WAR OF THE WORLD NOW IN FULL BLAST

Fight on Between Mackay and Western Union. BUT THE PACIFIC CABLE IS COMING

LATEST NEWS FROM WASHINGTON IN REGARD TO PACIFIC CABLE.

Washington Correspondent Says Hawaii and San Francisco Will Soon Be in Communication—Cabinet Discusses the Matter Favorably.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The war of the world is on. The great telegraph companies that link continents with tiny lines of copper and zinc have flashed swords at the Nation's Capital, and it is all over the proposed Transpacific cable that is aimed to connect the distant Philippines and the busy ports of China with the big Pacific Coast metropolises, San Francisco.

The system that is in contemplation that would involve, if carried out, the expenditure of millions of dollars is still in the shell with two contending factions, each with monster fortunes back of them, warring over the hatching.

John W. Mackay, representing the Commercial Cable Company and allied interests, recently applied for a franchise to build a cable across the Pacific. The news was hailed with delight by the people of the progressive West, and it was taken for granted that he would win his battle for right to control the wires.

But the strong Gould lobby was not reckoned with. The Western Union people have planned for many years to hold the control of the transpacific business should it ever become a factor in Western cable business, and they are not in the humor to let the franchise slip past them.

On the other hand, they also fear the establishment of a Government cable between the Hawaiian and Philippine islands, which would, perhaps, be a preliminary step toward the much-mooted Government postal telegraph, a ghost that arises at every dividend feast of the Gould financiers with provoking regularity.

When Mackay made application for the franchise to lay a Pacific cable he was certain of success. He did not count on opposition, but it is come. The charge is made that he contemplates securing the valuable right to establish the cable and will then promptly turn it over to the English company that controls all the Oriental cables and the cables of the Central and South American Cable Company.

Further claim is made that Mr. Mackay cannot be sincere in his "All-American" cable idea, as he represents much English capital in his Transatlantic cable projects. Also, he is alleged to be a very poor friend of California, notwithstanding his having accumulated most of his vast fortune there. He has invested little money in Pacific Coast enterprises, and has given little evidence of interest in the old State that brought him prominence and wealth.

Of course, this is the Gould lobby end of the controversy. The yarns are referred to by the Mackay people as pure fabrications invented for the purpose of preventing the Government from granting the franchise and offering the Cabinet officials an opportunity to bide their preference for a Gould or Government system.

The Government officials, however, realize that the cable will have to be constructed, and it will not be long before some decision will be reached regarding the tremendous undertaking, and whether the Gould or the Mackay lobby of financial giants will win in the battle is a question at this time hard to decide.

CABINET DISCUSSES THE TRANSPACIFIC CABLE. WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—President Roosevelt met his Cabinet today to receive the opinions of Attorney-General Knox upon grants of permits by the President for the transpacific cable to make landings in this country and the Philippines.

Federal Judge of the Northern district of that State and of William Head, an anti-Addicks man, to be postmaster at Wilmington, Del. He reviewed the conditions which led him to make the selections and told the Cabinet that he intended to carry the policy inaugurated by these appointments through his administration. In the selection of men for Federal offices the President said he would look to the best interests of the whole country, or for the section in which the official would have jurisdiction, and if a suitable man could not be found in the regular party organization, whose selection would be pleasing to the whole community, a man from other factions or other parties would be selected, provided, of course, that he was fully qualified. This policy, Mr. Roosevelt thought, would strengthen the party, and he asked the opinion of the Cabinet on the question.

Without exception the President's actions were highly commended. The Cabinet indorsed the two appointments already made, as well as the policy under which they were made. Every one expressed himself as in full accord and sympathy with this method of selecting persons for Federal office.

The unusual request of the President that the Cabinet meeting be made short is explained by his anxiety to get at the work on his message before he leaves Washington for New Haven, Conn., October 21st. The President will receive callers in the afternoon, but will devote these hours to work on his message.

Mme. Cole at Central Union. Mme. Belle Cole, the famous contralto, has consented to sing at the Central Union church, this evening, choosing for her solo, "Come Unto Me," by Coenen. Owing to Mme. Cole's intended departure for the Coast on the Alameda, Wednesday next, she will not give another concert, and her many admirers will be glad of this opportunity of again hearing her marvellously full and rich voice.

RECEPTION YESTERDAY TO MR. AND MRS. A. AHLO GIVEN BY L. AHLO IN HONOR OF HIS SON, JUST RETURNED FROM EUROPE.

Home on Liliha Street Tastefully Decorated For the Occasion—Cordial Reception To All Nationalities—Reception and Music.

The reception given yesterday afternoon by Mr. and Mrs. L. Ahlo, in honor of their son, Anthony Ahlo and his young English wife, at their magnificent new residence on Liliha street from 2 to 6 o'clock, was a most brilliant and delightful affair.

There were over five hundred guests entertained, among them being all the prominent society people of the city, and the assemblage was most elegant and fashionable in appearance, many elaborately beautiful gowns being worn by the ladies.

The long driveway leading up to the handsome new residence had been prettily decorated with flags and banners, and the residence itself presented an artistically gay appearance, the lawn being draped with Chinese flags and banners, and the colors of the American, Japanese and Hawaiian flags blended with the yellow and red of the Chinese dragon with charming effect, great branches of green palm leaves adding to the festivity of the general appearance.

Inside the residence a profusion of flowers, carnations, daisies and other blossoms were arranged through the rooms with artistic taste, and branches of palms, potted plants and ferns were distributed with pretty festive effect. In one of the drawing-rooms a splendid Chinese banner hand-embroidered on red silk in gold thread, which was presented to Mr. L. Ahlo last week on his sixty-first birthday by his Chinese friends, was hung from the ceiling and draped across the wall. The entire residence was thrown open to the guests, whose eyes were delighted with the perfection of arrangement wrought by the clever architect and the beauty of the magnificent furniture, hangings, paintings and ornamental bric-a-brac.

At the right of the entrance to the main drawing-room the guests were shown into Mr. Ahlo's Chinese room, which is furnished with elaborate splendor in the Chinese mode. This room is octagonal in shape, with windows in each side, and magnificent Chinese hand-embroidered banners are hung about the walls. In the center of the room is a large round Chinese table of teak wood, inlaid with pearl in a beautiful pattern, and Chinese chairs of teak, inlaid with pearl to match, complete the furniture of the room except for a beautiful teak china chest, the shelves of which are filled with exquisite specimens of rare China.

BRITISH GENERALS AFFECTED BY WAR. Buller Has Again Been Talking Too Much.

ONE BOER COMMANDANT EXECUTED. SCHEEPER CAPTURED BY THE BRITISH COLUMN UNDER GENERAL FRENCH.

Despite the Carefully Laid Plans to Capture General Botha, the Willy Boer Leader Again Effects His Escape.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—The South African campaign has a curious effect on British generals, and attention is centered on General Buller's extraordinary exhibition, while society is gossiping about the remarkable action of another general, who is a Knight Commander of the Bath, holding a high command in South Africa. He is over 60 years of age, has been a widower for two years, and has engaged himself by letter to marry a woman of 50 whom he has not seen for twenty years. The bride-elect, who is an Irish woman, is preparing to go out to South Africa.

As for General Buller, he had been forever shattered every vestige of his reputation. A representative of the Associated Press learns that previous to General Buller's speech of Thursday he had received several plain hints from the War Office expressing the hope that he would not accept invitations to make speeches. His appointment to the command of the Army Corps was made in a spirit of generosity. It was thought that General Buller could not do much harm in the two years remaining of his term of office. Failure to appoint him would have signified a public disgrace, which the War Office was not willing to inflict on him, believing that General Buller had done his duty to the best of his ability.

One of the highest officials connected with the administration of the army said to a representative of the Associated Press: "As for the public dissatisfaction with our progress in South Africa, I fear that Lord Roberts and his staff, and the people, are, unintentionally, more to blame than any one else. No one got up and said the Boer war was over, or that it would be in a matter of months. It lasted nearly four years, and the British public took it as a matter of course. The South African war has probably got another year to run, developing, like the Boer war, into a subaltern's campaign. Continual disturbances are being put down by the small garrisons. To do this, we know of no one better than Lord Kitchener. His chief complaint, which seems to have misled the attention of the critics, is that, in order to protect natives populating the war area, he is prohibited from destroying supplies to any degree of military thoroughness. If we could concentrate our efforts on the natives, I think an effective devastation would quickly end the campaign."

Commandant Lotter Executed. MIDDLEBURG, Cape Colony, Oct. 12.—Commandant Lotter, the Cape rebel, whose commands, consisting almost wholly of rebels, was captured south of Petersburg in September, and who was sentenced to death, was executed yesterday morning. Commandant Lotter had been tried and found guilty on eight counts, including the murder of colored, unarmed scouts, the murder of troopers in action, the blowing up of railways and the cowardling of British subjects and Europeans. Lotter pleaded that he was a citizen of the Orange Free State, but this was disproved.

MIDDLEBURG, Cape Colony, Oct. 12.—Two young farmers who had twice joined the Boers, have been hanged at Verburg. The death sentence of a number of other condemned men have been commuted to penal servitude.

Commandant Scheeper Captured. LONDON, Oct. 12.—Lord Kitchener reports to the War Office from Pretoria, under today's date, that a French whole command has captured Commandant Scheeper, but does not state whether Scheeper's command, which has been active in Cape Colony, was captured or not. The British have been in pursuit for a couple of weeks. Scheeper himself was so ill that he was obliged to travel in a buggy.

Botha Effects His Escape. NEW YORK, October 10.—A cable to the Sun from Pretoria says: After fighting a rear guard action against General Walter Kitchener on Sunday, General Botha withdrew his principal forces toward Piet Retief. It was impossible to helicopter owing to the dull weather and it was extremely difficult to correctly time the movements of the columns. The Boer commander, according to the British, is still in a precarious condition. It is said if he manages to withdraw his force it will be in a greatly weakened condition and that he will lose all the territory that he collected for his Natal expedition.

LONDON, October 10.—The wholly unsatisfactory situation in South Africa continues to cast out the most severe criticisms. Lord Kitchener today wires that General Botha has crossed the Pietermaritzburg river, twenty miles north of Verburg, which means that he has again escaped the British.

General Buller, in a speech this afternoon, complained of the general criticism, especially in the newspapers, of himself. He admitted that he received General Sir George White that it would possibly be necessary to surrender Ladysmith, but bearing in mind all the circumstances of the case, he was quite prepared to let the public judge of the justifiability of the newspaper attacks.

HERLBRON, Orange River Colony. October 7.—Thirteen of Kitchener's scouts have been captured in a Boer ambush.

SUGAR WAR IS NOW ON IN EARNEST

Its Effect Felt By a Slump in Sugar Stocks. GUT MADE AS AN OBJECT LESSON. TRUST HOPED IT WOULD ACT TO CAUSE REMOVAL OF DUTY.

Best Sugar Growers Will Hold Their Product for the Present—Combination of Their Interests is Talked Of.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The disturbed sugar situation, together with the heavy slump in the price of the stock of the American Sugar Refining Company, has excited much interest in Wall street. The feeling prevails in the sugar trade that the fight between the American Company and the beet sugar people will be extended to Chicago. A cut in the price of sugar in that city is expected at any time. Advice from the West report that Iowa is now included in the battle ground.

It was said that one of the largest beet-sugar producers has offered to buy all the sugar he can get at the American Company's Western price of 3 1/2 cents a pound, to be redispensed in the Eastern markets. Refined sugar, it is asserted, can now be bought in Kansas City and at other points in the Missouri district and shipped to the East and sold at a profit of a cent a pound. The interests connected with the American Sugar Refining Company were disposed today to make light of the talk of the beet-sugar men invading the East. One man, who is close to the American Company, said the smash in the stock of that company, which sold yesterday at 112 1/2 today, was ridiculous, as the company had been making a great deal of money.

Fight in Mission. NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—All of the evidences in lower Wall street point to a war to the end in Missouri River valley between the cane and beet sugar interests. One of the prominent sugar officials said that the cut made by the trust to 3 1/2 cents was intended in part to afford an object lesson to Congress to induce it to remove the duty on raw sugar and in part to compel beet growers to confine their operations to the production of raw sugar. Talk is persistent in Wall street that the sugar trust management has made up its mind to sacrifice present earnings in order to remove this opposition.

At the offices of the sugar trust information as to the exact status of affairs was refused, but it is a fact that more activity is apparent there than has been seen in months. Honorary conferences are being held by Havemeyer and his officials, but no formal statement has been forthcoming.

Sugar trust stock was not so active on the stock exchange as in recent days, but, nevertheless, 12,000 shares were traded in, the close marking a fractional net gain. All advisers were that the earnings of the trust were bound to suffer severely as a result of the war.

Production of Sugar. WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, after careful consideration of the reports and estimates of leading beet-sugar producers today estimates the beet-sugar production for 1901 at 198,600 tons. The cane-sugar production is estimated as follows: Southern states, 300,000 tons; Porto Rico, 100,000 tons; Hawaii, 300,000 tons, total, 700,000 tons.

The beet-sugar production in tons of Western states is as follows: California, 80,000, Colorado, 20,000, Utah, 15,000, Washington, 20,000, Oregon, 20,000.

Duty on Russian Sugar Legal. BALTIMORE, Oct. 12.—Judge Morris, in the United States District Court, decided that the extra tariff duties levied on sugar imported from Russia into the United States is legal. The decision was rendered in the case of A. E. Downs against the government, in which it was contended that sugar manufactured by Russia on Judge Morris' decision held that the inducements to refiners held out by the Russian government are equivalent to bounties.

Plans of Beet Sugar Men. PUEBLO (Col.), Oct. 8.—The Daily Chieftain tomorrow will say: The position of the beet sugar manufacturers in regard to the attack upon their industry by the sugar trust is given in a statement made by W. L. Hartman, attorney for the National Beet Sugar Company, whose refinery and lands are at Sugar City, Col. Both this company's work and those of the American Beet Sugar Company at Rocky Ford began the annual sugar campaign last week and they are

A combination of all the beet-sugar works is intimated by Mr. Hartman.

DR. WINSLOW GIVEN MAXIMUM PENALTY

Government Physician Found to Exceed His Authority.

MISS MUDGE WAS EXONERATED. TESTIMONY OF MANY WITNESSES GIVEN BEHIND CLOSED DOORS.

Second Case Against Winslow To Be Given Preliminary Hearing Monday Morning—Little Girl Testifies to Injuries Received.

Dr. Winslow, a former physician of the Board of Health, was sentenced to six months at hard labor in Oahu penitentiary by Judge Wilcox of the First District Court, at the conclusion of his trial yesterday, wherein charges of assault and battery were preferred by the parents of little eleven-year-old Rose Luf. High Sheriff Brown conducted the prosecution single-handed. Dr. Winslow was represented by Attorney Andrew and Andrade. The testimony was behind closed doors, only a small group of court and police officials, attorneys and newspapermen being present.

The first matter taken up was the assault and battery charge filed against Miss Mudge, the principal of the Waiholo school. Miss Mudge was represented by Attorney A. P. Judd. Since the difficulties at the Waiholo school have received a public airing, investigation by the police department resulted in showing that Miss Mudge was entirely blameless in the whole unfortunate matter. The High Sheriff lost no time in entering a nolle prosequere for the teacher. In explanation Sheriff Brown said: "In this case I have investigated the facts for the prosecution, and have listened to the statement of the defendant herself, and knowing the facts for the defense, I believe now that it would be a wrong and an injustice toward the defendant for the prosecution to proceed further with the case against her. While I believe and know that she was present at the alleged wrongful examination made by Doctor Winslow, I believe now that she was there, not from any wrongful motives, but for the best of reasons and for the protection which she could afford to the child, and I believe it would be wrong to her and a wrong to the Court to further proceed with the case, and therefore ask that a nolle prosequere be entered in this case."

Miss Mudge was discharged by the court. The Winslow case was then taken up. The little girl was placed on the stand and through a Hawaiian interpreter told in a clear and connected manner all the unmentionable details of the alleged assault and battery. The investigation and examination of the girl was brought out in all its disgusting details, and which are of such nature that precludes their publication. The child claimed that the physician was very rough in manner all the unmentionable details of the alleged assault and battery. The investigation and examination of the girl was brought out in all its disgusting details, and which are of such nature that precludes their publication. The child claimed that the physician was very rough in manner all the unmentionable details of the alleged assault and battery.

The testimony of Miss Mudge followed in which witness stated that she was present at the time the examination was made. Witness said Dr. Winslow claimed that the act was necessary, as he believed the child to be in a delicate condition. Witness stated Dr. Winslow insisted on making the examination in order to settle any doubt that he might otherwise have in the matter. Miss Mudge also stated that she had no idea as to what the duties of a government physician were, she assuming that the man understood his business. The witness maintained that she saw nothing brutal in the proceeding.

The mother of the little girl testified that her child had complained of being severely injured at the conclusion of the physician's ordeal. She stated positively that the girl's condition was pitiful in the extreme. The clothing of the child was exhibited and introduced to bear out the mother's statements. Winslow, on his own behalf, stated that he had good reasons for insisting on his investigation of certain female children in the school district. He stated his belief that the girl was suffering from a disease, he said that he was in any way under the influence of liquor. Arguments for prosecution and counsel for the defense were then addressed to the court.

ALONG THE WATERFRONT

HONOLULUANS had but little of which appeared of the harbor shortly after daybreak yesterday morning as the Oceanic steamship Alameda. Considerable local interest had been aroused by the fact that she has been ordered placed on the Honolulu run in place of the old Mariposa, which is now laid up in San Francisco for a general overhauling.

During the Alameda's long absence from this port she has been subjected to general rebuilding. Since last February the vessel has received new boilers and triple-expansion engines, which have replaced the old machinery. The interior of the hull, from the forecastle to the stern, has been renewed and remodeled. A new upper deck has been built. Her deck houses are now resplendent in new paint and the latest wrinkles in furnishings.

York, and the owners do not appear to attach much importance to the fact that they are competing with a steamship line. It is pointed out that in any event the steamers are only twenty or thirty days ahead of the sailing vessels to New York, a difference that is not expected to have material weight with sugar cargoes. Some business that might fall into the hands of the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company at New York is also expected to be secured for the sailing ships on their return trips to the Coast and Hawaii.

Windlammers to Fight for Business. The apparent case with which the new steamship lines have supplanted sailing ships on the San Francisco, Honolulu and New York routes will not result in the abolition of competition on the part of the windlammers, as appeared certain some time ago, when the last sailing ship was taken from the list of vessels to be dispatched from New York to this port, says the Chronicle.

HERE is one thing we can say with pride unspeakable—that the average man in the average town is polite to women. We are not yet so far advanced in the art of looking out for ourselves here in Honolulu that we scorn protection in such matters as accepting a seat either in the electric or Pain's mule team, and I have noticed with interest the readiness with which a seat is offered. For this courtesy we are grateful, and yet some one—a man, of course—has said that he looked upon woman as a mathematical proposition, and I will try and tell you why, in his own words, as well as I can remember. "I saw her when she got on. She weighed probably a hundred pounds net. Her height I should put at about five feet three inches. Her weight was somewhat problematical. Let us say, for the purposes of argument, that she could naturally occupy a twelve-inch seating space and have an inch or two left over as a case of emergency. When she got on the car there was a great many vacant places. She took up her position in one of these. After she had settled herself down there was no longer a ray between her neighbor on the right and her neighbor on the left, nor was there a gap between either of her neighbors and herself. Before she sat down there was an opening between the two neighbors of the width of two car windows, or a total of about forty-eight inches. Neither the men nor the women who were seated there were any longer a ray between her neighbor on the right and her neighbor on the left, nor was there a gap between either of her neighbors and herself. And there was no space in sight. "The deduction is simple. Granting to woman a legitimate width of twelve inches—liberal estimate—she occupies the available space prior to her occupancy fifty-eight inches, it follows that the woman was in possession of an overplus of forty-six inches—which would be interesting to account for. On behalf of the considerations of research and examination, I endeavored to learn the inwardness of the phenomenon. I respectfully stood before the woman and asked her to make room. When she gathered in about two feet of skirting I smiled peacefully. But the woman's eyes snapped fire. "Now, wasn't that a mean man!

Artificial flowers are still used on gowns, but in a new way, according to the fashion-writers over the seas. To be strictly correct, foliage is used instead of flowers. A gown I was told about illustrates the latest method of decoration, and was a combination of the palest pink mousseline and foliage, emerging from the deepest shades of green to a ruddy bronze. The mousseline, pleated and drawn under a waist belt of black velvet ribbon, was visible through the foliage, which, in the form of a skeleton bolero, was unlined, diminutive puffs of the mousseline filling up the intervening spaces, the roses and leaves being entirely composed of the transparent foliage. Another fancy of this same person was a blouse of the finest white mousseline gathered full into a transparent lace yoke and fastened down the left side with three clusters of red berries. This was very odd and effective on the delicate, snowy softness of the blouse. "Oddly-cut Etons appear among the advance models for next season, showing curious half-length bell sleeves and cream white undergarments. The flowing Dioretore collar lined with satin and edged with cloth or velvet cut work. Below the jacket shows a deep corselet skirt, ending at the left side in three-pointed straps held by cut steel buckles. "The Princess cut is employed a good deal in house and evening gowns, but outdoors is seen mostly in the form of a dress. This always is true, in some degree at least, but usually its modification is intended to make the gown less trying to the figure. The Princess, however, the accepted variation of the gown made outright in one is to hem skirt and lower part of the bodice in one. Above the waist line there may be only enough of the fabric to make a bodice belt of ordinary proportions, or it may extend to the bust. Whatever the proportions of this bodice portion, it should be fitted and in this feature, the ordinary dress-maker is likely to fall down hard. Certainly I sit on women horrible examples of poor fitting in these gowns, so I think they are as difficult to make as the complete Princess rig. Yet their number increases. "Mrs. James Castle's figure is simply divine in semi-Princess gown. Her Empire house gowns are dreams also. She has the most perfect taste and the wherewithal to gratify it, and the combination is gratifying to her friends as well as herself. "I happened to see, the other day, the sample of the new fall tailor-made, and it's enough to make a woman come from the Antipodes, even with the thermometer registering 210. There is a fascination about the first tailor-made that few women can resist. One always wants to know about all the new points and in what way it differs from last season's. There are some radical changes in these for autumn wear. I noticed it covers one over the hips. In many cases it has the skirted coat effects of many seasons ago, and some of them show the old-time ripple over the hips. Regimental effects are also to the fore. The skirts all have the trimmed effect, but in self colors. It is obtained by bands formed of stitching, by strapped bands of silk of the same color as the dress. One thing is noticeable about the much trained, almost gay tailor suits of the spring. One was noted with gay revers of broadened Persian silk, but in the trimmings, they are restricted to braiding bands or stitching in the same color as the gowns, a style highly to be commended.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Lewis, the talented young teacher of Oahu College, delivered her second lecture at the rooms of the Y. W. C. A. Wednesday afternoon, her subject being "Wordsworth and His Nature Studies." Miss Lewis was prettily gowned in pink and white, and looked very attractive as she expounded the beauties of the poet's work. A dainty repast was enjoyed at the conclusion of the lecture. These Wednesday afternoon lectures are thoroughly appreciated, and a large attendance is invariably assured. Many society girls are much interested in the Y. W. C. A., and give an afternoon of each week for practical service. The lunches are both dainty and substantial, and supply a long-felt want in the lives of the business women. "Mr. Theodore Wore's pictures at the Pacific Hardware Company are attracting any amount of attention. In his Japanese studies he certainly has displayed the true feeling, and in his portraits also there is such natural expression. His portraits are true likenesses, and there is more than we can always say of portrait painters in general. They may turn out works of art, but one's best friends often have a sad time in trying to trace a likeness. "The concert given by Madame Belle Cole and Raimund Pechelsch on Thursday evening was largely attended by a fashionable audience. Evidently the artists were not aware that Honolulu has traveled far and seen much, yet, on the whole, their efforts were pleasantly received, and all were grateful for Madame Cole's two selections from the "Cretion" and Handel's "Largo." Raimund Pechelsch played with ease and skill, and very happy childhood days were recalled by the choice (?) selection of "Yankee Doodle" with variations—a piece of music my young brother was quite fond of playing on the Jewsharp. Ah, well! We cannot always have Gerardy, and there you are. "Quite a large party of fashionables went to the circus Tuesday evening, and a jolly crowd they were, too. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ivers, Mrs. Mary Widdfield and the Misses Widdfield, Mr. and Mrs. Hatch, Miss Kaufman, Mrs. Tenney, Miss Juliette King, Dr. Murray, Mr. Whitner, Mr. Shingle, Mr. Eskin and Dr. Garrin. "Mr. and Mrs. Amney entertained at cards at their residence on Friday evening. Mrs. Morris Bissel won the first prize, and Mrs. Tenney Peck was the lucky second. Mr. Roeder won the gentleman's prize. Among those present were Judge and Mrs. Estee, Mr. and Mrs. Grimwood, Mr. and Mrs. Lowrey, Mr. and Mrs. N. Castle, Mr. and Mrs. Bissel. "Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lewers request the pleasure of company at the marriage of their daughter, Harriet Layman, to Mr. Arthur Frederick Wall on Monday evening, October 22nd, 1901, at 8:30 o'clock, at St. Andrew's Cathedral, Honolulu. "An enclosed card states, Reception from 9 until 10:30 o'clock, Halekalanii, Waikiki. "I hear that Captain Berger is to veto all rag-time music, and I could but think that it is a step in the right direction. A hit rag-time music is a great way, but music, such as Captain Berger's hand is capable of, we can never hear too much of. Berger's hand is the feature almost of our evenings. "The family of W. O. Smith are plunged into deep grief by the death of their favorite grandchild, Lesley Baldwin, which occurred Wednesday at 2 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Smith have just returned from San Francisco, and this is a sad greeting. "Mr. and Mrs. Francis M. Hatch entertained at dinner last evening. Among the guests were Major and Mrs. Davis, Captain and Mrs. Pond, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Castle, Miss Jessie Kaufman and Mr. Addison Meyer. "Paymaster Phillips, so favorably known here in the past few months, has been detached from the Naval Station and ordered to Norfolk, Va. Mr. Phillips and Miss Phillips will meet him there. "Cards have been issued by Mr. John C. Jenkins, announcing the marriage of his daughter, Mrs. Helen Long, to Eleanora, Nevela Gay, on Saturday, October 20, at St. Andrew's Cathedral at 8 o'clock. "Mr. William Thompson of Theo. Davies & Co. was married on October 5th to Miss Maud Balch of San Francisco. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson are returning to Honolulu, where they expect to reside. "Queen Liliuokalani is contemplating a visit to the Coast, and will probably winter in Washington where she has many friends. "Major Robinson expects to sail for Manila on November 5th. He will be received by Captain George McK. Williamson. "Mrs. James B. Castle and Miss Nellie White will sail for the Coast. They expect to be gone several months. "Mr. and Mrs. Louison are spending some time with their daughter, Mrs. Jacob Morris, of Salt Lake City, Utah. Atkinson have returned from the Waiwala Hotel, where they had been spending a week. "Mr. W. F. C. Hasson and Mr. C. H. W. Norton have gone to Kauai for a pleasure trip of about two weeks. "The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Hartley have been visiting on Pacific Heights at the Atherton home. "A stag dinner was given last Saturday night at the Mauna Hotel in honor of Mr. Frederick Wall. "Miss Isabelle C. Doris of Oakland, Cal., is spending the winter with Mrs. Fox of Emma Square. "Mrs. James Castle's spacious grounds were utilized in entertaining the Y. M. C. A. Saturday. "Miss Florence Russell expects to sail for San Francisco in November. "Mrs. Marston Campbell will leave for a trip to the Coast shortly. "Miss Kate Cornwell left for Maui by the Mauna Loa. "Mr. Robert Hawthurst arrived from Hilo last week. "Captain and Mrs. Shaker are at Camp McKinley. "CHIFFON."

UNITED STATES TO FORTIFY ITS ISLANDS War Department Making Preparations for the Defense of Pacific Possessions Case of Emergency. WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—The extremely interesting and significant news was obtained at the War Department today that the United States Government is about to make preparations for the defense of the Pacific possessions. The officials are secretive as to the real purpose of the Government, which is one of the developments since President Roosevelt took the reins of government. It is generally assumed, however, that a state of defense for these distant islands is absolutely necessary for any international emergency which may confront the United States, especially with any prominent naval power. There is an understanding at the State, War and Navy departments that some day the Philippines must be defended against the navy of Germany. In order to carry out its great scheme of defense a board of officers has been appointed to determine the nature of the fortifications and the strength required. The board will decide what harbors are to be defended, what points, the cost, and make resolutions as to what lands should be acquired or set apart to meet the demands of the department. The board will consist of Major Clinton B. Sears, Engineer Corps; Captain Albert Todd, Artillery; Captain Henry Jarvey, Engineer Corps, and Captain Henry S. McNair, Artillery Corps. Another board has been appointed to meet at Honolulu to report on the subject of the defense of Pearl Harbor, where the navy is to establish a formidable naval station. The first board will also probably consider whether the Island of Guam should be fortified and to what extent it should be regarded strategically by the navy. The general board, of which Admiral Dewey is president, is now considering the report of a board recommending the establishment of a station in the northwestern part of the Island of Porto Rico. Orders have been issued for the land necessary for the site to be acquired at once by Governor Hunt. It is supposed to establish a large coal station in Porto Rico in addition to the repair yard, which will be the most important in the West Indies. It is also expected that Minister Swenson at Copenhagen will soon report progress as to the negotiations looking to the purchase of the Danish West Indies. COLOR LINE NOT DRAWN. Booker T. Washington's Daughter Admitted at Wellesley College. NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—A special to the Sun from Wellesley says: The authorities of Wellesley College deny that the color line has been drawn by some of the students against Miss Portia Washington, daughter of Booker T. Washington. The story, it is said, originated in the fact that Miss Washington could not secure accommodations within the college yard. It is said that when it was first known that Miss Washington was to enter the college one or two girls from the South who roomed in the hall where she was expected to live made some talk, but it did not amount to anything. When Miss Washington's father sent word after the college opened, that she would arrive September 23d, it was found that there was no accommodation for her in the college yard, and a room was secured in the house of Mrs. Brio, in the village. Miss Coman, Miss Bates and Miss Balch, all professors, live directly opposite, and Miss Washington and Professor Keyes, who lives at Mrs. Brio's, take meals with them. Miss Washington enters the college as a special student, taking piano and modern languages. As a special student she is not actually entitled to rooms in the college yard. A Word to Travelers. A BRILLIANT FUTURE.

The outlook for Hawaii in a business and commercial way is exceedingly bright. Never before in the history of the Islands has the future seemed so assured as it is now.

This new treaty will be satisfactory to the United States is assured in advance. President McKinley and Secretary Hay took occasion last spring to ascertain from the members of the Senate the character of treaty that would be approved by that body.

Lord Pauncefoot, the British ambassador, also took great interest in the subject and it is largely due to his efforts with the British ministry that the new treaty has been agreed to.

Lord Pauncefoot has been Minister and Ambassador to America for so long that he has become thoroughly acquainted with the temper of the American public and he knew very well the sort of treaty that would be accepted by the American people.

Great Britain would not lose anything by acceding to American wishes in the Isthmus while her commerce would be greatly benefited by the construction of the canal.

Great Britain finds herself confronted by a coalition of the other nations of Europe and she could well afford to make some concessions to the giant of the Western World in return for the friendship of that giant.

Following the announcement of the terms of the new treaty comes the announcement that the French Company which owns the uncompleted Panama canal are anxious to sell their property to the United States and that the Canal Commission appointed two years ago to thoroughly investigate the various canal routes and the cost of a canal now favor purchasing the Panama property if it can be had at a reasonable price.

With all this good news comes the information that Attorney-General Knox will recommend to the President that any American Cable Company acting under a charter granted by any of the States or Territories is entitled to land its cables any place on American soil.

As is shown by special correspondence from Washington, published elsewhere in this morning's Republican, President Roosevelt is even a more enthusiastic supporter of the Isthmian canal than was President McKinley and he will urge upon Congress in his first message the importance of building the canal as quickly as possible.

With the new treaty ratified by the Senate there seems no doubt that a bill providing for the construction of an Isthmian canal will promptly pass Congress at the coming session.

Committeeman for the State of South Carolina. Capers was a life-long Democrat until recently, but he is an expansionist and a protectionist and sound money man, and on these vital questions of policy finally allied himself with the Republican party.

The Republican is glad that President Roosevelt has seen fit to recognize the recommendation of Judge Estee by appointing Eugene H. Hendry United States Marshal for Hawaii. Mr. Hendry is a most capable man in any position as he has fully demonstrated in his various positions of trust in this Territory.

ATTORNEYS' AFFIDAVITS

ARE MUCH AT VARIANCE

T. McCants Stewart Asks For $150 and Magoon Refuses to Pay the Fee Out of the Cummings' Estate.

There is something of a mix-up over a fee for professional services claimed by Attorney T. McCants Stewart, which has come to light through the filing of affidavits by both Attorneys J. A. Magoon and T. McCants Stewart in the matter of the estate of W. H. Cummings, deceased.

The fee claimed was in the matter of a motion ordering the administrator to pay certain money to T. B. Cummings. The statements of Magoon and Stewart are somewhat at variance, as shown by their affidavits.

Attorney Stewart states that Magoon, without giving notice to him, the attorney in the case, made a motion by which certain funds were turned over to Magoon, and that when Stewart asked for his fee he was informed by Magoon that the debt was repudiated by Cummings.

Stewart then took Cummings to Magoon's office. Cummings acknowledged the debt and pleaded that he was unable to settle it, saying that he was hard-up. Stewart agreed to take $100 if it was paid at once.

On the other hand Magoon swears that he never knew that Stewart was the attorney for Cummings and that there has been nothing done to warrant a fee of $150 and no motion, such as that spoken of by Stewart, was ever made by him personally.

Magoon goes on to say that he was never present at any meeting with Cummings when Cummings acknowledged the fee debt, and states further that Cummings renounced Stewart as his attorney before the motion was made.

ANOTHER SERIES OF ACCIDENTS ON MAUI

MANAGER OF SCHRADER'S HOTEL FALLS AND HURTS HIMSELF BADLY.

Death of Young Leslie Baldwin a Sad Event on Maui—Flags at Half-Mast—Interesting News Notes of Various Parts of Island.

(Special Correspondence.)

WAILUKU, Oct. 18.—Wailuku district is noted as the scene of many accidents for the past two weeks, and there is hardly a time which can be recalled during which so many accidents occurred within a short period of two weeks.

On last Sunday, Ah Young, a prominent Chinese in Kahului, and owner of the firm of Chong Yuen & Co., fell from his brake at Camp V, and inflicted a deep gash in his head. He was riding in company with his book-keeper on a business trip, somehow or other his horse took fright at the railroad crossing in Camp V, and upset the carriage. Ah Young was rendered unconscious for a time, and a stream of blood gushed from his head, where it was found that a deep hole had been made.

On Tuesday evening, G. D. Schrader, of Schrader's Hotel, fell from a porch on his veranda and sustained severe injuries on several parts of his body.

SECRETARY COOPER IS FINDING OUT HOW MATTERS STAND AT WASHINGTON

(From a Staff Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Mr. Henry E. Cooper, Secretary of the Territory of Hawaii, and for a considerable time during the summer Acting Governor of the Territory, by grace of Governor Dole, has been in Washington for the last ten days, acting as a smiling committee of one to ascertain the lay of things.

Mr. Cooper came here for the announced purpose of fetching along the report of Governor Dole for the last fiscal year. Mr. Cooper, of course, wrote most, if not all of the report, because he was the only man competent to write that part of it that covers the time in which he himself acted as Governor.

But that was not the real reason for the coming of Mr. Cooper. The Governors of other Territories in these United States do not feel called upon to send their reports to Washington by a special messenger, at a considerable cost to the government.

When Mr. Cooper reached here he went to the Cochran Hotel, and some newspaper reporters called upon him to inquire whether it were true that Governor Dole had sent his resignation to Washington at the hands of Mr. Cooper.

All of this tickled the newspaper reporters of the town, who have been learning things lately about Hawaiian affairs, and writing about them. However, the statement that Mr. Cooper did not bring on the resignation of Governor Dole had to be accepted.

That was more than a week ago, and since then Mr. Cooper has been attending to the work for which he came to Washington. The Dole ring in Hawaii wants to know what effect the visit of Judge Humphreys, of Honolulu, has had upon their fortunes here.

It is understood that presently there will be made a President Roosevelt representation that Governor Dole is not a fit person to exercise the office of Governor of an important territory like Hawaii, and that the President will be asked to request his resignation.

The tug Leslie Baldwin also had a flag at half-mast. At the funeral yesterday at 3 o'clock there were present members of all the companies on Maui which is controlled by Messrs. Alexander & Co. There were representatives from H. C. & S. Co., Paia Plantation Co., Haiku Sugar Co., Kahului Railroad Co., Kahului Store and Kihel Plantation Co.

The news of the Columbia's second victory over the Shamrock II reached Maui on last Sunday by the gasoline schooner Eclipse. She brought a foreign mail, and as soon as it was learned that a mail had reached Lahaina, there were numerous inquiries over the telephone as to which yacht had won the America Cup.

The dance at the Windsor pavilion last Saturday night was by far the most enjoyable given so far at that resort. The special train from Paia and Spreckelsville was crowded with passengers, many of whom came especially for the dance.

Reception Yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. A. Ahlo. (Continued from First Page.) guests were ushered by Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Damon, while Mr. C. Amama acted as usher in showing the guests through the rooms of the new residence.

The entertainment at the Murphy Club last evening was a very successful and pleasant one, a large crowd being in attendance. The members of Francis Murphy Club No. 1 wish to publicly thank those who took part in the entertainment.

HISTORY OF OAHU COLLEGE AS TOLD BY DIFFERENT MEN

From an Insignificant, Struggling Institution, It Has Become a Great Educational Power.

The Elder Bingham and His Noble Work for the College--Governor Dole's Account of the Institution--Last College Report--Future Very Bright.

THE kamaainas of Hawaii will be much interested in the accompanying historical sketches and articles on the early history of Oahu College, which in its sixty years of existence has grown from a struggling little building with a thatch roof into the splendid proportions of today.

The following sketch, by Frank A. Hosmer, was published in the Annual issued by the College last year, preceded by the text: "Look unto the Rock whence ye are hewn."

"Look unto the Rock whence ye are hewn." Isaiah 51:1. One of the monuments to the foreigner of the Christian missionaries in the Hawaiian Islands is the institution known as Oahu College, the oldest academic school in the Pacific.

In 1829, when about to depart on his fatal sandal-wood expedition, Roki gave Punahou to the Rev. Hiram Bingham, who used often to repair with his family to this delightful retreat for seasons of modest rest.

Some time before Mr. Bingham returned to America in 1840, he generously offered the Punahou estate as the best location for the future school and the matter of providing a competent teacher and a suitable building was often discussed at the "general meetings" of the mission.

At the session of May, 1841, an appropriation of two thousand dollars was voted for the buildings, and Rev. Daniel Dole, father of Governor Sanford B. Dole, was appointed principal. He was assisted by his wife and Miss Maria M. Smith. The first board of trustees was composed of the following gentlemen: Messrs. Armstrong, Chamberlain, Dole, Emerson and Judd.

The school was opened in 1841 at the Bingham residence, but the following year more commodious quarters were erected--a large, one-story adobe building with a ground plan shaped like the capital letter E, enclosing two courts. It was a boarding school as well as a day school, and a home was provided for the children of the missionaries living on the other islands of the group.

"The atmosphere of the school," says one who was a student in that period, "was Puritan in the best sense, dominated by the grand idea of duty."

gent instructor and the Christian gentleman." Under his administration the school gained the confidence and esteem of the island community, while his pupils generally took high honors in the first colleges of the United States.

As the institution grew it became more national in its character, and in June, 1849, it received a charter from the Hawaiian government under the name of Punahou School. The rapid development of California, Australia and New Zealand brought the islands into greater prominence commercially, and in order to keep abreast with the progress in other lines, it was deemed best that the school be placed on a broader and more permanent basis.

The Rev. Edward G. Beckwith of Great Barrington, Massachusetts, who had been very successful as principal of the Royal School, was called to preside over the new college and his inauguration took place in the old court house on the evening of September 25, 1854. Rev. Mr. Dole remained one year in the capacity of professor of languages. Dr. Beckwith amply fulfilled the expectations of the friends of the college and proved himself an educator of rare ability. During his time and the succeeding ministrations of Dr. Mills and Professor Alexander students were fitted for college and carried through the freshman and sophomore years, but gradually it became recognized that after a thorough training at Punahou a course in an American university is of the highest value in acquiring that breadth of mind which comes not alone from lines of study, but also from new scenes and associations.

Oahu College, therefore, occupies a unique position, falling short of the American college course and yet offering considerably more than the American academy or high school.

The institution is supported, aside from aid in erecting the necessary buildings and uprearing the premises for the accommodation of the school as soon as possible; but as this sum is inadequate to the wants of the school, even in its commencement, that it be commended to the private patronage of the brethren of the mission.

Resolved--4. That a board of trustees be chosen, of which the teacher shall be one, ex-officio, whose duty it shall be to devise a plan for the school, to carry it into operation as soon as possible, to watch over its interests, and regulate its affairs generally.

Messrs. Armstrong, Chamberlain, Dole, Emerson, and Dr. Judd were chosen trustees.

Extracts from an address by President S. B. Dole, on the occasion of the dedication of Pauahi Hall, 1896.

Although Punahou school is generally credited with having opened in 1842, I learn from its oldest pupil, the Rev. Orrama H. Gulick, that the real start was made in 1841. Ancient letters in my possession corroborate this. In the old Bingham residence, a small adobe building which stood just east of the place where the present Dole hall now stands, the school was begun with a small class of children.

"Oahu College stands," wrote Editor Armstrong in a recent editorial, "as the crowning work here of the Puritan of New England and his successors. It was founded with the same motive and its affairs have been administered by the same type of men. It is a monument to the memory of the Fathers, a pledge of the faith men have here in Christian civilization and the reign of law."

The following resolutions were passed at a meeting of the Sandwich

Although Punahou school is generally credited with having opened in 1842, I learn from its oldest pupil, the Rev. Orrama H. Gulick, that the real start was made in 1841. Ancient letters in my possession corroborate this. In the old Bingham residence, a small adobe building which stood just east of the place where the present Dole hall now stands, the school was begun with a small class of children.

These ten years (1842-1852) of the conduct of the school in the middle wing proved years of pioneer work. The institution was poor in material resources. Economy had to be practiced in managing the finances. The food supply to a great extent came from the school farm, the work of which was largely done by the boys, working several hours daily. During this period Rice and Dole halls were built, replacing a portion of the one-story quadrangle, and the north and south wings were extended.

The school was at first a large family of children. The pupils wore of fairly good material. They came from homes where there were plenty of books and where education was valued more than money. According to the standards of the present day they were poor, but by those of that period they were in comfortable circumstances.

From a school for the children of the missionaries, Punahou had already opened its doors to others, and it soon became national in character. A larger variety of origin, race and traditions became visible among the pupils.

This development brought various other considerations, prominent among which was the unimproved business outlook of the country, resulting from the discovery of gold in California, led the trustees to consider the history of the second school house to organize the school into a college, and thus the institution received the new name, Oahu College.

The forty-four years of usefulness of this school have covered the greater part of the history of Punahou, and a large portion of its history as well. They have seen many changes and vicissitudes in the schools. There have been times of prosperity and large attendance of pupils, and periods of depression and anxiety. Public interest became centered in the school in an increased degree until it became possible with popular assistance to connect Rice and Dole Halls by the present brick building in place of the old one-story building with its store-rooms and kitchen; at the same time the three old picturesque wings were removed, which left the pleasant quadrangles with their many associations only a memory. The establishment of Punahou School in Honolulu soon followed.

During this period (1841-1865) ten instructors presided successively over the educational work and administered the affairs at Punahou assisted by seventy-five teachers, besides the teaching force at the Punahou Preparatory (grammar) School.

As we look back in the forties, in the early years of Punahou School, there were two young men from the United States living in Honolulu, who used to come up to Punahou on Saturdays to play baseball or "Alpini" with the boys. One of these young men was William L. Lee, afterwards Chief Justice of our Supreme Court; the other was Charles H. Dole, and his relations with Punahou thus incidentally began developed at length into a devotion to the interests of the school, which has been a most conspicuous factor in its progress. For many years, as one of the trustees of Oahu College, Mr. Bishop has been a wise and faithful adviser in the administration of its affairs.

Resolved--3. That $2000 be appropriated from the fund of the mission to more a trustee and the treasurer of the school.

These are object lessons of the greatest value to the Hawaiian community, with its threatened financial prosperity; the lesson of wealth consecrated to the cause of humanity--perhaps the only respectable excuse for the amassment of riches. It tells in language beyond the power of words of the blessedness which comes to those who lift the world upward by the lever of wealth, with their own hands on the lever.

Punahou has from the beginning been a place where education has meant character making, where the highest life has ever been held up as the incentive to effort, where the question what one is going to be is more important than the other question, what one is going to know. I believe that it is essential that this shall be its permanent question in that promising future that lies before it.

The progress of the school has been an evolution. It has advanced in obedience to the general information as to the present conditions of the college, given in the last annual, issued recently by President Arthur Maxon Smith. From the 1901 Annual we quote:

Oahu College is a Christian, though non-sectarian, school. While the courses of study are organized in accordance with the best educational standards of the times, the chief aim of the school is not intellectual attainment, but rather character of that type essentially demanded by the Christian Gospel. It is believed that surroundings and instruction of such a constant improvement in organization, in methods in the efficiency of every department and every instructor, and in the intellectual quality and capacity of students is hoped for and worked for from year to year. As stated elsewhere, the collegiate departments of the institution are not yet fully developed, but the work is begun, and for its beginning there is a staff of thoroughly competent instructors of college and university training. The work will, accordingly, be undertaken on right lines, and as the demand for the work increases additions to the teaching force and equipment of the college will doubtless follow.

Punahou, where Oahu College is situated, is about two miles east of Honolulu, connected by two street railways, besides several macadamized roads shaded with beautiful trees and always affording an easy and pleasant drive or walk. Many of the finest residences of the city are located along these avenues, and with the mountains on one side and the ever-blue Pacific on the other, the panorama is always agreeable to the eye. The climate is as near perfection as can be expected upon this earth. It is never too hot, nor cold enough for inconvenience. The thermometer seldom reaches 88 degrees or falls below 60 degrees. It usually ranges from 65 degrees to 75 degrees from November to May and from 72 degrees to 83 degrees from June to October. The northeast trade wind blows more than half the year; with its cool freshness malaria is impossible. The college buildings are about 80 feet above the level of the sea and are supplied with the best sanitary arrangements. The grounds cover 20 acres and comprise lawn, grove, garden, hill and plain; in short, every pleasing variety. The Hawaiian word Punahou signifies "new spring," and the water, of exceptional purity, is conducted by a system of pipes through all the buildings and over the grounds.

During the last few years there have been planted over 100 coconut palms, 20 mango trees, and 100 citrus trees, lemons, China oranges, etc. Some 200 royal palms have been set out along the walks and carriage ways. The pride of the grounds is a large hedge of night-blooming cereus, nearly one mile in length, upon which are often seen from eight to ten thousand blossoms at once. Adjoining Punahou spring is a pond of half an acre in area, surrounded by coconut palms, bananas and other tropical foliage and filled with red, white and blue water lilies and also splendid specimens of the pink lotus.

Punahou provides a boarding department; but the contention of those who picture the dreary boarding schools of their youth, the like of which exist in too many places today is wholly wrong. It is a family in which the teachers meet the students at all times, in the most intimate and friendly manner. In short, Punahou--Oahu College--invites those having children in other lands, who need change and building up, to send them here. They will have the best of educational advantages surrounded by the influences of a Christian home.

College Baths. One of the most popular institutions is the large constant swimming tank, containing sixty-five thousand gallons of water, supplied from the Punahou spring, and fitted out with bath rooms, spring-beds, trapezes and safety ropes. This is the generous gift of Hon. George N. Wilcox and Hon. Henry P. Baldwin.

Books and Stationery. All text books and stationery used in the different departments are supplied to the students at actual cost.

Art Collection. It is the design of the trustees to have an art collection in the hallways and the church service on Sunday. It is constantly borne in mind by instructors and officers of the institution that it is desirable above all things that a wholesome spiritual life and atmosphere should be maintained in the school.

On its intellectual side the institution is in all departments, on a level with the best institutions of its grade in the States.

The growth and progress of the College from its modest but determined beginning is well shown in the general information as to the present conditions of the college, given in the last annual, issued recently by President Arthur Maxon Smith. From the 1901 Annual we quote:

"Street Scenes in Constantinople," T. Hill's "The Wabash Mountains," "Yan-couver Island," and "Alaska Scenery," and six sketches of scenes from Homer's Iliad, by Luigi Adamioli, have been given by Hon. Charles R. Bishop as a nucleus. To these Mr. James S. McCandless of the city has added Hugo Fisher's "Merced River," and Prof. William T. Brigham has presented copies of Bernardino Zaina's "St. Catherine's Desert" by Angela to the Town, and Piatriccio's "Christ Among the Doctors." Mrs. P. G. Taylor has given an oil painting, "The Bread-fruit," Mr. E. Bailey "Punch Bowl," and Mr. D. Howard Hitchcock has loaned his "Road to Fontainebleau," a work which received an honored place in the Paris Salon.

Several excellent casts have been purchased including a fac simile of the Diana (Gall) section of the Louvre, and busts of Athena and the Hermes of Praxiteles. Contributions of works of art will be gratefully received.

Scientific Apparatus.

Bishop Hall, occupied by the scientific department, contains lecture room, cabinets and laboratory, with various chemical and physical apparatus. There is an astronomical observatory, containing a six-inch telescope, in the tower of Paunahi Hall. A seminarium has recently been received from Prof. John Milne, F. R. S., and has been set up in a separate building erected for the purpose. The cabinets contain collections of minerals, fossils, and other objects of scientific interest.

The institution is fortunate in possessing a collection of nearly 5,000 volumes, arranged in shelves under the following heads: Hawaiian, biblical, historical, biographical, belles lettres, pedagogical and scientific. The library contains encyclopedias, gazetteers, dictionaries and other reference books, and is used constantly by faculty and students in connection with all branches. Valuable additions have been made by the late Rev. Samuel C. Damon, Miss Martha A. Chamberlain, Hon. Charles R. Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. Henry N. Castle, Prof. William T. Brigham, Frank A. Hooper and others.

Locution.

Public rhetorical exercises—essays, debates and recitations—in which all students participate in turn, are held in the Assembly Hall on the afternoon of every Friday, beginning with the second week of each term, and parents and friends are cordially invited. Special advantages are offered in this department and the instruction in oratory, debating and the writing of letters is under the direct supervision of the faculty. The late Rev. Samuel C. Damon, D. D., has left a fund, the income of which is devoted to a first and second prize for excellence in this department. In 1900-'01 the first prize was awarded to Alfred L. Castle, the second prize to Ethel M. Damon.

Scholarships.

There is need of more scholarships; many deserving boys and girls are kept from an education by inability to pay the tuition fees. Scholarships may be founded by paying to the treasurer of the college, Hon. P. C. Jones, the sum of $750. Most of these scholarships are in gift of the trustees and early application should be made to the President by all wishing to avail themselves of the same. The following have already been established:

MORE ROOM IN THE WEST.

Tremendous Expanse of Territory Waiting for Population.

From the Kansas City Journal.

It is not generally known that there are in the United States unutilized areas of land to the extent of 600,000,000 acres. There are times when we are apt to think that the country is getting a trifle crowded and we welcome the opening of little tracts of a few hundred thousand acres as affording opportune relief to a condition almost everywhere congested. But all Europe does not possess the area which is included in the arid region west of the Mississippi. There's the rub—it is an arid region. But in these days of vast increase in the employment of irrigation the solution of the problem of congestion appears.

The tremendous expanse of territory is capable of supporting a population of 50,000,000 people. At the increase rate of only 5,000,000 or 6,000,000 in a decade, it will not be a long time before the population of the country has reached 125,000,000. But the time is coming and long before it arrives preparations must be made to accommodate a population roughly estimated by these figures.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Saved His Boy's Life.

"I believe I saved my (nine year old) boy's life this winter with Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," says A. M. Hoppe, Rio Creek, Wis., U. S. A. "He was so choked up with croup that he could not speak. I gave it to him freely until he vomited and in a short time he was all right." For sale by all druggists and dealers. Benson, Smith & Co., agents for Hawaii.

ON THE FORECASTLE DECK.

— BY MORRIS ROBERTSON —

WHO goes on lookout? "Watch out for a flashing white light on the port bow. Believe the wheel and lookout. That'll do the watch."

A man goes aft to the wheel, the watch goes below and I climb to the forecastle deck, where my predecessor is waiting at the capstan. "Keep your eyes peeled for a flashlight ahead and to port. Pass the word along."

"All right, to below—but what do they expect it is?" "Don't know. Some light-house; we're on soundings."

He is gone. I rub the sleep from my eyes and scan the clear-cut horizon ahead. There is no sign of a light, and I pace up and down the deck and forth from cathead to cathead, with an occasional glance over the sea. It is a beautiful night—the kind that brings meditation and retrospection. The full moon hangs in the southern sky, and depending from it to the horizon is a darkening of the deep blue which can only be likened to a shadow, or a curtain of shade.

From a point a hundred yards from the ship to the base of this curtain extends a glittering, narrowing track of liquid fire. There are a few stars shining faintly in the flood of light; there is wind, a soothing breath aloft, just strong enough to belly the canvas; overhead is a tinkling, musical wash of rain, accentuated by a rhythmic crash under the low as the ship buries her cutter, and losing volleys of water as the waves curling under the swirling cross currents of the wake. I can hear the murmur of my watch-mates' voices amidships, and the regular thumping of the mate's boots on the poop. He is yawning up and down like myself, perhaps from habit, perhaps to awaken himself; for we have all lost much sleep lately.

But I am wide awake—the moonlight and its memories have banished the sleep—and I halt in my walk to lean over the capstan, with no fear of the drowsiness which usually attends the first hour of the watch on deck at night. It was just such a night as this when I once walked through a lane with a rifle and stopped at the gate of a flower-filled yard. And though my eyes are mechanically fixed upon the horizon ahead and to port, watching for that flashing white light, my mental vision is taken up with the vision of the girl. She is facing me, one small foot peeping from beneath her dress, the color roste from her cheek and the tears starting in her eyes. In the strong moonlight I can see the womanly pity and regret in her sweet face, the twitches at the corners of her mouth and the slow, troubled nodding of her head. She is saying: "No—no, I am not for you. We are not alike. You must go your way and I must go mine. We cannot ever be friends; there is no middle ground."

And that is why I am back before the mast this night, hanging over the capstan, watching for a flashing white light and thinking of her. The rebellious heart in my breast chokes me, and the rebellious brain in my head throbs in vain while it tries to formulate the reason of it all—why I, who must love her through life, am debarred on this account alone from her friendship, from society—even from her acquaintance, or who would give my all for a smile—or a glance of recognition, must not know her, speak to her, nor meet her. The strange yet unborn is nearer to her than I am, I and of the millions of human beings in the world she is farthest removed from me.

Because of certain temperaments, there is no middle ground. It is bitter speculation, and not all men have known it. In my own case I can only work out the problem to this: I love because I can appreciate—I lose because I have too much. A twinkle of light shows on the dark line of horizon. I stand erect to make sure, and it is gone. As I watch it sparkles again. "Flashing white light on the port bow, sir," I sing out, glad of the relief to my bitterness of mind—gratified that I had been first to see it. "All right."

I watch the light. It is not regular in its coming and going; it has a refractory, unaccountable quality; it leaps to a flare and sinks to a glow; it expands to a nebula and breaks up into fragments. "Keep her away from that light," I hear the mate call to the man at the wheel; then to the third mate: "Rouse out all hands; send up a rocket or show a torch. That's ship ahoy."

A ship ahoy. I turn and look again. There is no mistake—the mate is right, in his coming and going; it has a refractory, unaccountable quality; it leaps to a flare and sinks to a glow; it expands to a nebula and breaks up into fragments. "Keep her away from that light," I hear the mate call to the man at the wheel; then to the third mate: "Rouse out all hands; send up a rocket or show a torch. That's ship ahoy."

The watch below is out. Men are dawning aloft to the foremast, with hoisting tackle; aft, the third mate and the ship's boys are clearing away a quarter boat, and amidships the carpenter is sending up rockets. But I am on lookout, and until called down or relieved can take no part in this.

With the increase of wind comes a lowering of temperature and a darkening of the sky. I shiver, and buttoning my jacket snug to my throat, resume my walk back and forth from cathead to cathead. A glance aft shows me the southern sky shaded with an almost opaque curtain of cloud the moon is nearly obscured. A few flakes of snow begin to fall, and I answer, thankful with a sailor's irresponsibility, that mine is the easiest duty on board.

First as the changing wind sends the flaming craft, the snow squall is faster, and soon details are hidden; nothing but a red glow guides the man at the wheel, toward the mate amidships, and I answer, thankful with a sailor's irresponsibility, that mine is the easiest duty on board.

reached the engine room, and we are just in time. To our ears against the safe come screamings and shootings, and we see frantic waving of hats.

"Check in starboard port fore and cross-jack braces," calls the skipper from the poop. "Leave the main yards square till we try her. Down with the wheel, starboard—hard over."

Around we come with the swinging of the yards until the canvas on the main is aback; the helmsman is given a course and the ship is tried. A little manipulation of the main yard satisfies the skipper and we lie steady on the port bow of the steamer, drifting bodily to leeward, with vicious seas from squarely ahead pounding our weather side. We are here to, with our starboard fore yards directly over the boats on the forecastle house. A skillful maneuverer; her crew is a skillful skipper.

"Over with the boats!" They are already cleared away, turned on their keels, and the yardarm tackles hooked to the rings. Up they rise, one at a time, with two men in each to unhook and drop the boat back to the luff of the main. The three boats are lashed to the tune of the mate's roaring orders, and not a man is hurt or a drop of water shipped. A skillful job; but he is a skillful mate.

Aft the ship's boys, under the third mate have lowered the lee quarter-boat, and are with a hurra, just ahead of the first whaleboats from forward. They follow the rest; four boats' crews are racing to leeward to save life—obeying the mate's orders, and full view of those leaving the first mate aboard; for I hear again his thundering voice from the foremast: "Keep a good lookout forward."

I answer again, and watch in the direction of the steamer. The towering masts disappear in a thick smudge of snow from which they may not return. As the third mate is in the quarter boat, the other three must be in charge of the second mate and the two boatwains, leaving the first mate aboard; for I hear again his thundering voice from the foremast: "Keep a good lookout forward."

A sudden lighting up of the dull-hued blanket of sea and sky startled us both. Then came the gray darkness and on the port bow is a faint point of light where had shown the flare of the burning steamer, then a shock and a report like the boom of near-by thunder, and with the point of light fast fixed in my eyes, I hear a thundering voice from the poop: "Keep a good lookout forward."

A shiver, colder than the snow, passes through me; the girl seems to move away into nothingness; the gray of the snow-filled air changes to the clear brightness of a moonlit sky and I am hanging over the capstan, still gazing at a point of light burning steadily on the port bow. It bursts into a flare for a second, then subsides to its steady glow. "Aye, aye, sir," I manage to answer, while my brain reels and my legs quiver under my weight. "Flashing white light on the port bow, sir," full view of those who would look, and I extended my arms.

The boat comes around to the lee side. Four men have been left aboard and the boson's chair is already rigged. Down it goes from the lee main yard and brings up a woman. Down again: up with another. Then comes a man with a child in his arms; these more men still till we try her. Down with the wheel, starboard—hard over."

The other boats heave in sight, one by one, and discharge their living freight, then—back to the steamer, and back to the ship. The decks are filling with men and boys, and here and there a woman or a child. Some seek to shelter of the forward house, and stare to windward at the red glare upon the gray wall. One slight figure leaves this group, steps upon the fore hatch, and looks steadily up at me.

We are drifting faster than the blazing steamer; she is now on our port bow, and our distance is increasing; but, as I watch, the black line on her forecastle rail grows thinner and thinner, while boat after boat comes out of the snow and returns to her. Then they come, the four together, and I hear the luff of the capstan where faintly comes the furry of snowflakes; is a slight figure—a woman. One small hand rests upon the capstan, one small foot peeps from beneath her dress. I had seen this attitude in a girl at a gate in the moonlight. The parallel is more complete—there is the same slow, troubled nodding of the head. It is the same girl, the same girl. For, though I cannot distinguish her features, I know her voice when she speaks.

"You would not come home, would you not? Why would you not come? I waited so long." I spring toward her and she advances, but I am still slowly nodding. I forget the situation—the storm, the crowded decks, my position on lookout, our isolation from the rest of the crew of those who would look, and I extended my arms.

quesses, and I had long known it. But what I do not know, and what I shall learn when I reach shore, is the inner meaning of that dream. I shall be there in a month, when the moon will again be full, and I shall seek a quiet country village that I know, a lane in that village, a gate in the lane, a house behind the gate—a girl in the house. I shall ask her if at half-past 12 o'clock of this night she did not dream of storm and fire and rescue at sea.

I shall also ask her something else. You can sometimes catch the moss-back vote with greenbacks.

There Is No Longer Any Doubt

ACCORDING TO A NOTED SPECIALIST IN HAIR AND SKIN DISEASES, THAT BALDNESS IS CAUSED BY A MICROBE. THERE IS A WAY OF GETTING RID OF IT, THOUGH, WHEN YOU KNOW THE NATURE OF YOUR LITTLE ENEMY.

Pacheco's Dandruff Killer

will absolutely cure catarrhal inflammation of the hair follicle; it is the most common of scalp diseases. Nine-tenths of the premature baldness is due to it, and gray hair is usually the result of it. There's no doubt that it is due to a microbe, which attacks the sebaceous glands. This causes dandruff and itching. Then the hair begins to fall out, and that shows that the microbe has left the sebaceous glands and has burrowed into the hair follicle. There it causes inflammation and loosens the hair root, and goes on to another follicle. Meanwhile it raises an army of children, and they all go to war in the same way. The wrecked follicles left behind, the conquering hosts fill up with a fungous growth, and even when the new hair sprouts it is poorly nourished and diseased. All the other scalp diseases are more or less along the same line, and due to parasitic or microbic attack.

PACHECO'S DANDRUFF KILLER will destroy the parasite, because it penetrates to the entire depths of the hair follicle. It then feeds the roots and follicles and rebuilds the wasted tissues.

BISHOP IS A BISHOP; MUST BE RESPECTED

The Rev. William Shaw
Writes on the Local Difficulties

BROUGHT ABOUT BY ANNEXATION

BISHOP WILLIS DISCUSSES THE HAWAIIAN QUESTION
ON THE COAST.

Says There is No Precedent to Follow—Hawaiian Diocese is Not Subject to English Jurisdiction
As is Generally Supposed.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 9.—The Rev. William Carson Shaw writing in the Chronicle of the Episcopal Convention has the following about the church difficulties in Hawaii:

Under other circumstances than those existing at Honolulu, the transfer of that diocese to the American church would not have created any more interest than the erection of a new diocese in China or the transfer of part of Idaho to the jurisdiction of Spokane. But, unfortunately, strained relations exist between the Bishop and some of the clergy, and between the people and the clergy themselves. This is witnessed by the fact that the convention has had to be held at the convention—Bishop Willis,
the official representative of the diocese,
was accorded a seat in the House of Bishops, and Rev. John Ushorne, who represents another section of the church, and was not accorded a seat on the floor of the convention.

This, of course, has no particular bearing upon the subject, only to emphasize the fact that there is a difference in standing between a Bishop who comes from a foreign church and a priest, and this fact will enter largely into the solution of the present difficulty. A Bishop is a Bishop, and the dignity and sacredness of that office must be respected.

The whole change of relation of the diocese of Honolulu is brought about by the annexation of the islands to the United States. Previous to that event and subsequent to it, the Bishop himself owed allegiance to the Archbishop of Canterbury and received his support from the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in England, known as the S. P. G. When the diocese was first organized in 1861, a special society was organized in England to support it. This society, not being able to carry such a burden, applied to the S. P. G.
for help. The society made its grant, and under this support was able to sustain its existence. It is now, recognizing the changed relations of the diocese toward the Church of England, and acting under precedent, withdrew its support in June, 1900.
It is at once evident that some other means of support must be provided, and it was felt that the best port and naturally come from the church in America, in whose territory the church in Honolulu now is. The Bishop himself took issue with the S. P. G. on this point, and saw no reason why the cessation of the island to the United States should alter the status of his office in Honolulu.

Unfortunately complications arose on the subject from the fact that some of the Bishop's clergy were not in hearty accord with him, and taking advantage of the new circumstances that had arisen through the change of relations, they have been asking to be taken under the direction of the American church, with a new Bishop for the islands or a spiritual oversight by the Bishop of California. That a serious condition exists in Honolulu is known to everybody who is responsible for the plan no part. It is also further evident that some solution of the difficulty must be arrived at, and it is with that solution that this General Convention must deal. Like all public questions of this nature, nearly everybody has a solution to offer. Only one will apparently satisfy the unauthorized delegation of clerics from Honolulu, and that is the election of a new Bishop to take charge of the church there. But fortunately, the solution lies with the convention, and the members of this body may be relied upon to bring about whatever is for the best interests of the church.

Some leaders of the convention,
men who have given the whole question most serious thought and study, think that it might be continued as an independent see, subject to the Archbishop of Canterbury. If this were done, from what source would the income be derived? The resources of the diocese are wholly inadequate to support it, and the English society has withdrawn its grant. It is hardly reasonable to suppose that the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, having withdrawn its grant, would restore it under these circumstances. Another solution offered is to make it a diocese of this church.
Under these conditions it is quite possible that the board of missions, together with special contributions from American churches, might raise an amount sufficient to support the church there. Or it might be erected with a missionary jurisdiction if all parties concerned would give their consent. If this were done it might have the possible effect in the future of destroying the dearest wish that Bishop Willis has, that of continuing the see as a diocese. For as a missionary jurisdiction it would be subject to alteration at the will of the House of Bishops, and possibly the Bishop himself might be translated to some other work. Everybody seems to recognize that the Bishop of Honolulu has a firm legal ground upon which he can stand. To force him out of his position is impossible, and not only impossible but manifestly unfair and undignified—an action that never would be for one moment countenanced by the House of Bishops.

It is also recognized that the American church cannot be compelled to take over that diocese against its wishes. The Bishop of Honolulu is here, and is in consultation with the house, and no fear is expressed but that some satisfactory solution of the difficulty will be reached. Our House of Bishops may be trusted to do that.

BISHOP WILLIS DISCUSSES THE HAWAIIAN QUESTION

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7.—The Rt.
Rev. Alfred Willis, Bishop of Honolulu, arrived here yesterday afternoon to attend the Episcopal Convention. He comes in response to an invitation from the church authorities for the purpose of discussing the change in jurisdiction, which the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands to the United States makes necessary.
While not a member of the House of Bishops nor in any way connected with the present convocation, Bishop Willis will be permitted to participate in the deliberations upon this subject.

Since the first steps were taken toward annexation the prospective change in the jurisdiction has been given much thought by all church men. Never before in the history of the church has there been a more complex question. There is no precedent to follow. It creates an entirely new condition, which will require infinite tact and diplomacy to settle.

Bishop Willis came by way of Victoria in order to save time. A steamer direct to San Francisco would have delayed him four days, so he took the northern route, rather than to keep the convention waiting. At Victoria he joined a party of delegates and came here with them. He is registered at the Palace. The contractors were in no way to blame.
While the work-
men were engaged adjusting their pile driving equipment a number of boys were in and around the water's edge swimming. They were repeatedly warned away by both Mr. Catton and his men.
On raising one of the pile frames into position
one of the boys slipped and the structure began to fall. The men got out of the way without injury. A little Chinese boy however, was not so fortunate.
The end of a piece of timber, sagging over in the water, struck the lad on the forehead. The foreman waded in and brought him to shore. The boy was unconscious and covered with blood and life was soon extinct.

CHINESE BOY MET DEATH BY FALLING TIMBERS

The patrol wagon was promptly telephoned for and the body was taken to the Board of Health morgue.

A Typical South African Store.
O. R. Larson, of Bay Villa, Sundays
River, Cape Colony, conducts a store typical of South Africa at which can be purchased anything from the proverbial
"needle to an anchor." This store is situated in a valley nine miles from the nearest railway station and about twenty-five miles from the nearest town. Mr.
Larson says: "I am favored with the custom of farmers within a radius of thirty miles to many of whom I have supplied Chamberlain's remedies. All testify to their value in a household where a doctor's advice is almost out of the question. Within one mile of my store the population is perhaps sixty. Of these, within the past twelve months,
no less than fourteen have been absolutely cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This must surely be a record." For sale by all druggists and dealers. Ben-

SHIRTS SACRIFICED.... News for Men This Week.

The New York shirt manufacturers are already showing their 1902 patterns of shirts. Anomalous as it may seem, these shirts will be worn on the streets of Honolulu before they are seen on Broadway. That's because it's always summer here.

We have ordered our quota of the new shirts, and in order to make way for them, we place the balance of the old stock on sale at 35c APIECE

Don't make the mistake of thinking these are inferior shirts—just because they are cheap. They are regular dollar shirts of fine Madras, solid colors and perfect fit. A dollar does today what it would have taken three to do a few short months ago.

With the negligible shirts we have placed a few fine
WHITE LAUNDERED SHIRTS
which will go at the same price
35 CENTS

As a bait? Well, yes, as an extra inducement to get you men coming in here for your furnishings. These shirts are of "Wachusett" and "Martine" manufacture, with fine 2400 linen bosoms and wristbands, folded seams, reinforced back and front, and with long full dress, or short bosom.

But there are not many of them, so you'll have to step lively, gentlemen, if you would participate in the spoils.

Judge Wilcox stated that he believed that the government physician had

CATHOLIC MISSIONARIES SHARE LARGELY IN HAWAII'S PROGRESS IN LAST CENTURY

Faith and Determination of Old Mission Priests Started Growth in Midst of Tangle of Difficulties—First Chapel Built at Lahaina, Then Capital of Hawaiian Islands. Martyr Father Damien—Educational Work.

During the past half century there have been marvelous changes in the Hawaiian Islands, and in these changes the various missions of the Catholic faith established in the early days have shared most generously. The present prosperous condition of the Catholic churches on the Island of Maui is the result of many years of laborious growth, and the beautiful buildings of which photographs are reproduced herewith, represent the work and progress of over sixty years. The unwavering faith of the architectural ornaments of Lahaina. The building a photo of which is herewith produced, was not done, however at Lahaina. The church was built in parts and shipped by boat to Lahaina. The materials for the structure were prepared, all ready to be put together, in the yard of the present Fort street Catholic mission, in Honolulu, and when the architect and builder, Brother Aguillec, of the Honolulu mission, had prepared each timber for its place in the building, the materials were and unflinching determination of the old mission priests started the growth in the midst of a tangle of difficulties and carried it along through a path in which there were many obstacles; their early struggles in the cause of the Catholic faith were probably harder than those who came afterward ever knew, but out of its first hardships grew the strength of the church, and upon the painfully laid foundation has been built a splendid and a lasting work. When the first Catholic missionary went to Maui, about 1840, Lahaina was the capital of the Hawaiian islands. At that time shipping was flourishing and it was not an unusual sight to see 150 whaling ships riding at anchor of the port of Lahaina. The North Pacific was at that time thronged with whalers, and the cold winters, with their frequent and terrible storms, drove the vessels south-shipped to Lahaina, and there put together by Brother Aguillec and native assistants. Brother Aguillec is still living at the Fort street mission in this city, being now 80 years of age. Father Modest, the first Lahaina Catholic missionary, was at the head of the mission there for a number of years, and at his death Father Albert took the spiritual direction of the Catholic flock of Lahaina. He was succeeded by Father Andrew, who remained at Lahaina for over twenty years. Father Andrew is now living at the Catholic mission in this city. At present Father Julian is at the head of the Lahaina mission, which has two flourishing schools in connection with it, one being for boys and one for girls. Father Julian is assisted by two lady teachers, and there are about ninety pupils.

ward, where in the balmy clime and smooth waters of the Paradise of the Pacific they sojourned in calm and safety until the winter months had passed. Lahaina was then the residence of the Kamehamehas, and was regarded as the center of the then present and future interests, commercial and social, of the island group. Later when the commercial fleets of the outside world began stopping at the mid-Pacific islands, it was discovered that the harbor of the port of Honolulu was much larger and offered much better possibilities, so the capital and the center of island industries and outside interests were transferred to Honolulu.

The first Catholic missionary that went to Maui resided at Lahaina and it was there that the first Catholic chapel was built by Father Modest, which is now a prosperous institution with a large school of pupils, taught by three lay Brothers and two Sisters of the Catholic faith, was founded by the venerable Father Leonore, 28 years ago, the priest building the church himself, and that he builded well is evidenced by the handsome church which is still standing. It is one of the most beautiful churches of the Islands, and it required seven years of labor by Father Leonore and his native assistants to build it. The walls are built of round stones, picked up from the bottom of the Wailuku stream. The native women dived into the ocean and brought up on their backs the coral which was used to make the lime. The church was completed in 1873 and dedicated with impressive ceremonies.

It was at the dedication of the Wailuku church that the priest martyr, who went there from the Honolulu mission, which was itself young and struggling. During his stay in Maui, Father Modest traveled thirty-three times around the island on foot, preaching his faith and winning the souls to the Catholic church. A chapel, with a thatch roof, was at Lahaina through his efforts, and this the Catholics held there until 1850, when the small building was replaced by the beautiful building which is now one of Father Damien, received from Bishop Louis Mangret, the order to go to Molokai and begin the foundation of a Catholic mission in the Luper Settlement.

In the year 1888 Father Leonore was relieved from his duties at Wailuku mission, and made the provincial of the mission in the Islands. He was succeeded as priest of Wailuku by the present Bishop of Honolulu, then Father Gulstan. Under Father Gulstan's administration the educational work of the Wailuku church was taken up and broadened. Father Gulstan inaugurated the schools of the mission, and the brothers of Mary and the Franciscan Sisters who are now teachers in these schools were secured.

Later a hospital was organized in connection with the mission, the same being under the supervision of the Territorial Government. This hospital is today a splendid institution and many patients are cared for by the Sisters and Brothers who have it in charge. The average attendance of the schools at Wailuku mission is 160 boys and 130 girls.

It is among these pupils and the numerous members of the Catholic faith in Wailuku that the eloquent Jesuits, Father Boardman and Father Megvney, will labor during the next two weeks.

The two priests will leave on Tuesday by the Kinau, and will go first to Lahaina, thence to Wailuku, where they will conduct a mission along the same lines as that which they have conducted with so much success in the Catholic Cathedral, for the past three weeks. The Wailuku mission will be held in the Wailuku church, and it is expected that enthusiasm will be aroused by the lectures of the two Catholic orators.

NEW BLOOD IN THE PARTY.

Old Time Democrat Made Republican Committeeman in South Carolina.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Oct. 6.—The determination of President Roosevelt's administration to eliminate the negro from Republican politics in South Carolina and the South was shown today by the announcement that John G. Capers had been appointed a member of the National Republican Committee, defeating Candidate Deas, a negro who was strongly endorsed by State leaders. The appointment was made by Senator Hanna. Deas is chairman of the State Republican Committee. He is seeking the office of Collector of Internal Revenue, but it has been announced from Washington that L. W. C. Blalock, who is supported by Senator McLaurin, will get the office.

Senator McLaurin is engineering the new Republican movement in this State, although he publicly claims to be still in the Democratic ranks. He has urged the President and Senator Hanna to leave the negro out of the question in making Federal appointments, and it seems practically settled that this course will be followed without deviation. Capers was a lifelong Democrat, but joined the Republican party very recently.

After being treated by the best physician for quite a while without relief, my wife recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and after using two bottles of it he is almost entirely cured.—Geo. R. McDonald, Man. Logan Co., W. Va., U. S. A. Several other very remarkable cures of partial paralysis have been effected by the use of this balm. It is most widely known, however, as a cure for rheumatism, sprains and bruises. Sold by all druggists and dealers. Benson, Smith & Co., agents for Hawaii.

CANAL LEGISLATION NOW SEEMS ASSURED

NEW TREATY TO BE SUBMITTED TO THE SENATE IN DECEMBER.

Believed in Washington That the Panama Company Will Make a Direct Offer of Sale to the United States Before Congress Meets.

From a Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—As has been announced before, the canal treaty between Great Britain and the United States has been drawn up and now only needs the signatures of Lord Paunceforte and the Secretary of State, and the ratification of the Senate. The treaty will be signed in Washington in November, and sent to the Senate for ratification in December.

It is now announced from London that Ambassador Choate is sailing for the United States in a few days, and that he will be in Washington at the time of the opening of Congress. I have authority for saying that Mr. Choate comes here in order to explain to the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations the exact conditions under which the treaty was negotiated, and to relate to the Senators the precise personal attitude of the members of the British Ministry toward it. This course seems necessary in order that the Senate may understand that in this treaty England has gone as far as she possibly can toward meeting the just demands of the United States.

With the canal treaty now practically out of the way, attention here is centering upon the forthcoming report of the Isthmian Canal Commission. This report, I am told today, will not be ready for submission to the President before December 1. It will be sent to Congress as soon as the President receives it, and will then be made public for the first time.

I am informed, also that there is a very strong possibility that the Commission will, between now and December 1, receive from the Panama canal company an offer to sell that property to the United States at a definite fixed price, and that the price named will be so low that the commission will recommend to Congress that the Nicaragua route be abandoned, and that an appropriation be made for the completion of the Panama route, as soon as the Panama Company has transferred the title to that route to the government of the United States.

If that kind of report is made it will mean that the Panama route will most likely be selected by Congress. The commission that is making the report was authorized by Congress, and it can hardly go back of the report of its own commission. All of the indications at this time are that the coming session of Congress will make an appropriation for the construction of a canal, and that before the next summer has passed, work will have actually commenced. Of course, unexpected developments may prevent all this being done, but the outlook never was so bright for a canal as it is today. President Roosevelt is a most enthusiastic canal man—even more enthusiastic than was President McKinley, and his first message to Congress he will vigorously urge the subject.

E. S. L.

New Treat—A Compromise.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—There has been no surrender by England to the United States in the matter of the new isthmian canal treaty, according to the best authority here. It is said to be equally true that the United States has sacrificed no principles in the negotiations, and the effect of contrary statements is deprecated as likely to seriously jeopardize the chances of the consummation of the convention which shall finally and peacefully settle an issue that has been a source of danger for the past fifty years.

It is said that what actually happened is that each side has preserved the underlying principle of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, and the new convention will provide for a waterway neutral at all times and open to the commerce of the world.

England is relieved from the guarantee, which in her case was only a promise, and which, being assumed by the United States in toto, is quite as effective. As viewed from the American point of view even, there was no surrender on England's part in seeking this relief, inasmuch as the above-mentioned principle is reiterated and affirmed as binding upon the United States.

As for the form of the treaty, it may be stated that it embodies in substance the amendments to the Hay-Paunceforte treaty which were signed by the Senate and beyond that the changes are believed to be textual rather than substantial.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—A cable to reports respecting the new canal treaty come from America, and the English press contents itself with printing them without comment. No official confirmation is obtainable here. There is no evidence that Lord Lansdowne has consulted his colleagues on the subject, and the text of the convention will inevitably be submitted to the Cabinet before negotiations can be completed. The general understanding in diplomatic circles is that each Government has carefully considered the question and that an agreement has been reached on principles rather than phrases.

CUSTOMS SLUGGERS BEAT THE HALL TEAM

SCORE THIRTEEN TO NINE AFTER SPLENDID PLAYING BY BOTH SIDES.

The Capitols Conquer the Police With a Score of Ten to Two—A Pair of Exciting Games on Makiki Grounds Yesterday Afternoon.

Out at Makiki yesterday afternoon the baseball sluggers from the Customs House defeated the E. O. Hall & Son team in the first game of the second series of the Winter League by a score of 13 to 9. Both teams were at their best and put up great ball. Gorman's presence behind the bat for the sluggers was greatly missed by all.

A better substitute than Elston in "Old Pal's" place would be hard to find in and place where the national game is played. Beside being a good backstop Elston is a very heavy hitter. Raven, the new right fielder of the Customs team will be a valuable man with a little more practice. He is made of the right material and great things may be expected of him in the near future. Pitcher Clarke deserves credit for his cool-headedness and his good judgment during the many critical stages of the game. Nowell, Tucker, Gay, Bowers, Wilder and Scanlon showed good form and wielded the stick to good advantage.

For the Halls, Cunha distinguished himself behind the bat and also by making the longest hit of the day which was good for four bags. Kiwa pitched good ball and ran bases to perfection. Price, Lishman, Kaal and Willkoki are also worthy of mention.

The game was played as follows: The E. O. Halls were first to bat and scored once in the initial inning. In this inning the Customs boys proved their title as sluggers by touching pitcher Kiwa's curves up for five runs. In the second the Halls failed to score. The Customs scored once. In the third the Halls scored twice, Customs nothing. In the fourth the Halls again scored twice. In the fifth, when there were two men on bases, Sonny Cunha grasped the willow in his arms and sent the sphere sailing over the right field fence for four bags, sending the two men home ahead of him. The Customs failed to score in their half. The game then stood Hall 8, Customs 6. In the sixth the Halls scored one more. In this inning the Customs boys again proved that they were sluggers by batting out four runs. The score then stood 10 to 9 in favor of the Customs. In the next three innings the Halls failed to score while the sluggers added three more to their credit, winning the game by a score of 13 to 9.

The line-up was as follows:

Score by innings: 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9

Customs: 5 1 0 0 4 2 1 0—13

E. O. Halls: 1 0 2 2 3 1 0 0—9

Capitols Defeat Police.

The Capitols defeated the Police team yesterday by a score of 10 to 2. On account of the death of his grandmother, Leslie, of the Police team, was unable to play. Joy filled his position behind the bat and Duncan and Chillingworth filled Barney's place in the box. The Capitols knocked Duncan out of the box in two innings, scoring five runs before the Police realized what was going on. Chillingworth then made his debut as a twirler and for the next seven innings the Capitols had all they could do to pile up another five runs. With a little more practice the deputy is liable to become a phenomenon.

The line-up was as follows:

Score by innings: 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9

Capitols: 4 1 1 0 2 1 0 1 0—10

Police: 0 0 0 0 1 1 0 0—2

PUTTING UP A GOOD ARGUMENT

The LA INSULAR OF AMERICA cigar is unlike any other 5c. cigar as regards SHAPE, QUALITY, and WORKMANSHIP. The smoker notices its distinctiveness and likens it to the MANILA of old. The American Insular is made of a blend of tobacco particularly desirable for this climate, in a factory where personal cleanliness is exacted.

It has that MANILA flavor and effect so desirable in the tropics. We give each dealer a guarantee whereby he may return the cigars anytime within one year and receive purchase price paid in full. Dealer can't get stuck, can he? If out of town buyers return them we will pay freight charges. Not much risk there either. But don't think that a cigar which we unconditionally back to this extent everywhere is anything like the cigars made by manufacturers generally. It is altogether different.

It will cost the dealer a little more because it costs us more, but any dealer who has sold the La Insular of America will tell you it is his leader today.

The trade name is registered by us at Washington, D. C. The labels purchased by us of the Lithographer and the cigars made under our personal supervision to order. It has taken one year to produce this brand. It is a PERFECT smoke.
