Chrysler, U.A.W.A. Sign Pact Ending Month-Old Auto Strike

Workers Win Recognition Of Bargain Right

Signing Takes Place In Office of Gov. Frank Murphy

LANSING, Mich., April 6 (AP)—The Chrysler corporation and the United Automobile Workers of America signed an agreement tonight ending the month-old strike in the company's plant and according to the union collective bargaining rights for its members.

The settlement was signed by representatives of each side and will be in effect, along with a supplemental agreement to be negotiated beginning Thursday, until next March 31. The signing took place in the office of Gov. Frank Murphy, who conducted a series of conferences between the management and labor.

The union agreed to end the strike immediately and also to call no more sit-downs in Chrysler plants. Corporation executives said operations would be resumed as quickly as possible and that some men might be back at work before the end of this week.

No intimation of the final terms came from any source. Both Chrysler and John L. Lewis hurried from the government's office without comment as Murphy made his announcement.

Invitations Governor Murphy announced that he was sending invitations tonight to officials of the Reo Motor Car company here and the Hudson Motor Car company at Detroit, as well as union officials, to meet with him tomorrow to try to effect settlements of strikes in those plants.

He said he would ask them to reach agreements similar to that arranged between the Chrysler corporation, one of the three largest automobile producers in the United States, and the union.

Governor Murphy praised the conciliatory attitudes of Chrysler and Lewis and thanked James F. Dewey, federal labor conciliator, who participated in the conferences.

Only the patience and reasonableness of Mr. Chrysler and Mr. Lewis have made another settlement possible by peaceful methods, in an atmosphere of reason, tolerance and justice," Murphy said.

"As a result, cordial relationships result between the Chrysler corporation and their employees. I am extremely grateful to these men, to Mrs. Perkins (Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins) for her help and to Mr. Dewey, whose services were invaluable."

Calls Strike The union called the strike which closed Chrysler's eight Detroit plants—leading to other shutdowns and curtailments—while it and company officials were discussing demands submitted by the U.A.W.A.

The corporation rejected the union's demand for recognition as the sole bargaining agency for the 67,000 Chrysler employees and a code signal, "My hand is up," caused the workers to sit down.

The men remained in the plants after the corporation obtained an injunction against them. Governor Murphy called together Chrysler and Lewis in his office here on March 23, and the next day the conferences reached a preliminary truce which provided for evacuation of the strikers. The unionists vacated the factories March 25.

Second of Companies Chrysler was the second of the major automobile producers to be beset by labor troubles this year. The first was General Motors, which at one time during a 44-day sit-down strike in January and February had 135,000 employees idle.

Report Four Navy Fliers Killed In Headon Collision

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 6 (AP)—Naval air station sources here reported today four Navy fliers were killed in a head-on collision of two bombers from the aircraft carrier Lexington 40 miles off San Diego.

Official naval sources did not disclose details but it was learned from officers that the two planes had just taken off from the Lexington and were moving toward a squadron formation.

Iowa House Has Revised Budget Bill

$1,210,000 Is Trimmed Off Recommendations Of Governor

DES MOINES, April 6 (AP)—The Iowa house tonight had before it a revised budget bill with $1,210,000 trimmed from the governor's recommendations and $47,000 less than the 1935 legislature appropriated.

The bill, as reported out today by the house appropriations committee of which Representative Gustave Alesch (D) of Marcus is chairman, made no provision for capital improvements, even omitting a building to replace one destroyed by fire last summer at the Mt. Pleasant state hospital.

Alesch pointed out the senate already has passed and sent the house a bill proposing to use profits from the state liquor stores, amounting to approximately $2,500,000 for the biennium, for needed state buildings.

If the liquor profits bill does not pass, any needed new buildings will have to come out of the general fund, into which liquor profits ordinarily go, Alesch said.

Alesch said he expects to call up the appropriations bill for debate on Friday.

"We will get through with it in a hurry," he predicted.

The committee turned a deaf ear to pleas of state educational institution heads for salary increases for their faculty members.

The committee budgeted a total of $13,938,568 a year, of which $3,498,058 would be allocated to the state departments, $5,902,720 to educational institutions, and $3,637,790 to board of control institutions.

The 1935 legislature appropriated $13,085,614. Governor Krueger recommended a budget of $14,248,732. Askings of the various departments and institutions totaled $16,149,770.

Alesch said he expects balances remaining in various funds to take care of the rise in cost of commodities.

Clerk Refuses Signature On City Payrolls

Declines Action Upon Pay of Either Set Of City Employees

Possibility that city employees may go payless April 15 was seen last night as City Clerk William L. Condon announced he does not intend to sign the payroll for either set of city appointees until the Iowa City election contest has reached some settlement.

The payroll must be signed by both the clerk and the mayor. Mayor Myron J. Walker, head of the Citizens' Non-partisan party administration, declared earlier in the day that he will not sign the payroll for city officials named by the Municipal Ownership league council in its meeting Monday night.

"Since I recognize only one city council, I recognize only one list of city officials," Mayor Walker said. "The others can do all the work they want to but so far as I'm concerned they won't get pay for it."

Meanwhile the city council question still remains deadlocked this morning following meetings of both the old M.O.L. council and the new C.N.P. council Monday night when both groups declared themselves the official city governing bodies.

Alderman J. Van der Zee, head of the M.O.L. forces, yesterday was in Des Moines to confer with Attorney General John H. Mitchell. Shortly before the election the old council sent a resolution to Mitchell asking investigation of alleged fraud and bribery in pre-election activities here. The resolution was referred by the attorney general to County Attorney Harold Vestermark.

Allen Wallen, appointed city engineer by the new council Monday, yesterday swore in by Mayor Walker. The mayor said that J. F. Spratt, named superintendent of the sewage disposal plant by the C.N.P. aldermen, would begin his duties today. Spratt was also appointed city engineer by the M.O.L. council.

Walker said last night that he had not yet decided on his appointees for chief of police although several candidates have taken an examination. The police chief will probably be named Friday night when the C.N.P. council resumes its meeting which was recessed Monday evening, Walker said.

Supreme Court Of Iowa Gets Case On Sales, Income Tax

DES MOINES, April 6 (AP)—The Iowa supreme court took under advisement today a case challenging constitutionality of the state's original sales and income tax law.

Charles E. Pendleton, attorney for Bert and Oliver Vilas, partners in a northern Iowa poultry concern, asked the court to set aside the law. He declared that in passing the three point tax act the legislature "stepped outside its own function of levying taxes for the support of government."

Ground Party Advances To Plane Wreck

Sheriff Leads Group Up Slopes of Mt. Baldy Toward Wreckage

SPRINGVILLE, Ark., April 6 (AP)—A ground party led by Sheriff John Nunn plodded up the snow-clogged slopes of Mt. Baldy late today toward the tangled wreckage of a huge skyliner sighted several hours earlier from a searching plane.

Maj. A. D. Smith, Albuquerque, from whose plane the wreckage first was seen sprawled lifeless against the mountainside, expressed belief it was the 21-passenger Douglas air liner which vanished Saturday with six men and two women aboard.

The search party, about 35 in number, began its hazardous ascent at Greer, 20 miles south of here. The wreckage was an estimated 10 miles from there and about 7,000 feet up the 10,500 foot peak.

As the hours passed with no word from the ground searchers it was feared they might not return from their mission until tomorrow. Sheriff Nunn said before he set out that the task might take several days but Jack Buzard, state highway patrolman, said it might be done in "four or five hours" despite deep snows.

Two searching planes returned to Albuquerque tonight, planning no further air surveys until word came from the ground forces.

Major Smith, first to take off in a four plane search this morning sighted the wreckage at 10:40 a.m. (CST) on the west slope of the peak. No identifying signs were visible among the twisted mass, partially hidden in an aspen grove.

"Lost Douglas" plane found by me at an altitude of 8,500 feet," Smith radioed. "Deep snow and scattered timber in this area, with no trail or road within approximately seven miles."

THE DEFENDANT

In the Johnson county jail since Feb. 15, Walter Rhodes has thinned somewhat but has been cheerfully nonchalant all through his first-degree murder trial. A guitar with him in his cell, the 29-year-old Iowa Citian has amused himself playing old-time songs, some of which he declares he composed himself.

Mrs. Margie Shimek Dies Of Heart Disease at Home Here

Widow of Professor Bohumil Shimek Is Dead at 46

Mrs. Margie Shimek, 47, was found dead in bed at her home, 529 Brown street, about 8 p. m. yesterday. Her death was apparently due to heart disease.

Mrs. Shimek was the widow of Prof. Bohumil Shimek, for 46 years a member of the botany department of the University of Iowa and a nationally known botanist who died Jan. 29 from heart complications caused by influenza.

Born Marguerite Meerdink July 11, 1889 in Muscatine, she was educated in the Muscatine schools. For the last 13 years she had been a resident of Iowa City, having married Professor Shimek March 12, 1924. She was Shimek's second wife.

Eastern Star She took an active part in the Eastern Star organization, both in Muscatine and Iowa City, and was a member of the Past Mothers' association, serving as worthy matron while in Muscatine. Professor Shimek took an active part in the Masonic organization.

Mrs. Shimek until recently participated in the activities of the garden and literary departments of the Iowa City Woman's club. She was also active in the Baptist church.

She was greatly interested in the botany research carried on by her husband and accompanied him on nearly all his field trips. Shock caused by his death was thought to be a contributing factor in her death.

Eastern Star service is tentatively arranged for 2 p. m. tomorrow at Beckman's with the Rev. Elmer E. Dierks of the Baptist church officiating. The body is at Beckman's.

Body of Seven Women and Five Men Still Deadlocked at 2:50 This Morning in Rhodes Case

District Court Deliberates for Eleven Hours Before Retiring for Night; Decision Is Not Expected Until Late This Morning

The seven-woman, five-man jury in whose hands is the life of Walter H. "Dusty" Rhodes, 29-year-old Iowa Citian, was still deadlocked as the 12 retired at 2:50 this morning. A verdict is not expected until late this morning.

After nearly 11 hours of deliberation the jurors were still unable to reach a verdict on the first-degree murder charge contained in County Attorney Harold W. Vestermark's information.

The jury may return any one of four verdicts. They may find Rhodes "guilty" of the first-degree charge, recommending the death penalty—in this state hanging—or life imprisonment in the state penitentiary at Ft. Madison.

The 12 men and women may find the defendant "not guilty" or they may find him "guilty" of second-degree murder, which might also call for a sentence of life imprisonment.

Rumors in the courthouse early this morning were that the jury was deadlocked on whether Rhodes' punishment should be death or life imprisonment. It was said the majority favored the death sentence.

The jurors asked Jury Bailiff Tom Delaney for coats and mattresses at 1:45 this morning and after another hour of deliberation retired for the night.

J. M. Zensishek, farmer and father of six children, was appointed foreman of the jury which retired at 3:43 p. m. yesterday. The case was given to the jury after Attorney Hayek, counsel for the defendant, suddenly announced to a packed but hushed court room:

"The defense presents its case to the jury without further argument." Hayek had previously reported it would probably take two days to present his side of the case. He said he had "less than 15 witnesses" to testify.

Yesterday morning Hayek took the state unawares when he declared to Judge Gaffney that he would not call any witnesses to testify in behalf of the defendant. The state was allowed 30 minutes for deliberation before Assistant Prosecutor Attorney Messer made the closing arguments.

Hayek told reporters this afternoon that Messer had presented a clean, fair argument and that he would not raise any rebuttal. The defense attorney intimated that final argument by the defense would only have "been torn to pieces" by the prosecution.

Meanwhile Rhodes, the 29-year-old, curly-haired defendant, was returned to his cell in the Johnson county jail to await the outcome of the verdict by the jury.

Rhodes, Iowa City musician who said he has composed several songs for "my own pleasure," sat perfectly calm while the judge gave final instructions to the jury. He had not shown any emotion at any time during the trial—except when Messer presented his opening statement to the jury, describing the shattered body of Mrs. Rhodes.

His Mother Hysterical His elderly, white-haired mother, Mrs. J. W. Rhodes, became nearly hysterical as the jury retired, however. She removed her glasses as she wept. She and her husband and her daughter, Mrs. C. W. Leunse of Cedar Rapids, and one of her sons, Luther, had been on hand continuously at the seven-day trial.

Rhodes' father showed no emotion as the jury retired, but the tall, blonde Mrs. Leunse covered her face with her hands. Mrs. (See RHODES, Page 5)

Girls in Sitdown Strike at Des Moines Laundry Company DES MOINES, April 6 (AP)—Between 75 and 85 persons, mostly girls, went on a sit down strike at the United Laundry here this morning.

J. W. Soutter, secretary of the Trades and Labor Assembly, said that the company had declined to enter into discussion of a contract proposed by the union involved, the Launderers, Cleaners, Dyers and Pressers Local 104.

Soutter said the union had submitted a contract last Thursday calling for a 44-hour week and asking negotiations for a wage increase.

AMANA YOUTH IS WOUNDED BY SHOTGUN

Fred Pumphrey, 19, of Amama, was in a critical condition at University hospital this morning from gunshot wounds caused by the discharge of a double-barreled shotgun he was carrying yesterday.

A passing motorist found Pumphrey lying beside U. S. highway 6 near Amama about 7 a.m. yesterday with gun wounds in his abdomen. At his side lay the shotgun, its stock separated from the barrels and shattered to bits.

Dr. C. F. Noe of Amama was notified immediately.

Pumphrey, according to his father, Mel Pumphrey, had gone hunting shortly after supper. Both barrels are believed to have discharged as Pumphrey was taking the gun from his shoulder. He was unable to tell what caused the accident.

Near Final Vote On Annuity Bill For Iowa Teachers

DES MOINES, April 6 (AP)—Nearing a final vote on the controversial teachers' annuity bill, the Iowa house today adjourned tonight had before it a proposal to restore provision for a maximum monthly state contribution of $50 to retired teachers.

To the consternation of supporters of the measure who have waged a week-long battle to push it through to the senate well in advance of final adjournment, the house voted today to reduce to $25 the maximum amount the state might pay the pensioners.

Science Speaks In Simple Terms

FOR MANY years scientists have held a theory that disease germs in a person's body could be killed by the production of artificial fever.

At the first international conference on fever therapy, held at Columbia University recently, Dr. Charles A. Doan told of recent advances in this important field. Dr. Doan reported on the results of experiments he had carried on at Ohio State University.

Dr. Clarence H. Neymann of Northwestern Reserve University has developed one of the newest methods of producing artificial fever. He explains his method in these terms: "The patient lies in a closed box. Under him is a rubber mattress. Directly under the mattress is a copper coil, through which alternating current of 15 million cycles per second is passed. This induces magnetic fields in the body and their energy changes into heat. So the patient develops artificial fever."

Scientific methods of treatment are highly involved. The average person finds it difficult to grasp the principle. A simple and direct explanation like Dr. Neymann's is commendable. "Magnetic field" may be a mystery to most people, but its relation to body fever is plainly shown in the professor's explanation.

We appreciate scientific contributions only to the extent that we understand the principles involved. Surely most citizens are able to appreciate the methods of inducing artificial fever.

You must give Mussolini credit for one thing. Up to press time he hasn't referred to the heading "right of Italian troops in Spain as a 'strategic retreat' or 'moral victory.'"

Our Readers' VIEWPOINT

Letters must be signed and should not exceed 250 words. Opinions expressed by our readers do not necessarily reflect our views.

The following letter is by Prof. Christian Richard of the school of religion who is now on leave of absence from the university.

Editor, The Daily Iowan: I have been fortunate thus far in my conferences and interviews with scholars around the Sorbonne. M. Jules Toutain at the Ecole Pratique des Hautes Etudes has been trying for years to do something similar to what the school of religion has undertaken. Just imagine, the great Habbé of Paris as one of his professors, and Alfred Loisy, the famous Catholic Modernist, as his Catholic representative. Toutain has a great reputation as a scholar on religion and, in fact, he was very much interested in what I told him about the school of religion of the University of Iowa.

Unfortunately, circumstances here have become hostile to the quietness and peace of mind necessary for fruitful work. Last night a regular civil war began in a section of Paris between fascists and communists. The wounded papers say are only about 200, but the exact number is much higher and the dead also are not reported correctly. Anything may happen. Easter vacations begin in two days and all the libraries will be closed, so I am leaving for Belgium tomorrow morning. Perhaps Belgium is not much more peaceful than France or the rest of Europe but I have an invitation to speak a few weeks at the University of Louvain and of course I consider myself very fortunate for such an opportunity. The nervous tension of the people here is such that it is almost hysteria, there is fear, fear day and night, and though I am not inclined to fear, myself, it is not an atmosphere in which one would like to live longer than is necessary!

Editor, The Daily Iowan: AN IMPROVEMENT that would add considerable interest, I think, to the University of Iowa campus would be the bestowing of official names on certain of its parts and the designation of these on artistic markers. For example, the Pentacrest—an appropriate name for the original campus on the hill dominated by Old Capitol—yet little used. The idea could well be applied to university buildings as well as to campus areas. "The matter of names is important," says Charles Z. Klauder and Herbert C. Wise in their book "College Architecture."

"Upon improvement plans of colleges and universities there is little opportunity for identifying walks, terraces and other open spaces as well as halls and decorative rooms by means of names having imaginative and literary value," they declare.

A few suggestions for places in need of attractive designations are officially given and appropriate identification are: the walks leading to the quad, the fieldhouse and the medical laboratory; the bluffs occupied by Westlaw and the Law Commons; the vale north of children's hospital; the dam; the Pentacrest; the Union bridge; the steps up the bluff to the Law Commons and the walk leading up to Westlaw; the quad court and the stadium. Many more could be thought of, I'm sure.

Washington World By CHARLES P. STEWART, Central Press Columnist. WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Rev. Edward Dowling, S. J., of the editorial staff of The Queen's Work, national Catholic monthly magazine, will be recalled, recently undertook a poll of Washington's newspaper correspondents on this question: "Who will be the democratic presidential nominee in 1940?" This poll is not complete yet but Father Dowling reports as to its progress. It seems to me a very interesting showing; the correspondents number into the hundreds, on an average they are exceptionally well informed politically and they represent every corner of the country.

AMONG THE MENTIONED Father Dowling writes: "Two-thirds of those submitting votes in the poll place President Roosevelt first in the list of probable selections."

The reverend father also speaks of "a large percentage of the correspondents" as giving first place to Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

Other names prominently mentioned, he says, are those of Senators Bennett Champ Clark of Missouri, Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin and A. Harry Moore of New Jersey, Governors George H. Earle of Pennsylvania, Philip F. La Follette of Wisconsin and Frank Murphy of Michigan, Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, Labor Leader John L. Lewis, Chief Justice Jones of RFC and Paul V. McNutt, now high commissioner to the Philippines.

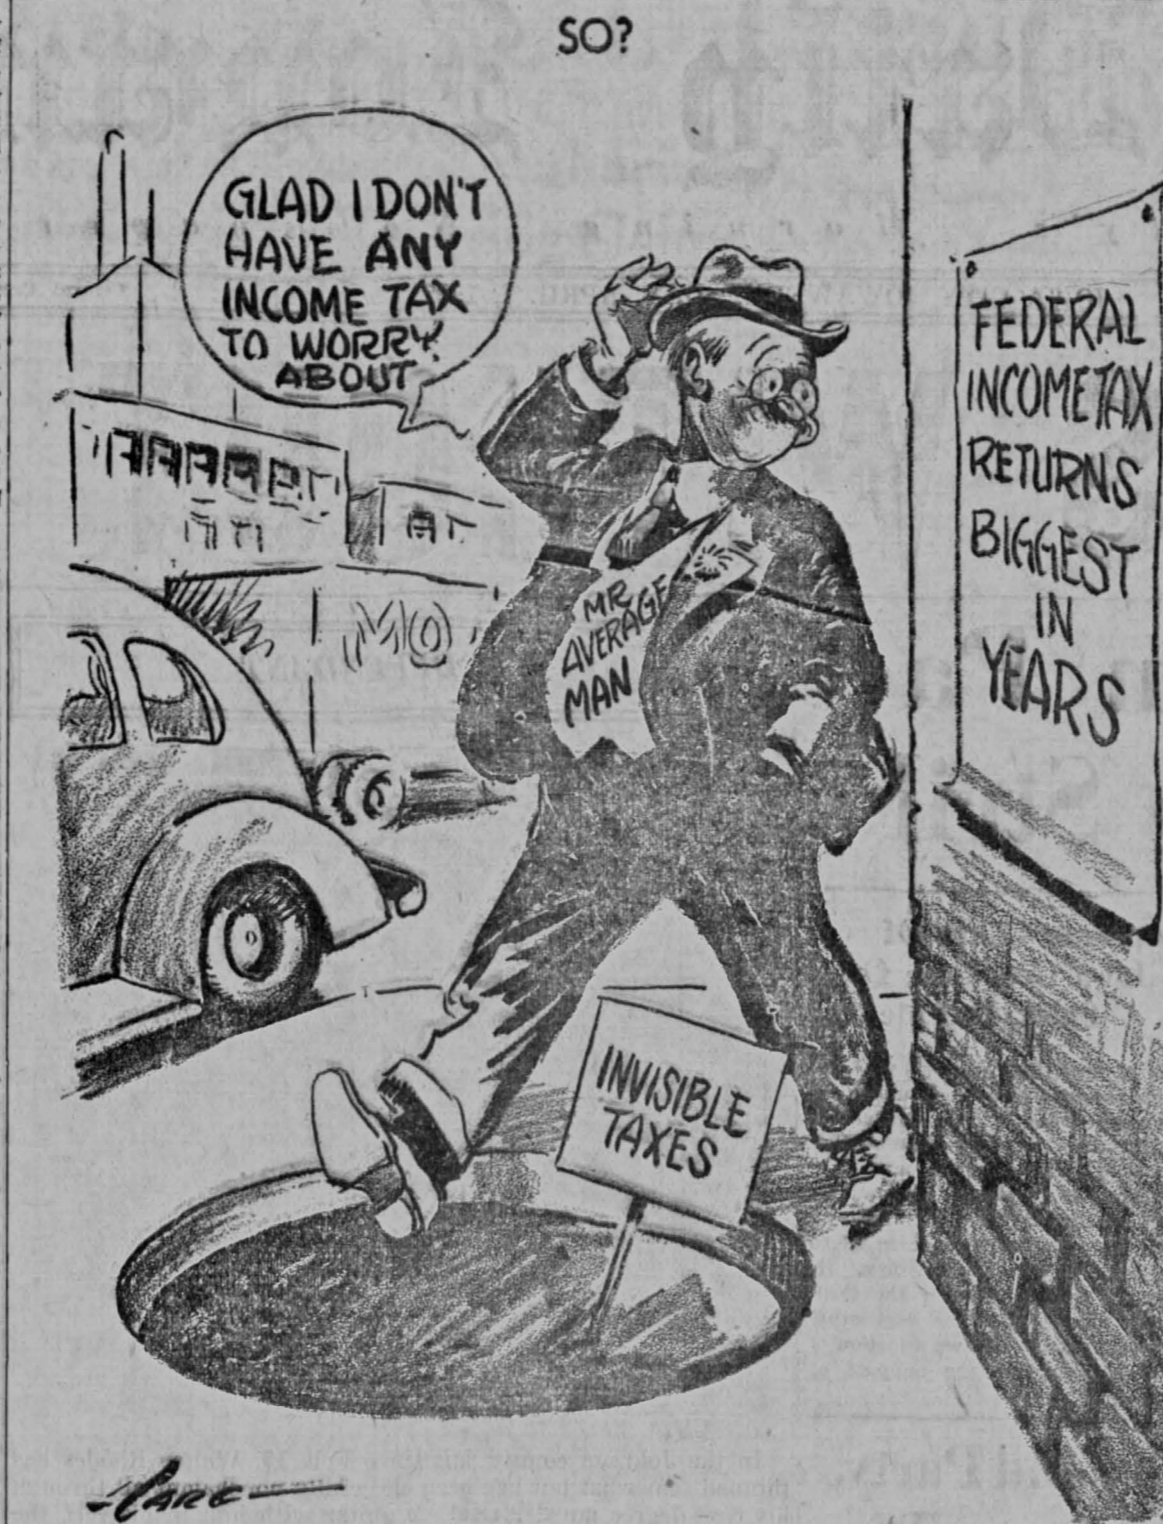

F. D. R. FIRST President Roosevelt would be my own first guess—conditionally. If his supreme court fight, in one form or another, still is pending when the 1940 democratic convention is held, it appears to me almost a certainty that new dealers will conscript him to lead it through to a finish. In such an event he may not win at the polls but I think he is sure to be nominated.

If he has won in the meantime the probably will prefer to pass his job on to a successor—of his own choosing.

And he will not, meantime, be decisively baten. Either he will have won or the supreme court conflict still will be raging.

CLARK NO F. D. R. MAN If Roosevelt has won he certainly will not pick Senator Clark to succeed him.

Clark, in certain respects, is the strongest candidate next to the present White House tenant, but he is not a 100 per cent new dealer. Roosevelt assuredly never would endorse him to continue new deal policies. So, if Roosevelt has won up to 1940, Clark will not be his choice to follow him, if he hasn't won by that time, Roosevelt will be his own renomme.

SO? YESTERDAY we described the symptoms and how you can recognize a peculiar form of headache known as migraine. Today we want to discuss treatment. Every time I get a number of letters from people who have a remedy. The peculiar thing is that most of the remedies are different, and a significant thing is that they come from people over 45 or 50 years of age—significant because migraine usually goes away spontaneously at this time. Those who are in the period of life when the attacks are actually coming on—from about 15 to 45—try one remedy after another, without relief. A great many people feel they can stop an attack if they can just get the intestines to moving. The condition undoubtedly is a sensory discharge which affects the intestines, as well as the nerves in the head, and if the intestinal tube can be averted, the sensory discharge can be stopped. I don't think it means that if a cathartic works and stops an attack of migraine, the migraine is due to intestinal absorption.

Stops Attack The most hopeful treatment simply aims to stop an attack and not to cure the underlying condition. This has been possible with a drug known as ergotamine tartrate. It must be given hypodermically under the care of a physician. If taken at the beginning of an attack, it will stop the attack in a great many instances. Of 126 patients in one series...

W. R. B.: "What should be done to correct an eight-year-old boy who is a true left-hander—left-handed, left-footed, a mirror writer, etc.?" Answer: No effort should be made to try to teach him right-handedness. The mirror writing indicates that a study should be made to determine whether this accompanies reversal of images, which would be confusing to the boy's schooling.

Answer: There is no external way to whiten teeth beyond their natural shade. It is possible, by very severe operations to the inside of the teeth, to whiten them, but this is not advisable.

Screen Life

By HUBBARD KEAVY HOLLYWOOD—The coronation of a British king is a four-hour ceremonial.

It took Hollywood seven days to film it for "The Prince and the Pauper," Mark Twain's classic of 16th century adventure and duplicity.

It will be unreeled on the screen in 18 minutes. In the film version (the third of this story), the coronation of Edward VI was an expensive rite, since it was the most important sequence—serving as a background for the climactic scene when the rightful prince escapes his captors in time to prevent the pauper from being crowned king.

The costumes alone for this scene, worn by 500 extras and 35 principals, represented an investment of nearly $100,000. The set itself, built on two sound stages, was a detailed duplicate of the main portion of Westminster Abbey. Sixty carpenters, plasterers and painters worked exactly 23 days on the construction of the Abbey.

4 Months' Research Four months were devoted to writing and research, two months to filming 550,000 feet. Only 11,000 feet, or slightly less than 11 reels, will remain in the completed picture.

Difficulties of research were magnified by the fact that little exact information is available on habits, customs and costumes of the middle 1500's in England. Records, drawings and paintings that might have been reliable were destroyed in the London fire at the end of the century. Only the paintings of Holbein who specialized on royalty of the period, exist today as a record of the appearance of Henry VIII, his son, Edward VI, who succeeded him, and their numerous courtiers.

A New Yorker At Large

By JACK STINNETT NEW YORK—The day when a national convocation was a drunken brawl, a habbitt's holiday, the sort of thing that could be the cinematic springboard for such a satirical farce as the movie, "Convention City," and send half the customers home saying: "How true!" is, if not gone forever, rapidly disappearing.

Take the word for it of A. K. McCleery, of McCleery Associates, Inc., a youthful three-year veteran "convention producer."

And that's not the half of it. Conventions are taking the road. Next year, the convocation of one company, sales of which are world-wide, will not only do four days in New York City, but will play one-night stands in 28 other cities in the land.

To list McCleery's convention equipment and staff would take more space than we have, but a portion of it consists of a portable stage, with especially devised lighting and sound equipment, designed by none other than Jo Mielziner, one of Broadway's ace stage designers; a projection machine and screen for sound films; a shadow-graph; a staff of writers to turn out scripts illustrating the company's accomplishment and aims; a staff of actors to supplement company talent in enacting these skits.

But don't get the idea, McCleery insists, that conventions are a show. If you want "entertainment," as the term is understood on Broadway, you'll have to look elsewhere than to his organization. He wouldn't even provide a boop-oop-a-doo singer for the closing night banquet. Firms that go in for that sort of thing have to set up their own entertainment committees and one thing that is written into the contract is that the entertainment business must not interfere with the convention schedule.

The "devised presentation of conventions," as McCleery calls it, is a serious business. He is not the only one in the business, of course. Most of the big convention cities now have their convention managers. One, locally, specializes in a clockwork convention that moves with whirlwind speed. But McCleery does believe his company is the only one which goes in for national convention presentation on a "production basis," with the roadshow twist as a follow-up.

School of Religion Forced To Seek New Source of Funds

Loss of Rockefeller Grant Revives Old Financial Problem

Supported by private funds since its inception 10 years ago, the University of Iowa school of religion is now compelled to seek new sources to provide the administrative portion of its expenses.

John D. Rockefeller Jr. has made two grants for this purpose and a third was given by the Davison fund, a Rockefeller organization, over a 10-year period. Now, by an agreement with Mr. Rockefeller, the school must obtain its administrative support elsewhere.

$25,000 Grant
Administrative finance had loomed as a major problem of the new-born school of religion in 1927. Its solution was made possible when an appeal to Mr. Rockefeller was answered with a $25,000 grant for three experimental years.

In 1930 a second grant, larger than the first, was made by Mr. Rockefeller, providing support for another five years. This was extended for two years by the Davison fund with the understanding that no more would be contributed and administrative support at the end of this time would be secured from other sources.

An agreement was reached whereby the school would attempt to obtain administrative funds from the state, or elsewhere, by the beginning of the school year 1937-38.

From the school's beginning all the religious groups cooperating in its operation, Catholics, Jews and Protestants, have supported their own professorships and this arrangement will continue.

Proposed by Jessup
Unique in its organization, the University of Iowa school of religion had its origin in a proposal submitted to President Walter A. Jessup in 1923. A committee was appointed and drew up a plan that was approved by the state board of education and became the school's constitution.

Representatives of the various religious groups who would cooperate in maintaining the school, and an equal number of university representatives met in 1925 and approved the plan. Trustees were elected and the idea of the school became a reality.

600 Enrolled
Enrollment has grown from less than 200 the first year to more than 600 at the present time. The faculty includes Prof. Christian Richard, the Catholic representative, now on leave of absence; Prof. Charles H. Hawley, Protestant member; Prof. Moses Jung, representing the Jewish group; Prof. William H. Morgan and Prof. M. Willard Lampe, the school's director.

The fundamental idea of the University of Iowa school of religion which makes it the only organization of its kind in the country is embodied in this sentence from its constitution: "The governing board

Schiaparelli Plans Wardrobe For Your Travels in Europe

PARIS—If you are coming to Europe this summer with ambitious plans to "do" Paris and the International Exposition that is rapidly nearing completion on both banks of the Seine, give a thought to what you intend to wear.

No one who's bent on a good holiday with lots of sightseeing ahead wants to be burdened with luggage. Choose your clothes with that in view but do not overlook the fact that comfort is of first importance.

Remember that climate is an uncertain matter in Europe. The sun may be registering 100 degrees in the shade in New York while Paris is experiencing one of those chill summers which are as hard on the American temperament as they are on the French who crop.

Have two pairs of easy shoes for walking. I do not say low heels because the heel must be adjusted to the foot. But if you are comfortable in low heels have them.

I do urge rounded toes, however—so that nothing will interfere with the circulation. And I urge soft kid-skin because it is cool and practical. Avoid foot fuddiness at all costs.

For theater wear or formal dining have an evening dress which will not crush easily. It may have a low décolletage—which need not limit its use if a jacket is included. The jacket may be of the same material or of one of those new fancy fancies which are so smart just now. Providing such a jacket makes it possible to do without an evening wrap, always a bother when one is traveling with suitcases. Sandals and a matching bag complete the ensemble.

Given this basic wardrobe other essentials are a dressing gown, slippers, blouses in silk, linen, cotton or a soft flannel, practical underwear which hinders quickly, serviceable stockings for hard walking and thinner ones for evening and good sturdy gloves that are, of course, washable.

Rhodes--

Rhodes was weeping so violently that she had to be helped from the court room.

Attorney Hayek shook her hand as the jury retired, and Mrs. J. H. Myron, one of the state's key witnesses, went to Mrs. Rhodes and embraced her as court adjourned.

"Dusty" told reporters on his way back to his cell in the county jail that "I hope they give me the life sentence rather than the death penalty."

Members of the jury trying the case, in addition to the foreman, were Mrs. Bertha Strickler, 297 Myrtle avenue, an employee of a local cleaning establishment; Mrs. Mary Droll of Hills, a housewife and one of the youngest members of the jury; Emora Attig of Lone Tree, farmer; Mrs. Bertha Hudachek of Lone Tree, a housewife; Mrs. Agnes Dolezal, 110 N. Dodge street, housewife; Mrs. Verna S. Records, 121 Grand avenue court, housewife.

J. A. Zenshek of Big Grove township, an implement dealer, John A. Hehl Sr., 116 Hotz avenue, white-haired and white-mustached widower; Katherine Barrow, 603 S. Dubuque street, unmarried; Mrs. Carrie K. Bartlett, 527 Ronalds street, housewife and widow, and Joe P. Sedlack of Newport township, a farmer.

Rhodes' seven-day, first degree murder trial was filled with drama many times as prosecuting attorneys presented 31 witnesses and 31 pieces of evidence to prove the 29-year-old Iowa Citian guilty of the first-degree murder of his wife.

Two of the state's key witnesses were women, Mrs. Mabel Skriver, 33, the "other" woman in the case, the other, Mrs. J. H. Myron, roomer and helper in the Rhodes home, 53 S. Riverview drive.

Mrs. Myron was in the kitchen above the basement when the death explosion occurred.

On the witness stand Mrs. Skriver testified she had been engaged to marry Rhodes. She said he had told her he intended to divorce his wife.

Mrs. Myron told the court that Rhodes had intended to kill his wife several days prior to her death, Feb. 9. She declared that the Rhodes' marital life had been very "unhappy." Rhodes is alleged to have gone with his wife to Art Brown's beer tavern Jan. 30, 1937, carrying a shotgun, a pistol and two sticks of dynamite. Mrs. Rhodes was said to have refused her husband's invitation to shoot the gun at that time.

After Rhodes was arrested and placed in the Johnson county jail, Mrs. Myron talked with him. "He told me," she testified, "that he didn't know why he did it. He said he was sorry it didn't happen at Art Brown's."

Capl. Tom Pettit of the Des Moines police department testified that in his opinion a high explosive had been used in the death gun.

Dramatic testimony was also given by Dr. Paul Reed and Deputy Sheriff Preston Koser who, on the witness stand, described the scene of the alleged crime. They were summoned by Mrs. Myron after the explosion.

Important evidence introduced in the trial was the confession which Rhodes signed at Des Moines following his wife's death.

Parents of both the alleged murderer and his wife were among the spectators who jammed the courtroom to hear the battle for Rhodes' life.

The arrest of Rhodes four days after his wife's death provided a dramatic climax to what William W. Akers, chief of the state bureau of criminal investigation, termed "the almost perfect crime."

Clues were few when officers

Student Automobile Reported Damaged

A car belonging to Harold Heigensen, 13, Law Commons, was slightly damaged in an apparent attempt to force the door Monday night, it was reported to police yesterday.

found the body of the woman in the basement of the Rhodes home.

Smoking Shotgun
A shattered, smoking shotgun lay beside her, but officers were puzzled when they found no shell fragments near it.

Rhodes was questioned shortly after his wife's funeral at Toledo, at Des Moines, city and county identification experts found traces of dynamite on the blown breech of the shotgun.

Rhodes was arrested at Tama, Feb. 13, and brought to Des Moines where Sheriff Don McComas of Johnson county and state bureau of investigation officers questioned him.

"The Goods"
"You know we've got the goods on you, don't you, Dusty?" Sheriff McComas said he asked him.

"That's right," the sheriff quoted Rhodes as replying, "I'll tell. I'll tell the truth."

Rhodes signed statement said he went to the basement of his home to fix the furnace on the night of his wife's death.

She followed him. He sat on a stool and his wife on a bed, the statement said.

"I told her about a proposed rabbit hunt and asked her to get the gun," Sheriff McComas quoted the statement, "I told her I didn't think the firing pin was working. She asked me what I meant. I told her to cock the gun and pull the trigger and see if it was loaded. She did and it exploded."

The sheriff said Rhodes admitted buying two sticks of dynamite at an Iowa City hardware store two months before. He said, according to the statement, he dumped the pellets from a shotgun shell, loaded it with two teaspoonfuls of the dynamite and scattered the rest on the ground.

STRIKERS IN BIG RALLY AT PEACE MEET

A spectacular demonstration, in which at least 1,000 union men and women participated, interrupted Gov. Frank Murphy's conference, Sunday, called for the purpose of settling the Chrysler automobile strike. Coming by automobiles from Detroit, Mich., 85 miles away, the strikers formed in front of the capitol at Lansing, Mich., cheered and waved U.A.W. flags, shown above.

Van der Zee--

of Iowa today led a contingent of three Iowa Citizens on a visit to Des Moines in an effort to determine the status of two Iowa City councils, each now claiming to hold office.

Professor Van der Zee, alderman at large of the Municipal Ownership league city council, conferred with Attorney General John Mitchell and with Harley Shipp, Des Moines attorney.

Professor Van der Zee, accompanied by D. C. Nolan, Iowa City lawyer, and Arthur O. Luff, who Monday night was appointed Iowa City attorney by the MOL council, spent several hours with the attorney general but declined all comment following the meeting.

When asked if Professor Van der Zee had requested an opinion on the status of the two warring councils, Attorney General Mitchell said: "Professor Van der Zee has no right to ask for an opinion. Such a request must come from a state official or a county attorney."

Whether or not a state official or county attorney will ask for an opinion was not disclosed.

Professor Van der Zee and his party declined to state the trend of their discussion with the attorney general.

The political science professor did, however, emphatically deny reports that Eugene A. Gilmore, University of Iowa president, was "putting the heat on" to remove him from politics.

"I went to President Gilmore purely on my own initiative," Professor Van der Zee said in referring to a reported conference between the two men.

"The president has not called me into his office in two years, and any idea that he is 'putting heat' on me is entirely erroneous," he stated.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

Question
Insurance men have found that most accidents occur in the home. Have you found this to be your experience?

Answers
Gus A. Pusateri, 728 Oakland avenue, merchant—In my particular case I would say no. It's much easier for me to stub my toe, cut my finger or fall down stairs right at my work.

Mildred Anderson, 314 S. Dubuque street, companion—I don't think so. I don't meet as many in the home as outside.

Charles Beckman, 507 E. College street, funeral director—No, I believe not. Accidents I have come in contact with have been mostly those happening on highways.

Lucille Blumenstein, 321 S. Johnson street, clerk—I have found it to be true. Usually most accidents do happen at home.

Hubert Curtis, Riverside drive, florist—No, I don't believe so. All accidents I have had were in automobiles.

Mrs. M. A. Prines, 445 Grand avenue, housewife—No, I haven't. I don't know of an accident that has occurred in the home—and that's not because the floors aren't waxed. We have just been fortunate.

F. C. Dayton, 417 S. Capitol street, clerk—No, I haven't. I think most of the accidents happen away from home—on the streets and highways.

Vogel Turns Out Winners at Iowa

Former Illinois Star, Major Leaguer, Produces Big Time Material in Hawkeye Baseball Teams

By GAYLORD HODENFIELD

Otto Henry Vogel, now in his 13th year as head baseball coach at the University of Iowa, came to the Hawkeye institution with a good background both as a college player and as a player on the Chicago Cub team in the National league.

Vogel was graduated from Illinois in 1923 after winning major awards in football, basketball and baseball. He was signed by the Cubs upon graduation and played in 71 games as an outfielder in 1924. In January, 1925, he was appointed to the coaching position at Iowa.

In his 12 years at Iowa, Vogel has had only two losing seasons. In 1931 his team lost 10 games and won seven, and in 1932 they lost nine while winning five. The record of all games played shows the Hawkeyes under his tutelage have won 57 per cent of their games. In conference competition his teams have a .500 average as they have won 51, lost 51 and tied one.

1927 was the best year for the Iowa nine as they won seven of 10 Big Ten games to tie for first with Illinois. In 1929 the same figures brought runner-up honors. Last year Iowa dropped the Big Ten championship to Michigan in the final conference tilt of the season.

Seven First Division Berths In seven years of conference competition the Vogel-coached teams have won seven first division berths. They hold victory margins over four of eight Big Ten teams played and have broken even with one other.

Vogel has taken his teams into 16 states, including those of the southwest, south and eastern seaboard. He has developed such major league players as Forest Trogood, Maco Brown, Francis Mulrooney and Don Gogley.

Following is the record of the Iowa baseball teams coached by Otto Vogel up to the 1937 season:

Risko, Cleveland Baker Boy, Plans Comeback to Ring Wars

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., April 6 (AP)—Johnny Risko, known for 10 years as the toughest "trial horse" in the heavyweight ranks, said today he was about ready to hit the comeback trail on account of the "bunch of bums that's fighting these days."

Good Legs Risko places most of his faith in a marvelous pair of legs.

"You've got to have those legs in shape," he said. "Miles and miles of road work keeps them good. I'll outrun any fighter in the world to day—on the road, I mean. In the ring I'll run him, too, but he'd better be going the other way."

No Bridge Little marked by his many battles, Risko said he has lost his desire to spend his time in bridge games at the Elks club and in the mutual lines at the horse tracks.

Risko started fighting professionally in 1924. Time and again he whipped some would-be champion, only to lose later to the same fighter. He beat the late Vernon Stribling, Jack Sharkey, Otto Von Porst and many others and was knocked out only once—by Max Schmeling in 1925.

He got little consolation, Dressen informing Herman during a long distance telephone conversation to Glendale, Cal., that he must accept the contract submitted to him by Vice-President Warren C. Giles.

"You cannot expect to get the salary you drew last year," Dressen told Herman in effect. An exhibition game with the Rochester International league club was cancelled today on account of rain and Dressen moved his Reds to Daytona Beach for Wednesday's contest with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Mrs. James M. Bradley, 53, 525 Iowa avenue, died about 4:30 p.m. yesterday at Mercy hospital following an illness of about three years. She had been at the hospital for the last three and a half months.

Mrs. Bradley had been a resident of Johnson county all her life and was widely known here. Her husband was for many years employed by the Iowa City Press-Citizen and at present operates a print shop here.

Mrs. Bradley was born Maude Ellen Wicks, Jan. 24, 1884 near Iowa City. Her parents for many years managed the Johnson county home for the poor.

She is survived by her husband to whom she was married Sept. 19, 1911.

Other survivors include two sons, George and James Bradley Jr.; her father, George T. Wicks, all of Iowa City, and a sister, Mrs. L. L. Leighton of Ft. Dodge.

Mrs. Bradley was a member of St. Patrick's Catholic church.

Funeral service has been tentatively for 9 a.m. Friday at St. Patrick's church. The body is at the Hohenschuh mortuary.

Maytag Will Estimated At Ten Million

Examiner Says It Is Largest Ever to Be Probated in Iowa

NEWTON, April 6 (AP)—The will of Fred L. Maytag, pioneer Iowa washing machine manufacturer and philanthropist, was filed for probate here today.

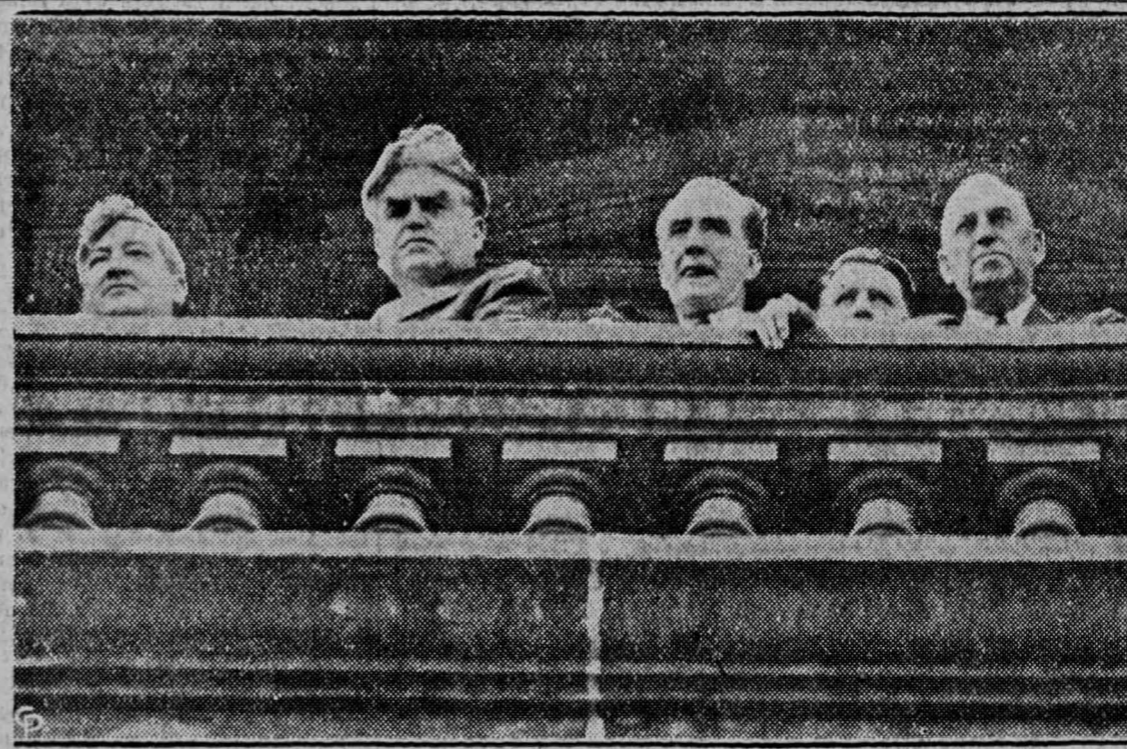

The amount of the estate was not listed, but unofficial estimates, according to the Newton Daily News, placed it at between 10 and 15 million dollars, the largest, according to John Wicklund, chief examiner of the state inheritance tax division, ever to be probated in Iowa.

tween $300,000 and $350,000 while an estimated $150,000 went to institutions. The bulk of the estate, after all bequests were deducted, was left to Maytag's son, L. B. Maytag of Colorado Springs, Col.

T. J. Campbell, attorney who drew the will in February, 1936, and Ray O. Bailey, vice-president of the Jasper County Savings bank, were named trustees of the estate. The will asked they serve without bond.

It was filed with the Jasper county clerk of district court by Lewis H. Johnson, former secretary of Maytag.

No bequests were made to Maytag's other three children, Mrs. H. L. Spary of Colorado Springs, Mrs. W. H. Smith of Pottsville, Ala., and E. H. Maytag. The will said they had been provided for previously and had requested no further provision for themselves.

Among individual bequests was $75,000 in annuities to Maytag's six brothers and sisters and 16 nephews and nieces. The brothers and sisters will receive $10,000 a year for life, each. The nephews and nieces, $1,000.

Several of Maytag's older office employees at Newton and in the four Maytag branch offices at Philadelphia, Minneapolis, Kansas City and Indianapolis received individual bequests of $1,000 each.

Requests to institutions included

$50,000 in trust to the Newton Salvation Army; $50,000 in trust and the property and buildings to the Newton Y. M. C. A., and $10,000 outright to the Newton Y. W. C. A. The Evangelical church of Laurel received $5,000, $2,500 outright and $2,500 in trust for the care of its cemetery.

Maytag, founder of the washing machine company bearing his name, died last month in Los Angeles, Cal., of a heart ailment. He was 79 years old. He had lived in retirement in California for several years. He had long been noted for his philanthropy to charities and midwestern educational institutions.

RHODES GETS DEATH

Chrysler, U.A.W.A. Sign Pact Ending Month-Old Auto Strike

Workers Win Recognition Of Bargain Right

Signing Takes Place In Office of Gov. Frank Murphy

LANSING, Mich., April 6 (AP)—The Chrysler corporation and the United Automobile Workers of America signed an agreement tonight ending the month-old strike in the company's plant and according to the union collective bargaining rights for its members.

The settlement was signed by representatives of each side and will be in effect, along with a supplemental agreement to be negotiated beginning Thursday, until next March 31. The signing took place in the office of Gov. Frank Murphy, who conducted a series of conferences between the management and labor.

The union agreed to end the strike immediately and also to call no more sit-downs in Chrysler plants. Corporation executives said operations would be resumed as quickly as possible and that some men might be back at work before the end of this week.

No intimation of the final terms came from any source. Both Chrysler and John L. Lewis hurried from the governor's office without comment as Murphy made his announcement.

Invitations

Governor Murphy announced that he was sending invitations tonight to officials of the Reo Motor Car company, here, and the Hudson Motor Car company at Detroit, as well as union officials, to meet with him tomorrow to try to effect settlements of strikes in those plants.

He said he would ask them to reach agreements similar to that arranged between the Chrysler corporation, one of the three largest automobile producers in the United States, and the union.

Governor Murphy praised the conciliatory attitudes of Chrysler and Lewis, and thanked James F. Dewey, federal labor conciliator, who participated in the conferences.

"Only the patience and reasonableness of Mr. Chrysler and Mr. Lewis have made another settlement in a great industrial conflict possible by peaceful methods, in an atmosphere of reason, tolerance and justice," Murphy said.

"As a result, cordial relationships result between the Chrysler corporation and their employees. I am extremely grateful to these men, to Mrs. Perkins (Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins) for her help and to Mr. Dewey, whose services were invaluable."

The union called the strike which closed Chrysler's eight Detroit plants—leading to other shutdowns and curtailments—while it and company officials were discussing demands submitted by the U.A.W.A.

County Attorney Harold W. Vestermark, young Iowa City attorney, handled his first big case when he tackled the Rhodes first-degree murder trial. He was elected on the republican ticket in November despite a sweeping democratic victory in most other cases. Vestermark was assisted by Attorney Frank F. Messer, well known local attorney.

Near Final Vote On Annuity Bill For Iowa Teachers

DES MOINES, April 6 (AP)—Nearing a final vote on the controversial teachers' annuity bill, the Iowa house on adjournment tonight had before it a proposal to restore provision for a maximum monthly state contribution of $50 to retired teachers.

To the consternation of supporters of the measure who have waged a week-long battle to push it through to the senate well in advance of final adjournment, the house voted late today to reduce to $25 the maximum amount the state might pay the pensioners.

Clerk Refuses Signature On City Payrolls

Declines Action Upon Pay of Either Set Of City Employees

Possibility that city employees may go payless April 15 was seen last night as City Clerk William L. Condon announced he does not intend to sign the payroll for either set of city appointees until the Iowa City election contest has reached some settlement.

The payroll must be signed by both the clerk and the mayor. Mayor Myron J. Walker, head of the Citizens' Non-partisan party administration, declared earlier in the day that he will not sign the payroll for city officials named by the Municipal Ownership league council in its meeting Monday night.

"Since I recognize only one city council, I recognize only one list of city officials," Mayor Walker said. "The others can do all the work they want to do but so far as I'm concerned they won't get pay for it."

Meanwhile the city council question still remains undecided this morning following meetings of both the old M.O.L. council and the new C.N.P. council Monday night when both groups declared themselves the official city governing bodies.

Alderman J. Van der Zee, head of the M.O.L. forces, yesterday was in Des Moines to confer with Attorney General John H. Mitchell.

Shortly before the election the old council sent a resolution to Mitchell asking investigation of alleged fraud and bribery in pre-election activities here. The resolution was referred by the attorney general to County Attorney Harold Vestermark.

THE DEFENDANT

In the Johnson county jail since Feb. 15, Walter Rhodes has thinned somewhat but has been cheerfully nonchalant all through his first-degree murder trial. A guitar with him in his cell, the 29-year-old Iowa Citian has amused himself playing old-time songs, some of which he declares he composed himself.

Mrs. Margie Shimek Dies Of Heart Disease at Home Here

Mrs. Margie Shimek, 47, was found dead in bed at her home, 529 Brown street, about 8 p. m. yesterday. Her death was apparently due to heart disease.

Mrs. Shimek was the widow of Prof. Bohumil Shimek, for 43 years a member of the botany department of the University of Iowa and a nationally known botanist who died Jan. 29 from heart complications caused by influenza.

Born Marguerite Meerdink July 11, 1889 in Muscatine, she was educated in the Muscatine schools. For the last 13 years she had been a resident of Iowa City, having married Professor Shimek March 12, 1924. She was Shimek's second wife.

She took an active part in the Eastern Star organization, both in Muscatine and Iowa City, and was a member of the Past Matrons' association, serving as worthy matron while in Muscatine. Professor Shimek took an active part in the Masonic organization.

Mrs. Shimek until recently participated in the activities of the garden and literary departments of the Iowa City Woman's club. She was also active in the Baptist church.

She was greatly interested in the botany research carried on by her husband and accompanied him on nearly all his field trips. Shock caused by his death was thought to be a contributing factor in her death.

Eastern Star service is tentatively arranged for 2 p. m. tomorrow at Beckman's with the Rev. Elmer E. Dierks of the Baptist church officiating. The body is at Beckman's.

Body of Seven Women and Five Men Resumes Deliberation This Morning After Retiring For Night Without Decision

Walter H. "Dusty" Rhodes, 29-year-old Iowa Citian, will die for the murder of his wife, Mabel, a jury of 12 Johnson county men and women decided in a verdict returned in district court here this morning.

The seven women and five men on the jury found Rhodes "guilty" of the first-degree murder charge made in County Attorney Harold W. Vestermark's information.

RHODES CASE IN A FLASH

Feb. 9, 1937—Mrs. Mabel Rhodes, 31, died when a shotgun discharged and burst in her hands in the basement of her home, 53 S. Riverside drive. Her head, one hand and part of the other hand were blown off.

Feb. 10—County officers investigating her death became suspicious when they failed to find the shell they supposed had jammed and caused the explosion.

Two members of the state bureau of investigation were called in to investigate the case.

Feb. 13—Walter H. Rhodes, 29, quarry worker and husband of the woman, was arrested at Tama after attending his wife's funeral at Toledo.

Feb. 14—Rhodes allegedly signed a confession at Des Moines after being grilled by sheriffs and state agents. He admitted he loaded the shotgun with dynamite and induced his wife to pull the trigger.

Feb. 15—Rhodes was arraigned before District Judge James P. Gaffney in Johnson county district court. Attorney Will J. Hayek was appointed by the court to defend Rhodes.

Feb. 17—The arraignment was continued. Rhodes pleaded not guilty to the county attorney's information charging first degree murder. The trial was set for March 15 by Judge Gaffney.

Feb. 20—Trial date was continued until March 30 on request of Attorney Hayek.

Feb. 27—Court upheld Attorney Hayek's petition to dismiss county attorney's information because of unspecific terms. New information was drawn up by County Attorney Harold W. Vestermark.

March 18—Rhodes was arraigned on new county attorney's information charging first degree murder. Attorney Hayek filed demurrer.

March 20—Demurrer was overruled by Judge Gaffney.

March 22—Rhodes pleaded not guilty to new information.

March 27—Hayek objected to jury panel on ground that jury commission was not properly selected. The petition was overruled by Judge Gaffney.

March 30—Trial began.

March 31—Jury sworn in.

April 1—State opens case.

April 5—State rests case.

April 6—Defense rests and case goes to jury.

Attorney Will J. Hayek defense counsel said this morning that he will appeal case to state supreme court.

J. M. Zenishek, farmer and father of six children, was appointed foreman of the jury which retired at 3:43 p. m. yesterday. The case was given to the jury after Attorney Hayek, counsel for the defendant, suddenly announced to a packed but hushed court room:

"The defense presents its case to the jury without further argument." Hayek had previously reported it would probably take two days to present his side of the case. He said he had "less than 15 witnesses" to testify.

Yesterday morning Hayek took the state unaware when he declared to Judge Gaffney that he would not call any witnesses to testify in behalf of the defendant. The state was allowed 30 minutes for deliberation before Assistant Prosecutor Attorney Messer made the closing arguments.

Hayek told reporters yesterday afternoon that Messer had presented a clean, fair argument and that he would not raise any rebuttal. The defense attorney intimated that final argument by the defense would only have "been torn to pieces" by the prosecution.

Rhodes, Iowa City musician who said he has composed several songs for "my own pleasure," sat perfectly calm while the judge gave final instructions to the jury. He had not shown any emotion at any time during the trial—except when Messer presented his opening statement to the jury, describing the shattered body of Mrs. Rhodes.

His Mother Hysterical

His elderly, white-haired mother, Mrs. J. W. Rhodes, became nearly hysterical as the jury retired, however. She removed her glasses as she wept. She and her husband and her daughter, Mrs. C. W. Leunse of Cedar Rapids, and one of her sons, Luther, had been on hand continuously at the seven-day trial.

Rhodes' father showed no emotion as the jury retired, but the tall, blonde Mrs. Leunse covered her face with her hands. Mrs. (See RHODES, Page 5)

DES MOINES, April 6 (AP)—Between 75 and 85 persons, mostly girls, went on a sit down strike at the United Laundry here this morning.

J. W. Soutter, secretary of the Trades and Labor Assembly, said that the company had declined to enter into discussion of a contract proposed by the union involved, the Launderers, Cleaners, Dyers and Pressers Local 104.

Soutter said the union had submitted a contract last Thursday calling for a 44-hour week and asking negotiations for a wage increase.

Science Speaks In Simple Terms

FOR MANY years scientists have held a theory that disease germs in a person's body could be killed by the production of artificial fever. Within the last 15 years, devices have been introduced for the induction of this fever.

At the first international conference on fever therapy, held at Columbia university recently, Dr. Charles A. Doan told of recent advances in this important field. Dr. Doan reported on the results of experiments he had carried on at Ohio State university. Artificial fever is a means, he said, of mobilizing the defenses of the human body against infectious diseases. It suddenly increases the number of white blood cells, which "swallow up" disease germs.

Dr. Clarence H. Neymann of Northwestern Reserve university has developed one of the newest methods of producing artificial fever. He explains his method in these terms: "The patient lies in a closed box. Under him is a rubber mattress. Directly under the mattress is a copper coil, through which alternating current of 15 million cycles per second is passed. This induces magnetic fields in the body and their energy changes into heat. So the patient develops artificial fever."

Scientific methods of treatment are highly involved. The average person finds it difficult to grasp the principle. A simple and direct explanation like Dr. Neymann's is commendable. "Magnetic field" may be a mystery to most people, but its relation to body fever is plainly shown in the professor's explanation.

We appreciate scientific contributions only to the extent that we understand the principles involved. Surely most citizens are able to appreciate the methods of inducing artificial fever.

You must give Mussolini credit for one thing. Up to press time he hasn't referred to the heading rout of Italian troops in Spain as a "strategic retreat" or "moral victory."

One swallow may not make a summer, but it can make a jolly out of you—if you're driving a car.

Milly, the titan-topped typewriter, thinks bathships must be untidy places. Otherwise, argues she, why do they call the dining room aboard ship a mess?

J. T. C., St. Joseph, Mo., writes that his plans for a new spring suit were nipped in the bud.

Our Readers' Viewpoint

Letters must be signed and should not exceed 250 words. Opinions expressed by our readers do not necessarily reflect our views.

The following letter is by Prof. Christian Richard of the school of religion who is now on leave of absence from the university.

Editor, The Daily Iowan: I have been fortunate thus far in my conferences and interviews with scholars around the Sorbonne. M. Jules Toutain at the Ecole Pratique des Hautes Etudes has been trying for years to do something similar to what the school of religion has undertaken. Just imagine, the great Rabbi of Paris as one of his professors, and Alfred Loisy, the famous Catholic Modernist, as his Catholic representative. Toutain has a great reputation as a scholar on religion and, in fact he was very much interested in what I told him about the school of religion of the University of Iowa.

Unfortunately, circumstances here have become hostile to the quietness and peace of mind necessary for fruitful work. Last night a regular civil war began in a section of Paris between fascists and communists. The wounded papers say are only about 200, but the exact number is much higher and the dead also are not reported correctly. Anything may happen. Easter vacations begin in two days and all the libraries will be closed; so I am leaving for Belgium tomorrow morning; perhaps Belgium is not much more peaceful than France or the rest of Europe but I have an invitation to speak a few weeks at the University of Louvain and of course I consider myself very fortunate for such an opportunity. The nervous tension of the people here is such that it is almost hysteria, there is fear, fear day and night, and though I am not inclined to fear, myself, it is not an atmosphere in which one would like to live longer than is necessary!

Editor, The Daily Iowan: AN IMPROVEMENT that would add considerable interest, I think, to the University of Iowa campus would be the bestowing of official names on certain of its parts and the designation of these on artistic markers.

For example, the Pentacrest—an appropriate name for the original campus on the hill dominated by Old Capitol—yet little used. The idea could well be applied to university buildings as well as to campus areas.

"The matter of names is important," say Charlie Z. Klauer and Herbert C. Wise in their book "College Architecture."

"Upon improvement plans of colleges and universities there is little opportunity for identifying walks, terraces and other open spaces as well as halls and decorative rooms by means of names having imaginative and literary value," they declare.

A few suggestions for places in need of attractive designations are: the walks leading to the quad, the fieldhouse and the medical laboratory; the bluffs occupied by Westlaw and the Law Commons; the vale north of children's hospital; the dam; the Pentacrest; the Union bridge; the steps up the bluff to the Law Commons and the walk leading up to Westlaw; the quad court and the stadium. Many more could be thought of, I'm sure.

Washington World

By CHARLES P. STEWART, Central Press Columnist: WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Rev. Edward Dowling, S. J., of the editorial staff of the Queen's Work, national Catholic monthly magazine, will be recalled, recently undertook a poll of Washington's newspaper correspondents on this question: "Who will be the democratic presidential nominee in 1940?" This poll is not complete yet but Father Dowling reports as to its progress.

It seems to me a very interesting showing; the correspondents number into the hundreds, on an average they are exceptionally well informed politically and they represent every corner of the country.

AMONG THE MENTIONED: Father Dowling writes: "Two-thirds of those submitting votes in the poll place President Roosevelt first in the list of probable selections."

The revered father also speaks of "a large percentage of the correspondents" as giving first place to Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

Other names prominently mentioned, he says, are those of Senators Bennett Champ Clark of Missouri, Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, and A. Harry Moore of New Jersey, Governors George H. Earle of Pennsylvania, Philip F. La Follette of Wisconsin, and Frank Murphy of Michigan, Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, Labor Leader John L. Lewis, Chief Justice Charles C. Hughes, and Paul V. McNutt, now high commissioner to the Philippines.

F. D. R. FIRST: President Roosevelt would be my own first guess—conditionally.

If his supporters' fight in one form or another, still is pending when the 1940 democratic convention is held, it appears to me almost a certainty that new dealers will consent him to lead it through to a finish. In such an event he may not win at the polls but I think he is sure to be nominated.

If he has won in the meantime the probably will prefer to pass his job on to a successor—of his own choosing.

And he will not, meantime, be decisively baten. Either he will have won or the supreme court conflict still will be raging.

CLARK NO F. D. R. MAN: If Roosevelt has won he certainly will not pick Senator Clark to succeed him.

Clark, in certain respects, is the strongest candidate next to the present White House tenant, but he is not a 100 per cent new dealer. Roosevelt assuredly never would endorse him to continue new deal policies.

So, if Roosevelt has won up to 1940, Clark will not be his choice to follow him; if he hasn't won by that time, Roosevelt will be his own nominee.

Migraine Attack Stopped By Treatment, Not Cured

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

YESTERDAY we described the symptoms and how you can recognize a peculiar form of headache known as migraine. Today we want to discuss treatment.

Every time I get a number of letters from people who have a remedy, the peculiar thing is that most of the remedies are different, and a significant thing is that they come from people over 45 or 50 years of age—significant because migraine usually goes away spontaneously at this time.

Those who are in the period of life when the attacks are actually coming on—from about 15 to 45—try one remedy after another, without relief. A great many people feel they can stop an attack if they can just get the intestines to moving. The condition undoubtedly is a sensory discharge which affects the intestines, as well as the nerves in the head, and if the intestinal tieup can be averted, the sensory discharge can be stopped. I don't think it means that if a cathartic works and stops an attack of migraine, the migraine is due to intestinal absorption.

Stops Attack

The most hopeful treatment simply aims to stop an attack and not to cure the underlying condition. This has been possible with a drug known as ergotamine tartrate. It must be given hypodermically under the care of a physician. If taken at the beginning of an attack, it will stop the attack in a great many instances. Of 120 patients in one series

Screen Life

By HUBBARD KEAVY

HOLLYWOOD—The coronation of a British King is a four-hour ceremonial.

It took Hollywood seven days to film it for "The Prince and the Pauper," Mark Twain's classic of 19th century adventure and duplicity.

It will be unreel on the screen in 18 minutes.

In the film version (the third of this story), the coronation of Edward VI was an expensive rite, since it was the most important sequence—serving as a background for the climatic scene when the rightful prince escapes his captors in-time to prevent the pauper from being crowned king.

The costumes alone for this scene, worn by 500 extras and 35 principals, represented an investment of nearly $100,000. The set itself, built on two sound stages, was a detailed duplicate of the main portion of Westminster Abbey. Sixty carpenters, plasterers and painters worked exactly 23 days on the construction of the Abbey.

4 Months' Research

Four months were devoted to writing and research, two months to filming 550,000 feet. Only 11,000 feet, or slightly less than 11 reels, will remain in the completed picture.

Difficulties of research were magnified by the fact that little exact information is available on habits, customs and costumes of the middle 1500's in England. Records, drawings and paintings that might have been reliable were destroyed in the London fire at the end of the century. Only the paintings of Holbein who specialized on royalty of the period, exist today as a record of the appearance of Henry VIII, his son, Edward VI, who succeeded him, and their numerous courtiers.

A New Yorker At Large

By JACK STINNETT

NEW YORK—The day when a national convention was a drunken brawl, a habbitt's holiday, the sort of thing that could be the cinematic springboard for such a satirical farce as the movie, "Convention City," and send half the customers home saying: "How true," is, if not gone forever, rapidly disappearing.

Take the word for it of A. K. McCleery, of McCleery Associates, Inc., a youthful three-year veteran "convention producer."

And that's not the half of it. Conventions are taking the road. Next year, the convention of one company, sales of which are worldwide, will not only do four days in New York City, but will play one night stands in 23 other cities in the land.

To list McCleery's convention equipment and staff would take more space than we have, but a portion of it consists of a portable stage, with especially devised lighting and sound equipment, designed by none other than Jo Meizner, one of Broadway's ace stage designers; a projection machine and screen for stage films; a shadow-graph; a staff of writers to turn out scripts illustrating the company's accomplishment and aims; a staff of actors to supplement company talent in enacting these skits.

But don't get the idea, McCleery insists, that conventions are a show. If you want "entertainment," as the term is understood on Broadway, you'll have to look elsewhere than to his organization. He wouldn't even provide a boop-ooop singer for the closing night banquet. Firms that go in for that sort of thing have to set up their own entertainment committees and one thing that is written into the contract is that the entertainment business must not interfere with the convention schedule.

The "devised presentation of conventions," as McCleery calls it, is a serious business. He is not the only one in the business, of course. Most of the big convention cities now have their convention managers. One, locally, specializes in a clockwork convention that moves with whirlwind speed. But McCleery does believe his company is the only one which goes in for national convention presentation on a "production basis," with the roadshow twist as a follow-up.

School of Religion Forced To Seek New Source of Funds

Loss of Rockefeller Grant Revives Old Financial Problem

Supported by private funds since its inception 10 years ago, the University of Iowa school of religion is now compelled to seek new sources to provide the administrative portion of its expenses.

John D. Rockefeller Jr. has made two grants for this purpose and a third was given by the Davison fund, a Rockefeller organization, over a 10-year period. Now, by an agreement with Mr. Rockefeller, the school must obtain its administrative support elsewhere.

$35,000 Grant

Administrative finance had loomed as a major problem of the new school of religion in 1927. Its solution was made possible when an appeal to Mr. Rockefeller was answered with a $35,000 grant for three experimental years.

In 1930 a second grant, larger than the first, was made by Mr. Rockefeller, providing support for another five years. This was extended for two years by the Davison fund with the understanding that no more would be contributed and administrative support at the end of this time would be secured from other sources.

An agreement was reached whereby the school would attempt to obtain administrative funds from the state or elsewhere, by the beginning of the school year 1937-38.

From the school's beginning all the religious groups cooperating in its operation, Catholics, Jews and Protestants, have supported their own professorships and this arrangement will continue.

Proposed by Jessup

Unique in its organization, the University of Iowa school of religion had its origin in a proposal submitted to President Walter A. Jessup in 1923. A committee was appointed and drew up a plan that was approved by the state board of education and became the school's constitution.

Representatives of the various religious groups who would cooperate in maintaining the school, and an equal number of university representatives met in 1925 and approved the plan. Trustees were elected and the idea of the school became a reality.

600 Enrolled

Enrollment has grown from less than 200 the first year to more than 600 at the present time. The faculty includes Prof. Christian Richard, the Catholic representative, now on leave of absence; Prof. Charles H. Hawley, Protestant member; Prof. Moses Jung, representing the Jewish group; Prof. William H. Morgan and Prof. M. Willard Lampe, the school's director.

The fundamental idea of the University of Iowa school of religion which makes it the only organization of its kind in the country is embodied in this sentence from its constitution: "The governing board shall be constituted in such a way as to secure the cooperative efforts of the religious bodies of the state and of the university in the support and control of the school."

Schiaparelli Plans Wardrobe For Your Travels in Europe

PARIS—If you are coming to Europe this summer with ambitious plans to "do" Paris and the International Exposition that is rapidly nearing completion on both banks of the Seine, give a thought to what you intend to wear.

No one who's bent on a good holiday with lots of sightseeing ahead wants to be burdened with luggage. Choose your clothes with that in view but do not overlook the fact that comfort is of first importance.

Remember that climate is an uncertain matter in Europe. The sun may be registering 100 degrees in the shade in New York while Paris is experiencing one of those chill summers which are as hard on the American temperament as they are on the French wine crop.

Two Suits Recommended
Two suits, one of a lighter weight than the other, are good sense no matter how far you go on a vacation. They are a necessity in Paris. So is a good three-quarter top-coat.

A warm suit will do double duty at sea and on trains. A light-weight tailleur will be suitable for city wear when the streets become extremely hot.

(Although heat waves can and do take place in May and June they are more likely to arrive in July and August.)
The coat may be made of a light-weight tweed or any other material that is fairly impermeable to summer rains. Although I do not con-

Rhodes--

Rhodes was weeping so violently that she had to be helped from the court room.

Attorney Hayek shook her hand as the jury retired, and Mrs. J. H. Myron, one of the state's key witnesses, went to Mrs. Rhodes and embraced her as court adjourned.

"Dusty" told reporters on his way back to his cell in the county jail that "I hope they give me the life sentence rather than the death penalty."

Members of the jury trying the case, in addition to the foreman, were Mrs. Bertha Strickler, 207 Myrtle avenue, an employee of a local cleaning establishment; Mrs. Mary Droll of Hills, a housewife and one of the youngest members of the jury; Emora Attig of Lone Tree, farmer; Mrs. Bertha Hudachek of Lone Tree, a housewife; Mrs. Agnes Dolezal, 116 N. Dodge street, housewife; Mrs. Verna S. Records, 121 Grand avenue, court, housewife.

J. A. Zenshek of Big Grove township, an implement dealer, John A. Hehl Sr., 116 Holz avenue, white-haired and white-mustached widower, Katherine Barrow, 603 S. Dubuque street, unmarried; Mrs. Carrie K. Bartlett, 527 Ronalds street, housewife and widow, and Joe P. Sedlack of Newport township, a farmer.

Rhodes' seven-day, first degree murder trial was filled with drama many times as prosecuting attorneys presented 31 witnesses and 31 pieces of evidence to prove the 29-year-old Iowa Citian guilty of the first-degree murder of his wife.

Two of the state's key witnesses were women. Mrs. Mabel Skriver, 33, the "other" woman in the case, the other, Mrs. J. H. Myron, roomer and helper in the Rhodes home, 53 S. Riverside drive.

Mrs. Myron was in the kitchen above the basement when the explosion occurred.

On the witness stand Mrs. Skriver testified she had been engaged to marry Rhodes. She said he had told her he intended to divorce his wife.

Mrs. Myron told the court that Rhodes had intended to kill his wife several days prior to her death, Feb. 9. She declared that the Rhodes' marital life had been very "unhappy."

Rhodes is alleged to have gone with his wife to Art Brown's beer tavern Jan. 30, 1937, carrying a shotgun, a pistol and two sticks of dynamite. Mrs. Rhodes was said to have refused her husband's invitation to shoot the gun at that time.

After Rhodes was arrested and placed in the Johnson county jail, Mrs. Myron talked with him. "He told me," she testified, "that he didn't know why he did it. He said he was sorry it didn't happen at Art Brown's."

Capt. Tom Pettit of the Des Moines police department testified that in his opinion a high explosive had been used in the death gun.

Dramatic testimony was also given by Dr. Paul Reed and Deputy Sheriff Preston Koser who, on the witness stand, described the scene of the alleged crime. Mrs. Rhodes was summoned by Mrs. Myron after the explosion.

Important evidence introduced in the trial was the confession which Rhodes signed at Des Moines following his wife's death.

Parents of both the alleged murderer and his wife were among the spectators who jammed the courtroom to hear the battle for Rhodes' life.

The arrest of Rhodes four days after his wife's death provided a dramatic climax to what William W. Akers, chief of the state bureau of criminal investigation, termed "the almost perfect crime."

Student Automobile Reported Damaged

A car belonging to Harold Helgeson, L3, Law Commons, was slightly damaged in an apparent attempt to force the door Monday night, it was reported to police yesterday.

Found the body of the woman in the basement of the Rhodes home.

Smoking Shotgun A shattered, smoking shotgun lay beside her. But officers were puzzled when they found no shell fragments near it.

Rhodes was questioned, shortly after his wife's funeral at Toledo, At Des Moines, city and county identification experts found traces of dynamite on the blown breech of the shotgun.

Rhodes was arrested at Tamah, Feb. 13, and brought to Des Moines where Sheriff Don McComas of Johnson county and state bureau of investigation officers questioned him.

"The Goods" "You know we've got the goods on you, don't you, Dusty?" Sheriff McComas said he asked him.

"That's right," the sheriff quoted Rhodes as replying, "I'll tell, I'll tell the truth."

Rhodes signed statement said he went to the basement of his home to fix the furnace on the night of his wife's death.

She followed him. He sat on a stool and his wife on a bed, the statement said.

"I told her about a proposed rabbit hunt and asked her to get the gun," Sheriff McComas quoted the statement. "I told her I didn't think the firing pin was working. She asked me what I meant. I told her to cook the gun and pull the trigger and see if it was loaded. She did and it exploded."

The sheriff said Rhodes admitted buying two sticks of dynamite at an Iowa City hardware store two months before. He said, according to the statement, he dumped the pellets from a shotgun shell, loaded it with two teaspoonfuls of the dynamite and scattered the rest on the ground.

Professor Van der Zee, alderman at large of the Municipal Ownership league city council, conferred with Attorney General John Mitchell and with Harley Stupp, Des Moines attorney.

Professor Van der Zee, accompanied by D. C. Nolan, Iowa City lawyer, and Arthur O. Leff, who Monday night was appointed Iowa City attorney by the MOL council, spent several hours with the attorney general but declined all comment following the meeting.

"The president has not called me into his office in two years, and any idea that he is 'putting heat' on me is entirely erroneous," he stated.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

Question Insurance men have found that most accidents occur in the home. Have you found this to be your experience?

Answers Gus A. Pusateri, 723 Oakland avenue, merchant--No, I believe in my particular case I would say no. It's much easier for me to stub my toe, cut my finger or fall down stairs right at my work.

Mildred Anderson, 314 S. Dubuque street, companion--I don't think so. I don't meet as many in the home as outside.

Charles Beckman, 507 E. College street, funeral director--No, I believe not. Accidents I have come in contact with have been mostly those happening on highways.

Lucille Blumenstein, 321 S. Johnson street, clerk--I have found it to be true. Usually most accidents do happen at home.

Hubert Curtis, Riverside drive, florist--No, I don't believe so. All accidents I have had were in automobiles.

Mrs. M. A. Prince, 445 Grand avenue, housewife--No, I haven't. I don't know of an accident that has occurred in the home--and that's not because the floors aren't waxed. We have just been fortunate.

F. C. Dayton, 417 S. Capitol street, clerk--No, I haven't. I think most of the accidents happen away from home--on the streets and highways.

Little Hawks Draw Suits, Begin Drills

Weather permitting, spring football practice at City high will begin in earnest today.

Thirty-five suits and shoes have been issued to prospective candidates, with several more expected to turn out within the next few days.

The Hawklets will have a formidable heritage to live up to this fall, following in the footsteps of last year's undefeated eleven.

The Red and White suffered a number of serious losses by graduation, including three players of statewide prominence.

A fairly large group of lettermen, supplemented by a good freshman-sophomore team, will be counted on to fill the places of the many seniors.

Snider Out Bob Snider, all-city guard on the Red and White, will probably not be able to do much heavy work in the spring drills.

SPRING TRACK CARD RELEASED BY SWENSON

Release of a complete schedule of outdoor track events for varsity, freshman and undergraduates who are interested in track was made by Assistant Track Coach Ted Swenson yesterday afternoon.

Swenson also revealed that a new traveling trophy for shot putters will be offered for competition to all weight men in the university next Monday afternoon.

All competition will be run off on the track west of the fieldhouse. It includes the Canby pole vault, Cedar Rapids trophy run and Ida Grove trophy run all Wednesday, April 14.

The Rotary club javelin throw, Wednesday, May 12; the interfraternity track meet, Wednesday and Thursday, May 12 and 13; and a third postal meet with Northwestern, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, May 18, 19 and 20.

Six strokes back, with an 82-81-163, came 19-year-old Virginia Guilfoili, Syracuse, N. Y., university sophomore, who carried Mrs. Page to the 15th hole in the North and South final.

Swimming Tests Begin Today in Pool

Registration and entrance tests for Coach Armbruster's preparing course for the senior Red Cross swimmer's test will be given in the fieldhouse pool this afternoon and Friday afternoon at 4:30.

Candidates for the course will be required to swim a quarter mile, side stroke on both sides, breast stroke, back stroke and inverted breast stroke, and retrieve an object in deep water.

The course is especially given for advance students and freshman and varsity team members. Any one who has already passed the test but wishes to review it and remain in good standing will be permitted to register, also, according to Coach Armbruster.

Blues Open At Mechanicsville

The University high school track team, having shown up well in the state indoor meet here last Saturday, will open its outdoor schedule against Mechanicsville on the latter's track Saturday afternoon.

The sprinters from which the quartet will be picked are: Shebetka, Schuchelien, Kent, R. Wombacher, D. Woglschager and Heigsticker. Also University high will need to collect a quartet of 440 men and 880 men to make up a mile and two mile relay aggregation.

Coach Carpenter expects to take between 22 and 28 boys on the trip to Mechanicsville.

Little Hawk Track Team Takes First Outdoor Workout

Despite the recent bad weather which made the Shrader field anything but a fast one, Coach Francis Merten of the Little Hawks took his cinder squad out last night for their initial workout.

Approximately 25 men reported for the practice. Thirty-five candidates still have suits checked out, but the remaining 10 were not in evidence.

Several prospective meets have been lined up by Coach Merten, with Muscatine, Wilson high of Cedar Rapids and University high as probable dual meet opponents during the outdoor season.

Cougar Mile Relay Team Is Powerful

DES MOINES, April 6 (AP)—Washington State plans to make a raid on two university relay records at the Drake relays here April 23 and 24.

The Cougars have one of the greatest mile quartets in the nation this year and their half mile team has been flirting with record performances all season.

Coach Schlademmer thinks highly of his sensational Washington State teams, so highly in fact that he has set a goal of 2:17 in time trials to determine definitely the Cougars' participation in the Drake meet.

Lee Orr, sensational sophomore who was a member of the Canadian Olympic team last year, is the spearhead of the Cougar chargers. He ran fifth in the finals of the 200-meter dash at Berlin last year.

Jack Orr, a junior, is the older brother of Lee Orr and has done their quarter in 48. Nettleton, a senior, two years ago was the conference quarter-mile champion. He's the leadoff man of the mile quartet.

Brown Says Manning Out

DES MOINES, April 6 (AP)—George A. Brown, executive secretary of the Iowa High School Athletic association, said tonight that Manning, Ia., high school has been suspended from the association for alleged activities with the newly formed Hawkeye Athletic association.

The executive secretary said that Amos Lee, superintendent of schools at Manning, has been notified that his school has been dropped from the state association.

Notification of Manning's suspension was sent by O. C. Varner of Diagonal, chairman of the board of control of the state association. The period of suspension generally is one year.

Brown said the ouster action was based upon the reported connection of Superintendent Lee of Manning with the Hawkeye Athletic association, formed by schoolmen to protest to what they termed "the undemocratic conduct of the board of control of the state association."

Lee was reported to have been named temporary chairman of the meeting at which the new organization was formed in Des Moines, March 29.

Hungry? B. Littlefinger Wins Needed Trousers In Gastronomic Tilt

By BRUTUS LITTLEFINGER Special Iowan Correspondent ABOARD ZEPPELIN HINDENBURG, April 6 (Special to The Daily Iowan)—The old saying concerning an ill wind appeared to be coming true again today as my airship was buffeted and pummeled by the adverse winds, and it appeared doubtful if I should be able to reach New York in time to embark on a mail plane for Iowa City.

As you remember, when I closed my rather brief communication yesterday, I was without any vestige of trousers, and since then I have had no end of grief and woe.

Realizing that I would make a dramatic entrance at the Iowa Circus Thursday if I entered without my trousers, and having any undue publicity, I set about to find some form of clothing for my limbs.

By dint of great secrecy and courage, I managed to creep along the cat-walk and under the rear fin of this huge monster, and then down into the galley where the Chinese cook was busy preparing the evening meal.

I had noticed as I entered the galley that the cook was busy cooking a large kettle of rice on the stove, and I felt that maybe I could prevail upon his racial pride to get him to make a wager with me.

Jim Fails To Spare Trees At Camp Site

By CHARLES DUNKLEY STONE LAKE, Wis., April 6 (AP)—Swinging a heavy, two bladed axe, James J. Braddock, the backwoodsman, chopped down trees in the wilds near his camp for two hours today in the first training move of his campaign.

The world heavyweight champion, attired in heavy work shoes, two sweater coats and with four days' growth of whiskers on his face, swung at towering hard maples, and quickly began to drip with perspiration.

After trees fell crashing to the ground, Braddock planned to saw them into four foot lengths and then cut them for fuel for the fireplace in the log cabin that will be his home for the next five weeks.

Braddock has gone backwoodsman in a big way. He refuses to shave and declares he won't knock off the growth of whiskers for at least another week. He is dressed for the part, with his sweaters, old trousers and a mouse colored cap.

Starting today, the champion, with his two sparring mates, Charley Massera, Pittsburgh, and Jack McCarthy, Boston, with Trainer Lippman, went on a strict eating schedule. They will restrict themselves to two meals a day, a hearty breakfast of ham or bacon and eggs, fruit, toast, jam and coffee, and a dinner of plain foods.

Vogel Turns Out Winners at Iowa

Former Illinois Star, Major Leaguer, Produces Big Time Material in Hawkeye Baseball Teams

By GAYLORD HODENFIELD
Otto Henry Vogel, now in his 13th year as head baseball coach at the University of Iowa, came to the Hawkeye institution with a good background both as a college player at the University of Illinois and as a player on the Chicago Cub team in the National league.

Vogel was graduated from Illinois in 1923 after winning major awards in football, basketball and baseball. He was signed by the Cubs upon graduation and played in 71 games as an outfielder in 1924. In January, 1925, he was appointed to the coaching position at Iowa.

Fine Record

In his 12 years at Iowa, Vogel has had only two losing seasons. In 1931 his team lost 10 games and won seven, and in 1932 they lost nine while winning five. The record of all games played shows the Hawkeyes under his tutelage have won 57 per cent of their games. In conference competition his teams have a .509 average as they have won 51, lost 51 and tied one.

1927 was the best year for the Iowa nine as they won seven of 19 Big Ten games to tie for first with Illinois. In 1929 the same figures brought runner-up honors. Last year Iowa dropped the Big Ten championship to Michigan in the final conference tilt of the season.

Seven First Division Berths

In seven years of conference competition the Vogel-coached teams have won seven first division berths. They hold victory margins over four of eight Big Ten teams played and have broken even with one other.

Vogel has taken his teams into 16 states, including those of the southwest, south and eastern seaboard. He has developed such major league players as Forest Twiggood, Mace Brown, Francis Mulrooney and Don Gugler.

Following is the record of the Iowa baseball teams coached by Otto Vogel up to the 1937 season:

Louis Returns To Chicago; Retires To Sleep at Once

CHICAGO, April 6 (AP)—Joe Louis came home from his barnstorming tour today—so unconcerned over plans for fighting James J. Braddock that he flopped right into bed for an all-day nap.

The Brown Bomber didn't stay up long enough to say he was happy that arrangements for a chance at the heavyweight title at Comiskey park June 22 have virtually reached the point of certainty.

Champ Lewis Will Fight In May at Garden

By EDDIE BRIETZ
NEW YORK, April 6 (AP)—John Henry Lewis, the light heavyweight champion, will make his next east-coast appearance May 14 in Madison Square Garden against either Al Ettore of Philadelphia or Lee Ramage of Los Angeles.

Gus Greenlee, Lewis' manager, came here today from Pittsburgh to sign articles. He told Jimmy Johnston, Garden matchmaker, either Ettore or Ramage will be acceptable to the Negro.

In Training
Lewis now is training for a 10 rounder at Omaha April 13 with "Millionaire" Murphy.

The Garden ran smack into a stone wall today when it tried to match Lou Ambers and Pedro Montanez in another non-title bout before giving the Puerto Rican a shot at the title this summer.

Not Interested
"We want no part of it," said Lew Burston, who manages Montanez. "Pedro won his right to a championship match by beating Ambers last night. We're not interested in another over-the-weight match."

Shavings: Bob Pastor is going to get $10,000 for fighting Bob Nestell, new coast heavyweight hope, in Los Angeles May 10. Tony Canzoneri looked good stopping George Levy in seven rounds. Levy stayed 10 with Ambers some time ago. Joe Gould is back from Chicago to represent Jimmy Braddock at the hearing on Madison Square Garden's restraining order in Newark next Monday. Five sparring partners have been rounded up for Joe Louis and will be shipped to Chicago as soon as Louis is ready to begin training for his June 22 bout with Braddock.

(By the Associated Press)

A comparison of the state committee report on educational institutions with the governor's recommendations and the 1935 appropriations is as follows:

Institution—	Committee Recommendation	Governor Recommendation	Last Appropriation
University of Iowa	$1,950,000	$2,250,000	$1,900,000

Maytag Will Estimated At Ten Million

Examiner Says It Is Largest Ever to Be Probated in Iowa

NEWTON, APRIL 6 (AP)—The will of Fred L. Maytag, pioneer Iowa washing machine manufacturer and philanthropist, was filed for probate here today.

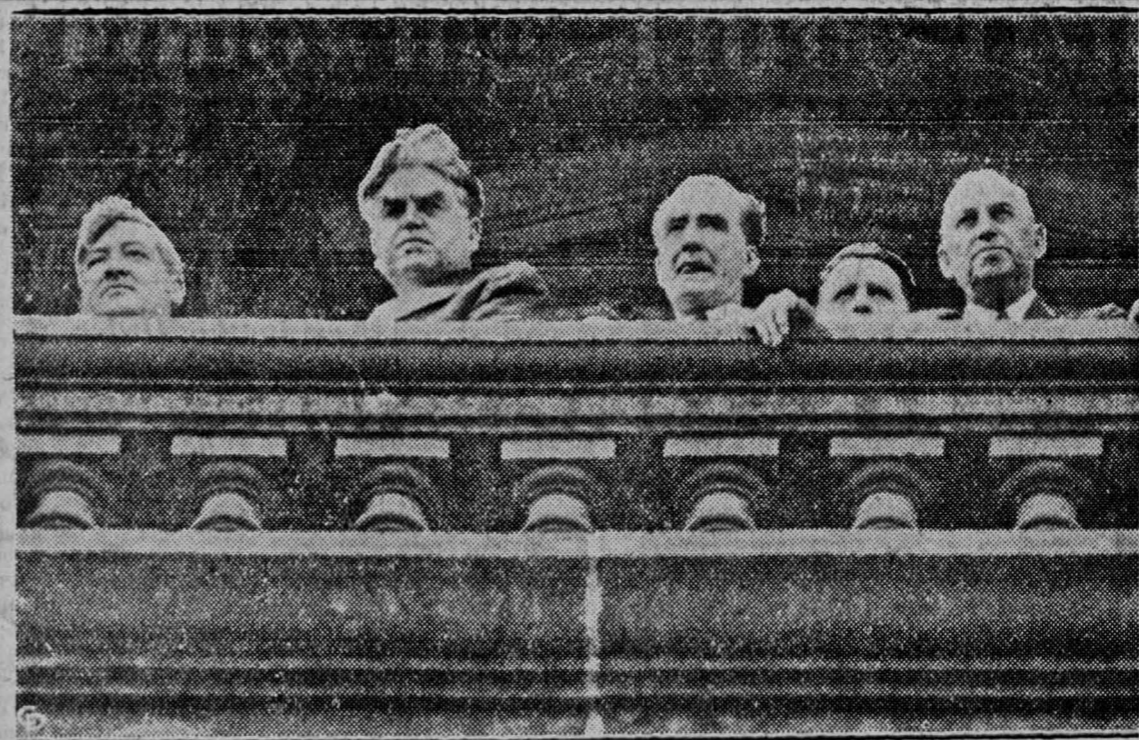

The amount of the estate was not listed, but unofficial estimates, according to the Newton Daily News, placed it at between 10 and 15 million dollars, the largest, according to John Wicklund, chief examiner of the state inheritance tax division, ever to be probated in Iowa.

Requests to individuals totaled here.

"SPEECH!" SHOUT DEMONSTRATORS TO LEWIS

James Dewey, John L. Lewis, Gov. Frank Murphy, Walter P. Chrysler Called upon to speak to Detroit automobile workers who massed below Gov. Frank Murphy's executive offices in the capitol at Lansing, Mich., John L. Lewis, head of the C.I.O., is joined on the balcony by Walter P. Chrysler, chairman of the Chrysler corporation. Shown, left to right, are James Dewey, federal labor conciliator; Lewis, Governor Murphy and Chrysler.

Twoen $300,000 and $350,000 while an estimated $150,000 went to institutions. The bulk of the estate, after all bequests were deducted, was left to Maytag's son, L. B. Maytag of Colorado Springs, Col.

T. J. Campbell, attorney who drew the will in February, 1936, and Ray O. Bailey, vice-president of the Jasper County Savings bank, were named trustees of the estate. The will asked they serve without bond.

It was filed with the Jasper county clerk of district court by Lewis H. Johnson, former secretary of Maytag.

No bequests were made to Maytag's other three children, Mrs. H. I. Spary of Colorado Springs, Mrs. W. H. Smith of Pottsville, Ala., and E. H. Maytag. The will said they had been provided for previously and had requested no further provision for themselves.

Among individual bequests was $76,000 in annuities to Maytag's six brothers and sisters and 16 nephews and nieces. The brothers and sisters will receive $10,000 a year for life, each. The nephews and nieces, $1,000.

Several of Maytag's older office employees at Newton and in the four Maytag branch offices at Philadelphia, Minneapolis, Kansas City and Indianapolis received individual bequests of $1,000 each.

Bequests to institutions included $30,000 in trust to the Newton Salvation Army; $50,000 in trust and the property and buildings to the Newton Y. M. C. A., and $10,000 outright to the Newton Y. W. C. A. The Evangelical church of Laurel received $5,000, $2,500 outright and $2,500 in trust for the care of its cemetery.

Maytag, founder of the washing machine company bearing his name, died last month in Los Angeles, Cal., of a heart ailment. He was 79 years old. He had lived in retirement in California for several years. He had long been noted for his philanthropy to charities and midwestern educational institutions.

Wyoming Bears Need To Know Geography

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP)—It will be a big help to bears in Wyoming if they can learn geography.

In seven scattered parts of the state they have been classed as game animals by the state game and fish commission and given full protection of the law except for two open seasons yearly.

In all other parts of the state they are "predatory animals" and can be shot on sight by any hunter.

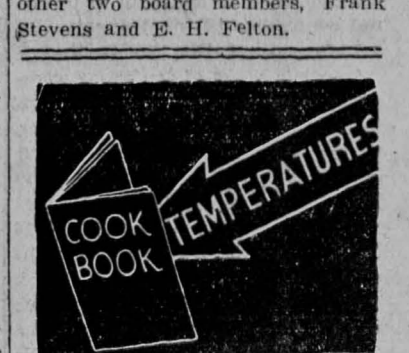

PWA Engineers Harness Sewage Gas

WASHINGTON (AP)—Engineers of the public works administration have succeeded in converting sewer gas into motive power for generating plants.

Three such projects, located at Coney Island, N.Y., Peoria, Ill., and Durham, N.C., are in operation.

PWA consulting engineers estimate at least $25,000 annually will be saved at the Peoria project. The sewage gas there had been burned as waste.
