future.

with two Apopka entries will have an Apopka American and Apopka National team.

Last year, the Apopka 11-12 National team won its pool and advanced to the Florthe only game it played during the Tournament of Champions pool play by a 16-6 score. The squad then won its second game by forfeit to earn a berth in the championship game.

In the championship game, Red Sox made short work of the Maitland Cubs as they relied on the tried-and-tested formula of taking a quick lead and then relying on pitching and defense to close out the game en route to a 5-1 win. Four runs were scored during the first inning, as the first five batters reached base. Then, Hunter Rotarius put on a pitching clinic. He pitched a complete game, giving up three hits and didn't issue a walk while striking out six batters. Through the first six frames, he faced only 19 batters and only one runner reached second.

That is as good a place for a champion to start as any. But they will have to be ready to play again."

Taking the 13-14 team's lead, the 9-10 years old American team also has a strong and deep pitching staff. Most of the members of that team play travel ball and that should come in handy at the tournament. While not quite as deep, the 9-10 National team also has a pitching staff capable of winning the pool, which makes it the dark horse for that age group. "This is a great opportunity to see good baseball," Odom said. "These players are very good and deserve the support of the community. It would be great to see it at our home facility." The games between the younger age groups will start at 6 p.m. First pitch for the other games is scheduled for 8 p.m. Those games match the teams in the older age groups.

I was talkin' to John Ricketson recently about the low water levels in our lakes. He reported to me that he fished a tournament on Lake Istopoka over the weekend and the water is so low that the hydrilla in the lake are turnin' brown on top of the mat. Folks, that ought to give you some reason to pray for rain.

As far as the fishin' goes, it's really been pretty good. Lots of folks are gettin' on the water and catchin' plenty of bluegills and catfish. You can fish your favorite lake or chain and you should do real good. Captain Linda reports that the folks in her area are catchin' crickets.

Lake Harris has been a good spot to fish. As was the case last week, the panfish are in the shaded areas of the chain. Anywhere you can find some shade like a dock, pads, bridges, and the grass line, you should be able to catch some panfish. Folks are catchin' some nice stringers of bluegills in Lake Dorr in the Ocala Forest, too.

If you want to catch some catfish, you should head over to the St. Johns River. Folks are catchin' some real nice catfish in the mouth of the Wekiva River where in comes into the St. Johns. You can catch 'em on nightcrawlers and stink baits. Chicken blood and beef blood are good stink baits to try.

If you want to catch some bluegills on red worms and bass, the St. Johns River has also been a good spot lately. Folks are catchin' some nice minute, I would like to close out this fishin' column and recognize a good friend of mine who passed away June 14. His name was John Yeackle. John was a local guy who grew up on the Wekiva River. John grew up in Sanford and loved the Wekiva River. We have shared many stories together about his adventures on the Wekiva. John's family started the Seminole Fish Camp in 1950. It's known today as Katies Landing. John was able to capture his love for the Wekiva River in his paintings. John's watercolors captured the beauty of the river and God's creations that he thoroughly enjoyed during his life. John's legacy will be long remembered by his paintings and pictures he took of the river. God Bless his family in his homegoing. He will be truly missed by everyone.

Darters: Schall will teach physical education at Ocoee High

that Schall has to do with the Apopka High baseball program will be as a competitor, as of this week, he was named the baseball coach at Ocoee High School.

Neither Schall nor the powers that be at Apopka High wanted the change, but a lack of a physical education teaching position at AHS set the stage for the coach's departure.

"It just didn't work out," Schall said. "The teaching position is what it came down to." Ironically, Schall was hired in June 2010 when Bill Floyd was principal at Apopka High. Now, Floyd is the head man at Ocoee High after having been transferred there a month after hiring Schall, who will be teaching physical education at Ocoee. Schall taught science at Apopka High, but that position was not available for the upcoming school year. Doug Guthrie, principal at Apopka, said Schall was given the choice of staying as the baseball coach, but without the teaching position.

"As far as the coaching goes, we wanted him back as baseball coach. I just did not have a teaching position," Guthrie said. "We were very pleased with what Chuck was doing (as baseball coach)."

If Schall had accepted the offer to just coach the baseball team, he would have had to find another full-time job elsewhere and work around that situation to be at the team's games and practices. "I don't blame him at all (for taking the Ocoee job)," Guthrie said. "He's got to feed his family." "We appreciate the hard work that he put in," Wambles, the Apopka athletic director, said. "He did a great job as coach. We wish him the best at

Ocoee, except when they play us." Wambles said he immediately began accepting applications for the Apopka job. "We'll have a good coach, too. We've already had quite a bit of interest. We'll be interviewing (applicants) very soon but don't have a definitive time line (on making a final decision)."

Part of the issue is matching available teaching positions with the new coach. "Hiring someone who is a quality teacher is important," Wambles said.

For Schall, the departure from Apopka was difficult. "It was really hard. There are a lot of really good people in Apopka."

But, he's looking to the future as coach of the Knights. "I've got to close that door and get myself energized for Ocoee."

Apopka girls win Babe Ruth softball district championship

The Apopka Babe Ruth under-10 all-stars won the District 6 championship last weekend, sweeping three games and winning the championship game 11-1.

As a result of the district title, the Apopka squad will play in the state tournament July 6-10 in Jacksonville.

In the championship game on Sunday, June 19, Apopka and Ocala battled early to a 1-1 score. Apopka, however, surged ahead with two runs, but then took over the game completely, eventually winning 11-1 in five innings, as the game was ended early due to the 10-run lead.

Mckenzie Tracy pitched a complete game for Apopka, striking out six Ocala batters.

The first game of the tournament for Apopka was played Friday, June 17, but didn't get started until 9 p.m., an hour after its scheduled time as the previous game went long.

The 15-11 Apopka victory over Tavares didn't end until 11:20 p.m. and the team had to be at the field at 8 a.m. on Saturday, June 18.

Tracy pitched the first four innings for Apopka, striking out five, until Krista Bird came on in relief, hurling the final two innings. She fanned three batters.

Apopka turned the game around in the fourth inning when they greeted a new Tavares pitcher with three two-run homers, including two by second baseman Victoria Leddon. Her blasts came after Rachel Umholtz's two-run dinger early in the rally.

The Apopka squad scored nine runs in the fourth with everyone contributing.

On Saturday, June 18, Apopka's second game of the tournament came against the same team they defeated for the championship, Ocala. The outcome was the same, as well, with Apopka winning 15-8.

Bird pitched the first four innings for Apopka, striking out four. Nyah Vogel hurled the last two innings, fanning three batters. Samantha Crum's bases-loaded triple was the big blow of the game for the Apopka squad. Defensively, third baseman Georgia Egbers tagged out a pair of runners who were trying to steal third.

MDA 'lockup' on July 7 will involve many from the Apopka area

More than 300 business and civic leaders from throughout the Apopka and Altamonte Springs areas will be "arrested" and put "behind bars" for the Muscular Dystrophy Association's Lock-Up fundraiser on July 7 at the Hilton in Altamonte.

"Accused of having big hearts and being heavily armed with kindness, the 'jailbirds' volunteered to be part of MDA's Lock-Up in order to raise 'bail' by encouraging friends, family, co-workers and business contacts to make contributions to MDA that will directly benefit families in Central Florida living with progressive muscle diseases," said Megan Glass, fundraising coordinator.

Each MDA jailbird's "bail" is set at $3,200 which will allow him/ her to be released for good behavior. MDA also assists jailbirds in creating personalized Lock-Up donation Web sites to help raise their bail ahead of time online. The links for these Web sites can be emailed to friends, family and co-workers who could make secure online donations.

"It's amazing how our community jailbirds have rallied around MDA and are doing a great job as they continue to raise bail donations," Glass said. "The actual day of the Lock-Up will be a fun celebration of the work each person did to help families who live right here in our community."

Lock-Ups are one of MDA's signature fundraising programs, benefiting local individuals living with muscular dystrophy, ALS and related progressive muscle diseases in the Apopka and Altamonte areas.

The event also will help send Central Florida youngsters to a special week at MDA summer camp at Camp Suwannee in Dowling Park, west of Lake City and Live Oak. Youngsters with muscle diseases, as well as the many volunteers who help create magic at MDA summer camp each year, enjoy a wide variety of activities designed specifically for youngsters with limited mobility. Some activities include horseback riding, swimming, football, and arts and crafts.

MDA is the nonprofit health agency dedicated to curing muscular dystrophy, ALS and related diseases by funding worldwide research. The association also provides health care services; advocates for the families it serves; and invests significant resources educating the medical and scientific communities, as well as the general public, about neuromuscular diseases affecting more than 1 million Americans.

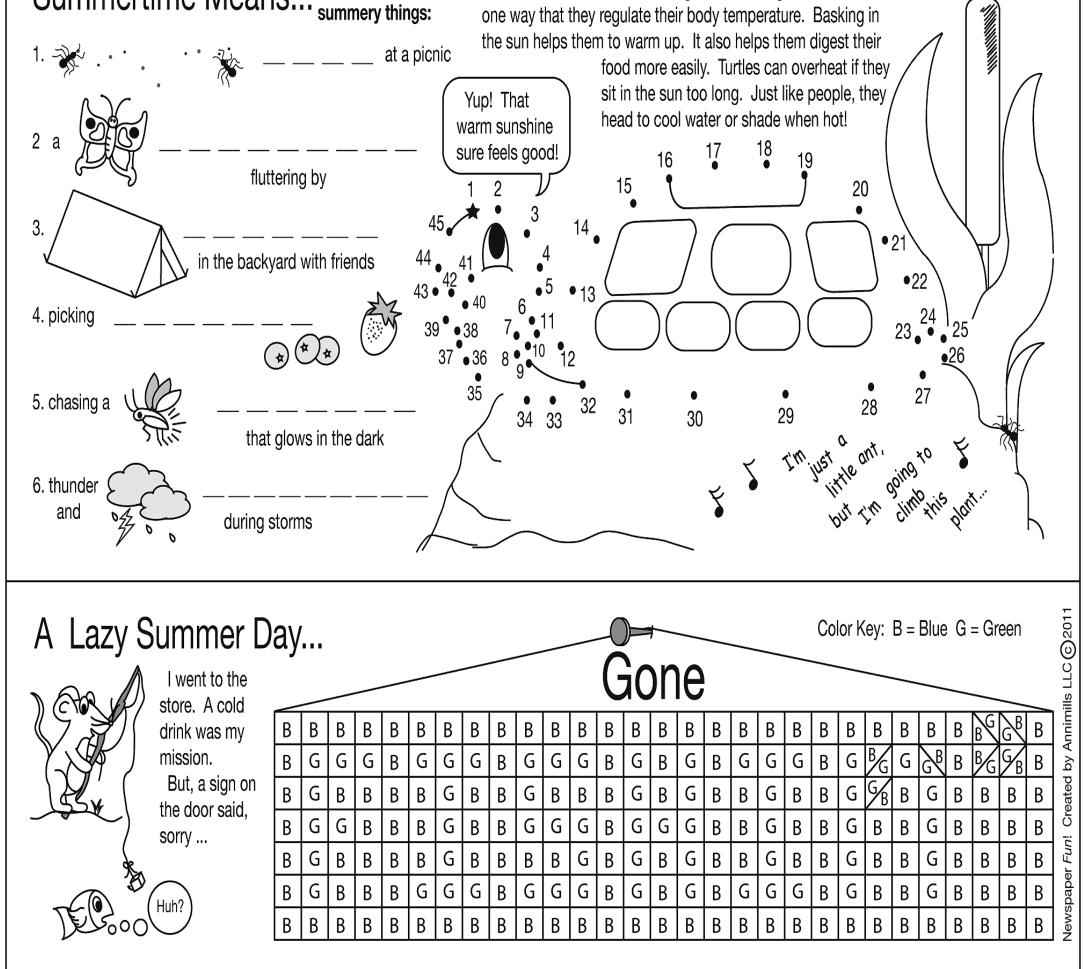

MDA maintains a nationwide network of some 200 hospital-affiliated clinics – 38 of which are designed as MDA/ALS centers – that provide medical and health care services to adults and children with neuromuscular diseases. Families in Central Florida can visit the MDA Clinic at Orlando Regional Lucerne Hospital.

For more information about MDA's Lock-Up campaign, contact Megan Glass at 407-562-2035 or mglass@mdausa.org.

Apopka professor works to clear up fungus on grapes

By Mickie Anderson UF Journalist

Dennis Gray may not be able to control Florida's humidity, but he wants to help popular grape varieties shrug off fungal diseases that thrive in muggy weather, and open up new markets for the state's growers and winemakers.

Gray, a professor with the University of Florida's Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences in Apopka, is the first researcher to boost fungaldisease resistance in grapes by giving them an extra helping of protective genes that occur naturally in grapes.

The process, known as cisgenic engineering or precision breeding, could be a major asset to Florida's $20 milliona-year grape industry, he said. Nationwide, the Sunshine State is traditionally the second- or third-largest market for table grapes and wine. The study appears in the online version of also work well in Florida. the journal In Vitro Cellular and Developmental Biology (Plant) "In creating these kinds of new versions of existing varieties, we think we can energize the Florida viticulture industry," said Gray, at UF's Mid-Florida Research and Education Center in Apopka. Many popular grape varieties are susceptible to disease in Florida, especially the bacterial malady called Pierce's disease, because the state's weather is hot and humid during much of the growing season, Gray said. Consequently, growers have mostly been limited to producing muscadine grapes, a large, thick-skinned variety developed from native grapes.

In the current study, Gray found that he could dramatically enhance the disease resistance of Thompson Seedless grapes by inserting a gene from the Chardonnay grape.

When grown under greenhouse conditions, the cisgenic Thompsons fended off powdery mildew disease seven to 10 days longer than unmodified counterparts.

In the field, the grapes showed a 42 percent reduction in sour-bunch rot disease, compared with control grapes, and the incidence of black rot was reduced by about half.

Gray is using the technology in hopes of creating cisgenic Thompson grape varieties and hopes to produce similarly disease-resistant varieties of Chenin Blanc, a traditional wine grape he believes could

Former Apopka Blue Darter baseball player Robert Beary and the South Carolina Gamecocks are still undefeated in the NCAA College World Series in Omaha, Neb. Beary is catching for the Gamecocks, who await the winner of the Virginia-California elimination game. South Carolina will play the winner today, Friday, June 24, at 7 p.m. on ESPN. The Gamecocks have to lose twice to that team to not make the championship series, a besttwo-of-three event that begins Monday, June 27.

Sea turtles deserve special attention

By Rodney Barreto Fish and Wildlife Commission

Some of the most routine habits we engage in on a daily basis can occasionally have some serious, unintended consequences for wildlife, and that is especially so for imperiled species.

Beachcombers out for a relaxing walk with the family dog may not recognize the signs that their presence has become a threat to nesting shorebirds and that they should detour around the area. Homeowners who leave a dirty grill in the backyard overnight, or unsecured trash or foodstuffs where wildlife can access it, can inadvertently create the catalyst for nuisance wildlife behaviors - with solutions that are palatable to no one.

Young sea turtle hatchlings, trying to make their escape from the dangers of their sandy birthplace to the relative safety of the water's edge, may be the poster children for wildlife that suffer from the unintended side-effects of human habitation and habit.

es throughout Florida on both the Atlantic and Gulf coasts. Sea turtles begin nesting in March on the central-east Florida coast, with peak nesting from May through August. Nests incubate in the beach sand from 45 to 60 days during peak nesting season, and hatching season extends through October 31.

As baby sea turtles start to hatch, a depression in the sand forms over the nest. The young turtles work their way to the surface and almost immediately head for the brightest horizon. Instinct tells these baby turtles that the sea reflects the greatest amount of light, and their only chance for survival lies in that direction - away from the darker shadows of the dunes that line the back of an undeveloped beach. Even when clouds obscure the stars and moon, the sea surface provides sufficient reflected light to lure the hatchlings - unless artificial light from beachfront homes and businesses interferes with Mother Nature's grand plan.

The bright light at the front door of people's homes acts as an after-dark guidepensive fix to protect sea turtles from the disorienting effects of beach lighting: Simply shield your lights from shining toward the beach.

The Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC) recommends lights be shielded starting on March 1 in Brevard and Broward counties, and May 1 in all other counties, through October 31 everywhere. If there is a need to light development landward of the sea turtle nesting beach, special lighting systems are available. They are designed to eliminate the turtle's confusion as to which way the water really is.

There's still another common habit that can have very serious consequences for baby turtles. During sea turtle nesting season, furniture should be removed from the beach at night because it acts as a barrier to the hatchlings. The delay exposes them to a greater risk of predation. Sometimes furniture proves an impenetrable barrier that hatchlings can't negotiate.

Some of the simple things we do and take for granted on a daily basis can have resistant grapevines isn't just good for Florida, it may enable UF to license patented varieties to growers in other parts of the world, Gray said.

Many grape-growing regions of the world have fungaldisease issues, and growers spray fungicides more than a dozen times in a season, he said

"If this resistance can break the spray cycle, we could not only save a lot of money, but there would be a lot less pollution for the environment," Grav said.

Under the best conditions, young sea turtles still experience high death rates, and only a very small percentage survive to adulthood. Even before these hatchlings make it to the relative safety of deeper water, predation by gulls and threats lurking in the nearby surf are heavy.

Furthermore, if these hatchlings don't head toward the water to begin with, there's virtually no chance even a small percentage will survive to return to the same beaches where their ancestors were born, to lay the eggs that are the foundation for generations to come.

It usually happens after dark on beach-post, welcoming them to a place of safety. But for baby sea turtles, bright, artificial lights splashing from a home or business toward the beach send them a false message - that the safety of the water lies in the direction of the building. It's usually a deadly piece of misinformation for baby turtles.

Adult female turtles also can suffer from light-disorientation when they come ashore at night to lay their eggs. Bright, artificial lights can cause adult turtles to head in the direction of a busy highway or toward other land-based dangers.

Fortunately, there's an easy and inex-serious consequences for wildlife. No matter where you live in Florida, be it on a rural dirt road or on the beachfront where sea turtles and shorebirds nest - take a little time to find out about the wildlife in your area and check local lighting ordinances if you live on the coast.

Visit MyFWC.com or call your nearest FWC regional office for information about the simple and inexpensive things you can do in your daily routine to help conserve and ensure the future for Florida's wildlife.

And to those who already make these minor adjustments to help wildlife survive for future generations, a sincere thank you.

Fishing with children can be the delight of anyone's day

If you really want to know why fishing is fun, all you have to do is take children out and watch the stream of emotions that light up their faces as they learn to bait a hook, cast and finally hook and retrieve a fish. The joy of learning, the reconnection with nature and our heritage, and the fulfillment of knowing they can catch their own - just like the pioneers contribute to those sensational smiles.

Conservation agencies, guides, facility planners, anglers and boaters share roles in making fishing more fun and satisfying for everyone on the water. They all have an abiding love for aquatic resources and the conservation stewardship ethic that help keep our natural resources pristine.

The Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC) is striving to create the next generation that cares through a variety of education and outreach programs across the state. However, what makes these programs work are the staff and volunteers. They are the unsung heroes of this movement to connect children and nature.

For instance, Mike Lesso and Dave Morse, who work with the FWC's Jacksonville Youth Summer Fishing Clinics, have taught more than 50,000 children to fish.

Fishing can be fun for people of any age.

"Mike, a high school teacher and avid sportsman, and Dave, a retired businessman and passionate recreational and tournament fisherman, have been teaching children how to catch fish for so long that many of their earliest pupils now have children of their own," said Eddie Leonard, their supervisor from the FWC's Division of Freshwater Fisheries Management.

"It's apparent when observing these two that they love what they are doing," Leonard said

Youth summer fishing clinics help kids appreciate freshwater resources and teach them the skills needed to catch fish. "These incredible experiences are delivered completely free of charge to participants," he added.

The duo typically conducts two workshops per day in the Jacksonville area, throughout the summer, reaching more than 5,000 students during summer break some years. Classes begin with a 30-minute lecture on ethical angling, water pollution, fish biology, tackle and techniques, and several other topics.

"Then the fun starts," Leonard said. They take the kids to the water's edge. Some children get frustrated easily or seem distracted at first. However, once someone catches the first fish, they are all very much in the moment.

"The expressions on the faces of the kids catching that first fish are nothing short of fantastic," Leonard said.

There always seems to be that one kid who stands out as a true angler, Leonard explained. "One little girl at a recent event was so successful that she offered to show the other kids how it was done. The student became the teacher in 90 minutes.'

The FWC maintains more than 80 fish management areas statewide and manages public fisheries in rivers and lakes. Partners help by providing bait, tackle, advertisements, supporting materials and fish camps around the state.

"This is a great program showcasing multiple partnerships and the incredible work dedicated volunteers," of Leonard said. To learn more about fish camps in freshwater and fishing clinics in saltwater, visit MyFWC.com/Fishing.

The following checklist makes fishing more enjoyable, safe and sustainable for everyone, including future generations.

An Ethical Angler:

* Promotes, through example and mentoring, an ethical use of aquatic resources.

* Values and respects the aquatic environment and all living things, including other anglers and boaters.

* Never dumps pollutants, such as gas or oil, or tosses pieces of fishing equipment or trash on the ground or in the water.

* Purchases required fishing licenses and permits. (See My-FWC.com/License.)

* Learns and obeys angling and boating regulations and can identify fish to adhere to the rules.

* Keeps no more fish than needed for consumption. Uses tackle and techniques that minimize harm to fish and carefully handles and releases alive all fish that are unwanted or prohibited by regulation.

* Takes precautionary measures to prevent the spread of exotic plants and animals and does not use diseased or nonnative baits.

* Participates in conservation efforts such as cleanups, transplanting, tagging and creel surveys.

* Practices safe angling and boating.

* Protects animals and the environment from damage caused by careless boat operation.

* Conserves energy and water on a daily basis, knowing how it affects local fish and wildlife.

Fishing license sales, matching federal funds and donations support these programs. The law generally requires fishing licenses if you are between 16 and 65 years old. However, many anglers know that buying a license helps fund fish and wildlife conservation, so they voluntarily buy one as a way of showing their stewardship ethic. In addition, you can donate to Florida Youth Fishing and Hunting Programs when you purchase a license.

This story represents the meaning of the flag of the United States of America to those who are in the U.S. Armed Forces and who have fought and who do fight to protect our freedoms

The story is true and taken from a speech that John McCain gave before the 1988 Republican National Convention.

A real example of the story as it has been circulated:

From a speech made by Capt. John S. McCain, USN, (Ret) who represents Arizona in the U.S. Senate: As you may know, I spent five and one half years as a prisoner of war during the Vietnam War. In the early years of our imprisonment, the NVA kept us in solitary confinement or two or three to a cell. In 1971 the NVA moved us from these conditions of isolation into large rooms with as many as 30 to 40 men to a room. This was, as you can imagine, a wonderful change and was a direct result of the efforts of millions of Americans on behalf of a few hundred POWs 10,000 miles from home.

One of the men who moved into my room was a young man named Mike Christian.

Mike came from a small town near Selma, Alabama. He didn't wear a pair of shoes until he was 13 years old. At 17, he enlisted in the US Navy. He later earned a commission by going to Officer Training School. Then he became a Naval Flight Officer and was shot down and captured in 1967.

Mike had a keen and deep appreciation of the opportunities this country-and our military-provide for people who want to work and want to succeed. As part of the change in treatment, the Vietnamese allowed some prisoners to receive packages from home. In some of these packages were handkerchiefs, scarves and other items of clothing. Mike got himself a bamboo needle. Over a period of a couple of months, he created an American flag and sewed on the inside of his shirt.

Every afternoon, before we had a bowl of soup, we would hang Mike's shirt on the wall of the cell and say the Pledge of Allegiance. I know the Pledge of Allegiance may not seem the most important part of our day now, but I can assure you that in that stark cell it was indeed the most important and meaningful event.

One day the Vietnamese searched our cell, as they did periodically, and discovered Mike's shirt with the flag sewn inside, and removed it. That evening they returned, opened the door of the cell, and for the benefit of all us, beat Mike Christian severely for the next couple of hours. Then, they opened the door of the cell and threw him in. We cleaned him up as well as we could.

The cell in which we lived had a concrete slab in the middle on which we slept. Four naked light bulbs hung in each corner of the room. As I said, we tried to clean up Mike as well as we could. After the excitement died down, I looked in the corner of the room, and sitting there beneath that dim light bulb with a piece of red cloth, another shirt and his bamboo needle, was my friend, Mike Christian. He was sitting there with his eyes almost shut from the beating he had received, making another American flag.

He was not making the flag because it made Mike Christian feel better. He was making that flag because he knew how important it was to us to be able to pledge allegiance to our flag and our country.

So the next time you say the Pledge of Allegiance, you must never forget the sacrifice and courage that thousands of Americans have made to build our nation and promote freedom around the world. You must remember our duty, our honor, and our country.

"I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America and to the republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Summertime safety a must this season

Summertime and the livin is easy; Fish are jumpin' and the cotton is high ...

George Gershwin wrote these lyrics for the 1935 opera "Porgy and Bess."They seem fitting to many people, as summertime is seen as a time to kick back, relax and enjoy a slower pace.

With a greater number of people out and about enjoying the warm weather, the risk for accidents and injuries increases. The National Safe Kids Campaign says statistics indicate children will be rushed to emergency rooms around the country nearly three million times this summer. Higher rates of drowning, motor vehicle accidents and bicycle injuries occur this time of year.

There are a number of potential summertime hazards you can safeguard yourself against.

Sun-Related Injuries

While skin cancer and sunburn are the most obvious dangers from the sun, there are other hazards as well. Failure to protect the eyes from UV sun exposure can result in irreversible photokeratitis, sunburn of the cornea. While it may cause temporary vision recurrent incidences loss, of photokeratitis can lead to permanent vision loss as well. Individuals who are exposed to sunlight between 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. without UV protection become sunburned, may increasing their risk for skin cancer. According to the American Cancer Society, this year more than one million Americans will be diagnosed with skin cancer and about 9,500 people will die from it.

Dehydration and heat stroke are other potential hazards. Drinking plenty of hydrating water and other fluids (not diuretics like alcohol) can keep the body cool and refreshed. Headaches, acting angrily, dizziness, and excessive sweating or cessation of sweating may be signs of a serious sun-related health condition.

Water Hazards

The Maryland CARES which educates Program, health care professionals and the public about pediatric care and safety, offers that drowning incidents increase 100 percent over the summer months. It takes only inches of water to drown a person, especially a young child. Every year the news broadcasts stories of children who fell into backyard pools or adults swept out to sea by choppy waves.

People should never take bodies of water for granted. Swimming only where there is a certified lifeguard can make water recreation safer. Individuals should follow the guidelines posted regarding swimming and avoid oceans when storms are brewing because of rip tides and undertows.

Children should always be carefully monitored around gates water. Self-latching around pools can help deter entry as well as safety covers or retractable pool ladders. Remember, pool floats and water wings (swimmies) should not be used as a substitute for a life vest.

Wildlife Dangers

Tick bites are common when the weather is warm. Experts say that the months of May, June and July are peak times for exposure to ticks, which may carry Lyme Disease or another dangerous parasite. Ticks are small and can be difficult to spot. People can do a tick check after coming in from outside, paying careful attention to the areas to which ticks tend to migrate:In ears, in and around the hair, under the arms, behind the knees, around the waist, and between the legs.

Mosquitoes, biting flies, bees, wasps, and other insects are in full force. Using an insect repellent can help keep them at bay and avoid bites.

In addition to insects, animals like bats, squirrels, raccoons and bears are more active in the warm weather. During the time of dawn and dusk deer may be on the prowl for food before the heat of day. People can pay attention to wildlife when driving, hiking or bicycling to avoid altercations.

Most individuals can enjoy the summer if they make safety a priority when planning recreational activities.
