World Language Specialist Speaks Here March 10, 11

Bovet, Swiss Authority on Esperanto, to Lecture

Prof. Pierre Bovet, of Switzerland, a world authority in the general field of genetic psychology, who has also made a special study of the international auxiliary language, Esperanto, will deliver two lectures in Iowa City Wednesday and Thursday evenings, March 10 and 11.

Professor Bovet is director of the Rousseau Institute of the University of Geneva, Switzerland, and an authority on child psychology. His lecture Wednesday night will be on "Child Psychology at the Institute of Geneva," at 8 p. m. at the chemistry auditorium.

Interested in Child Study

The second lecture on "International Auxiliary Languages in Nations in Relation to Child Study and Education" will be at the auditorium Thursday night. Professor Bovet is especially qualified to talk on the international language because in addition to having made a special study of Esperanto he has lived at Geneva, which is becoming the world's meeting place for international leagues and conference bodies. He has thus come into close contact with the necessity of establishing an international language.

He is visiting the United States to study the question of certain newer movements in education, including child study and parent education. He is welcomed by educators as "one of the finest scholars that has ever come to our country."

Esperanto Conference

His interest in child psychology led him to make an investigation in Esperanto in 1922. Esperanto is a purely synthetic and mechanical language that has been constructed according to definite rules. In it the vowels have only one sound and there are no exceptions allowed to its grammar rules.

Under his leadership the Rousseau Institute convened an international conference on the teaching of Esperanto in the schools, meeting in the hall of the league of nations. It was attended by educationists of twenty-eight countries and representatives of sixteen governments.

Learn of Esperanto

Prof. C. A. Rucknick, of the department of psychology, conducted a language experiment at Wellesley college in 1922 to determine whether Esperanto is as easily learned as foreign languages. The test was made on 500 girls and their progress in Esperanto compared to their progress in Danish, both languages being unfamiliar to them. Esperanto proved much the easier of the two to learn. The same girls learned in ten weeks as much of the proposed international language as they had of French in from two to seven years of study.

In the International Auxiliary Language movement at Columbia University there has been an incentive to study what language is the most adequate to express scientific views and funds are becoming available for that purpose.

The need for an international language was evidenced at the last peace conference at Washington where the French representatives were the only ones who did not speak English, and so were at a distinct disadvantage.

Scope of Adoption

There are now about twenty journals published in Esperanto and some commercial organizations that carry on international trade teach their employees the language. It is musical in sound and can be dealt with expressively.

The lectures by Professor Bovet are being sponsored by the graduate college and are considered by them the best that they have on this year's program.

France Turns to Briand to Frame Another Ministry

(By The Associated Press)
PARIS, March 8.—A ninth Briand cabinet tonight seemed the most probable solution of France's cabinet crisis. One of the public men consulted today by President Doumergue expressed the general sentiment regarding the crisis saying: "There is only one man who can unravel the situation. That is Briand."

Seeks Seculsion

M. Briand, however, will require a great deal of persuasion before he consents to undertake a new difficult task of bringing order out of the parliamentary chaos. He is willing to remain at the quai d'Orsay as foreign minister but prefers that some one else grapple with the financial situation.

The opinion, tonight however is that pressure to overcome his objections will be brought to bear because it is impossible now to see how any other one man can unravel the tangle.

Ask Herriot Cabinet

The extreme radicals and socialists are making every effort to reorganize their cartel behind a Herriot cabinet. The president of the chamber of deputies, however, is averse to this combination, because he would be obliged to support the same financial policy he followed when in power before, which was rejected by the senate.

Joseph Caillaux is still mentioned as an available candidate if M. Briand should steadfastly refuse. He is understood to have formulated three conditions to his acceptance at least two of which are thought to be fatal to his chances.

Farmer Wounds Sheriff Attempting to Serve Papers

(By The Associated Press)
THAYER, Mar. 8.—Sheriff Fred Collins was shot and seriously wounded this afternoon by George Gibson, farmer living at the southeast edge of town, when the sheriff in company with Deputy United States Marshal Al Burke attempted to serve possession papers for a strip of Collin's land which is to be traversed by the new federal highway.

The sheriff is in a hospital at Creston. Physicians say he will live. His assailant is being held at Creston until Collins' condition determines what charges will be filed against him.

Enmity of Long Standing

An enmity of long standing arising out of a law suit of many years ago is believed to have prompted Gibson's act. Marshall Burke said the farmer, when he fired the gun, could not have known what the officers' purpose was. Theories that the farmer had been opposed to the new road across his land were discounted by the investigation being directed by the sheriff's brother, Deputy Sheriff Frank Collins.

The history of the law suit which is said to have aroused the feud long ago, is unknown.

When the two officers at the Gibson farm were shot.

Workers Take 37 From Shafts; Gas Hinders Rescuers

(By The Associated Press)
ECCLES, W. Va., Mar. 8.—One man is known to have been killed, thirty-one miners were rescued alive following the explosion in mines Number five and six of the Crab Orchard Improvement company, near here, according to a check made late tonight by officials. Many of those brought out by rescue crews were badly burned and were suffering from the effects of poison gas.

Mine officials said that the original blast occurred in Number five where the twenty-six entombed men were working and that it spread to Number six, trapping forty others.

Bring Out Survivors

Rescue crews went into Number six shortly after the blast occurred, and brought out the survivors. They said this mine was little affected by the blast.

Number six mine was filled with poisonous gases and the rescue men could not go down the shaft. The body was found in a lateral connecting the mines.

Both mines are shaft operations, electrically equipped with a daily tonnage capacity of about 2,000.

Two Shifts at Work

The two shifts were at work when the blasts occurred. Mining experts expressed the belief that the explosion in Number six traveled through the underground channels to the laterals running into Number five and that the explosion spread through the latter mine setting off coal dust.

A state rescue car, stationed at Gary, was ordered to the scene.

R. E. Taggart, general manager of the mines is enroute from his home at Big Stone Gap, Va., by automobile. He will make the final dash on a special train from Princeton.

Ask Rescue Crews

At Eccles, officials of the two mines issued calls to surrounding villages to send rescue crews. Volunteer rescuers, hastily organized at the mines, could not go down the shafts because of the fumes.

Local Speakers Will Appear on Com. Program

Activities of the university in the field of commercial education research are shown by the number of local speakers who will take part in the program of the Research Conference on Commercial Education which will be held here March 19 and 20.

Besides fifteen national authorities on commercial education from different parts of the country there will be six Iowa faculty members on the program. Prof. A. G. Walker of the college of commerce will speak on "The Student's Interest as a Success Factor," and Prof. Linton Ackerson of the psychology department on "A Correlational Analysis of Proficiency on Typing."

Blackstone to Give Report

Speakers from the college of education are: Miss Frances Nies, whose topic is "Unit Measurement in Typing," Mr. O. H. Ohmann, "The Possibilities of Prognosis in Stenography," and Mr. David Pearson, "An Experiment with the Miller-DeLano Method of Teaching Typing."

Mr. E. G. Blackstone of the colleges of commerce and education will give a "Preliminary Report on the Iowa Continuing Commercial Survey."

Wm. F. Book to Speak

Dean Chester A. Phillips of the college of commerce and Dean Paul C. Packer of the college of education will be section chairmen Friday and Prof. E. W. Hills and Prof. S. L. Miller, of the college of commerce will be chairmen of the Saturday meeting. At a dinner at the Memorial Union at six o'clock Friday, Prof. Edward H. Lauer, director of the extension division, will preside. President Walter A. Jessup, Dean Paul C. Packer, and Prof. William F. Book, a pioneer in the field of commercial education research, will speak.

Other social events in connection with the conference will be a tea for the ladies at the University club Friday afternoon, with Mrs. C. A. Phillips, Mrs. P. C. Packer, and Mrs. E. G. Blackstone as hostesses, a social luncheon for the men at the Triangle club Friday evening, and a conference luncheon at the Memorial Union Saturday noon, with Professor Lauer again presiding.

Research Reveals One of Five New Chemical Elements

(By The Associated Press)
URBANA, Ills., Mar. 8.—Nearly twenty years of research in the "rare earth" group of the chemical field finally has resulted in the discovery of one of the five unknown but supposedly existent elements which make up all known compounds.

The discovery, the first ever made in America, was announced today by the University of Illinois as the work of Dr. B. S. Hopkins, professor of inorganic chemistry, L. F. Yntema and J. A. Harris of the chemistry staff.

Not Yet Named

The new element is known as Number Sixty-one. No name ever has been suggested for it.

Whether number Sixty-one is of metallic nature may prove of high value commercially or otherwise has not been predicted. It may prove to be exceedingly scarce, however, since only one-half ounce remained of the original 400 pounds of "rare earth" material used in the research.

World Seeks Other Four

Number sixty-one may remain the only chemical element discovered in America because the other four unknown elements are the objects of very definite researches in other parts of the world.

Every known element may be made to produce X-rays which affect a photographic plate in a definite manner, and it is possible by using the X-ray to tell exactly what element is being examined. Especially constructed X-ray machinery was designed and manufactured on the University of Illinois campus for the work.

Election Returns

Those elected:
S. D. Whiting 3 yrs. 662 v's.
Charles O. Paine 3 yrs. 574 v's.
William J. Weeber 2 yrs. 1013 v's.
Claude Miller 1 yr. 850 v's.

Defeated:
Mrs. Walter Davis 3 yrs. 181 v's.
Nora Donohue 3 yrs. 184 v's.

Out of the maelstrom of 1,130 votes polled at the school board election yesterday, S. D. Whiting (D), Charles O. Paine (R), William J. Weeber (D), and Claude Miller (D) emerged successfully. The vote was the largest polled in a school election since 1900 when the new school house was being built.

Independent Vote Split

For the four candidates nominated and elected, the following votes were cast: S. D. Whiting, 662; Charles O. Paine, 574; Claude Miller, 850; W. J. Weeber, 1013.

Claude Miller will serve for one year, W. J. Weeber will serve for two years, and Charles O. Paine and S. D. Whiting will serve for three years each.

Only 431 straight ballots survived. The rest were scratched at random at the whim of the voter. The strong independent movement failed through lack of adequate organization. Many votes were cast for the same individual for one, two, and three year terms; as a result the independent faction was badly split.

In all, eleven people received votes in every conceivable combination. A group of care worn and weary election officials worked until an early hour this morning in an all but vain.

Publication Board to Elect April 8

Three Vacant Places Open to Eligible Sophomores

The annual all-university election for the three new members of the Student Board of Publications, Incorporated, will be held April 8. The vacancies are left by the expiring terms of Katherine Macy, J. J. Adel, who was elected for a one-year term last spring, Richard Atherton, C. M. Davenport, whose two-year term ends, and Marian Rambo, A. J. Ottumwa, who was appointed this fall to fill the unexpired term of Richard Romey, of Mason City, who graduated in February.

Any sophomore who presents to the secretary of the board, Miss Lois Randall, a petition signed by twenty-five members of his class, is eligible for candidacy. He must have forty-five semester hours of credit, and be in good standing in the university.

The board is composed of nine members, four faculty, of which one must be a graduate of the university, and five student members. Three sophomores are elected each year, two for two years, and one for one year, according to the number of votes.

Editorial and business manager positions on the publications controlled by the board, The Daily Iowan, Frivol, Hawkeye, Journal of Business and Transit, will be awarded some time later this spring. Several applicants have left their names with the secretary of the board already, one for editor of Frivol, four for Hawkeye business manager, three for Hawkeye editor, one for business manager of The Daily Iowan, and five for editor-in-chief of the Iowan.

Conferees Work on Farmer's Problem

Bill Provides National Farm Board and Fee for Equilization

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Mar. 8.—The middle western farm delegation and the house agriculture committee with whom they have been conferring appear to be making definite progress toward a farm relief program.

It was indicated tonight that the bill being written by experts of the congressional legislative drafting service probably would retain these two central features.

Two Central Features

A national federal farm board, with authority to solve crop problems through the farmer's cooperative organizations.

An equalization fee—collected from the manufacturer, processor or exporter, but deducted by them from the price paid the farmer—to provide a fund to insure adequate prices for surplus crops.

The measure is being drafted by dozens as the hearings proceed. Whether it will contain a drastic tariff provision, empowering the president to declare an embargo on any crop, has not been determined. Chairman Haugen of the agriculture committee has declared a relief bill would be useless without such a clause.

Ketcham Adds Bill

Representative Ketcham, republican, added to the list of pending farm measures a bill to station "agricultural attaches" at advantageous points throughout the world, "to assist American farmers to adjust their operations and practices to meet world conditions."

"Concrete" Course Opens This Evening

Cal Returns Thanks at All Meals; Revives Tradition

CHICAGO, Mar. 8 (AP)—President Coolidge is the only man who has been in the White House during the past twenty years who says grace at all meals. Senator William B. McKinley told the Chicago Congregational ministers today.

"He is a man of two outstanding beliefs," said the senator, "first economy; second peace."

It is rather surprising that certain county officials running for office on a platform opposed to the world court have had to wait so long before denouncing it.

Engineer's Club Meets Inspires Plan for Yearly Work

Because of the success of the course in the proportioning of concrete which is being held here under the auspices of the Iowa City Engineer's club, Dean William G. Raymond of the college of applied science announced that plans for an annual short course in this work are under way.

Registration for this year's "concrete course" has reached the sixty mark, with eight from Cedar Rapids, and five from as far away as Albia. One hundred students are expected to attend. Because of the increased registration, chemistry lecture room 317 will house the meetings, instead of the university testing laboratories. Instruction begins at 7 o'clock this evening to continue eight days, from today until Friday, March 12, and from Tuesday, March 16 to Friday, March 20. There is no admission charge, and registration may be made by calling James R. Byrne, 23 physics building, telephone 2106.

Robert Frost, Spirit of New England, Blazoned on Lunch Club Speech List

By Constance Myers

Sherwood Anderson came before the Saturday Lunch club, a genial, social soul, with a message of what present day literature should and should not be: Edwin Frost Piper brought a whiff of the prairies and some of the dreams of his picturesque inhabitant; "beauty first of all" was Leonard Cilline's plea for the goal to which one should strive; and last came Hartley E. Alvander, with his story of the first American.

March 27 will bring Robert Frost, who, though born in California, returned to New England where nine generations of his ancestors had been bred, to write his poems. Frost now in residence at the University of Michigan where, he puts it, "I am not allowed to teach," lived for several years in the little village of Franconia, New Hampshire, which is about 200 miles "north of Boston." It was this region which gave him inspiration for such poems as "The Birches," "The Hired Man," and "The Slide."

As David Morton says, "Mr. Frost has presented in heightened and intense light and shadow the peculiar characteristics of a people in a special environment. And it is not the universal human qualities underlying all temperamental divergencies which interest him, but these divergencies themselves."

This theme Frost has chosen for his work "New Hampshire," and probably not since Thoreau has any poet thrilled to the colors, sounds, and perfumes of New England as he has done. One of the most outstanding characteristics of his poetry is its conversational note. In "The Death of the Hired Man" which contains such unforgettable definitions of home, the idiom of common speech not left behind.

"Home is the place where, when you have to go there, They have to take you in. I should have called it Something you somehow haven't to deserve."

"This poetry of Robert Frost's is different. It has a realism quite too real to seem like poetry."

Perhaps, then, it might be called sublimated reporting, for at any rate he has caused the people of New Hampshire to feel that he belongs to them, and he has won the admiration of a large and scattered group of admirers.

Belting Outlines Field House Plans to Chamber of Commerce Members

Paul E. Belting, director of athletics, spoke yesterday at the Chamber of Commerce weekly luncheon about the new field house to be constructed on the west side campus.

With the aid of blue prints, director Belting presented a realistic picture of a mammoth new athletic plant which, when completed, will place Iowa on a par with the largest universities in the country.

Swimming Pool to Hold 250

The field house will join the new armory on the east and will be about the same size. The arrangement of the interior will provide for a new era in minor athletics. The swimming pool will accommodate 250 swimmers and the space around it will allow a crowd large enough to make tank meets a paying proposition. The part adjoining the armory will house the gym floor, and on the north will be the locker room and medical department. The locker room in the north east corner will contain 5,000 lockers.

A large indoor track will be included in the new field house. The track will extend from the armory floor and encircle the central floor of the new building, giving it a straight-away of 100 yards.

Dedicate "Hall of Fame"

At the east entrance a lobby will be converted into a "hall of fame" dedicated to past athletes and teams. Pictures and trophies will be on display here.

NIGHT EDITOR
Dayd Pearson

The H. C. of Dating

LET'S eat.
A young man on a university date has heard this "time-worn suggestion" and has responded, naturally, by catering to the young woman's demand.
The modern college co-ed is driving the average university man to a position where he is "off women," and leading a life of study in his room in a fraternity house or wherever it may be.
Recently men at Drake university, Des Moines, declared a "date strike" against the women who are willing to be the "girl friend" only on consideration that their date spend "plenty" of money on them. This type of girl refused to ride on street cars, demanding a taxi or automobile. Every night was a dance, a dinner, or show, all of which took a good share of the week's allowance.
Most young men at Iowa this year are here on "decreased" allowances. Their fathers are struggling to keep a sluggish business going, and any considerable son feels that it is his duty to aid a little. Such a man does not feel that he can spend all of his money on dates.
It is time some of the girls realized that their "dates" pocketbooks are due for consideration, and act accordingly.

Heavy Veils Hang Over Your Head

PIERCE March winds screaming along the city streets more than intensify the danger which lurks above the pedestrians' heads in the bulky horizontal trade signs. Each year sees one or more of these ponderous trade signs crash to the sidewalk in a high wind. Slack fastenings and rusted guy wires treble the danger of the crowds unaware of the peril overhead.
In Iowa City, electric signs hang horizontally from the building fronts and often to an extent of twelve feet. Horizontal merchant signs are outlawed in most cities. Recently Davenport established a four-foot limit for vertical signs and condemned all horizontal signs as dangerous.
Since the city council can not govern the velocity of the wind it should militate against horizontal signs. The simplest of physics shows that a four-foot vertical sign offers far less resistance to the wind than a twelve-foot sign. Iron supports can make a four-foot projection safe and secure in a gale, the leverage of which would tear a horizontal sign loose from its moorings. In the interest of public safety the horizontal signs must go before they exact a life toll.
Even vertical merchant signs, if not anchored rigidly, may fall. It should be the duty of the building inspector to pass on the erection of each sign which overhangs the sidewalk and to inspect its fastenings from time to time. Then let the wind roar.

For Tomorrow

WOULD that we, like Rip Van Winkle, could be down and sleep for twenty years. Then we, wearing our tattered knickers, probably patted them, might return to the campus and note its changes. So rapidly is our campus assuming the proportions of a little city in itself that we might plagarize that Irish New Yorker who gazed up at a skyscraper and wishing to impress his immigrant friend said, "Begorra, and that wasn't there last night."
Last year University hall made a Pentagon of our campus. Then, in memory of those men from Iowa who fought for the world, the Memorial Union sprang up in the northwest corner of the campus. We, like poor Rip standing before the unfamiliar tavern, probably would be bewildered and confused by the beauty of the great hall in the Memorial Union.
Across the river great steam shovels ravenously gorge themselves as they clear ground for Iowa's new field house. A little farther north the new medical building is already taking on a finished aspect.
Iowa's newest announced project is a mammoth hospital just east of the new medical laboratories. An illustration of it appearing in The Daily Iowan gave it the appearance of the villa of some great medieval feudal lord. Its central towers will rise to seven or eight stories surrounded by main wings four or five stories in height. Numerous are the plans and keen the vision of those men who are looking into the future of Iowa with the constant view to combine practicability and beauty as they increase the boundaries of the campus.

Minneapolis, Tennessee

BECAUSE the University of Minnesota refused to allow him to give a scheduled lecture against the theory of evolution, the Rev. W. B. Riley, a Baptist minister and anti-evolutionist, announces that he will begin a campaign to stop all study of evolution at that institution. Undoubtedly his efforts will go unrewarded. The theory of evolution is too well established to be easily thrown out of the curriculum in an intelligent state like Minnesota. But the Rev. Mr. Riley seems to have a just complaint against the university administration.
After giving the anti-evolution debater a place on the lecture program, the dean of administration cancelled the engagement on the day preceding that set for the talk. This action borders on the attempts of Tennessee to suppress the other side of the argument. If the university believes in evolution strongly enough to give it a place in its curriculum, the dean should have had faith in its ability to withstand attack. There is seldom harm in hearing both sides of a question.

Trouble Time in Mexico

AROUSSED by the expulsion of American ecclesiastics from Mexico and alleged Mexican laws designed to confiscate land and petroleum, Representative Boylan, democrat, of New York, urged the withdrawal of American recognition of Mexico on the floor of the House last Wednesday. Mexico, asserted Boylan, is the "soviet of the New World."
Mexico is, at the present time, expelling all foreign teachers from its borders, including both Catholic and Protestant clergy. This, no doubt, is a part of its program of nationalization. It may be argued that Mexico has a right to act as it pleases in such matters, and that it is not a situation in which the United States should interpose. In the matter of confiscation of American property the government at Washington has a definite right of protest.
Mexico is no doubt prompted by other motives than nationalization in ordering the foreigners from their land. It means more property and a more easily controlled population. But there can be no doubt that Mexico will suffer greatly from the loss of those foreigners who have been devoting their lives to the welfare of her people.

Lost—Brooklyn Bridge

GULLIVER, Sinbad the Sailor, Little Red Riding Hood, Robinson Crusoe, the Babes in the Wood, and Tom Thumb all got lost. They didn't have a compass, either. Nor did a score of homecoming printers of New York who rolled aimlessly through the streets of Gotham aboard a street car manned by a new motor-man.
For four hours the new motor-man and the printers hunted in vain for Brooklyn Bridge. An inspector finally got aboard, turned the car around, and half an hour later admitted that he, too, was lost. The North star wasn't visible and the street car employees forgot in the confusion which usually accompanies such a predicament to look on the north side of trees for moss!
Sometimes we tremble for the fate of future progress. Amundson goes definitely to locate the North pole, while sailors and motormen still get lost in New York.

Laff That Off!

The Opportunist
After the motor accident the unfortunate victim was carried into a house near by. A few minutes later a smartly dressed young man ran up the steps and rang the bell.
"Excuse me," he said to the maid who opened the door, "can I see the gentleman who was brought in here a few minutes ago?"
"I'm afraid not," replied the girl; "he hasn't come to his senses yet."
"Good!" said the other, "that'll suit me fine. I want to sell him another car." —The Tatler

Poems That Live

Evening Comes Softly

Early to each forsaken street
Comes Evening, quiet and gray;
The shadows ripple down to meet
The rings of mist around her feet
And strip the light away.
Over each lamp with flickering kiss
She carries to tend and trim;
She takes the death bent moth's caress
With tears, and shades men's weariness
Under her mantle dim.
She sprays the sky with stars, her glance
Flakes all the roofs with frost;
Before her gradual advance
The shadows throng at variance,
A fitful wavering host.
And silence from her breast is shed
Softer than feather fall;
Ere the hayd allys around her head
And all her dusky hair disspread
Slips down on roof and wall.
Celestial Architect! She shakes
Her molding shadows down,
Till even the hardest outline breaks
To beauty; one by one she takes
The houses through the town—
And each rebuilds and beautifies
And melts beneath her hand
Till Night's remotest stars arise—
And then all suddenly she flies
While darkness hides the land.
—Edward Davison,
in The Saturday Review.

CHILLS AND FEVER

YES, darling, they call a detective a plainclothes man because he hasn't been to college!

YE DEVILISH DIARY
From bed at an early hour. There were snow flakes on the unshaven chin and soot in the nostrils but to the bath with vigor.
Downstairs to breakfast. Coffee terrible but morning Iowan good, it being Monday.
Down through the farmland to the campus on the Iowa City trolley. Some old coot threatened to have us arrested if we smoked on the trolley and we did thumb our noses at him.
A hurried entry into a class. Some five min.

Across the campus for a late entry to a dismal class room. After an hour's discussion of Descartes we did spoon gossip for an hour over a second cup of coffee.
To the office and to a sordid discussion.
Recollections that we had forgotten the poetry in the manner of Ezra Cummings, again but we feared not, always being ready to write a column on a moment's notice.

"Don't you ever run out of ideas for the column?" queries a friend. Ah, but we ran out of ideas three months ago and nobody notices it.
Two more class rooms and we did let our mind hark back to the prodigious son as we walked across Clinton street.
We worship the Goddess Tisha every time we enter Reich's, but alas, all mankind is in chains.
Away and to lunch, where vitamins did vie with proteins to fatten our skinny frame.
To town again and to the bank where a cashier did lecture us on tendencies in economics.
To the office again where we did waste a great deal of time.
And to the reserve library, where we wasted time more profitably.
Dinner, and deep thought.
Night, and to study, and bed, where we were happy indeed because there was no one to disturb our thoughts.

Stars . . . cold . . . cold . . . shivering.
Good night.

WE may be in the world court but no one will ever convince Bill Borch of it!

AND if some of our friends don't rate first place in the Poo Poo Hoogy straw vote we'll be disappointed.

THE friend remarks that we have had winter ever since registration week.

Gold, like most other games, is a healthy topic to talk about.

JUST the same, we wouldn't tell any sophomore to throw Homer and Arnold overboard in order to gain a speaking acquaintance with Hamlin Garland and Webster.

WE have never been able to see the wisdom of teaching literature to college students, anyway. Why cast pearls before swine?

WE located another use for adhesive tape after seeing one of the recent cinema brain storms.

BUT then, one learns something every day.

OVER the week end we read Kline's "God Head" which is, by the way, a pretty good novel.

If we hear any more about Peticot Morality we'll write an editorial entitled Disdrag Education. And then there won't be a column conductor around the campus.

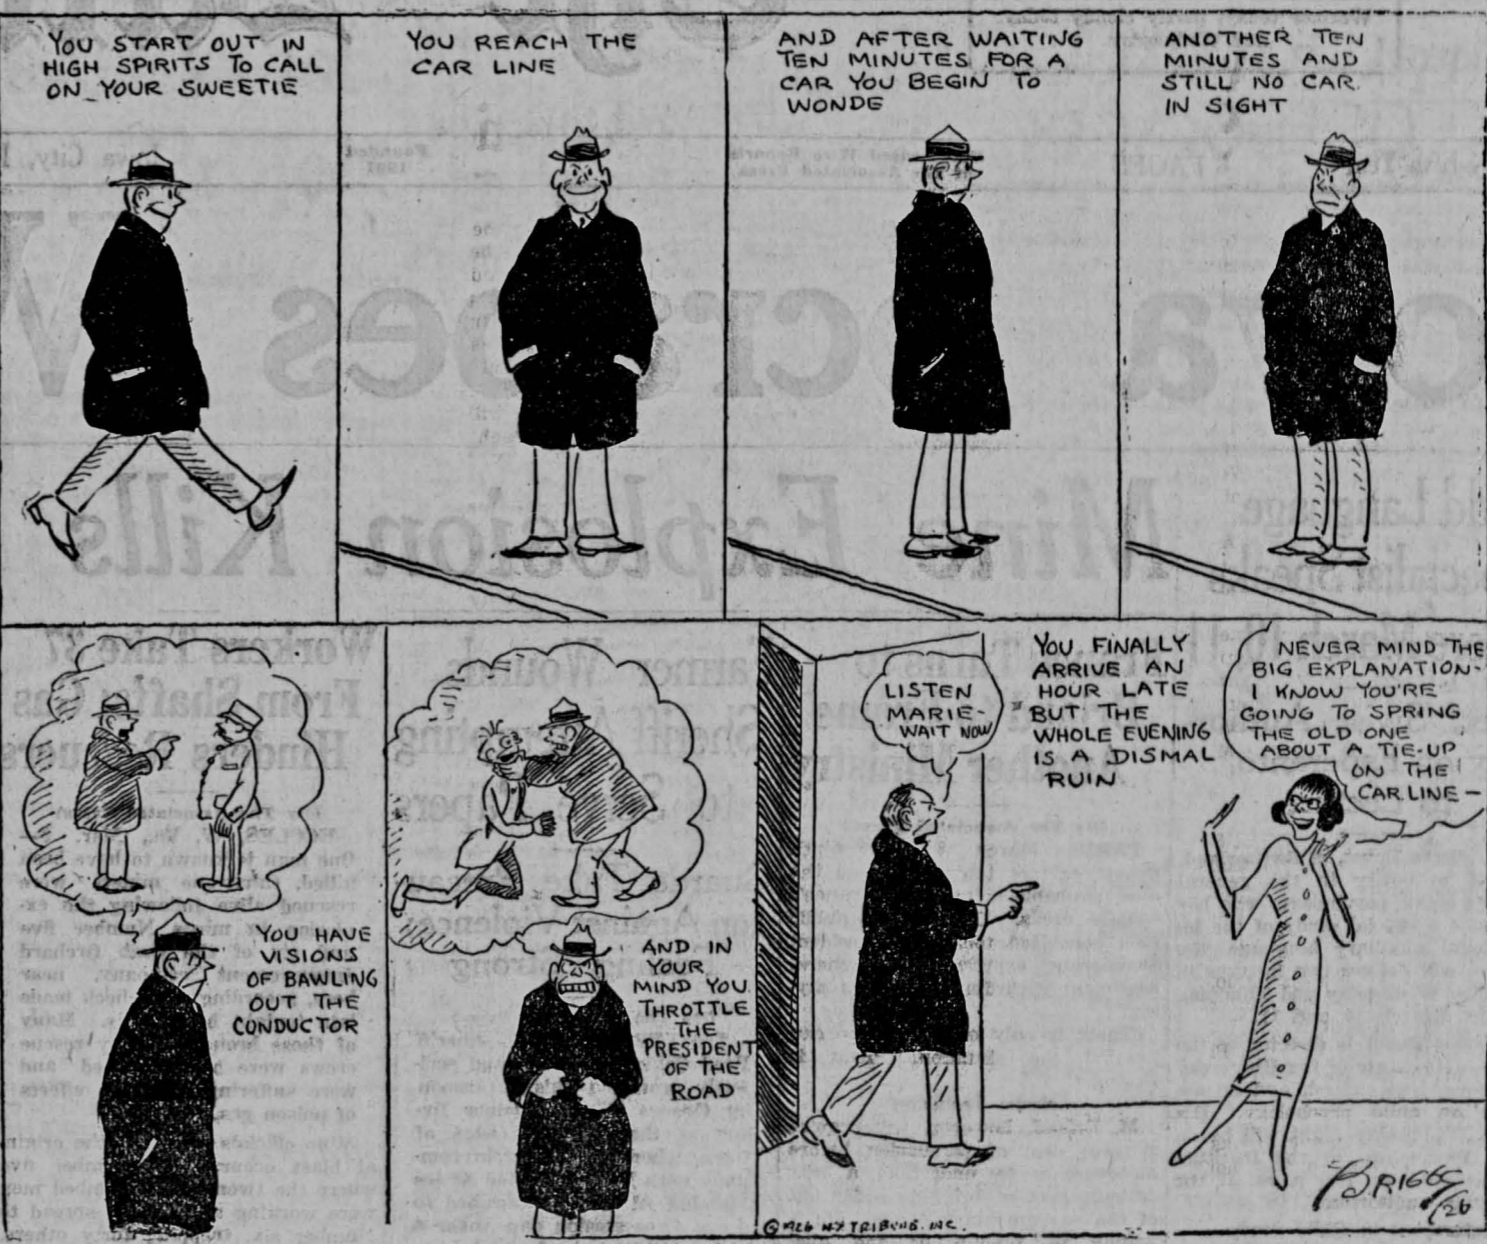

But we do love to sit around and concoct last lines.

THE LAST LINE

DR. MEIKLEJOHN'S "IDEAL COLLEGE"

(The McGill Daily)
Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn, center of the storm which broke out at Amherst College some time ago, newly-appointed professor of philosophy at the University of Wisconsin, recently drew up his plan for an "ideal college" and threw forth to two audiences in one week ideas which are so logical, so pointed, as to practically leave no ground for argument. Coming as they do from an educator on whose account a group of seniors refused to accept their degrees when he was asked to resign from Amherst, they must, of necessity, deserve our consideration.
Dr. Meiklejohn hopes to achieve at some time in the future a university (cost: about $3,000,000) which will do without executive officers, without a board of trustees and which will be beyond alumni control. In other words it would be an independent institution consisting only of the teachers and the students. The method of teaching would curtail the lectures, tutorial supervision would be instituted and thus dependent work would be demanded from students of initiative. And so Dr. Meiklejohn works out the many intricate details which such a project of necessity involves.
It is, however, in the second point that he has struck a most dominant note. We have heard it before—and yet it can never be too adequately emphasized. The substitution of a tutorial system—of course would sound the death-knell of compulsory lectures which would make for the encouragement of original work, and the final elimination of the "sugar-coated" dishing-out of lectures, concerning which we have often spoken in these columns. This setting of our educational system and the making of it as the end of all the studies of the students instead of merely the means to real study is a pernicious tendency which is everywhere asserting itself to a higher degree.
One thing more perhaps and Dr. Meiklejohn's "ideal college" might be complete. He has not, as far as we can see, enunciated whether there will be any degrees awarded by his university. We hope that there will not be any. That would serve to complete his experiment which we hope he will shortly inaugurate. The educational world will certainly watch Dr. Meiklejohn's efforts with the greatest of interest.
SPURRING THEM ON (The Ohio State Lantern)
The committee on scholarship at the University of Iowa has ruled that every four hours of "A" earned by a student automatically gives him an extra hour of "A" toward his graduation credit.
By the new ruling, which went into effect this semester, five students are to be graduated at the end of three and one-half years. One of them, an athlete, finds himself barred from one semester's athletic competition for an unusual reason—too high grades. Because of his excellent record scholastically he is to get his degree one semester earlier.
The committee believes that the new plan will provide an incentive to scholarship, and that it will raise the university average.
While such terms as "scholarship" should not be used indiscriminately when it is "grades" that the committee means, the idea is a good one. It might spur some students on to higher grades, and maybe to higher things. Any innovation that may do this is to be welcomed by all friends of higher education.

OTHER CAMPUS YARNS

The False Check
That a rosily rouged check indicates a false heart is the hypothesis upon which a group of Cornell psychology students are testing their promises and assumptions, pro and con.
Opponents of the rouge pol declare that the girl who paints the bloom of youth upon her cheeks is a cheat, and that she should appear as what she is rather than as what she should be. But the more tolerant ones assert that "they do not mind."
Story of Columbia
Nicholas Murray Butler acclaims the retrospect on Columbia College from its founding in 1754, written by Dr. Robert Arrowsmith, curator of Columbia, as "far and away the best story of Columbia ever written." Favorite Son Returns
Recently returned from the Gold desert and expeditions into the heart of Asia, Charles P. Berkey who received the first Ph. D. degree ever awarded at the University of Minnesota, spoke there recently under the auspices of Sigma Xi, honorary scientific society.
Only fifteen women, in contrast to the thirty-five of the previous period, were asked by the women's student governing association of the University of Minnesota to resign from campus positions because of their failure to maintain an average of "C."
The University of Minnesota will be a great loser when Mary Ellen Chase, assistant professor of English at the university, leaves in the fall after eight years of service to accept a position as associate professor of English literature at Smith college.
Columbia Celebrates
Columbia graduates numbering upward of 15,000 joined the "big parade" back to the campus recently to participate in the festivities of the greatest alumni day celebration that Morningside has ever seen. Not even the thick blanket of snow banked two feet high across the university grounds could deter the high-spirited group of graduates that included representatives of every class that has left Columbia's halls during the past fifty years.
Parley Halls Building
Fruition of Northwestern's ambitious five million dollar building program in 1925 appears unlikely today as continued dissension over plans between university officials and architects has widened the existing breach.
With the promise of more clement weather, an obstacle to progress lies in the fact that plans for both the stadium and woman's campus are still a moot question.
The original stadium project called for initial construction work to begin with the first break in cold weather this spring. In order to assure completion of the amphitheater by the opening game of the coming football season.

Women's Athletics

Swimming
Candidates for the class swimming team berths will be completed this afternoon when four regatta and two subs will be picked from each class in the final trials. The choice of teams comes as a result of twenty-five faithful practices throughout the year. March 16, next week, the teams will compete for class honors, each team member receiving 100 W. A. A. points.

Phi Delta Theta
Donovan Davidson of Ottumwa and Robert Barker of Chicago, were week-end guests at the Phi Delta Theta house.

Class basketball practice is nearing the end as the tournament held March 18, 19, and 20 of next week will finish the season. The preparatory period this year has been unusually long because of the lateness of W. A. A. vaudeville and various other interruptions. Teams are gaining speed, but several will be definitely handicapped by the ineffectiveness of their regular members of previous years.

Spring Sports
Immediately following the rather long basketball season spring sports will be eagerly taken up. The tennis tournament which was stopped last fall on account of the many rains will be resumed. Harter and Roosevelt, last year opponents in the finals will without much doubt fight it out again. Last year the first W. A. A. golf tournament was successfully held and last year's winner was a senior there is a chance for a new champion this spring. Track is by far the most popular sport of the spring, at least from the number who participate, and a telegraphic meet will probably be held in connection with the tournament as was done last year.

Women Owe Rights in Education to Iowa; First Co-Educational School

Many know the University of Iowa as an institution that produces courageous football teams but few know the university as being the first state institution in the country that possessed the temerity to inaugurate the famous co-educational system.

It was in the early days of 1858, in the era of side-whiskers and puttees, that the state board of education with Professor Totten as chairman took the auspicious step.

Public Opinion Agrees
Public opinion in the state to such a move was favorable. It was the sentiment of one educator that boys and girls should be educated together, since "this is God's plan in the establishment of families."

Still in the days when learning was a road to culture and its application to life regarded as a minor consideration, the few girls attending school had few "pipe" courses to choose from. Rather they were obliged to take weighty subjects as intellectual and moral philosophy, ancient languages, mathematics and astronomy, chemistry, natural philosophy, history and political economy.

Dill Canadian Expedition Expects Eventful Summer in Research

Shooting rapids in canoes, camping in tents, crossing wild country, fishing under the proverbial shadow of the North pole,—these will be a few of the thrills of the expeditionary party which goes out early in July on a 1,800 mile journey into Canada. It will bring back to the University of Iowa museum the first scientific collection of representative fish and birds from the far northern waters of the Hudson Bay.

Expect New Varieties
In opposing the uncomfortable conditions which the party will encounter, Professor Dill said, "Without a doubt, this will be the best" (TURN TO PAGE 4)

Remember "Sauce for the Goose," Chides Harrison, Anti-Militarist

By MARVIN LOGAN
"University women should be required to take domestic science if the men of the University of Iowa are forced to take military training. The land grant act to the university made similar stipulations in regard to both," said Tom Harrison, who left the University of Iowa as a freshman to fight for his country in the world war and who came back to his alma mater Saturday to fight for world peace.

As secretary of the Fellowship of Youth for Peace, he completed a two-day campaign here against compulsory military training by addressing the Iowa City Conference of World Peace at their banquet in the Memorial Union yesterday noon.

Result of Training
"World peace will not come until the world is educated to it," said Mr. Harrison. "The best place to begin the movement is with the youth and the best way to begin is to abolish compulsory military training."
"Compulsory military training brings into the mind of the individual a spirit of hate and preparedness that is conducive to war. I think I put a dilemma on bayonet training up to the military officers that were present at the Presbyterian church Sunday night."

Need for Bayonets
"In January of this year the war department circulated an order forbidding further bayonet training. Now this training is fundamental to the development of military morale. No body of troops is fit for battle without it. The British manual of the bayonet insists upon this."

No Connection With Y
"The Fellowship of Youth for World Peace is part of a world-wide revolt against the vested cruelties and superstitions of the bloody past. Branches in forty-two countries are seeking to outlaw and exterminate war in the minds and lives of the rising generation, under the advice of those who have known war."

"We believe with General Maurice of the British General Staff that if you prepare for war you will get it. If you wish peace you must prepare for it. Even Colonel Wood of the University of Wisconsin says, in regard to optional military training that it is the best type to secure better officers. He does not believe in training men who hate military drill."

The Fellowship of Youth for World Peace has no connection with the Y. M. C. A.

Sororities Start Sale of Hawkeyes
Subscriptions for Book Close March 20; Price $5.00

The spring sales campaign of the 1927 Hawkeye was inaugurated yesterday when members and pledges of nine sororities started to sell subscriptions for this year's book. The price for this issue is $5.00 and positively no books will be sold after March 20. The organizations participating in the campaign are Gamma Phi Beta, Chi Omega, Alpha Zeta, Delta, Sigma Kappa, Phi Omega, Phi Mu, Delta Phi Omega, Zeta Tau Alpha, and Katho. A prize of $100 in furniture from McNamara's is offered to the sorority selling the most subscriptions.

All body printing will be done by the Student Publications, incorporated, and color work by a Kansas City firm. Advance proofs are on the press already and early delivery is assured, according to Walter I. Hanson, A3 of Davenport, business manager.

The selection of pictures for the Iowa beauty section have been returned from California, where they have been in the hands of Conrad Nagel. No results will be published until the annual appears.

The athletic section this year will be written entirely by a number of noted sports writers. Walter Eckersall, James E. Crumrinberry, Brick Young, Westbrook Pegler, J. J. Schommer, and Sec Taylor will be the contributors. Iowa life will be written by Wally Roach and Frank R. Eyerly.

equipped party which has ever set out. We are devoting much time and thought to make the undertaking as profitable and comfortable as possible.

"We do not expect to find many varieties of fish in these waters, but we do expect to find some varieties that are not found elsewhere. Bird life flying over the region is abundant, however, and we expect to make a large collection of birds."

Other Trips on Dill
Collecting will be concentrated to Port Nelson, a small fishing village on the shores of the Hudson Bay. The party expects to be gone about six weeks.

An extensive set of still and moving pictures will show them in action and portray the life of the region as they find it. This is not the first venture of its kind which Professor Dill and Mr. Brown have undertaken. Two years ago they set out on a 700 mile journey into Old Mexico and brought back more than a hundred species of fish and a number of species of birds. In 1920 they visited the Hawaiian Islands on a like mission.

Weekly Lauds Two Iowa Swim Stars
Iowa swimmers are among the conference stars who have made the fastest marks this season, according to a compilation printed in the "Big Ten Weekly."

Carter's time of 2:46 ties that of Kraatz of Wisconsin in the 200-yard breast stroke while Lambert's 4:40 yard time of 5:37-6:10 is second to the record of Samson of Michigan. Captain McIntock, timed in 39:2-10 is tied for third among the 40-year men and his best conference 100 time of 5:58-8:10 places him sixth in the list. He has made 55 9-10 in A. A. U. competition. Iowa's 160-yard relay team, with the time of 1:19-7:10 rates sixth.

Reed Named Inspector
IOWA FALLS, March 8 (AP)—Elmer Reed of Manchester has been appointed an inspector in the office of the state commissioner of agriculture, succeeding J. D. Fiets of Iowa Falls, who takes the place of M. E. McMurray, chief of inspectors. Mr. McMurray resigned last week to accept a position with a Sioux City concern.

THE WANDERER
Directed by Raoul Walsh.
Presented at the Garden theatre.
THE CAST
Tisha Greta Nissen
Tola Ernest Torrence
Jether William Collier, Jr.
His Father Tyrone Power
His Sweetheart Kathryn Williams
Jeweler Sojin
Pharis Wallace Beery

Motivated, no doubt by the desire for presenting stories with a Biblical theme to the great movie-going public (witness "The Ten Commandments") Famous Players-Lasky Corporation have taken "The Wanderer," which, when it was a stageplay, was described by Channing Pollock as a means wherewith to smuggle thrills to the godly, embellished it with all the adornments of the "super" film, with the resultant, an entertaining cinema spectacle.

It must be remarked that "The Ten Commandments" holds the box-office record in the realm of celluloid. This detail, perhaps, influenced the producing company to a minor degree in their choice of the Bible as a source of material. "The Wanderer" is an elaborated story of the prodigal son. We discover Jether as a shepherd boy who is discontented with the slow life of his small community and longs for the life of the city. One memorable evening a caravan passes through his village. It is headed by Tola and numbers among its party, Tisha, high priestess of Ishar, a man woman and semi-nude spectacle. Inquiring as to a place where they can stop for the night Jether informs them of the inn. Hearing of the marvels of the city, after meeting Tola there in the evening, he decides to leave his horns and go forth to the metropolis.

Once there in the old, old story. As long as his money lasted he was popular, Tisha's favorite. After his substance has been wasted he is turned into the streets and another takes his place. This happens to be about the luckiest thing that could have happened to him, for some immortal force, angered by the licentiousness of the city, destroys it, in a storm that must have taxed all of the mechanical ingenuity of the technical department.

There is but one place for the wanderer to go: throughly disillusioned he starts for home. The fatted calf, famed in proverb and legend from time immemorial, is killed in honor of the young scapegrace and his sweetheart receives him with open arms.
Raoul Walsh has again captured much of the charm that made his "Thief of Bagdad" so delightful. The direction is very effective. The photography, with the exception of the shot of the miniature city after the storm, is very well done. Some scenes of great pictorial beauty have been made in the earlier portions of the film.

The settings are massive and properly impressive.
The cast of the picture has evidently been selected with a great deal of care and the film is therefore well acted. William Collier, so we are told, was selected for the title role after some fifty other candidates had been declared unsuitable. He leaves little to be desired in the role of the first black sheep.

Miss Nissen is a radiator of sex appeal, a stove wherewith to take the chill from, and break down the inhibitions of, any screen hero. It is necessary that she convince the audience that her lure is powerful enough to entice the prodigal son from his sweet home and golly mountains. She is required to be the living answer to why boys leave home. We believe she is.
Ernest Torrence gives an excellent portrayal of Tola, the evil one. Cunning, smooth-tongued, turning all things to his own advantage, he is all the part calls for.

Wallace Beery, as a rich sea captain enamored of Tisha, furnishes much of the incidental comedy. The remainder of the players furnish suitable support for the principals.

Over 400 students attended the annual freshmen hop held recently at the University of Minnesota. This event is the largest informal event of the year, and is the only time that the freshmen of all colleges can get together as a unit.

Gophers Trounce Illinois 28 to 21

Iowa's Enemy Exhibits Great Strength in Victory

MINNEAPOLIS, March 8 (AP)—Playing its best game of the season the Minnesota basket ball quintet continued its upward climb in the western conference race with a 28 to 21 triumph over Illinois here tonight.

Shooting and passing with perfect precision, the Gophers outplayed the Illini in masterly fashion.
The defeat, the third straight for the Illinois men, sent them into a .500 rating for the season, a mark the Gophers can attain by drubbing Iowa in the season's finale Saturday night. It was the third straight victory for the Gophers.

Mullen Mystery Baffling; Half Back or Pole Vault?

When James C. "Moon" Mullen of Gilmore City appears in his track suit it is difficult to determine whether he is one of Coach Bresnahan's center stars, or an aspirant for a berth on Bert Ingwersen's eleven.
The reason for the mistaken identity lies in the track shirt which Bresnahan's varsity pole vaulter wears. The jersey is padded on one side with a typical football pad, to prevent the pole from bruising Mr. Mullen's skin, as he soars over the bar on the end of a long bamboo pole. "Moon" has a tendency to allow the pole to rub against his body in a fashion detrimental to his vaulting ability, thence the ingenious Mr. Bresnahan's invention which protects the local Hoff from injury.

From Rank Novice to Limelight Feat of Iowa Swimmer

A mediocre flutter kick was about the only qualification for a swimmer possessed last fall by Frederick King of Hayward, a University of Iowa sophomore back stroke man. Now he is a dependable member of the Hawkeye team and last week won his first race against Chicago. King, a red haired youth with a passion for rigid training quickly grasped the rudiments of the difficult back stroke and developed

Death to Bob, Slogan of Master Hair Dressers

NEW YORK, Mar. 8 (AP)—Women who bobbed their hair seven years ago have fifty per cent less hair now than they had then, Frank Parker, hair expert today told several hundred members of the American master hair dressers' association. The association opened its two day annual convention at which was sounded the keynote "death to the bob." Tight hats worn by women with short hair, duplicating the condition to which the common baldness of men is attributed, may be the cause of the loss of hair by women, Mr. Parker said. Charles Nessler, president of the association, made the same statement.

Six Iowa Tankers Enter Big Ten Swim Meet This Week End

List Ten Events on Championship Card

Preliminaries Held Friday, Finals Saturday Evening

Coach Dave Armbruster and six Hawkeye aspirants for Big Ten conference tank fame will leave Thursday afternoon for Ann Arbor and the preliminary events of the conference swimming championships Friday night. The finals in all events will be run off Saturday evening.

Captain Johnny McClintock is entered in the 50 and 100 yard sprints besides acting as anchor man with the Iowa medley relay trio. Standish Lambert is expected to garner points in the distance swims. He is entered in the 220 yard and quarter mile grinds. The 200-yard breast stroke is left in the able hands of Carter, who has swept through the dual meets this season with but one defeat marked against him. Carter will swim second on the medley relay.

With Carter in the breast stroke is Marble, who has paddled through his events for several second places this year and who has turned in time for the distance that ranks about fourth in the conference this season. Jimmy Lutz is the lone Iowa entry in diving. Lutz has grabbed first honors from several spring board artists in meets this year and he has plenty of chance to slip into a place at the Michigan tank clashes. King, besides swimming the 150-yard backstroke, will be depended on in the medley race. The list of events on the conference swim card follows:

- 100-yard relay; 40-yard free style; 50-yard free style; 100-yard free style; 440-yard swim; 220-yard swim; 200-yard breast stroke; 150-yard backstroke; fancy diving; medley relay (this event swum by three men, the first swimming 100 yards backstroke, the second swimming 100 yards breast stroke, the last finishing with 100-yard free style.)

Gym Team, Fencers in Big Ten Meet Friday, Saturday

Hawkeyes Expected to Finish High in Standing

The Iowa gymnastic and fencing teams will hop off Friday morning for Lafayette, Indiana, scene of the Big Ten wrestling, fencing, and gymnastic meets at Purdue this Friday and Saturday. Weakened by the loss of last year's tumbling acts the Hawkeye gymnasts should, nevertheless, make a strong showing in some of the events and finish in the top half of the scoring column.

"Dad" Schroeder's fencers, however, have as good a chance as any of the entries for first place honors in the fencing meet. Illinois, with victories over Purdue and Chicago looks like the strongest opponents the Hawks will face at the conference meet and Iowa tied the Illini in their dual meet here two weeks ago.

Members of Hawk teams who will make the trip have not been announced yet. Three fencers will be picked for the fencing team, and probably nine gymnasts will constitute the gym team that will make the trip.

Simpson Elected Ames Track Coach

Appoint Grid Captain Line Coach for Next Year

AMES, March 8 (AP)—Robert Simpson, track coach at the University of Missouri, was appointed head track coach and cross-country coach for Iowa State college here this afternoon by the school's athletic board. The appointment is subject to the approval of the state board of education. This body is expected to sanction whatever action the athletic board of the school takes. Simpson will come to the Iowa institution about Sept. 20. In addition to the action on Simpson, the board named Harry J. Schmidt, captain, and all-Missouri Valley guard of the 1924 Cyclone team, assistant football coach and head line coach to help Workman,

Michigan Beats Purple 46 to 14

Ties With Purdue for Western Conference Championship

ANN ARBOR, Mich., March 8 (AP)—Michigan tied with Purdue for the western conference basketball championship here tonight when the Wolverines defeated Northwestern 46 to 14 in the last Michigan game of the season.

The Wolverines scored 11 points before Northwestern started and then added thirteen before the visitors gained another tally. The score at the end of the half was 28 to 4 in Michigan's favor.

Reese, Michigan left forward, and Harrigan, right guard, each made as many points as the entire Northwestern team. This is the second time Michigan has tied for the conference basketball championship. In 1921 the Wolverines tied with Wisconsin and Purdue. Brookins' Frosh to Meet Michigan on Wire Saturday

Yearling Hawks Given Edge for Conference Title

Coach C. R. Brookins' freshman track team will enter the arena this week, when the neophytes will tackle the strong first year aggregation from Michigan in a wire meet. Having won the first two of their duals by overwhelming scores, the 1926 team is well on the way to repeat the performance of the 1925 team which was crowned with the unofficial title of "champions of the conference."

Two of the events of this title will be awarded as on March 19 and 20 all freshman teams in the conference will compete in a wire meet in which the title will be at stake. The Hawkeyes are conceded more than an even chance to cop the distinction.

Two of the events of the title will be awarded as on March 19 and 20 all freshman teams in the conference will compete in a wire meet in the locker rooms in the army and elect a captain for the remaining meets, both indoor and outdoor.

Bresnahan Plans Novice Meet for Jumpers, Vaulters

In an effort to develop and bring to light some material for the various jump events Coach George T. Bresnahan of the track team has arranged a novice meet of the pole vault, broad jump, and high jump for March 17, 20, 24, and 27. Four trials will be allowed each day in the four events and each entry must compete on each of the four days. The meet is open to any student of the university.

Officials Link Fairfield Pair With Englert-Ford Robberies

Now Held in Muscatine on Bank Robbery Count

Boast Long Career of Crime in Iowa Counties

The first important development in the robbery of the Englert theatre and the Burkett-Updegraff Motor company here last Oct. 17, was uncovered Saturday with the arrest of Oren Fye, alias Chester Smith, and Orville Boettger at Kewanee, Ill., on a charge of robbery of the Pleasant Prairie, Iowa, Savings bank.

Their accomplice, Frank Howard, alias Curley Curtis, was arrested at Sigourney last January and taken to Fairfield where all three were wanted for robbing an oil station.

Robbed Iowa City Man
State agent E. C. McPherson and Detective O. E. Carroll, after making several trips to Fairfield were convinced from the information given out by Howard that Fye and Boettger were implicated in both local robberies.

He maintained that he was not with them at the time the Englert theatre and the Ford garage were looted. Howard confessed that he, Fye and Boettger held up and robbed an Iowa City man during December of last year.

Recently he plead guilty to breaking and entering at Fairfield and was sentenced to from one to ten years. All three men have criminal records and have served terms in the state penitentiary.

Fye and Boettger were indicted recently in Jefferson county on similar charges.

Highjackers Too
The trio expected to rob the Martine bank of Linn county, Iowa. They have been criminally active for months in Muscatine, Washington, Keokuk, Johnson and Jefferson counties.

Boettger and Fye, who live at Fairfield are also said to be guilty of hi-jacking bootleggers. They had been staying in Indiana up until last week according to Detective Carroll. The night before the robberies here, they stayed in a local rooming house. They drove a Chrysler roadster bearing Iowa license No. 69 of Lee county.

When arrested, papers and money from the Pleasant Prairie bank was found in their possession. The state of Iowa had offered a reward of $400 for their arrest.

Sheriff James Martin has been working with Detectives Carroll and McPherson on these matters. Carroll left for Davenport today for an interview with Fye and Boettger.

Local Robbery Suspects Sentenced in Muscatine

MUSCATINE, Mar. 8 (AP) — Oren Fye and Orville Boettger, arrested at Kewanee, Ills., Saturday afternoon, and charged with the robbery of a bank at Pleasant Prairie, this county, Friday night, were sentenced to forty years each, in the state penitentiary when they pleaded guilty in district court here.

Koser Bros. Will Submit New Plats

Subdivide U. Heights; Plan Goes Before Council Friday

Koser Bros., realtors, will submit plats of two new subdivisions in University Heights to the city council Friday night to be approved and subsequently filed.

The new subdivisions will be on either side of Melrose Avenue, just south of the golf links and will consist of 150 lots in the north side plat and 40 in the plat on the south.

Lots will probably be ready for sale in June, and improvements such as sewer connections, water, gas and light, will be completed by that time.

Realtors believe that the city will develop rapidly on the west side, because of the new medical and athletic buildings there. Property there has doubled in value in the past several months.

Building Permits for Month of February Reach $3,650 Total

The total of building permits for February was $3,650, the smallest sum recorded since Iowa City began to issue permits last May. The January total of $14,300 brings the sum for the year to $17,950.

The largest permit issued was the $10,000 permit to Bremer Bros. for reconstruction of their property at 139 E. Washington street, formerly occupied by the Washington cafe and a shoe shining establishment. Mr. Bremer stated yesterday that plans for the reconstructed building were not definitely settled.

Two permits for residences have been issued this year, the latest to Mrs. Mary Dalton for a $3,000 building.

S. Hayes, Abraham Lincoln's Guard of Honor, Dies at 83

Funeral Today; Lived Here for 35 Years

Sixty-one years ago this April, at the national funeral of Abraham Lincoln in the Capitol at Springfield, Illinois, a stalwart union soldier, Samuel Hayes, had the distinction of serving as sergeant of the guard of honor. Today, the body of that same union soldier lies in state in a simple casket in a local funeral home, without flowers, in accordance with his own request.

Born in Pennsylvania
Samuel Hayes, 83 years old, 220 E. Church street, a resident of Iowa City for 35 years and formerly a professor of law in the university for 19 years, died at his home at 11:30 a. m. Sunday after a two week's illness of pneumonia.

Born in Bellefonte, Pa., in 1842, Mr. Hayes moved to Illinois two years later with his parents in a covered wagon. He enlisted with the Union Army September, 1864 and served until July, 1865.

After leaving the army, Mr. Hayes attended the University of Michigan and graduated in 1869. He was superintendent of schools at Galena, Ill. from 1869 to 1879 and then moved to Dubuque where he was admitted to the bar in 1881. He practiced law in Waterloo until 1883 and then moved to Grundy Center where he followed the same profession until 1891.

Funeral Today
In that year Judge Hayes came to Iowa City as a professor of law in the university and served in this capacity for nineteen years, retiring in 1910. In 1891 he married Miss Mary Williams, who survives him.

Surviving also are two daughters, Miss Helen at home, Mrs. Margaret Hayes Stout, Pittsburgh, Pa., and one son, Robert W., of Minneapolis, Minn. He also leaves one brother, J. H. Hayes of Dennison and five grandchildren of Nebraska, children of Harry C. who died in 1923.

Funeral service will be held today at the home at 2 o'clock with the Rev. Arthur L. Weatherly officiating.

Burial will be in the Oakland cemetery.

The flag on Old Capitol was at half-staff yesterday and will remain so until after the funeral today.

Water Logged Brakes Cause Smash by Victor Man's Car

L. H. Holscher, of Victor, smashed into a car while driving his Hudson to the Iowa-Ohio basketball game last night. The accident occurred at the corner of Dubuque and Washington streets. Water caused the brakes to stick and was responsible for the smash. Mayor J. J. Carroll fined the driver $7.95 after he had settled with the owner of the other car. The damage on the other car was fixed at $15.

Combustion Ignites University Coal Pile

Fire in the coal pile across the street from the men's gym, owned by the university, called the fire department out early yesterday morning. The fire has been smoldering for several days, but did not become dangerous until Monday morning when the heat ignited the wooden timbers at the south of the pile. Spontaneous combustion is thought to have been the cause of the fire. Little damage was reported.

Mrs. Van Epps Runs for State Regent of D.A.R. Organization

DES MOINES, March 8 (AP)—Mrs. Clarence Van Epps, state vice regent, Iowa City and Mrs. C. G. Saunders, state recording secretary, Council Bluffs, are leading candidates for the office of state regent at the annual meeting of the Iowa Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, which begins here today and lasts through Wednesday.

Mrs. J. E. Lemmon, Washington, Iowa, is a candidate for librarian and Mrs. H. F. Shrauger, Atlantic, seeks the place as recording secretary.

The convention will mark the twenty-seventh annual conference of the society.

Bring Holcomb to Iowa City
William H. Bender, county deputy sheriff returned late yesterday afternoon with Daniel Holcomb of Tipton indicted on a charge of issuing a forged instrument. Holcomb has been in the town jail at Tipton for the past six months.

Heart Failure Found Cause of Strang's Death

County Home Inmate Found Frozen

At an autopsy performed yesterday afternoon by Dr. D. F. Fitzpatrick and Coroner J. H. Donohue it was decided that the death Sunday of Clarence Strang, 60, was caused by heart failure.

Strang, an inmate of the county home since last April, disappeared late Saturday afternoon after other unsuccessful attempts to escape and his frozen body was found Sunday morning five miles west of Iowa City on the Black Diamond road by a passerby who notified authorities immediately.

One shoe was missing, his clothing was torn and it is believed that he ran until he became exhausted and had a heart attack to which he was often subjected.

Surviving are a brother of Cedar Rapids, who came here yesterday afternoon when summoned, and three sisters.

The body will lie at the Hoheneschuh mortuary until tomorrow noon.

Funeral service will be at the Shuevilly church tomorrow at 2 p. m. Burial will be in the Shuevilly cemetery.

Presbytery Picks Allen, Moderator to Succeed Reed

Will Not Choose New Minister for Some Weeks

At a meeting of the Presbytery of the Presbyterian church of this district at Davenport yesterday afternoon, the pastoral relations between the First Presbyterian church of Iowa City and the Rev. Robert R. Reed were dissolved.

The Reverend Reed, who has served the local church for the past seven years, will declare the pulpit vacant Sunday, March 23, and will depart during the following week for Columbus, Ohio, accompanied by Mrs. Reed and their two children. He will become pastor of the Indiana Presbyterian church at Columbus, one of the two student churches near the University of Ohio.

The Rev. H. B. Allen, of the Presbyterian church of Marengo, was appointed moderator by the Presbytery to preside at any congregational meetings that may be called before a minister is appointed to fill the vacancy. The local session of the church is permitted to select speakers to occupy the pulpit. The committee on pulpit supply is Prof. Harry A. Bond, Carl Custer and Dr. W. W. Martin.

E. H. Lauer, is chairman of the committee on the appointment of a new minister. He will be assisted by Frank E. Young, who with him will represent the session. Edwin T. Davis, and Judge O. A. Byington, from the board of trustees, and Mrs. Clarence Van Epps, Mrs. George F. Kay, and Prof. F. C. Engstrom, representatives of the congregation, at large.

English Lutherans Send Out Call to Minnesota Pastor

Plleases Congregation on Visit Here

The English Lutheran church has extended a call to the Reverend Milton A. Haker, pastor of the English Lutheran church at Albert Lea, Minn., to become minister of the local church.

Since the resignation of the Rev. C. Rollin Scherck, the parish has been without a regular pastor. Students from the Augustana seminary at Rock Island, Ill., have been supplying the pulpit at the morning services.

The Rev. Haker occupied the pulpit recently and the officials of the church gave him the invitation. He has not responded yet, but his acceptance is expected.

Bi-Partisans Win School Election

Men Begin Movement
During the day, it seemed doubtful, whether the candidates nominated would receive the majority because of the number of independent candidates that entered the field at the last moment but their very number finally turned the tide against them.

This movement started, it was said, by a group of masculine voters, was backed by the League of Women Voters and resulted in the large number of ballots cast.

Dissatisfaction over the candidates nominated was said to have been the motive back of the powerful independent opposition, which had it been organized, would have swept the field.

Shoots Sheriff Who Would Serve Papers

Greets With Shot
As the visitors approached the barn, they were greeted by the long end of a .22 calibre rifle sticking out through a crack in the door. When the shot came with no word of warning and the sheriff dropped, the marshal said, Gibson then came out of the barn and gave himself up.

Under Armed Guard
Gibson is held at the county jail under armed guard.

Feeling here is strong against Gibson, and officers are taking precautions against possible violence.

In 1919 Gibson was convicted of sedition in district court here and fined $1,000 and sentenced to twelve months in jail. On appeal to the supreme court his sentence was modified to two hundred dollars fine with no jail sentence.

Crowd Watches as Court Picks Jury in Harmon Contest

Attorneys' Arguments Open as Court Adjoins

Crowding the Johnson county court room to overflowing, more than three hundred persons witnessed the drawing of the jury yesterday in the case of the state of Iowa versus Harold Harmon, of Iowa City, on charge of lewd and indecent exposure.

After an hour and a half of questioning the following jury consisting of ten men and two women was sworn in: Albert Jones, C. E. Burnett, W. A. DeFrance, Carl C. Galouher, Ivan S. Bott, John Michel, R. L. Leamer, Wilbur Wiedner, William Long, Thomas Verry, Elizabeth Fryder and Emma Vier.

The opening argument was presented by county attorney Ed. L. O'Connor who outlined the charges of the state. Henry G. Walker, attorney for the defense, made the opening statement for Harmon, and court was adjourned. Testimony will be offered to the jury when court opens this morning at 9 o'clock.

County attorney Ed. L. O'Connor was conferring with witnesses last night.

Concrete Classes Meet This Evening

[CONTINUED FROM PAGE ONE] the program published by the engineer's club as follows: Tuesday, preliminary work in designing concrete mixtures; Wednesday, concrete aggregates; Thursday, proportioning of concrete to obtain a given strength; Friday, water ratio theory; Tuesday, March 16, field tests of concrete materials; Wednesday, inspection of concrete; Thursday, laboratory demonstration of concrete tests; Friday, review of the entire course and concrete clinic.

The program tonight will consist of a brief discussion of the fundamentals of a concrete mix, after which the work of measuring sand and gravel portions will be taken up. Test specimens will be made of concrete, and these will be broken in the laboratory as a check on the calculations. Application of the design to actual concrete work will be discussed.

Principles of Course
The principles to be taught at the meetings now beginning are the water ratio or Abrams theory, discovered by director of the Lewis Institute, University, Duff A. Abrams, considered the country's leading authority on structural materials.

They are based on the discovery that strength of concrete is dependent upon the proportion of water used in the mixture.

Any kind of sand or gravel, within limits, may be used to obtain a given strength of concrete, contrary to old ideas of arbitrary proportioning. Sands and gravels are tested and proportioning of these substances with water and cement is made according to requirements shown by the tests.

Need of Courses
Shattering of old theories of concrete proportioning by a series of more than 200,000 experiments in the structural materials laboratory, Lewis Institute, Chicago, has opened a need for such a course among practicing engineers. J. W. Kelly, associate engineer in that laboratory arrived yesterday to make preparations for the course in which he is

During five years of experimentation and three years of actual use on construction work the method developed in the institute laboratories has been found successful, according to Mr. Kelly. Large volumes written on concrete theory have made it difficult for the practicing engineer to keep up to recent developments. For this reason, the National Portland Cement Association which cooperates with the Lewis Institute in maintaining the laboratory is conducting such short courses throughout the country.

Members of the Athena Delphian club met at the Public library Friday afternoon for their regular business meeting. Early Roman life was the topic for discussion taken up by the members.

City Would Save $5,000 Yearly on I. C. C. Rate Cut

Reduces Lumber Cost on Big Structures

The recent ruling of the Interstate Commerce commission which contemplates reducing, to a point four cents below the Illinois and Chicago level, freight rates on lumber moving from the west coast to Iowa destinations may save Iowa City Industries $5000 annually. If the reduction, which is as yet only contemplated, is made, it will save local consumers approximately one dollar per thousand feet of lumber shipped from the west coast or from $20 to $30 a car load.

Such a reduction would be felt most in the construction of such buildings as the second unit of the new university hospital, and the new university heating plant contracts which are to be let in the immediate future. In the building of private homes, however, the reduction would be of little benefit. The average house uses approximately 20,000 feet of lumber according to estimates of local lumber dealers which would mean a saving of $20 to the builder of an ordinary home.

Local lumbermen are pessimistic, however, regarding the rate reduction. No definite action has been taken by the Interstate Commerce commission and it is thought that the rail interests will be strong enough to combat any such action. If it is made it will only effect rates on lumber shipped from the west coast but it might pave the way for further reductions.
