LIGHT COMPANY OFFERS NEW PLAN

Harry Hopkins, FERA Administrator, to Speak Here July 26

Will Speak On Lecture Series July 26, Also On July 27

Former Resident Of Iowa, Hopkins Was Student at Grinnell Before Going East

Harry Hopkins, federal emergency relief administrator and former Iowan, will come to the University of Iowa July 26 to speak on the university lecture series. His subject will be "From Relief to Work."

One of the key men in the New Deal administration, Hopkins has directed the multifarious activities of the relief administration and the expenditure of millions in relief. Among his accomplishments have been the setting up of concentration camps, the purchasing of agricultural surpluses, distribution of food, and the administration of federal grants to states.

Mr. Hopkins will speak July 27 at the midwestern theater conference, at which prominent playwrights and critics will discuss problems of the experimental and regional theaters. As FERA administrator, Mr. Hopkins will supervise the national theater project.

Settled at Grinnell
Born in Sioux City Aug. 17, 1890, Mr. Hopkins is the son of a harness maker. The father lost his business in the panic of 1893 and the family moved about in Nebraska and Iowa, finally settling in Grinnell, where young Hopkins attended Grinnell college. Following graduation from Grinnell, he accepted a position running a boys' camp in New York. Prior to this, he had ambitions to run a newspaper. It was the boys' camp work that started Hopkins on the road of social service work.

In the war and post war days Mr. Hopkins directed civilian relief at New Orleans and was manager of the southern division of the Red Cross. Later he became director of the New York Tuberculosis and Health association, and was in the work when President Roosevelt, then governor of New York, made him director of the temporary relief administration of that state.

Hopkins Drafted
President Roosevelt drafted Mr. Hopkins in 1933 to carry on relief work on a large scale. He is looked on as one of the real men in the Roosevelt administration. Fond of sports, Mr. Hopkins played baseball and basketball at college, and confesses loving prize fights and horse racing as well as poetry and modern literature.

"G-Men" Head Tells of Aids To Crime Life

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 9 (AP)—J. Edgar Hoover, director of the federal bureau of investigation, today described "easy probation from sob-sister judges" as one of the "aids by which crime flourishes."

The young executive of the "G-men" told more than 600 police chiefs at the convention of their international association that parole practices in America "approaches a national scandal."

Hoover spoke of "sentimentalists, crooks, sob-sisters and convict-lovers."

England Begins New Ethiopia Peace Plans

Italo-Ethiopian Peace Session Is Suspended

Refugees Leaving Ethiopia, Firms Will Not Grant Credit

SHEVENINGEN, THE NETHERLANDS, July 9 (AP)—Hopes of arbitrating Italy's and Ethiopia's quarrel dwindled almost to nothing today as the Italo-Ethiopian conciliation commission suspended its sessions "indefinitely."

Although Prof. Pitman B. Potter, American representing Ethiopia on the body, declared that the day's developments should not be considered a formal breakdown of the negotiations, there were no indications that the sessions would be resumed.

LONDON, July 9 (AP)—While predictions of an early war between Italy and Ethiopia echoed through Europe, weary British foreign office officials today began conferences with J. A. C. Avenol, league of nations secretary-general, in another eleventh hour survey of the menacing dispute.

Prospects dwindle and press predictions of imminent military developments increased with news from Scheveningen, The Netherlands, that the Italo-Ethiopian conciliation had suspended its sessions "indefinitely."

Official quarters at Rome, taking the view that the commission was dead, said Italy would oppose appointment of the fifth, neutral conciliator provided for in the league council's instructions creating the commission.

Parley Adopts Resolutions

G. O. P. Six - States Crusaders Stand Up For Cash Bonus

CLEVELAND, July 9 (AP)—The Six-State Republican Crusaders conference today adopted a set of resolutions today including one for immediate cash payment of the soldiers' bonus.

Many of the resolutions condemned the New Deal. After approving them, delegates from Ohio, Michigan, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee adjourned the conference.

The conference deplored the lack of protection of Negro rights in some sections of the country and added a resolution declaring for enforcement of anti-lynching laws.

Another resolution "condemned the temporary, unconstitutional and destructive agricultural plan of the present administration and recommended that a permanent plan be substituted for it which would:

"Increase home consumption of farm products;
"Restore as far as possible our lost foreign trade;
"Protect our home markets from excessive imports, and enable our farmers to manage their farm without bureaucratic control from Washington."

Power Line Worker Killed Near Dubuque

VROOKSTON, Minn., July 9 (AP)—Mike Vance, 32, of Dubuque, was electrocuted today while working on a power line nine miles south of here.

Little Donald Learns "All Is Not Cooling That Is Water"

COUNCIL BLUFFS, July 9 (AP)—Donald Huesner, 12, nursed a sore head today, after it was "crammed" with a lesson on "all is not cooling, that is water."

He saw water spouting out of a fire hydrant and resolved to enjoy a respite from the heat. But the force of the water swept him from his feet, dumped him on his head and inflicted a brain concussion.

Roosevelt Tax Program Wins First Round

Group Votes to Limit Hearings to Things In F. R.'s Message

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—The Roosevelt tax program today won a preliminary victory against congressional efforts to broaden its wealth-tax limits.

After a fiery political discussion for and against new deal policies, the house ways and means committee locked its doors and voted to limit present hearings—and, tacitly, the resultant bill—to the things outlined in the president's tax message.

But while Mr. Roosevelt mentioned individual incomes of 1,000,000 and over, the committee's action was not interpreted as setting a $1,000,000 stopping point.

Chairman Doughton (D-N.C.) reported the agreement was "unanimous." He predicted that when the time came to write a bill, attempts to insert other levies than those outlined by the president would fail.

It developed, however, that the agreement was "unanimous" only because all the republican committeemen and Representative Thompson (D-Ill.) refrained from voting. The republican explanation was that the democrats, who outnumber them 18 to 7, were going to write the bill anyway.

Thompson declined to explain his reasons, but it was recalled that a number of his constituents were seeking adjustment of other tax rates.

Ray Long Of Writing Fame Dies of Wound

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 9 (AP)—Apparently despondent over his work as a scenario editor, Ray Long, nationally known writer who started many others down the path to pen success, died tonight from a bullet wound police said was self-inflicted.

Long, 57, was found unconscious in his home, a bullet wound through the mouth and a rifle beside him. A. G. Peterson, one of three police officers who investigated the death closed his report with the words "no doubt it was a suicide."

Long's many friends were shocked, but a number of film executives, who asked that they be not quoted, said he was despondent over his own progress as a scenario editor in the studios.

He was employed, successively, at Columbia, Fox, and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, as scenario editor and writer. He had been here a year.

Negotiations for a new contract for him, in a newly-organized company, were under way, executives of the firm said.

An official of that firm, who said he conferred with Long last Saturday, described his attitude as: "Somewhat beaten down. He said he guessed he had passed his peak."

Strike Closes Iowa Company

Grocers Group Shuts Down in Answer To Worker Demands

DES MOINES, Ia., July 9 (AP)—The Grocers Wholesale company of Des Moines, cooperative organization owned by 600 retail independent grocers of Iowa, southern Minnesota and northern Missouri, closed its plant for an indefinite period tonight in answer to demands of 35 striking union warehouse workers for a closed shop.

The closing was decided on by five representatives of the board of directors. Eighty-six employees were thrown out of work. Through agreement with labor officials and pickets, the firm announced that perishable fruits and vegetables valued at nearly $2,000 will be turned over to the Iowa relief administration tomorrow.

Many Perish In U.S. During Flood, Storm

Survey Totals Dead Throughout Earth As Result Calamity

(By the Associated Press)
Summer floods and storms took nearly 50 lives in the United States while other outbursts of nature caused widespread death and property damage in various parts of the world, a survey disclosed last night.

Forty persons were dead and five missing in upper New York state as flood waters sent rivers out of their banks. Property damage from the high water and fire which followed the flood was estimated at $20,000,000. About 3,000 were temporarily homeless as President Roosevelt asked the Red Cross to take charge of flood sufferers.

A wind storm in Montevideo, Uruguay, killed two persons. Cloud bursts and wind storms took three more lives in Canada.

Two dead and at least 100 injured as the result on a tornado and flood in the area near the $72,000,000 Ft. Peck Reclamation project in Montana, where 600 were made homeless. Rescue squads were organized by army officers.

In China, where the Yangtze river was on a rampage, 300 lives were reported lost in one village and 25,000,000 persons were menaced by the stream, which had swollen to the size of an inland sea. Heavy damage to property was expected.

Mabie, director of university theater and head of the speech department. The production will be presented July 24 and 25.

Graft Officials Raid Home

Seize Note Books, Reports of Police Detective Dempsey

SIoux CITY, Ia., July 9 (AP)—Seizure of note books and letters at the home here of Police Detective Thomas Dempsey was disclosed in a search warrant return filed today while the Woodbury county graft investigation grand jury continued its work.

The officer's home was visited by deputy sheriffs at the same time they raided the Eagle's club late yesterday and gathered up letter files, receipt books, bank statements, a dice game and punch board, the deputies reported.

At Dempsey's home the deputies seized two note books, an income tax report and assessment roll, miscellaneous letters, statements and receipts. It was expected these will be turned over to P. G. Wilson, accountant who has audited much of the other material placed before the grand jury.

The raids were made on proof of an affidavit given by J. W. Moore, state representative, and directed seizure of any slot machines, gambling devices, check books, records and other material.

You're A Liar!!

Excitement Swings High in Probe Of Utilities Lobby

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—Conflicting statements, rising tempers and an angry shout of "you're a liar" today electrified the house investigation of lobbying for and against the administration utility bill.

Atmosphere Tense
In an atmosphere that at times grew tense, the house rules committee turned first to accusations of misused administration pressure. It heard Representative Brewster (R-Me) charge that Thomas Corcoran, Reconstruction Finance corporation attorney, threatened to stop work on the Passamaquoddy tide-harnessing dam, in Brewster's district, unless he voted for the mandatory abolition of "unnecessary" holding companies.

We'll See!
Then, it saw Brewster and Corcoran exchange chairs. From Corcoran came a sweeping denial and an added assertion that while he, Brewster and Ernest Gruening, interior department aide, stood outside the house chamber just before the abolition vote, Brewster expressed an intention of "ducking" the ballot completely.

"You're a liar," shouted Brewster, without moving.

"We'll see who's a liar," replied Corcoran, as Chairman O'Connor's gavel cut short the exchange.

Company Will Make Pledges Of Maintaining Lower Rates

Council Takes No Immediate Steps To Act on Latest Company Proposal

As a guarantee that its proposed rate schedule would be enforceable, the Iowa City Light and Power company last night offered the council a five year option to purchase the utility's properties for $900,000.

In a letter, which was placed on file by the council, Joseph Porter Jr., company manager, said: "For the sole purpose of removing any doubt as to the enforceability of the proposed 25 per cent rate reduction, we are willing to grant the city a five year option to purchase, for consideration of $900,000, plus net additions after July 1, 1935, the entire electric

Report of the survey of the gas and electric properties of the Iowa City Light and Power company by the Lucas and Lukic Engineering company of Chicago has been received by Mayor Thomas E. Martin. The survey, which was made in an attempt to determine the true valuation of the company's properties, will be made public at the next council meeting, the mayor said last night. The project was undertaken by the last city council.

plant and electric distribution system of the Iowa City Light and Power company including the dam at Coralville and the transmission lines to Iowa City.

Consideration for Option
"Such proposed option would be exercisable only upon our failure to abide by the terms of the reduced rate proposal. The consideration for the option would be the abandonment by you of your intention to establish a municipal electric plant and distribution system."

The company's action last night came as an answer to the council's rejection of its two earlier proposals to sell its entire properties to the city for $1,125,000 or to reduce rates 25 per cent providing the threat of municipal ownership would be withdrawn.

Council's Answer
The council in its letter of rejection at that time declared that "the company's proposed rate contract is of doubtful enforceability. Municipal ownership cannot be abandoned as you suggest in exchange for a non-enforceable and temporary rate agreement."

What will be the council's next move was not indicated at last night's meeting as aldermen had no comments to make. The council is expecting word in the very near future as to the outcome of its application to PWA for a loan and grant of $917,000 to build a new plant.

Three Killed In Colorado Mine Blasts

TRINIDAD, Colo., July 9 (AP)—Bodies of three miners killed by explosions which rocked the Bear Canyon coal mine near here late today were discovered shortly after rescue workers moved into the smoke clogged shaft.

Those found dead were: Charles Smith, about 40; Leo Martinez, about 27; Joe Medina, about 42.

Rescue workers still sought Jim McKeown, superintendent of the mine. He was believed to have been much farther down the slope than the three others.

Mine officials said the four men were the only ones of the crew of 30 who had remained at the mine. Officials of the mining company, owned by Bill Plestead of Morley, Colo., said they believed it would be several hours before the fate of McKeown is determined.

Hollywood Fashion Parade

By ORRY-KELLY. HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 9 (INS) Interesting to trace the life of a popular vogue... if the public accepts it one year, it generally goes on to the next... but with this change: if it was a daytime style, the second season may offer it adapted for evening wear... and vice versa.

Those lovely "tree bark" materials... worn in woollens last year... will consequently be repeated this coming fall, in metals, for evening.

New, also, among my own material-choice for fall is another metallic, that looks as if studded with paul heads. I'm saving that one for Kay Francis, when she gets home from Europe...

You mustn't think that these new metallic cloths have anything in common with the old metal cloths, however. Where the old ones were stiff, heavy, uncomfortable to wear, these are supple, sometimes even sheer, and lend themselves beautifully to draping.

Already on my workroom shelves, ready to be made up for fall, are a blue matelasse interwoven with silver and softly delicate, that I bought for Ruby Keeler; a blue velvet with a yellow taffeta back that seeps through the pile with shimmering effect, that I hope Marion Davies will like; several of the new taffetas that don't crack or split, in the hope that the bouffant style so becoming to Jean Muir and Anita Louise may continue; and a wide range of old-fashioned revivals.

In the last-named collection, there are some names that may gladden the demure, old-fashioned heart... and also that of the modern miss that knows she's at her smartest when she looks a trifle quaint... alpaca... moire... silk twill... tricotine... chenille taffeta... and velvets, printed, raised and even changeable in two-fold colors.

F.R. Continues Demands With Demo Leaders

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—President Roosevelt reiterated to house democratic leaders tonight his request for consideration of his entire legislative program at the current session.

Despite the volume of business awaiting, Speaker Byrnes expressed hope for adjournment before Aug. 15.

At the conference which lasted two and a half hours it was reliably reported that members of the house group canvassed with Mr. Roosevelt differences which have arisen between the White House and the house majority group. These were climaxed in house rejection of the president's requested abolition of "unnecessary" utility holding companies.

Ickes Attacks Island Probe

Condemns Tydings' Procedure in Senate Committee Search

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—An angry blast came from Secretary Ickes today against Senator Tydings' (D-Md) conduct of the senate committee investigation of the interior department's Virgin Island administration.

It preceded by a few hours a sharp warning from the Maryland senator against "intimidation" of witnesses before the committee, a warning coupled with reference to a fist fight outside the hearing room. Tydings declined to comment when asked if the warnings also directed toward Ickes' office.

"Extremely Strong"

Ickes mentioned at a press conference having sent a letter to Tydings. Other persons described the letter as "extremely strong" in criticism of Tydings' conduct of the hearing and of the testimony of Federal Judge T. Webster Wilson of the Virgin Islands district court.

The interior secretary himself told reporters the "hearing ought to bring forth a few facts; the only witnesses have been those I have discharged for inefficiency, incompetence and disloyalty. Mr. (Charles) Gibson and Mr. Yates." (Paul C. Yates, ousted by Governor Paul M. Pearson as his administrative assistant.)

"Misconduct"

Ickes said at his press conference that Judge Wilson should be removed for "judicial misconduct" and could be removed at the pleasure of the attorney general. A Justice department spokesman said, however, that Ickes had not asked the attorney general to investigate Wilson.

Judge Wilson testified yesterday that "administrative interference" had been attempted under Governor Pearson.

Senator Tydings said:

"On good authority, it is stated that some witnesses in this hearing have been intimidated. We would like to serve notices that the United States senate has quasi-judicial authority to protect witnesses on both sides, and that if there is any more intimidation the committee will run it down."

Defense attorneys have indicated they will attempt to prove to the federal court jury that she knew nothing about the plot until after the boy was abducted.

Gives Testimony

J. P. Weyerhaeuser Jr., father of the 9-year-old kidnap victim, testified that he paid the ransom by following instructions in extortion letters. He identified the ransom letter, signed "Egoist."

The letter revealed George had been kidnaped and demanded $200,000 ransom. The lad had been missing since he started home from school at noon.

Mrs. Waley, 19-year-old wife of Harmon M. Waley, who pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 45 years on similar charges under the Lindbergh law, leaned forward as Weyerhaeuser testified. Her face was pale.

Recalls Capture

The capture of the couple at Salt Lake City—after Mrs. Waley was caught passing a $5 bill from the ransom money—was recalled by Marian Samuels. She is a floor-walker in a 5-and-10 cent store there.

Miss Samuels identified the $5 ransom bill which she said Mrs. Waley attempted to pass June 8. She said she immediately called Detective W. M. Rogers.

Rogers testified Mrs. Waley declared her name was Mrs. Von Metz and that she had received the bill the previous day in change.

Throughout the testimony before Federal Judge E. E. Cushman, Mrs. Waley scarcely glanced at the witnesses or judge. She wore the same blue jumper dress, with white underblouse, figured with blue and red dots, as previously. Her bobbed hair, badly needing a trim, straggled over her face.

Foreclosure Sale Of Horses Causes Riot; Postponed to August

BARROW, Wis., July 9 (AP)—Attempts at mediation proving futile, the foreclosure sale of horses owned by Andrew Hornick, Polk county farmer, to satisfy a $350 judgment was postponed late today to Aug. 7.

Sheriff Otto Anderson, who broke up a riot by farmers who stopped the sale yesterday, said the date was the best of the Polk County professional bureau and members of the Wisconsin Farm Holiday association who interceded in Hornick's behalf.

ETTA KETT—

Long Proceeds To Lash F. R., State Enemies

NEW ORLEANS, July 9 (AP)—Apparently well satisfied with affairs in Louisiana, Senator Huey P. Long today switched his attention to the national arena after having his political ally, Governor O. K. Allen, lift the martial law edict under which the state's capital has existed for nearly six months.

The Louisiana "dictator" planned to return to Washington tonight to pick up his fight against President Roosevelt where he left off last Wednesday.

"That the senator has no intention of softening his attack on the president was indicated last night during a verbal blast at the new deal in which he called the chief executive a 'liar and a faker,' and charged the president was insincere in his tax program and old age pension plan.

Martial law in Baton Rouge was invoked last January. Today the last detachment of national guardsmen evacuated the capital.

Martial law was proclaimed after Senator Long charged a plot had been fostered to assassinate him.

Long returned to New Orleans late yesterday after directing enactment of 25 personally drafted bills giving him control over the expenditure of state funds, making politicalization of federal funds a misdemeanor punishable by jail sentence, and stripping his political enemies of their local patronage.

In his radio address last night the senator again attacked Mayor T. Semmes Walmesley, head of the "old regular" faction in New Orleans which is bitterly opposed to the Long administration, but declared he was not going to remove him from office.

"I could put him out in five minutes if I wanted to," Long said, "but I'm going to let the people of New Orleans find out just what he is and let them put him out."

Career Plus 11 Children Doesn't Faze Mrs. J. A. Lyons, Wife Of Australian

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—Mrs. J. A. Lyons, whose speech-making, article-writing life as wife of the Australian prime minister closely parallels Mrs. Roosevelt's today celebrated her 38th birthday at the White House.

Beamingly she chose the occasion to talk about her 11 children.

How could she keep a career going and keep 11 children going at the same time? The plump and blond Mrs. Lyons just considers such things as sewing—making all the little children's things herself—"A real delight and relaxation."

"When I was a candidate for parliament—I had seven children then—women were asking why wasn't this woman at home taking care of her children? My answer was that if I had spent my time playing bridge, I would have been a huge success socially.

"Women's criticism seemed to me prejudice without reason behind them. Men's was more clear-cut and of two types—the first group contending women's place was in the home, by which they meant

Story Reveals Communistic Idea of Twain

NEW YORK, July 9 (AP)—Mark Twain was shown tonight to have had little respect for communism.

Hitherto unpublished notes and diaries, printed in the current issue of Hearst's International-Cosmopolitan, record the late humorist and philosopher as having jotted down the following observation during a tour of Europe in 1878:

"Communism is idioty. They want to divide up the property. Suppose they did it—it requires brains to keep money as well as to make it. In a previous little while the money would be back in the former owner's hands and the communist would be poor again. The division would have to be remade every three years or it would do the communist no good."

He became fond of composing maxims, and in one notebook he wrote:

"Never refuse to do a kindness unless the act would work great injury to yourself, and never refuse to take a drink—under any circumstances."

Moderation

"Water taken in moderation cannot hurt anybody."

Describing his arrival in the Sandwich islands in 1866, where he gathered material for "Roughing It," he wrote:

"King (Kamehameha V) sat in 2-horse buggy alone on wharf—big whiskers—old leather complexion—broad gold band on plug hat—band of gold around neck of coat. No—king's driver—speculation wrong. King sitting on barrel on wharf fishing."

Editor Will Be Taught by Foes

MADISON, Wis., July 9 (AP)—John B. Chapple, young newspaper editor, champion of Americanism and avowed candidate for governor of Wisconsin on the republican ticket, is going to school this summer at the state university whose professors have been in the center of his attack.

When he announced his intention several months ago of seeking the governorship, Chapple declared his first act, if elected, would be to bring about the resignation of Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin.

Enrolls at University

It was weeks after that announcement that Chapple left his home in Ashland, where he is editor of The Daily Press and enrolled in the classes of three outstanding members of the university faculty—all of them pronounced liberals.

Courses Chapple pursued gave rise to question whether he advocated primarily to ferret out advocates of socialism, atheism and communism, who, he has claimed, are rampant on the campus.

Chapple immediately answered the question with a brief statement:

"Not to speak"

"I am at the university to listen,

Senate Committee Makes Draft Of Administration Utilities Bill

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—Final drafting of the administration utilities bill behind closed doors of a senate-house conference was assured tonight, but the holding company abolition issue remained a question mark.

A crowded day brought these senate developments:

Senator Dieterich (D-Ill), leader of the fight against mandatory execution of "unnecessary" holding units, withdrew his motion for senate acceptance of the house provision leaving holding company abolition to the discretion of the securities commission.

Quickly, the senate agreed unanimously to send the bill to conference.

Then Dieterich, whose earlier action was interpreted as a sign of weakness in the anti-administration senate group, moved to instruct the senate conferees "not to insist" on the mandatory abolition of the senate bill.

The senate agreed to a showdown by 2 o'clock tomorrow on Dieterich's instruction motion.

As the senate recessed, Democratic Leader Robinson predicted there would be enough votes to beat Dieterich's motion, regardless of the ballot a month ago that lacked only one vote of eliminating the dissolution section.

Senator Wheeler (D-Mont) in charge of the bill, complained that the house amendments struck out the "heart" of the bill. To back his arguments he read a letter from Joseph P. Kennedy, chairman of the SEC, declaring the utilities bill as passed by the house would put a "staggering" burden of administration on the commission.

The debate brought to the floor for his maiden speech the senate's youngest member, Rush D. Holt (D-W.Va). In supporting the administration on the abolition issue, Holt said holding companies "are nothing but a means by which state regulation is escaped, federal regulation dodged, investors skinned and consumers gouged." He assailed the whole holding company system as "an economic waste and a cancerous growth in the American economic system."

Woman's Work Is Never Done—When There Are Triplets Near

DUBUQUE, Ia., July 9 (AP)—Mrs. George Miller, farm wife living near here, agrees with whoever it was that said:

"Man works from sun to sun, but woman's work is never done."

"But he didn't know the half of it," she smiled, "not unless there were triplets in the family."

There are triplets in Mrs. Miller's family, two baby girls, Jean and Joan, and a baby boy, John, born to her May 17.

Tired

Mrs. Miller looked tired. She had just taken in a row of diapers from the wash line before it rained. She rocked back and forth looking out the window while a sister stood nearby folding blankets, sheets, dresses and diapers.

Now that Mr. and Mrs. George Miller have their triplets, however, they wouldn't be without them for anything in the world—even though George Miller's farm work keeps him going from before sunup to after sundown and the triplets and her farm wife tasks make his wife's day one long round of cares that stretch into the night.

"Don't Care"

"As long as the babies are healthy and we keep the farm going," Mrs. Miller said, "we don't care."

"And the babies are doing just not to speak; to learn, not to teach."

The editor, now 36 years old, reached the height of his attack upon alleged un-American teachings of certain faculty members three years ago when, in a whirlwind rise in politics, he carried off the republican nomination for United States senator. He defeated the late Senator John J. Blaine, an outstanding LaPollette progressive, only to be lost in the democratic landslide at the general election.

Harrop Backs "The Kingfish" for Next Farm-Labor Nominee

OMAHA, NEB., July 9 (AP)—Roy M. Harrop, chairman of the Farmer-Labor Party, predicted late yesterday that Senator Huey P. Long of Louisiana would be nominated at the presidential nominee of the Farmer-Labor party at its national convention here.

The convention called to open yesterday, still had not formally started today. Harrop explained the national committee was driving up a share-of-the-wealth program to present probably tomorrow.

The chairman declared the Minnesota delegation of seven was strong for Long and might possibly place his name for nomination. Harrop asserted the work of mapping platform prevented his giving the keynote address late yesterday to the handful of delegates. Harrop's prepared speech calls for a redistribution of wealth.

Norman Baker, Laredo, Tex., gubernatorial candidate on the party's ticket in Iowa in 1932, came out against any share-of-the-wealth plan as "unfair to those who have earned it by their own tools."

Italy's Offense May Not Work

General Harts Says Attack by Air Only Successful Method

MADISON, CONN., July 9 (AP)—The proposed Italian offensive against Ethiopia may be entirely unsuccessful, Maj. Gen. William Wright Harts, retired U. S. army engineer, said today, asserting that aviation is the only instrument of modern warfare that might make Mussolini victorious.

Repetition

In forecasting possible defeat, the former military governor of Paris and member of the commission which in 1930 represented the United States at the coronation of Emperor Haile Selassie, said the campaign might well be a repetition of the battle of Adowa in 1896.

The general pointed out that the mere topography of Ethiopia presented a barrier of discouragement to an invader even before the clash of armed forces.

After the torrential rains, there will be intense heat, he said, especially at the bottom of the huge plateau on which is the city of Addis Ababa, capital of the country.

General Harts, smiled at the mention of dispatches which said the Italians had prepared a chemical to sprinkle on the roads burning the natives' feet.

"Those who projected that idea," he said, "forgot that there are no regular roads in Ethiopia and that if there were, those roads would have to be reached by the invaders first before the corrosive could be sprinkled upon them."

Dickinson's Political Future Uncertain?

WHEN THE elections roll around next year and politics become the leading topic of conversation, one of the more interesting aspects will be the effect of 1936 upon the career of L. J. Dickinson, who completes his term as senior senator from Iowa.

Will Dickinson, the staunch and sturdy advocate of conservatism and straight republicanism, be relegated to the political junk pile? Or, will he be returned to the United States senate on a wave of anti-neo-electionism which may develop before election time next year? It might not be out of place to say the silver-haired senator's future in politics hinges upon the success or failure of Henry Wallace's AAA.

That phase of the new deal which Dickinson has opposed most strenuously. It is the farmers of Iowa who will ultimately decide whether or not we return two democratic senators to Washington or whether, if the new one is a republican, one will be Dickinson.

Say what you may, however, Senator Dickinson deserves all the credit he can get for sticking to his guns during a time when a great many other politicians and statesmen either climbed on the bandwagon or quietly retired to their respective corners.

Possibilities of Dickinson as presidential timber are remote, though he is the recognized leader of the conservative republican element. At present, the younger republicans feel that men of Dickinson's and Hoover's beliefs will not be good vote getters. They figure the people of the country have been exposed long enough to newer ideals and aims so that a republican party to compete must present in some form or other a godly number of patented remedies to compete with the new dealers.

If the republican party is victorious in Iowa next year, disregarding the outcome of the national race, no doubt the senatorial post will go with the state. Outside of Dickinson and Dan Turner there are at present no other outstanding republican leaders in Iowa. It may be difficult for the party to fill up its state ticket, let alone the senatorial opening. Unless something unexpected turns up and a new man enters the reelection of Dickinson might not be such a long shot after all.

The last election campaign demonstrated to a pretty large extent that Turner is through with politics. Dickinson for governor is still an open possibility which may be considered before the last ballot is counted a year from November.

so they might escape the baleful influence of wrong associations. Attempts to direct a child's attention into channels to which his talents are suited, he comments, often results in a social misfit.

"When I was eight years old I sang a song for a medicine doctor. My folks were in the audience. I didn't see them, though. They hid their faces when I appeared on the stage, before even waiting to see how I would acquit myself. Well, I got the dime the doctor promised me. From the folks I got hell for making a fool of myself."

Distinctly individual traits that mark some children were discussed by Belongia and, who declared that they should be carefully studied.

"No one, evidently, cared to investigate the causes of my difference from other children," he said. "Everyone preferred to chaetise and scold." This document, written by a man who was the second in the history of Colorado's condemned men not to appeal for a pardon or new trial, could well be printed and a copy sent to every child psychologist in the land.

His problem is age old, and one that educators, parents, and psychologists will continue to study for generations. It is the old case of trying to find square pegs for round holes. What a happy world this would be if we all found the niche that was just filled.

Secretary Morgenthau took an important step Monday in tossing in the laps of congressional committees several schedules of proposed tax increases under Roosevelt's "share the wealth" plan.

Before they are hurt, the wealthy and the conservatives are howling against "confiscation," opponents in congress have had time to organize their forces, and Hearst has launched a revival of his persistent sales tax campaign.

Both camps were hopeful Morgenthau would reveal the president's attitude in his conference with congressmen yesterday—but the secretary presented schedules of tax increases ranging from very high to almost negligible, and refused to state his or Roosevelt's opinion on which was preferable.

If the chief executive wishes to pass a higher tax bill at this session—and he has advanced this suggestion in rather an indefinite way—he could aid himself by giving some indication of his wishes concerning details of such taxation in the near future.

It is not like Roosevelt to "beat around the bush." Perhaps his defeat on the holding company abolition bill, after making his desires quite plain at the start, caused him to change his tactics. The effect has been anything but desirable, apparently, and its only amusing feature has been the confusion of congressional leaders who have been forced to act on their own initiatives.

The current senate investigation of conditions in the Virgin Islands deserves the deepest attention of the administration and the public.

A Washington Bystander

WASHINGTON — But for the wealth-tax issue, which blossomed so suddenly it completely upset previous adjournment calculations, that part of the president's tax message during a constitutional amendment to wipe out all future forms of tax-exempt government securities, probably would have been slept in a committee pigeon-hole.

It might not pass at this session. The idea of opening all future national security issues to state taxation and similar state, county or municipal bonds to federal levies against their income, is not new. It has been close to adoption by congress before. The same men who led a successful house fight against the plan nearly a decade ago still are in congress, although now in the senate. They have in no wise changed their viewpoint.

Ashurst Amendment But the general political situation has changed greatly. If the matter even is brought to the ac-

CORNER OF U. S. IN ETHIOPIA

United States legation in Addis Ababa A little corner of the United States in remote Ethiopia, scene of the Italian-Ethiopian disturbances, is the United States legation at Addis Ababa. Charge d'Affaires W. Perry George has warned the 125 Americans in the African country to depart for safety, but it was expected most of them would ignore the advice.

Screen Life By HUBBARD KEAVY

HOLLYWOOD—There was more advice than wisecrack in Jack Oakie's quip, "Never cut a cutter."

A film cutter, lately dignified with the title "film editor," is the put a motion picture together. But assembling the short pieces of film into sequence does not always mean just the pasting of consecutively numbered pieces of celluloid. Often after a story has been filmed, weaknesses that were not apparent in the script become so obvious that something must be done about them.

The star really is at the mercy of the cutter. The cutter can assemble the film in such a fashion that the star becomes less prominent than the other featured players. He can alter the plot, bettering it usually, and do so many other amazing things that the layman hardly can believe there are such tricks.

Kiss Shifted to Leo A recent interesting case of cutting occurred in Grace Moore's new picture, "Love Me Forever." After it was filmed, the unexpected discovery was made that the star turned out to be almost the heavy!

The next to the last scene shows Miss Moore throwing a kiss and the final scene shows the wealthy suitor receiving it. The implication is that he is the man of her choice. But a cutter recalled a discarded piece of film showing Carillo smilingly responding, apparently to a kiss tossed in his direction. He resubmitted this piece of film and made it the final scene. And so another film was bettered.

"The Dog Is Good" Some years ago, Warners made a picture in which a dog—just a dog—had a part. When completed, the picture didn't look like such very good box office. In fact, an old inhabitant recalls, it looked terrible.

Without permission, the unnamed cutter switched the story around so that the dog became the central character, the human players of almost incidental importance. (This must have been a very unpleasant surprise to the actors.) As such, it became a good picture and the first of many that starred the late Rex (Tin Tin).

A New Yorker At Large

By JAMES B. RESTON NEW YORK—The lower east side, that vast squalid slice of Manhattan Island, is without question the most fantastic and the saddest parcel of land I have ever seen. Especially now when the heat drives its inhabitants from their tenement rooms to the sidewalk.

If you have any imagination, you cannot walk these narrow streets without wondering what weird stories the crumbling walls whisper into their lives. In every block is some unbelievable thing: some sad face, which bubbles the misery of a lifetime. Children pour out of the tenement doors like ants out of the ground—bearing, screaming, filthy tots, unaware of the handicap which they must overcome.

Here certainly is despair. In this quarter, the humans have a monopoly on the unloveliness of life (filth—mental and physical; poverty, which steals flesh from the body and hope from the heart.

The population is, of course, mainly foreign. The Jew and the Italian outnumber the others, though the quarter is compounded of the most astonishing collection of peoples and the most appalling mixture of these peoples. The second generation, born in this country, is evidence of intermarriage among the races, and these children manage somehow to run gleefully through the streets.

But there is little joy for their immigrant fathers and mothers. Torn from the lands in which they were raised, they sit sorrowfully in their doors. Living, for them, "is for a time not dying."

You are convinced, after a walk through, that poverty in the country—the harsh pinching poverty of a meager farm, for instance—is high luxury compared to the poverty of this "midland." There at least, you have the sun and a breath of fresh air, and the odor of the woods, and sun going down over the trees. Here the sun is dimmed by dust, if not out of altogether by the endless tentments. And there are no trees.

If only one could escape the great contrast between this and other sections of the city! Let any one of them walk two blocks to a subway and drop a nickel in the slot, and lo! he can be whisked away to the most fabulous land in the history of the world. Midtown New York! Steel and stone standing up into the breathless air; wealth and the products of wealth—everything that can be bought from every corner of the world!

Prof. Mabie Will Lecture On "The Regional Theater" Here

To Describe Trend A Way From New York Performances

Prof. Edward C. Mabie, director of University theater, will be presented tomorrow night by the school of fine arts in a lecture on "The Regional Theater."

Professor Mabie, one of the leaders in the away from Broadway movement, has directed several world premiere performances at University theater, among them Owen Davis' play "The Harbor Light," and "Tread the Green Grass," by Paul Green.

Success in New York In the past the only field open to the playwright was on Broadway. Young playwrights were forced to go to New York to achieve success in the drama.

Leaders in the new development are the smaller theaters throughout the country. The University theater at the University of Iowa and the community theaters in Pasadena and Cleveland are important centers of the regional movement.

Cheaply Produced The advantages of the smaller theater are the fact that plays can be produced without the almost prohibitive expense of Broadway productions and without adherence to the accepted precedents of Broadway.

In 10 years leaders of the movement hope that the New York theater will have to come to Iowa to buy what they want of Iowa.

Professor Mabie came to the University of Iowa in 1920 and since 1925 has been head of the speech department. Previously he was on the faculties of Dartmouth college and the University of Kentucky.

Goodrich Gives Innocence Plea In Courtroom

Confessed Murderer Ups Prosecution Plans for Fast Case

DETROIT, July 9 (AP)—Merton Ward Goodrich quakingly mumbled a plea of not guilty in recorder's court today to the murder of 11-year-old Lillian Gallaher and completely upset prosecution plans for swift disposition of the case he had admitted in detail.

The plea by the former inmate of an Ohio asylum for the insane, took court and prosecution officials by surprise. It came from a prisoner who collapsed a moment later when he learned for the first time of his mother's death three weeks ago.

Orders Examination Judge Thomas M. Cotter ordered an immediate examination, and said at its conclusion: "You are held for trial without bail."

The surprise plea also upset for the time being plans for an inquiry into Goodrich's sanity, and into that of his wife, who is held as a material witness. It was on the advice of his wife, Goodrich indicated, that he broke his promise to plead guilty and "get it over with" as quickly as possible.

Brother Testifies Clayton Gallaher, elder brother of the girl Goodrich has admitted he enticed to his apartment, attacked and killed, was the first witness at the examination. He glared at Goodrich as he told of identifying his sister's body last September in the county morgue.

Goodrich averted his eyes, trembled, and slumped down in his chair. The prisoner collapsed again at the end of the examination. He was revived and placed in a solitary cell, where he was left crying and nervously twisting his fingers.

Judge Cotter said that either the prosecution or the defense could ask for appointment of a sanity commission before or during the trial.

While in school he was a member of three honor societies, Beta Gamma Sigma, Chi Phi Pi, and Scabard and Blade.

Nature Takes First Round Against Bugs

DES MOINES, July 9 (AP)—Midwestern entomologists today conceded nature the victor in the "battle of the chinch bug."

They anticipate scattered damage in only a few of the 11 states which last January were threatened with serious infestations.

Scattered infestations in other states are considered a negligible threat to crops.

Expect Damage The entomologists expect spotted damage in Iowa, Illinois and Missouri. In Nebraska, Oklahoma, Minnesota, Texas, Kansas and other states the threat is negligible.

Three months ago entomologists warned farmers to prepare for one of the most serious chinch bug attacks in years—"unless weather conditions are favorable to retard the development of the pest."

Congress voted a $2,500,000 appropriation with which to buy barrier oil ammunition to fight the insects. Affected states organized chinch bug "fighting units" to prepare for the attack.

Nature to Rescue But old man nature came to the rescue. Heavy rains brought floods which damaged thousands of acres of corn and small grain, but they also smashed the chinch bug threat.

The bugs prosper only in hot, dry weather. When the grass in the meadows and along the fence rows becomes dry and hard, the chinch bug moves to more succulent feeding grounds—small grain and corn fields.

This year, with abundant moisture, grasses stayed green. There was plenty of feed for the pests where they were. Entomologists reported that even in the areas that still are infested the abundant grass probably will prevent heavy damage.

The agriculturists advised farmers in these scattered infested areas, however, to keep a sharp lookout for migration into the corn fields, and be prepared to construct barriers. They pointed out continued hot weather will encourage the pests to seek new feeding grounds, especially after the small grain is harvested.

Requests Speed In Relief Drive

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—President Roosevelt today told public works officials "speed is the essence" in the work-relief drive to "end the dole before the year is ended."

Thanking the PWA state directors for "very splendid work" in the old $2,700,000,000 program, Mr. Roosevelt told the group brought to his office by Secretary Ickes: "You are now an important part of an even greater effort—one to be made during the next year which will provide quick employment so that we can attain, if possible, the goal we have set within this year 1935."

"We will end the dole we have been paying to employable persons during the last two years. We must give useful work to three and one-half million people and I believe we are going to do it."

He insisted anew that politics must be kept out, that there must be cooperation between the three federal work relief agencies—Works Progress, PWA, and National Emergency council officers—that direct relief must be ended this year and that a "perfectly simple arithmetical problem" limited the average spending per man given work out of the $4,000,000,000 fund to $1.10, including materials.

Pat Pearson of Iowa City Gains Second Round in Iowa Amateur Golf Tourney

BITS ABOUT SPORTS

by Art Snider

CEDAR RAPIDS, July 8—An unknown among the horde of Iowa's best amateur golfers, Pat Pearson, was the object of much discussion here today as he came through with a 2 up triumph over Blaine Asher of Spencer, a director in the Iowa Golf association and one of the tournament's favorites. Pearson qualified with a 77 Monday, a score ranking with Hal Chase's, Wilbur Hird's and other elites.

If a hard luck trophy were to be given, it would belong to Henry Kadglin of Iowa City. In 1934, Kadglin turned in a qualifying score good enough for the championship flight but was eliminated in a draw when it was discovered that more than 64 had qualified. This year it happened again. Kadglin shot an 81 along with seven others. Only two competitors were needed to fill out the two brackets in the championship flight and Kadglin lost on the draw for one of the places.

Sympathies went to James Gardner, star University of Iowa golfer, because of his heart-breaking loss to Ed Stone after 22 holes. A large gallery was attracted to their match after it was squared on the 18th hole. Both boys are extremely popular here, Gardner having been one of the outstanding favorites for the championship.

Rift Reported Twixt Baers

Give Religious Differences as Reason For Separation

NEW YORK, July 9 (AP)—The New York Daily News says that Max Baer, former heavyweight champion, tonight announced he and the bride he married June 29 in Washington, D. C., are separating "because of religious differences."

She is the former Mary Ellen Sullivan. She was the director of a Capital hotel coffee shop before their sudden surprise marriage.

Religious Difficulties

Hints of religious difficulties arose immediately afterward with the new Mrs. Baer asserting Max would have a fight on his hands every Sunday if he did not go to church.

Max said afterward he was not sure whether he was Jewish. His bride was a Catholic.

Will Confer Later

The News quoted Baer saying he and his wife would confer later this week on the separation before he goes to a hospital at Baltimore.

The News copyrighted story said Baer made his announcement at a party in a small restaurant here tonight.

"She wanted us to get married again by a Catholic priest," he was quoted saying. "But because I am Jewish I refused to go through with it. Then—well, I never knew she took her religion so seriously." The News story said he told his friends.

After their marriage, and their return to a champagne breakfast party here, Baer said he "guessed" he had a little Jewish blood in him. His father was Jewish, his mother Scottish-Irish, and his sister married a Catholic, Baer said.

Goes to Churches

"I myself have gone to Episcopal churches and Christian Science services," Baer said then.

The News story said that the announcement was made in the presence of his former fiancée Mary Kirk Brown and that "perhaps inadvertently" he had introduced Miss Brown as "Mrs. Baer."

Mrs. Max Baer Denies Reports

LONG BRANCH, N. J., July 9 (AP)—Mrs. Mary Ellen Sullivan Baer laughingly denied tonight reports of a rift between her and her pugilist husband, Max Baer.

"There is nothing to it," she said. "I didn't feel like going to New York with Max and I suppose that someone seeing him alone immediately thought the worst."

Mrs. Baer III

Mrs. Baer explained that she has been suffering from a cold and has been under the care of her physician, Dr. M. A. Aaronson of Long Branch.

"We are very happy," she said. "I talked to Max at 5 o'clock today and if there was anything wrong then, he failed to mention it."

Informed of reports that Baer attended the opening of the blue room at Jack Dempsey's New York restaurant tonight in the company of Mary Kirk Brown, his former fiancée, Mrs. Baer said:

Paid admissions totaled more than $93,000. Previous largest crowd was that which saw the first game, at Comiskey Field, Chicago, when 49,200 fans paid $51,000. Last year's game was in New York, and drew slightly under the sum realized at Chicago.

24 Hits Registered In Loosely-Played Game at City Park

The heavy batting guns boomed at the City park last night as Solon CCC pounded out a 17 to 12 decision over Elks in a City league softball game. A total of 24 hits was registered, with each team getting 12, but the victors bunched their hits at opportune times to garner the most runs. Solon CCC had their biggest inning in the sixth when they pushed across seven runs to put the game on ice. Again play on the parts of the Elks players was loose as they committed seven errors last night and nine the night before.

Coralville Defeats Unrath's Under Protest

In a game which was played under protest because of the presence of Gunia, Lind and Godova on the victors' lineup, the Coralville nine defeated Unrath's in the nightcap at City park last night by a 4 to 3 score.

The Tremen protested because Gunia plays with the Kelly Oilers and the latter two are LeVora players.

The game itself was a nip-and-tuck affair up to the very last half of the ninth inning. Unrath's scored in the fourth and eighth innings but Coralville came back in both of these frames to match the total. It was in the last half of the ninth inning that Coralville pushed across the winning tally on Gunia's single, an error, and a fielders choice.

VOSMIK ADDS CIRCUS NOTE TO ALL-STAR GAME

Halfway between second and third base in the fifth inning of the all-star inter-league game in Cleveland stadium, Joe Vosmik tripped and fell face forward, but leaped to his feet and scrambled to the bag where he slid headlong again. Joe's vaudeville tumble added a comic touch to the game which was won by the American league stars, 4 to 1. The play occurred when Gehring singled to right, Vosmik racing—and skidding—from first to third, where he is shown finally embracing the bag safely.

Deere Improved

The Deere team has improved rapidly the last week. After their defeat at the hands of the Oilers they came back to blank the powerful Waterloo Schukei outfit 3-0.

They also hold a victory over the league leading Paty Anne team from Boone.

Toughest Game

Watkins' team is still in third place despite their two losses in the last three league games. Watkins will take no chances on losing the game Friday night and will groom his team for one of the toughest games of the season.

Decuir Hits 2 Homers As St. Joe Wins, 10-5

KEOKUK, Ia., July 9 (AP)—Two home runs by Decuir accounted for a total of six runs and ample margin for St. Joseph to take a 10 to 5 victory here tonight from Keokuk. Scoring two men ahead of him each time, Decuir smashed circuit clouts in the second and ninth innings,

Great Britain Wins International Senior Golf Team Crown

PRESTWICK, Scotland, July 9 (AP)—Great Britain won the international senior golf team championship for the second year in a row today, defeating the United States and Canada. England won the two-day meet with 31 1-2 points. United States was second with 18 and Canada, third, 4 1-2.

Davis to Seek Another Title In Net Tourney

Ed Davis, 190 pound all-around athlete from Bradley Tech, will return to the University of Iowa's Mississippi Valley tennis tournament to seek the title he last held in 1933.

The rugged Peoria player, who possesses plenty of power and a devastating backhand, has assured Hawkeye officials he will play in the affair of July 24 to 27.

Davis defeated Raymond Bell of Cedar Rapids for the singles title in 1933 but lost in the semi-finals to Dick Rugs, the ultimate champion, last year. He was runner-up to Harris Coggeshall of Des Moines in the recent Central states tournament at Davenport.

Louis-Levinsky Fight Date Set

Two Will Meet In Comiskey Park On August 7

CHICAGO, July 9 (AP)—The Illinois State Athletic Commission today placed its approval on the date, site, and price of tickets for the Joe Louis-King Levinsky heavyweight fight scheduled for the night of Aug. 7 at Comiskey park.

Expect $200,000 Gate
Promoter Joe Foley posted a $20,000 bond with the commission, binding the match. Inasmuch as the commission demands a bond of 10 per cent of the anticipated gate receipts, it is evident that the ring board will expect the fight to draw at least $200,000. The ticket prices ranged from $10 downward for ringside seats.

Option

The commission also granted promoter Foley an option on the Aug. 8, 9, and 10 dates in the event unfavorable weather forces a postponement.

The commission refused permission for a match between Primo Carnera of Italy and Max Baer of California, both former heavyweight champions, at Soldier field on July 27 or 28 chiefly because it felt that such a bout would act as a counter attraction to the Levinsky-Louis fight.

Three Suggestions Made to Put All-Star Game on Popular Basis

Bernie Page, end, and Russ Fisher, halfback, apparently the University of Iowa's most likely candidates for positions on the all-star college squad for the game in August with the Chicago Bears.

In the early balloting, Page ranks with the first 10 ends, while Fisher, who performs as a blocking halfback and was captain of Iowa's 1934 team, is farther down the list.

Another Hawkeye who finished his competition last year after three seasons of consistent tackle play is Fred Radloff. Most of the other Iowa seniors of 1934 were semi-regulars or substitutes.

Iowa had one player in the all-star game last August—Joe Laws, quarterback whose work gained the praise of critics. Francis Schammel, an all-American guard, was voted onto the squad, but did not compete in the game against the Bears. The game was a scoreless tie.

Big 10 Gridders Lead in Balloting

CHICAGO, July 9 (AP)—Big Ten notables led the brisk battle of votes tonight for berths on the all-star college football team which will meet the Chicago Bears of the National Professional Football league on Soldier field the night of Aug. 29.

Eight Big Ten players were among the leaders. The voting:
Ends: Leeper, Northwestern, 1,752; Larson, Minnesota, 1,698.
Tackles: Bengston, Minnesota, 1,693; Lee, Alabama, 1,387.
Guards: Monahan, Ohio State, 1,496; Bevan, Minnesota, 1,382.
Centers: J. Robinson, Notre Dame, 1,382; Shotwell, Pittsburgh, 1,147.
Quarterbacks: Warburton, Southern California, 1,297; Manjas, Pittsburgh, 1,194.
Fullbacks: Kosta, Minnesota, 2,183; Weinstock, Pittsburgh, 1,779.
Halfbacks: Purvis, Purdue, 1,493; Lund, Minnesota, 1,387.

Davenport 9 Scores 7 Runs in Fifth Inning To Beat Demons, 11-10

DAVENPORT, Ia., July 9 (AP)—Rampaging home with seven runs in the fifth inning, Davenport took revenge on Des Moines for the series-opening victory won by the Demons last night and whipped the visitors 11 to 10 here tonight in a slugfest.

Score by Innings:
Des Moines: 102 500 200-10 12 1
Davenport: 004 070 00x-11 12 1

Fan Vote, Allow Off Day Before Tilt, Gate Receipt Split

ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, July 9 (AP)—Three suggestions calculated to put the all-star major league ball game on a scrappier, more widely-popular basis were put forward by observers today in the wake of the third annual big show in the wide open spaces of the Cleveland stadium.

It is proposed (1) to give fans throughout the country a chance to vote on the selection of the two teams, as originally done and subsequently discarded; (2) allow for an off-day before the game, so that the rival pitchers will be in that much better shape to perform, regardless of their regular-season assignments; (Turn to page 7)

Iowa Citizens Win In Flights; 2 Up sets Mark 1st Round

By ART SNIDER
(Daily Iowan Sports Editor)

CEDAR RAPIDS, July 9 (Special)—Continuing the same sensational stroking which placed him among the lowest-scoring qualifiers Monday, Pat Pearson this afternoon blazed through to a startling upset of V. Blaine Asher of Spencer, a pre-tourney favorite, to advance into the second round of the Iowa Amateur open championships at the Cedar Rapids Country club. Tomorrow at 9 a.m., Pearson will tee off against L. E. Walker of Waterloo, who captured a 1 up win from Clayton Pittman of Mason City late this afternoon.

Pearson is the sole bearer of the Iowa City banner in the championship flight. All other Iowa City representatives were eliminated in the qualifying rounds but came back in the lesser flights today to display surprising strength.

Cook Wins

George Cook, University of Iowa star last spring, advanced into the second round of the championship flight along with Pearson when he defeated Gaylord Crowell of Davenport 4 and 3. Cook will meet John Carey of Cedar Rapids tomorrow.

Along with the upset of Asher by Pearson came two others. Billy Cordingly, Des Moines youth, who tied with McCrary for medal honors, and Johnnie Vavra, country club champion, were eliminated by Hal Chase of Des Moines, and Wilbur Hird, Drake university star, respectively. Vavra, a finalist last year, could win only two holes and suffered a 2 down defeat at the hands of the husky Des Moines youngster. Chase had all he could handle in Cordingly, who after being 2 down at the ninth hole, came back strong but could not make up the margin and lost 1 up.

Griner Loses

Glen Darrow of Cedar Rapids and Dr. Paul Barton of Davenport were put out of the running by two comparatively unknowns, while Jimmy Gardner of Vinton, University of Iowa star, lost to Ed Stone of Waterloo on the twenty-second hole.

Gardner's match with Stone was a fight all of the way. Stone was 1 up at the sixteenth hole but here Gardner started a rally and won the sixteenth with a birdie, halved the seventeenth and copped the eighteenth with a brilliant birdie three to square the match. The pair went to the twenty-second where Gardner could not equal Stone's four.

In the lesser flights, Iowa Citizens showed up to advantage. Henry Kadglin advanced to the second round of the President's flight with a 1 up victory over Lee Carmons while Ed Lambert of Iowa City won by default from Fred Agnew of Davenport.

Van Epps Defeats Skow

Charles Van Epps defeated Harold Skow of Newton 2 to 1 in the Veterans' flight while Ken Suesons of Burlington, University of Iowa freshman star last year defeated R. S. Ferris of Cedar Rapids 3 and 2.

Owens Loses Dash, Wins Broad Jump Over Peacock in East

Peacock Wins 100 In :09.7; McCluskey Loses Two-Mile

NEW YORK, N. Y., July 9 (AP)—Jesse Owens of Ohio State and his national championship conqueror, Eulace Peacock of Temple, broke even in two events tonight in their final dual of the 1935 track and field season but were obliged to share the honors of a rain-drenched all-star meet, conducted on New York university's Ohio field, with a brilliant record performance.

Squared Accounts
Peacock capitalized his speedier getaway, and withstood Owens' sensational finishing drive to win the 100-yard dash by a scant foot in 9.7 seconds. The "Buckeye Bullet" came back on a slippery take-off to square accounts in the broad jump with a leap of 23 feet 9 inches. Peacock's best was 22 feet, 6 inches.

Unheralded
An unheralded foot-racer from the far west, Norman Bright of Bellingham, Wash., carrying the colors of the San Francisco Olympic club, electrified the crowd of several hundred weather-defying enthusiasts by romping to victory over Joe McCluskey of the New York A. C. in American record time for the two-mile run.

Bright left McCluskey flat footed on the east lap to win by 30 yards in 9 minutes, 13.2 seconds. This clipped more than two seconds from the former U. S. outdoor mark of 9:54.

came through with an easy 6 and 5 triumph over H. H. Cherry of Cedar Rapids and will compete in the second round tomorrow at 1:30 p.m. George Koser defeated Don Barnes of Cedar Rapids 2 and 1 in the Cedar View flight and Clair Potter downed N. P. Craemer of Cedar Rapids 4 and 3.

Hubert Jones lost 5 and 4 in the Kenmore flight while G. W. Guxton bowed to George Miley of Cedar Rapids in the Country club flight. M. Schnoebelen won 1 up in 19 holes in the Secretary's flight.

Two University of Iowa golfers were eliminated in the Indian Creek flight. Joe Sams of Muscatine defeated Jim Larabee of Clermont 6 and 5 and Tom Hannister lost to Don Fufts of Spencer 5 and 4.

Hamborg Defeats Merritt

In one of the featured matches of the Marion flight, Flave Hamborg of Iowa City defeated his fellow-townsmen, Leck Merritt 2 up. Merritt was 2 up at nine but Hamborg steadied to dominate play in the last nine and come through the victor.

CEDAR RAPIDS, July 9 (AP)—Denmar Miller, Iowa's "silent man" of the fairways, moved toward a second straight state amateur golf title today with an easy first round victory as several of the favorites faltered in the Country club's deepest woods.

The Des Moines champion, always the quiet, steady workman, flashed a sizzling row of par figures to eliminate Joe Toman of Cedar Rapids 6 and 5. Miller reached the turn in par 35 to go three up and finish the match on the 13th green.

While the 1934 winner was firing his way into the second round, four of the tournament favorites passed out of the championship picture.

Johnny Vavra, the Cedar Rapids Country club champion and runner-up for the title last year, fell before the long-driving Wilbur Hird of Des Moines. The popular Cedar Rapids ace went two down at the end of the first three holes and never recovered the lost ground.

Detroit Licks Boston Braves By 8-7 Score

DETROIT, July 9 (AP)—Doubles by Jo-Jo White and Marvin Owsen in the eleventh inning gave the Detroit Tigers an 8 to 7 win over the Boston Braves in an inter-league exhibition baseball game at Navin field today.

General Alvin Crowder started on the mound for Detroit and was relieved by Clyde Hatter in the fifth. Ben Cantwell pitched all the way for the Braves. Boston piled up a 6 to 2 lead in the early innings but Detroit pulled up to even terms in the sixth.

Moore and Berger hit home runs for the Braves, both off Crowder. Berger's homer came with Urbanski and Lee on base.

champion, also dropped out of the title chase. Ray Lauder, a comparatively unknown Des Moines shooter, eliminated Darrow 2 and 0.

Dr. Paul Barton, of Davenport, 1930 champion, and Jimmy Gardner of Vinton, two other leading contestants, lost close matches to two new tournament heroes.

Bob McCrary of Des Moines, one of the prominent favorites for the crown, continued his blistering pace to down Harry Wild of Dubuque 5 and 4. The stubby Des Moines scot played even with par all the way, only a slight let-up on his 68 tie with Cordingley for medalist honors.

Other favorites moved along with McCrary. Sid Richardson, Creston youth who went to the semi-finals of the Trans-Mississippi, defeated Tom Yarnall of Cedar Rapids, 5 and 4.

Officials Deny Ruling Pitching Of Derringer

CINCINNATI, July 9 (AP)—Officials of the Cincinnati Reds today formally denied reports (not carried by the Associated Press) that they ordered Manager Chuck Dressen to pitch Paul Derringer on Sunday rather than save him for Monday's all-star game.

The statement asserted no official has ever attempted to govern Dressen's pitching choices.

It added "our instructions to Manager Dressen by wire were as follows: 'Our obligations are to the Cincinnati club and the Cincinnati public. We are not attempting to suggest who you should pitch at St. Louis, but have no hesitation in stating that your pitching selections should be made in an attempt to beat St. Louis, and keep our club in sixth place, if possible, and not in an attempt to accommodate Frank Frisch, manager of the Cardinals and of the National league all-stars.'

Baer to Have Hands X-Rayed at Hospital

NEW YORK, July 9 (AP)—Max Baer is going in for repairs.

The former heavyweight champion of the world is going to John Hopkins hospital in Baltimore tomorrow for treatment of his injured hands.

So Many Ways

"We've been told of so many ways to have them fixed up," said Ancel Hoffman, the fighter's manager, "that we've decided to go to Johns Hopkins. Some doctors say to put them in a cast for 30 days and then they'll be alright, while others declare an operation is necessary.

"Whatever the Baltimore doctors tell us ought to be done will be done. We have a number of tempting offers for fights in the fall but I'm not

3 SUGGESTIONS Put Forward to Help All-Star Baseball

and (3) set aside a percentage of the gate receipts, say $10,000, to be split among the players on the victorious side.

Charity Affair

The all-star game is strictly a charity affair now. The players and club owners do not get a nickel out of the receipts, except for bare expenses. All profits go to benevolent funds for old ball players, handled at three separate sources. As such, it's a noble enterprise and one that has now contributed close to $150,000 in three years for benefit purposes.

It is likely to be continued on the present basis, but as a professional proposition many baseball men think it would stimulate the game to offer something besides prestige to the victors. The players themselves do not regard the contest with as much enthusiasm as the fans. They like to play and win but their motives are not exactly altruistic and their minds are chiefly concerned with regular jobs. They feel they are running risks without getting anything out of it.

Nothing or Percentage

Take the case of Hal Schumacher, ace right-hander of the league-leading New York Giants. Hal was saved for the all-star game by Manager Bill Terry. He's the best pitcher in the National league, on the basis of current records as well as expert conviction. He was slated to start at Cleveland but he didn't and there are still arguments about that in National league quarters, because the game was lost before he took the mound for a four-inning trick.

But here's the point: Schumacher was told before-hand by his manager that he was booked to pitch the opening game of a series with Pittsburgh tomorrow, regardless of going to consider any of them seriously until Baer's hands are well again."

Fly to Baltimore

Yesterday Dr. William Healey, New York, suggested the trip to Baltimore. He constructed a special splint for the badly bruised knuckle on the middle finger of Baer's left hand. Baer and Hoffman will fly to Baltimore tomorrow.

Dubuque Girl Gains in Junior Golf Tourney

CHICAGO, July 9 (AP)—A chunky, 14 year old girl from Iowa, battled her way into the semifinal round of the Women's Western Junior Golf Championship tournament today.

She is Edith Estabrooks of Dubuque, Iowa, who scored a 3 to 2 victory over Virginia Lindblad, of Joliet, Ill. Miss Estabrooks, approaching and putting exceptionally well, was even with her opponent at the turn and forged steadily ahead, winning the eleventh, fourteenth and fifteenth and the match. She then played out the round for a card of 43-41-34.

Tomorrow the Iowa girl will meet Eillamae Williams, of River Forest, Ill. in the semi-finals, while Eleanor Dudley of Chicago, medalist in yesterday's qualifying rounds plays Hilda Livengood, also of Chicago, holder of the Illinois women's state title.

how long he worked in the all-star show, so Hal asked to be relieved after doing his stint.

Three Beatings

Obviously National leaguers don't relish three beatings in a row but they can't squawk. They selected their own five-man pitching staff for this year's game, without the help of the fans or any outsiders. Three of the five—Carl Hubbell, Dizzy Dean and Paul Derringer were used Sunday, the day before the all-star game. Another, Van Munko, was forced out by an injury and replaced by the luckless Bill Walker, who started the game. Frankie Frisch, the team manager, was "on the spot," but he wasn't his own fault. He was ill himself and unable to play.

In Stride

The Americans took the game in stride, too, but it looks as they still carry too much heavy artillery for the opposition to spike. Babe Ruth, whose homer won the first all-star game, is gone. Earl Averill, a big gun in the second contest, was unable to play. Lou Gehrig has yet to get a hit in three games and Hank Greenberg, the heavy hitter of the current pennant season, was not even invited to participate, but Jimmie Foxx took a turn at blasting the enemy this year, with signal success.

STORMY LOVE
A YOUNG NAVY MAN'S ROMANCE
BY BELLE BURNS GROMER

READ THIS FIRST:
Following a whirlwind romance in Shanghai where he is attached to a U. S. gunboat, carefree Lieutenant Valentine Preston suddenly marries Lia Garenne, an American southern girl who is alone in the world except for an aunt in Peking and a father in the God desert whom she has not seen in years. When Val's orders arrive, transferring him to Puget Sound Navy Yard, Lia is bitterly disappointed at the thought of leaving China. At the commandant's reception at the Navy Yard Lia finds James Edding, an officer of Captain Edding, and his childhood sweetheart. He had last seen her in Shanghai when he said goodbye to her in a huff and that same day met Lia. The Preston meet Maurice Cordray, aviation executive, who induces Lia to try for a part in connection with a masked ball he is supervising. Later with several others Val and Lia dine at Cordray's home. Lia and Cordray become quite interested in one another and Val is glad of a chance to talk with Lia again. Trying Chinese robes on Lia in his workshop, Cordray also in costume, suddenly catches her when Lia inadvertently knocks a cigarette lighter from his hand. He starts to run. Val tackles him and rolls him in a rug. Unhurt, Cordray thanks Val profusely for saving his life. At the ball Lia does a fantastic dance which is poorly received. However, Lia believes she has been a huge success. Val leaves for a naval reserve dinner in Seattle with Captain Edding. Val begins to feel that the entry of himself and Lia into the life of the navy yard, beginning with a drinking party, had not made a favorable impression on Captain Edding, his superior.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

finally said, "You tell me your invention would accomplish a great saving in fuel, and one day before long I believe the tremendous expense of navy fuel oil will prove a serious question. It is good to see a young officer on the alert for new methods, and I should like to see you develop this device successfully and make a name for yourself. Therefore, if you wish to give your spare time to perfecting your design and testing it out, I can not only put the shops and their facilities at your disposal, but also an old launch which is too worn to stand hoisting but is seaworthy enough for experimental purposes."

Val's eyes flashed with excitement. It would, he knew, mean a lot to him professionally if he could prove his invention. To win the cooperation of an influential officer like Captain Edding was a stride forward. He had been wanting to get at this thing for ages and here was his chance offered from a clear sky and on a silver platter! "Boy!"

It was after eleven when the captain picked up his car at the parking station near the dock and they drove into the yard and circled the hill toward Val's quarters. The bungalow, Val saw, was brightly lit and, remembering his wife's proposed plan, he said, "I think Jan Edding is spending the evening with Mrs. Preston, captain. Won't you come in for a minute?"

As the two men descended from the car and went along the path toward the house Val, although he had barely mentioned the device to Lia, was anticipating her surprised delight when he told her of the captain's interest in his invention. And then, just before they reached the porch, a wild burst of laughter stopped him short in his tracks. Someone began to play the piano loudly and a chorus of voices shouted—

"Oh, the skuttle-but popped at a hundred and three, On the ice machine we made our tea, The engines came up and jumped in the sea!"

In the Armored Cruiser Squadron—

Captain Edding also had halted. His face was expressionless, but his voice held a sharp note when he said, "After all, I think I shan't come in. Good night, Preston."

Val stood to watch him drive away. It was darned decent of the captain to step himself out of the picture and to ignore what sounded suspiciously like a wild party. Yet despite the other's lenience, Val sensed that the good feeling that had sprung up between them this evening had been spoiled.

He entered the house to be greeted by welcoming cries. Brad, he knew, was away, but in a swift glance he saw that Sue was there; also the Fields, two aviators from Sand Point and several junior officers attached to a destroyer in dry-dock. From across the room Cordray nodded a greeting. The door between dining room and pantry stood open to disclose a strange young man running water on a pan of ice cubes.

Because it was his home, Val made an effort to speak civilly to everybody, but this accomplished he slipped into the back room, resolved to stay there. When Lia followed a moment later and closed the door behind her, he snapped—

"I thought I asked you not to serve that liquor here."

"But, darling," she drawled, ticking a small hand into the crook of his

Paddock Sees Only Peacock As Dash King

LONG BEACH, CALIF., July 9 (AP)—Charles W. Paddock, who once held most of the sprint records, sees only Eulace Peacock of Temple as a sure bet to defend dash honors for the United States at the 1936 Olympiad.

Only Peacock
Only dimly could the once "fastest human," victor of three Olympiads, see such speedsters as Jesse Owens and Riph Metcalfe.

"I can only see Peacock as a certain performer at Berlin," said Peacock. "I'm afraid Metcalfe can't hold up another year with that bad leg and I can't feel feeling Owens as pretty much burned out."

Too Slow
"It owns were to specialize on the 220-yard dash and leave the hundred and the low hurdles alone he might figure. Certainly he can't continue to run in three events and beat them and make the grade. The Ohio state boy is far too slow off the marks to do much good in the 100."

elbow, "It isn't our liquor. Mr. Cordray dropped in with the crowd and brought his own cheer along. Wasn't it nice of him? And that isn't all. He has invited us to a gorgeous party he is giving in Seattle tomorrow night. I'm telling you, he'll give it to you. Come out now and see the nice host, dear. And be sure to thank Cordray for his delicious Scotch."

"That bird had his nerve bringing liquor to his home, Val thought furiously. He was quite capable of buying his own stuff. When he said as much to Lia, she cried, "Oh, but he is only trying to be kind. You know, how grateful he is for what you did for him. Surely you aren't going to be rude to the one person in this dull place who has been real friendly!"

When her eyes filled with tears, he relented. After all, it would be appear. "All right," he conceded. "I'll be polite." But, he assured himself, he'd be damned if he'd join in their party or let them think he approved.

He came slowly out into the living room that displayed the first stages of its transformation in creamy enamel, silver tea-chest paper, the piano and few other pieces of new furniture. Here, as he glanced about at his gun, Val saw the aside from Mrs. and Cordray, there was no one he knew well. Two of the men were "plastered." Cordray, as usual, was drinking sparingly and sitting back to watch the others perform. When his eyes circled the room again, Val noted to entertain his friends in the privacy of his own home? After all, this wasn't a jail. A chap should have some rights. Presently, he reached out a hand toward the tempting tray.

To his first drink he said, "Salute!" to the second, "Happy landings," and after that he crossed to Cordray and held up his glass with the old navy toast, "Glad to see you aboard, sir." He had forgotten his first resolution and said to Cordray, "It was kind of you to save Mrs. Preston from a dull evening. It is always a pleasure to welcome you in our home."

Later he played the piano and sang sea chanteys, cowboy laments, love songs. At three in the morning he made coffee and concocted a dish of bacon and eggs Meyerbeer that evoked howls of delight from his guests. As Lia told him at four-thirty, when they stood at the door calling good nights and watching two noly carous depart to the tune of belowing sirens—"You were a marvelous host, darling. Oh, but I was proud of you! Even with a late start, you made it a most successful party."

Council Acts on Beer Licenses, Petition Signed by 40 Persons

Return Refunds For Permit Holders Not Able to Sell Now

Beer dispenser licenses, beer license refunds, and the granting of two class C permits were among the various aspects of the Iowa City beer situation acted upon by the city council at last night's meeting.

In a petition signed by more than 40 persons, the section of the new beer code designed to collect a $2 fee from all persons selling beer in any establishment where that beverage constitutes more than 50 per cent of the business, was labeled as discriminatory and unfair. The petition pointed out that, as long as the proprietors were forced to buy a beer permit, their employees should not be required to purchase licenses. The petition was read and placed on file.

File Applications

The applications of 40 beer dispensers for licenses were filed with the council, and, with one exception, the city clerk was ordered to issue permits upon payment of a $2 fee. The resolution passed by the council also asks that all license holders notify the city clerk where they will be employed. Applicants must be 21 years of age or more in order to obtain permits without consent of parents, the ordinance rules.

Refunds to permit holders who were unable to renew class B licenses under the new ordinance were made to 11 persons. The refunds were made in accordance with the amount of time each holder had left to sell under his old license.

Refunds

The refunds are as follows: H. C. Colwell, nine months, $75; Edythe Hall, 37 weeks, $72; J. E. Kennard, 16 weeks and four days, $32; Albert Burley, 15 weeks, $28; Roscoe Hall, nine weeks and three days, $18.24; Charles Demery, eight weeks, $15.36; C. O. Johnson, six weeks and five days, $13.12; Harvey Secor, four weeks and five days, $9.25; Ben Neundorf, five weeks and two days, $10.24; George Lovinsky, four days, $1.38; and Maude Stimmel, one day, 32 cents.

The Hawkeye Market and Iowa Drug company were granted class C permits. The application of Viva Walden, proprietor of the Snack Shack, for a class C permit was held for further consideration by the council.

The council authorized City Solicitor Sam Whiting to arrange a meeting of members of the council and members of the county board of supervisors to discuss granting of class B beer permits in the vicinity of Iowa City.

The city solicitor pointed out that there had been some misunderstanding about the power of the board to grant permits outside incorporated cities and towns but within the platted areas of the county.

The council members indicated they were interested in keeping the effect of the recently adopted beer ordinance.

Gardner Arranges Tour for Farmers To Inspect Pastures

Johnson county farmers interested in better pastures are invited to inspect the pasture improvement work at the state hospital farm near Mt. Pleasant Thursday, according to Emmett C. Gardner, county agent.

Farmers and others attending the pasture demonstration will see pastures now carrying a steer and a half to the acre. Steers on these same pastures last year gained two pounds a day despite the drought.

The work of improving the pastures is being conducted by the Iowa State college experimental station and the state board of control.

Speakers at the demonstration program will include Senator Harry White of the board of control; Prof. H. D. Hughes of the college crops department of Iowa State college; and C. C. Culbertson, director of animal production for the experimental station.

The specialists will conduct an inspection tour of the demonstration areas and explain the treatments given various pastures.

Keep New Hay Away From 4-H Club Calf

New hay should never be fed to the 4-H club calf at this time of the year, Emmett C. Gardner, county agent, warned yesterday.

Alfalfa and the clovers especially, will throw any calf off feed that has been dry fed, possibly causing loss of weight, Mr. Gardner said.

When possible, old hay or roughage on which the calf has been fed during the winter should be conserved to complete the feeding period. When the supply is exhausted, straw will provide the best source of roughage for the remaining weeks of the feeding period.

Bridge Project Gets Approval From Railroad

In a letter to the city council last night, trustees of the Rock Island Railroad indicated that they had approved the request of the council to construct a new bridge and concrete box at a point back of the gas house which is necessary because of the changes in the Ralston creek bed.

The railroad company has a spur running behind the gas plant on Burlington street which crosses Ralston creek. Part of the sewage disposal project includes rerouting of the creek. The entire project will be undertaken at the expense of the city and will be paid for out of the sewage construction fund.

Company trustees who signed the agreement with the city were James E. Gorman, Joseph B. Flemming, and Frank O. Lowden.

Drivers Wait

McComas States New Licenses To Arrive in 3 Weeks

Officials of the state motor vehicle department at Des Moines are asking persons applying for new drivers' licenses to "be patient," Sheriff Don McComas said yesterday.

"State officials have pointed out that the new cards could not, under the new law, be issued until after July 4, and it will take at least three weeks to get all the licenses out to the drivers."

"Record Time"
"We have planned to push the job through in what we hope will be record time," Horace Tate, head of the license division of the Motor Vehicle Department, State House, Des Moines, Iowa, according to word received here by Sheriff McComas yesterday.

Drivers, who have never held a license in this state and wish to obtain one, must communicate with the license division of the Motor Vehicle Department, State House, Des Moines, Iowa, according to word received here by Sheriff McComas yesterday.

No Fee
Sheriff McComas pointed out that just a letter to the department stating that the writer wished a license was sufficient. No fee is required.

An examiner will be assigned to each county in the near future and a date will be set for the applicants for new drivers' licenses to meet for an examination. At that time, the fee will be paid to the examiner.

Baldwin Asks State Attorney For Decision

The constitutionality of the state fish and game laws was referred to the office of Attorney General Edward L. O'Connor by County Attorney E. A. Baldwin yesterday.

The case arose here Saturday when Ed Schuppert, charged by Carl Hinkelmann, deputy game warden, with snagging fish in the Iowa river near Corvillville, pleaded guilty in Justice of the Peace T. M. Fairchild's court. Attorney Will J. Hayek represented Mr. Schuppert.

Mr. Schuppert contends that the state legislature was without power in delegating to the board of conservation and the fish and game commission the right to make the law. He cites a supreme court decision which was against the legislature's granting such powers to the state game commission.

The attorney general's office will be asked to aid in figuring out the entanglements.
