

State Refuses Approval for Sewage Plans

Michigan's department of health will not approve plans for additions and alterations to Mason's sewage disposal plant. State authorities labeled the proposals advanced by the city as inadequate in the face of growing needs.

New plans must be prepared and submitted to the state, City Engineer Walter E. Zimmer and Julius Hanslovsky, East Lansing municipal finance consultant, told councilmen Monday night.

Action on the expansion and improvement of the sewerage system had been scheduled for this summer. It has been under discussion since 1948.

Councilmen expected to finance the project with revenue bonds totaling $300,000. Now councilmen are mulling over the possibility of dividing the project. Zimmer and Hanslovsky suggested going ahead with the interceptor sewer along the creek bottom, the lift station, elevated pressure tower and water and sewer extensions. Hanslovsky estimated that portion of the expansion program at around $125,000. At the council meeting June 18, Zimmer, Hanslovsky and City Attorney Howard McCowan will present the necessary specifications and legal work so that the bonds may be put up for sale. Hanslovsky stated that actual digging out to start from 6 to 8 weeks from June 18.

Councilman Clifford Walcott and Mayor Alfred Forche expressed concern over whether present sewer and water rates would be adequate to repay the revenue bonds when the disposal plant portion of the project is added. Rate increases may be necessary, they stated.

In other council action Monday night City Building Inspector Sidney Morrison was granted a salary of $100 per month plus gas mileage. The salary is retroactive to May 1.

Ex-Mayor Cecil Hall appeared before the council to urge the city to war against box elder trees. He stated that box elder bugs are rapidly becoming a problem. He suggested that legislation be enacted for destruction of all box elder trees. No action was taken by the council.

Councilmen also set a vacation schedule for hourly city employees. Workers with at least 3 continuous years of city employment will have 2 weeks pay. All others on the payroll at least one year will be given a week with pay.

Post, II, Ygnacio S. Manuel, Jr., Noel L. Miller, Jr., Richard L. Hartuff, Ralph L. Fox, Donald Z. Domagalski and Robert J. Stage.

Tag Day Yields Enough for Band Stay at Interlochen

George Murthum, Mason school band director, and his musicians are jubilant (flabbergasted was the word Murthum used) over the success of their band tag days Friday and Saturday. Those little tags yielded $535, Murthum reported, enough to assure 95 boys and girls a week's stay at famed Interlochen.

"We just can't find words to express our appreciation of the generosity shown by Mason people," Murthum said. "We'll have to show it by playing concerts and by making the most of the great opportunity at Interlochen."

The Mason band along with 5 others will go to Interlochen after the national music camp finishes its season, Mason, St. Johns, Belding, Ypsilanti, Summerfield (at Petersburg) and Ferrisdale school bands have made arrangements to use the camp from August 7 to September 3.

Mason's Interlochen fund is now close to $2,500, Murthum reported, and another $100 or more is expected from organizations.

Suburban Area Needs More Doctors

Dr. Troost Builds Medical Center

Delhi needs more doctors and will probably get them with a new medical center provided by Dr. Frank L. Troost. The modern brick and redwood building is located west of the traffic light in Holt on West Delhi. It has 3 large suites of offices on the main floor with a central waiting room plus an emergency room, X-ray room, waiting room and space for 2 medical doctors or dentists on the lower level. The building is completely air-conditioned. Most of the offices are paneled in birch. But the prize paneling and trim is in the main waiting room. The wood is wild cherry. The trim was made up from cherry logs cut on the Troost farm west of Williamston. The floors are plastic and the furniture is contour-modern. Each individual suite of offices contains a laboratory, consultation room, nurses office, toilet and 3 examination rooms. "Delhi township needs more doctors," Dr. Troost explained. "The average ratio in Michigan between doctors and potential patients is one to 1,200. In Delhi township the ratio is one to 5,000. There are 3 doctors for the 15,000 population. Young doctors aren't content nowadays to start practice in some corner over a grocery store. They want modern facilities. This place was built with that in mind."

Dr. William Frank and Dr. Troost occupy 2 of the 3 suites on the main floor. Dr. Troost said he expects another doctor will be in the center this summer. "I either had to build this medical center or else move out of Delhi," Dr. Troost declared. "The work is too much for the available doctors." Doctors in Delhi can't long keep up the pace unless additional medical assistance arrives.

Counties Join In Developing Regional Plan

Ingham, Eaton and Clinton counties are now joined in a regional planning development.

Eaton and Clinton had previously named 3 supervisors each to the board. Ingham's 3 were named Tuesday. They are Fred L. Kircher of Lansing, Raymond A. Wilcox of Lansing township and Dean Taylor of Mason.

Dr. Woodward Deppa, Grand Lodge; Clarence Farnsworth, Delta; and Ford Twichell, Windsor; are the Eaton supervisors. Herbert Fizzell, DeWitt; Gerald Shepard, Bath; and Douglas Candler, Watertown; represent Clinton.

Frank K. Evans, Mason, Ingham highway engineer, is chairman of the interim committee. C. R. Daman of Eaton county and Harold Glassen of Clinton serve with Evans.

The regional planning commission will be organized to develop an integrated highway system, study and recommend sewerage and stream control issues, residential and industrial zoning and taxation. It will possess no authority over counties, cities, townships or villages, Daman said, but will merely serve in an advisory capacity.

Evans appeared before the supervisors Tuesday morning to ask that 3 supervisors be appointed. Daman discussed the program at a meeting of the Mason Kiwanis club Tuesday night.

Safety Request Tabled Supervisors tabled a renewal of a request to join the county with Lansing's safety council. The joining would cost the county $6,000 a year for an assistant director. The safety council would be expanded to include the sheriff, county health department, board of supervisors, the prosecutor's office, mayors and city managers, justices of the peace, school superintendents, county road commission, extension staff and women's organizations.

Supervisor C. G. Card was named to the county fair board.

Candidate Signs Banned on Roads

Candidates can not legally have advertising signs within the right-of-way of any public street or highway. That's the law in Michigan, explained Frank K. Evans, county highway engineer. Road employees are empowered to remove any signs which are nailed, posted or hung within the right-of-way.

Candidates may attach their signs to fences if they have the written permission of the owners or occupants of the lands, Evans added.

Planting Starts On Cucumbers

Planting of cucumbers on central Michigan acreage is scheduled to start this week, said Ben Weaver, of the H. W. Madison company. The outlook for the crop has improved with good weather this week, he said.

On Friday Weaver is due to leave for Bonneau, South Carolina, where the cucumber harvest is being completed. Too much rain and continued cold weather reduced yields in South Carolina, he reported.

Farmers Bank Observes 70th Anniversary

Seventy years of continuous banking service will be observed Friday, June 8, by the Farmers bank of Mason. That is a long time for a bank to operate in a state which is only 120 years old. The bank is now operating under its third 30-year charter.

Mason D. Chatterton was the bank's first president. The financial firm started business with capital stock of $75,000. In the first report the bank filed with the state banking commission in 1889 resources totaled $170,212. In the report of condition filed March 31, 1956, the bank assets were listed at over $4 million. Leo Harrison, present president of the bank, is the fifth president in the 70-year history. He was elected in 1938 succeeding Albert J. Hall.

Other presidents were L. B. McArthur, who served 25 years, and Angus McDonald, who served 3 years.

The Farmers bank has withstood many crises in its 70-year history. Following the depression the Farmers bank, along with the other Mason banks, went through the bank holiday and were found to be in sound financial condition. Only 3 cashiers have served the bank in its lifetime. John Dresser served from 1886 to 1893, Albert J. Hall served from 1893 to 1923 and then Lucius R. White took over and still holds the office.

White has been associated with the bank for the past 51 years. Present members of the bank's board of directors are L. B. McArthur, J. E. Taylor, J. B. Dean, Reno R. Root, Dean Taylor, L. R. White, Leo Harrison, E. M. Salisbury, Gus Kean and W. O. Hall.

J. E. Taylor is vice-president and W. O. Hall is assistant cashier. Present bank employees are Lyle Riggs, Miss Mary Jane Smith, Miss Thelma Kranz, Mrs. Nellie White, Miss Evelyn Morlock and Mrs. Kay Schroeder.

According to Cashier White, it will be business as usual on the anniversary day. There will be no special activities.

2 Boys Rescue Fawn from Pond

Conservation authorities preach that fawns and other babies of wild creatures should be let alone. Had 2 Mason boys accepted that theory they would have witnessed the death of a fawn last Wednesday. They pulled the fawn out of the slime, wiped it off and within a few hours it was back with the Delhi herd.

Danny Snapp, 13, and David Stevenson, 14, came upon the fawn bogged down in a pond in the gravel pit southwest of Country Kitchen, which is on old U.S. 127 near Harper road. The boys waded in and pulled the fawn out. They saw 2 bucks in the woods in back of them and they heard another deer snort close by. They took it to be the mother.

After they had the fawn revived and dry the 2 boys had their picture taken with the animal. They then left the scene. When they returned they found tracks to show that the doe had come to reclaim her fawn and to lead it back to the woods.

Ingham's deer herd is expanding. Deer have been reported this spring in all 16 townships, Walter Mutchler said. He is the conservation officer.

22 to June 30. Watch for further announcement. Ball-Dunn Grand Opening will be June 29th.

Cheboygan Principal Signs Contract for Mason Post

Cheboygan's high school principal is coming to Mason to fill a vacancy as principal.

Forrest Rinehart is the man and he's no stranger in these parts. For 7 years he headed the instrumental music department in East Lansing high school. Back before that he was an outstanding student, athlete and campus leader at Michigan State. He was the leader of the once famous Swartz Creek band at Michigan State.

After leaving East Lansing high school Rinehart was principal at Harbor Springs from 1950 to 1953, acting as superintendent for 5 months of his final year there. From Harbor Springs he went to Cheboygan, where he has been since.

After his graduation from Michigan State, Rinehart taught at Imlay City, Standish, Three Rivers and Saginaw before going to East Lansing. He taught music and history and economics, music entirely at East Lansing, and has coached basketball and baseball. He was a varsity baseball player at Cheboygan.

Rinehart has been a community leader in every place where he has lived and worked. Mason school board members said. In several he has developed and led community bands and choruses and has directed church choirs.

The Rineharts are expected to take up residence in Mason within a few weeks. The new principal will succeed Richard Demlow at Mason. A few months ago the Mason principal became the victim of hyper-tension. His condition has steadily improved but doctors advised him to abandon administrative duties for a time. He has signed a contract to teach in Ludington high school. His wife, who has taught kindergarten in Mason, has also signed a contract to teach in Ludington.

Mason buyers of light bulbs have exhausted the supply in a Lansing wholesale house.

So successful has the Mason Lions club light bulb campaign been that the supply has been exhausted. The Lansing wholesale house supplying the bulbs asked Mason Lions to lay off their campaign until Monday night.

In their house-to-house canvass on Mason's west side and part of the east side Lions salesmen sold $745 worth of bulbs. That total also includes street sales uptown Friday night.

When the wholesale house receives more bulbs the Lions will cover the rest of the east side. Bob Ware and Bob Colby said. They head the light bulb committee.

Sales of fluorescent and other bulbs for Mason stores will gross $1,500, Ware said.

Profits from the sale of bulbs will be used by the club for financing its better vision campaign, to send a musician to Interlochen, to send a girl to cheerleaders school and to help the Boy Scout troop sponsored by the club.

Shows Threaten Exercises

The afternoon weather report from the East Lansing bureau was not encouraging for outdoor commencement exercises at Mason. The report set forth that there is a strong probability of showers from 6 o'clock on into the night. Mason seniors are hoping that the weather man is wrong again.

Four Protestant Churches Sponsor Vacation Classes

Mason's church-sponsored daily vacation Bible school will be conducted at the Jefferson school for the next 2 weeks, starting Monday. Sponsoring it are the Baptist, Nazarene, Methodist and Baptist churches.

Classes are scheduled to start at 9 o'clock. School buses will not be available this year, so rural

In addition to 24 years of teaching, Rinehart was engaged in personnel work for General Motors for 3 years. He and his wife have a son in the 10th grade at Cheboygan.

Ingham Arranges District Session

Ingham supervisors will entertain supervisors from 6 other counties of the district at Mason Wednesday, June 20.

Saginaw, Eaton, Livingston, Clinton, Gratiot and Shiawassee counties are sending representatives to the Mason meeting.

Lined up for the day-long program, Supervisor Phillip Mills report, are a civil defense demonstration, discussions of safety deposit box responsibilities, dog licensing, growth of the county and county highway administration.

Ralph Strope, civil defense director, has made arrangements for a plane and a ground force to maintain radio communication, Mills said. Leslie Rennie of the county treasurer's staff is on the program to explain the opening of safety deposit boxes and how dogs are licensed in Ingham. County Clerk C. Ross Hilliard will discuss growth of the county and Frank K. Evans will cover the administration of county highways.

Farmers with the bounced checks have called a meeting at the Crenshaw sales barn in Jackson Thursday night at 8 o'clock to determine a course of action. Delmar Carr of White Oak township, is a member of the committee of farmers calling the Thursday night meeting.

Filing Deadline Comes Saturday

Saturday, June 9, at 4 o'clock is the filing deadline for Mason board of education posts. Nominating petitions must bear at least 50 names of registered voters in order to qualify a candidate to have his name printed on the July 9 election ballots.

Petitions should be filed in the office of the superintendent at the Jefferson street (high) school.

Mason is a registration district. Only electors duly registered may vote.

Terms of Lyle A. Thorburn, secretary, and Stanley Holmes, treasurer, expire. Petitions for the re-election of both men are being circulated. There were reports Thursday morning that at least one other candidate is being groomed for the race.

Any qualified person in the enlarged district may hold office on the school board. The district includes the merged district of Mason and Alaledon Township Unit district, and Hawley and Wilson in Vevay and the annexed districts of Walters in Vevay, Dunn, Harper and Nichols in Delhi, and Gretton and Webb in Aurelius.

Farmers Hold Rubber Checks On Livestock

Right now it looks as though farmers may stand to lose up to $500,000 in livestock receipts.

For 2 weeks the FBI has had operatives in Jackson and adjacent counties trying to unravel a tangled skein of financial operations of Crenshaw Livestock Sales Co., Crenshaw, the Peoples bank of Leslie, Bank of Lansing and Michigan National have been called for by the U. S. district attorney in Detroit.

In Ingham the banks are holding upwards of $100,000 in checks they cashed for farmers or credited to farmers' accounts. The banks themselves are in general protected by surety bonds. But the farmers may have to make good on the checks. It all depends how the firm's accounts receivable stands up and what other assets are available, bankers explained.

So far as could be learned Thursday, no warrants have been issued. The bankers called to Detroit Tuesday were told it may take weeks for the investigation to be completed. Albert Humphrey, executive vice-president of Dart National, and W. O. Hall, assistant cashier of the Farmers bank, were among the bankers summoned to Detroit to present records of transactions of a Jackson livestock buyer and his agents.

One Mason banker labeled the deal as a killing operation, claiming that the livestock buyer and agents "floated" checks by drawing against balances which existed only on paper while checks which had been deposited were being cleared.

Individual losses in Ingham county, if the farmers who sold their livestock to the Jackson firm can not collect on their checks, will range up to $1,200 and $1,600, bankers said.

While the alleged killing has been going on for 2 years, the situation didn't reach a head until May 11 when bankers in East Lansing and Mason became suspicious. In the case of one Mason bank, a Jackson bank official gave assurance over the telephone that the credit of the livestock buyer was good, and a letter confirming the conversation was received the following day.

At the time of the telephone conversation or shortly after, it is now reported, the Jackson banker grabbed a big chunk of the firm's money to prevent a loan, thus creating a crisis. One bank in Genesee county is reported to have had $200,000 of the questionable checks floating through accounts when the Jackson firm ceased business operations.

Farmers took a hand themselves Tuesday. Albert Ward and Claude Leach of Jackson county and Arnold Jenkins of Ingham filed a petition to have Gervin and LaWanda Crenshaw declared bankrupt. They alleged that the Crenshaws transferred property while insolvent in violation of the bankruptcy law. They claimed that the Crenshaws transferred property valued at $30,000 to Arthur Poole of Jackson April 3, 1956, and assigned accounts receivable and property to the City Bank and Trust Co., Jackson, May 21 to satisfy a debt of $35,000.

Farmers with the bounced checks have called a meeting at the Crenshaw sales barn in Jackson Thursday night at 8 o'clock to determine a course of action. Delmar Carr of White Oak township, is a member of the committee of farmers calling the Thursday night meeting.

Bride Designs Own Wedding Gown

In a gown which she had designed, Miss Marjorie Thornton became the bride of William Gubry, both of Williamston, at St. Mary's church of Williamston Saturday, June 2. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Thornton and Mr. Gubry's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gubry, all of Williamston.

Fr. Francis Martin, pastor of the church performed the double-ring ceremony. Dorothy Casnir played the organ and accompanied her brother as he sang 2 selections. White glads, pink carnations, palms and cut flowers decorated the altar.

White crystalene was used to fashion the bride's gown. Narrow lace edged the collar and three-quarter sleeves. Tiny buttons closed the front which came to a point at the waist. The something old for her ensemble was a butterfly of sequins and lace belonging to her grandmother, worn at the collar of her dress. Three strands of pearls hung from the butterfly. She carried a white prayer book and a bouquet of red roses.

Miss Ruth Martin donned a pink butterfly-length gown for her duties as maid of honor. Red roses decorated her net and ribbon headband. Mrs. Leland Phillips was bridesmaid in a pink ballerina-length frock, and wore a matching headband of net and ribbon.

Charles Gubry served as his brother's best man, and Jack Perkins was groomsmen. Donald Pung and Ronald Pung of Lansing ushered guests to their pews.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Thornton selected a frock of yellow frosted nylon with black and white accessories. Mrs. Gubry wore a blue daceron dress with white accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of pink carnations.

LIFE-LONG FRIENDSHIP was made when a happenstance brought Mrs. Nora Brown, loft, of Lansing and Mrs. J. C. Piceni of the Netherlands together in Germany last summer. This year, Mrs. Piceni visited her American friend. Last summer Mrs. Brown was traveling in Germany on her way to visit her son in the army. She was having trouble making change with German currency when Mrs. Piceni offered help.

Mrs. Piceni lives in an apartment overlooking a "watering place" on the North sea. She invited Mrs. Brown to visit her on the return trip home. And that's just what Mrs. Brown did. The watering place turned out to be a sandy bathing beach in a beautiful resort area.

This year, Mrs. Piceni returned the visit. She left Holland May 8 on the New Amsterdam, flag ship of the Netherlands. She arrived in Lansing May 18. On June 20, Mrs. Piceni will leave for a trip to Niagara Falls and Washington, D. C. before sailing on the New Amsterdam June 29. The women have toured Ingham county and made several jaunts to nearby scenic spots.

Mrs. Brown is a teacher at the Forest school. While her name doesn't reflect it, Mrs. Piceni is a native Hollander. She explained that she was married to an Italian. Her first name, Collette, is French. Mrs. Piceni laughs and says she, too, is like many Americans, the beneficiary of many nationalities melted into one.

With the Girl Scouts

Brownie troop 419 had its last meeting of the year at Rayner park with their leader, Mrs. Rex Stribley, Saturday. Betty McCann, program aid, built the fire for the wienner roast. Intermediate troop No. 326 met with Mrs. O. K. Pauley Monday for their last meeting, as a troop, for the year. Each girl invited guests for the court of awards. After the flag ceremony, Valerie Brown gave the welcome and the response was given by Mrs. Forest Hill. Each of the girls had earned at least 2 badges during the past month and 3 of them had earned 3 badges. Mrs. Pauley presented service stars also to them for the 2 years they have participated in Girl Scouting. She gave them each a badge sash, which they will use in junior high. Refreshments of French pastry and fruit punch were served.

First softball practice for troop Nos. 171, 160 and 326 will be next Tuesday at 10 a. m. They want to practice 2 days each week thereafter.

Brownies of troop No. 410 met with their leaders, Mrs. Laurence Parke and Mrs. R. L. Nicolien, for their last official meeting of the year. They marched to the dairy bar for popsicles and fudge-sicles, which were treated from the leaders. Upon returning, they played basketball. Mrs. Nicolien took pictures of the Brownies with their third grade teacher, Mrs. Rene Cremer. Mrs. Parker read another chapter to them in "Sal Fisher" and reviewed the log of their year's activities. Mrs. Nicolien announced the list of girls who had maintained 100% attendance throughout the year. Two guests were present.

It was suggested that the members keep a scrapbook for the summer concerning their vacation activities. Plans were discussed as to the closing picnic which will be next week at the Nicolien residence. Singing of Scout songs closed the meeting.

Volunteer Help Is Sought for New Sheep Barn

Leaders and members of Ingham 4-H clubs will help erect a pole-frame sheep building at the fair grounds in Mason June 12-14. The cooperative effort will provide quarters for sheep at the county fairs.

The 30x100 barn is being furnished at cost by the Tri-County Farm Service in Lansing, according to M. H. Avery, county agricultural agent. The company will furnish 4 men for 2 days to help assist erection of the barn. The county will pay for the barn, Avery said.

It will be necessary for at least 20 men or boys to be on the job during construction, Avery said. He added that appeals have gone out to Ingham 4-H clubs for help, but that other friends of 4-H will also be welcomed on the construction scene.

Livestock clubs who have volunteered and the days assigned are:

June 12, Wheatfield, North Williamston, Okemos, Alaledon, Lumberjacks, Gunn, Sandhill and Tomlinson;

June 13, Vantown, Crossroad Farmers, Dansville, Felt Plains, Happy Hustlers, Skeeter Hill and West Locke.

June 14, White Oak, Canaan, Fitchburg, Jolly 4-H'ers, Laberteaux, Southeast Vevay and Onondaga.

Mr. and Mrs. Demlow and their 2 sons will be at Traverse City this summer where Mr. Demlow will work on the state park staff. Next fall both he and his wife will teach in Ludington schools.

Christian Scientists Name Cambridge Man President

Clifford A. Woodard of Cambridge, Mass., was today named president of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

Woodard's appointment was announced by the Christian Science Board of Directors at the annual meeting of the denomination. The term of office is for a year.

An authorized teacher and practitioner of Christian Science, Woodard holds degrees from Harvard college, Harvard graduate school of arts and sciences, and Harvard law school.

A native of Warren, Pennsylvania, he became interested in Christian Science through a healing received as a boy. He joined the Mother Church in 1908 and has been active in various capacities in the Christian Science movement for many years.

Nothing but Christ's Christianity can supply the answer to the tremendously challenging problems facing humanity, the Christian Science board of directors said.

"The world needs the Science of Christianity as it has never needed it before," they declared. "Thousands of Christian Scientists from many parts of the world heard the Directors' message at the annual meeting.

Taking note of the significant changes taking place in the world, the directors said: "With the breaking of the barriers of time and space the mental outlook of men stands out in increasingly sharp relief, revealing an unprecedented clashing of ideologies.

"Materia medica is more and more tracing physical effects to mental causes. The churches are reaching out for spiritual healing."

Application of the healing power of the Christ, Truth, demands individual consecration, the directors emphasized.

"We need to retain the spirit of the sturdy pioneer, to guard against apathy, superficiality, and the intoxication of ease in matter," they stated.

Their message, read by Theodore Wallace, retiring first reader of the Mother Church, highlighted a session at which progress was reported on the activities of the denomination which now has branches in some 48 countries.

In his keynote address Clifford A. Woodard of Cambridge, Mass., Christian Science practitioner and incoming president of the Mother Church, underscored the vital role of practical Christianity today. "Humanity," he said, "sorely needs our prayers and all the help that Christian Science can give to solve the world's troubles and problems.

During the year many new branches of the Mother Church were established. It was reported, including those in Miranda, Australia; Barnstable and Sismouth, Devonshire, England; Dortmund and Trier, Germany; Helsinki, Finland; Asan Point, Guam; and Vlaardingen, Netherlands.

Book Talk

She took to the mountains at the age of 80, did Stella Patterson. Neither rattlers in her flower beds nor mountain lions in her backyard daunted doughty Stella, or so she writes in DEAR MADAM, a new book at the Ingham county library. On her 81st birthday Mrs. Patterson decided to stay in the mountains, where she feels she is needed. She's been leery of city life ever since the San Francisco earthquake destroyed her worldly goods in 1906.

A candid biography of a sugar-cured ham has been written by Jim Bishop, author of 'THE DAY LINCOLN WAS SHOT.' Those who view Jackie Gleason regularly should read 'THE GOLDEN HAM' and learn about Gleason, the moody, Gleason the musician, Gleason the lonely, tormented soul, and Gleason the Gleason.

Apart from show business, there exists in every city a wild life that not even the police suspect. Lorus and Margery Milne expose it in 'THE WORLD OF NIGHT', a report on animal and bird life after dark. More than 200 kinds of birds have been reported in New York City's Central park. The Milnes, or Winchells of the animal world, reveal that a groundhog burrowed in a lawn on Riverside drive, a fox had a den at the Yankee Stadium (not Casey Stengel), and that a colony of muskrats lives in the New York botanic gardens.

Adventures of undersea explorers from Alexander the Great to Captain Costeau are related by James Dugan in 'MAN UNDER THE SEA.' He describes the depth records established so far, and the differing conditions of each. Most of the equipment used today is traced to its origins. He introduces William Beebe, George Hout, Professor Piccard, "Doc" Ewing, and others whose interest in diving is only skin deep.

The political careers of Senator Joseph McCarthy and Britain's Anverin Bevan have something in common, Samuel Lubell says. "They're the voices of a wrathful, disillusioned past, Lubell states in his chapter on the Politics of Revenge. His book is REVOLT OF THE MODERATES. Lubell's campaign reports in 1954 and 1952 marked him as something of an election prophet. In this book he discusses some of the factors which will help determine our fate next fall.

Crackpots bothered President Lincoln during the Civil War with all sorts of impractical weapons like rockets, steam guns, liquid fire, a submarine, explosive bullets, poison gas, etc. Among other things, Lincoln was a gadgeteer, and would have enjoyed these matters had he not been under so much pressure. Robert Bruce has dug out what Lincoln did about some of these weapons in LINCOLN AND THE TOOLS OF WAR. Abe was pestered by inventors of armored vests. Most of them disappeared when asked to make a personal demonstration, wearing their own armor. One of the devices Lincoln supported was the mortar boat, so effective in the campaigns on the Mississippi.

The Confederates had ordinance problems, too. One of their gun crews was killed trying to fire a double-barreled cannon loaded with balls chained together. GRAY FOX by Burke Davis is about Robert E. Lee and the Civil War. Lee, in common with many of our military leaders, past and present, knew his greatest glory on the field of battle. At Fredericksburg, Lee said, "It is well that war is so terrible—we should grow too fond of it."

Today's old soldiers can't afford to die. There's always a corporation waiting with a transfusion stand up to be counted in the biography brigades SOLDIER, the Memoirs of Matthew B. Ridgway, by Harold H. Martin. Ridgway, backed by years of experience, feels that our diplomats are hitting off more than our armed forces can chew.

Alumni Banquet Draws Many to Leslie School

More than 500 alumni of Leslie high school met for a banquet and reunion Saturday at the Leslie school.

Highlights were in the attendance of members of classes before and immediately following the turn of the century. The youngest member of the class of 1956 and in members who came the greatest distances.

Mrs. Emma Johnston, Leslie, of the class of 1891; Mrs. Grace Tuttle Annis, Leslie, of the class of 1892; and Mrs. Genevieve Anderson, Detroit, of the class of 1896 were present.

The entire class of 1903 still living attended. They were: Mrs. Carrie Freeman Whitney of Stockton, California, who came the longest distance to be present; Mrs. Florence Sammons Monyardon of Brighton, Colorado; Mrs. Effie Barnes Styles of Gaylord; and Mrs. Johanna Hacking-Schafer of Lansing.

William Parker of the class of 1911 came from Albuquerque where he now lives. Donald Morgan presided in the absence of Robert Byrum, whose father died unexpectedly Friday. Frank Balluff of the class of 1946 was toastmaster. It was decided to dispense with dues and rely on contributions to be placed in a box at the next reunion, to simplify bookkeeping. The treasurer's report revealed upwards of $500 in the treasury. A committee will be appointed to decide on how it shall be spent.

New officers elected for the coming year were: Herbert Shaw, president; Mrs. Helen Moore Goebels, vice-president; Norman Mitchell, treasurer; Mrs. Jane Conley, secretary; and Mrs. Harrison Carter, assistant secretary.

A trio of graduates, Comité Ward Duse, 1953, Jean Twitcheil

Mitchell, 1946, and Norma Jean Phelps, 1944, sang, accompanied by John E. Bullock, 1956. Donald Foster, 1955, and Ronald Buxton, 1956, spoke briefly. Superintendent of Schools Clarence VanderLinden gave graphic comparisons of enrollments over the years.

Bob Stuart, 1953, led the group singing. The invocation was given by Rev. Forest Hampton, 1950, the memorial to those departed and the benediction by Rev. Maurice Harlow, 1930.

The banquet tables were decorated by Mrs. Elton Archer. The signs were made by Esther Hasbrouck Eckert and the stage caricatures by Harold Rosler. The banquet was prepared and served by the Band Mothers.

Riders Compete At Horse Show

Despite cool weather, there were 229 paid admissions to the Southwest Leslie 4-H Club horse show, Sunday at the Hoffman farm on Churchill road, 61 mounted entrants, not included in the above figure, and members of the club under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. DeLoe Monroe and Mr. and Mrs. Newell Raymond.

Club members credited Bob and Alice Hoffman for much of the success. They first met at Huntington college in Montgomery, Alabama. After their marriage in 1952 they owned their own Shamrock Stables in Columbus, Georgia, and taught riding until June of 1953, when they came to Michigan and settled on Churchill road.

Interest in riding and love of horses has grown in the Leslie area since their teaching of riding and since Bob has set up a sort of "Parnassus on Wheels" blacksmithing shop that goes to where the horse is, when shoeing is necessary.

Clarence Byerly of Leslie led the grand entrance into the na-

Heart Attack Claims Life Of Onondaga Farm Leader

Warren D. Byrum, 68, of 4260 West Covert road, Onondaga township, died of a heart attack at 9:30 Friday morning. He was driving with his son Robert to one of the fields on the 740-acre family farm.

Warren D. Byrum

While driving, he turned to his son and said, "I'm going to black out," and slumped over the wheel. His son turned off the ignition and applied artificial respiration but to no avail. The Jupp ambulance with oxygen was summoned from Leslie but nothing could be done.

Mr. Byrum, a lifelong resident of the area, was the son of Montell and Fannie Slaght Byrum. At the time of his death he owned and lived on the centennial farm which had been inherited through a direct line of ancestors for over 100 years. He was a graduate of the University of Michigan school of business administration and of Michigan Normal college in Ypsilanti. His teaching experience included being superintendent of schools at Onondaga and Chelsea. He served 2 terms in the state legislature. He lived in Lansing for 20 years and, while there, was representative for the Grange Life Insurance company and the Central Life Insurance company.

Surviving besides his son are his widow, Myrtle Babcock Byrum; 2 daughters, Mrs. James H. Gallagher of East Lansing and Mrs. Albert A. Lowery of Royal Oak; and 7 grandchildren.

Services were conducted at the Jupp funeral home in Leslie, Monday afternoon. Rev. Samuel B. Wenger of the First Congregational church officiating. Burial was in Woodlawn at Leslie.

The 4-H club did well, too, with their refreshment and pony riding ring, clearing about $35 and $6.80 respectively plus the $77.25 gate.

Gunder Family Is Honored

The graduation of Joyce Ellen Gunder from a 3-year course in Christian workers education from the Detroit Bible institute at Pontiac Baptist church in Pontiac last Friday was attended by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gunder, Kathleen and Charles.

Sunday marked another day of honors for the Gunder family when they attended the capping of their daughter-in-law, Mrs. John Gunder, at Ford hospital. She will graduate in September. John Gunder has just received his fireman's rating in the United States navy in Japan.

Charles says he topped all this when he was one of 2 boys chosen to ride on the fire truck with Chief Oliver Eckert in the Bible school parade Monday.

A film on stock car races was shown at a recent meeting of Lions club. Charles Lay presided.

The Boy Scout-Lions joint auction was conducted at the Don Holmes farm. The Boy Scouts will receive $102 paid for the items at the sale which they collected; $210 was received for the items collected by the Lions. After expenses the proceeds will go toward the completion of the Scouting activities building.

Several large heating units collected for the auction will be kept until fall and then advertised for sale.

The date of the President's Ball was announced as June 18 in Fellowship hall.

Jane Warner Is Elected

Jane Charlotte Warner, a senior at Leslie high school, was recently elected secretary-treasurer of the Michigan chapter of the junior classical league. She is also secretary-treasurer of the Latin club which is affiliated with the state and national junior classical league. Mrs. Shirley Curtis is Latin teacher and faculty sponsor for Leslie group. The Latin club was initiated into the junior classical league February 29 by 7 members of the Jackson junior classical league.

Minors Need Work Permit

Minors must obtain a working permit before starting to work, according to announcement by Supt. Clarence VanderLinden. They may be obtained from the office of the superintendent Monday through Friday from 9 a. m. through 3:30 p. m.

Rev. Hampton Is Graduate

Cassidy Lake choir boys sang at the reception Sunday night, given by members of Leslie Baptist church to mark the graduation of Rev. Forrest Hampton from the Chicago-Evangelistic institute, of University Park, Iowa. Honored with Rev. Hampton were his wife and daughters, and his sister, Evelyn Hampton, who has completed a year majoring in music at the same school. Parents of Rev. Hampton, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Hampton, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Gualia Chesley, went to Iowa to attend the graduation exercises.

Bible School Opens with Street Parade

Children of the Leslie area were the honored citizens of the community Monday morning at 8:30 when Marshal Donald Haynes halted traffic to permit 192 children to participate in the Bible school parade which marked the opening of the 1956 community Bible school.

Fire Chief Oliver Eckert led the parade with the fire truck, lights atop blazing and bell clanging through the efforts of Bob Woringham, complete with Bible school hat instead of the fireman's helmet. Assisting Chief Eckert was Charles Gunder. Charles Hutchinson manned the sound truck and kept onlookers informed as to what was going on in the "1956 Bible School Power Parade."

Wols Bullock received first for the best decorated lawn mower, Shirley Dexter first for the best decorated bicycle, and Rommie and Dollie Hemstreet for the best decorated wagon.

There will be a community church service at Leslie Baptist church Sunday night at which time the children of the Bible school will assemble to show parents the handwork taught them during the week's classes.

Rural Mailboxes Need More Work

More paint and work is needed if mailboxes served by Mason rural carriers are going to pass inspection. That was the word issued by Mason Postmaster Leslie Palmer Thursday.

For the past week all postoffices have been conducting a mailbox fix-up campaign. According to Palmer, the results have been good in the Mason area. There are still some bad spots, though, he added.

He pointed out that in order to be served by rural free delivery, boxes must be clearly marked with the owner's name and be in a position and of the right height for the carriers.

Personal notices are going out to those mail patrons with sub-standard boxes this week, Palmer said.

The Mason postmaster also said Thursday that contrary to rumors being circulated, the postoffice hours remain the same. The windows are open for all business except money orders until 6 p. m. The money order window closes at 5:30 in order that clerks may cash up. These are the same hours which have been in force for several years, he added.

Couple Is United in Fowlerville Church

Miss Ardis Lavonne Riggs of Stockbridge became the bride of Pvt. William O. Judd of Fort Polk, Louisiana, Saturday, May 5, at St. Agnes rectory, Fowlerville. Rev. Martin M. Walker of St. Agnes Catholic church officiated at the double-ring ceremony at 4:15 in the afternoon. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clare A. Riggs of Stockbridge and the bridegroom's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Hulett O. Judd of Fowlerville.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a well-length gown of Chantilly lace fashioned with silk illusion pleats outlining the sweetheart neckline, and a torso bodice. She completed her bridal apparel with matching tulle and an imported lace train embroidered with pearls. It held in place her fingertip veil of illusion. Her flowers were white orchids and sweet peas.

Miss Mary Barber of Stockbridge was the bride's only attendant. She wore a 2-tone nylon aqua chiffon dress styled with a shirred bodice and shoulder capelet accented at the back with a deeper aqua pouf. Her gown was also ballerina-length. LIFE with the Zimmermans

Time: 9:15 a. m. Thursday
Place: Zimmerman's

Janet: I think we should advertise these Frank Lloyd Wright wallpaper and matching prints don't you?

Zim: They sure are futuristic aren't they? One or two of them look like somebody's bad dream to me.

Janet: Oh, Zim, if you can't appreciate them at least don't show your ignorance!

Zim: Well, some of 'em aren't so bad.

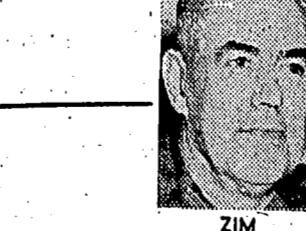

Janet: From you that's an Academy Award!

Zim: Well, I know what I like.

Janet: So do most people. That's why these Frank Lloyd Wright patterns are so popular. You don't realize how many new homes are going up all the time and most of them are modernistic. That's where these prints fit in. They were designed particularly for the new modern home. Can you imagine flowered prints with exposed brick walls or oven wood paneling?

Zim: Are you selling Roal Estate or draperies?

Janet and Zim together: If you have the home, we have the drapes.

Letters to the Editor

Woman Likes Prefab Homes

Why don't some of the city fathers of Mason use some of their spare time and influence to clear up the slum conditions which have been allowed to exist in Mason, such as sections of Sycamore, Barnes and Mason Streets. I have lived near Mason for a number of years and know that these places are deplorable.

They have no time for something as constructive as that, but some have certainly found time to spread rumors and talk about the Snyder addition to Mason-Kessler (Construction) on Katherine St. Most of these rumors are without any foundation. They say prefabs; but look around and see how many things you use are in a sense prefabricated. A house can be as good or of better construction and material for less money if prefab.

I say let the city grow and let's get rid of the slums and not let a few narrow-minded people sell us the idea that because prefabs are new in Mason they are no good.

I'm buying a home in Snyder's addition and am proud to be moving there. I hope the people of Mason allow all of us in the new addition to be proud to live in Mason; instead of ashamed to live in a town where they try to keep new and better things out; but close their eyes to conditions that should be corrected.

Policy Attacks

The attacks upon Republican foreign policy are becoming more and more caustic as the candidates for the Democratic nomination approach the end of their primary campaigns. These attacks have been quite general in word and tone, but behind the scenes we find some disturbing factors at work.

Stevenson's idea man has recently spoken his thoughts and told us we should yield gracefully in the matter of admitting Red China to the U. N. by just turning our heads and not voting. The president strongly opposes this, so the Democrats seek to make it an issue. They are not disturbed over the fact that this betrayal of the only real anti-communist friend we have in China—Chiang Kai-shek—would so disgust and disillusion all the peoples in that part of the world (and elsewhere) that we would never again be trusted. Nor do they understand that such a cynical move would be not only immoral—it would complete the destruction of all Christian missionary work and condemn countless Christians to death.

This man also wants us to cease all effort to detach the countries Russia has enslaved from the communist orbit. He wants us to destroy the hopes of millions in Poland, the Baltic countries and Central Europe and thus relieve Russia of all worry so she can then devote all her time to preparing for her showdown with us.

These and other equally immoral moves are being advocated without there seeming to be any understanding that such surrenders are appeasement on a gigantic scale. It will be interesting to see how the other Democratic candidates for the presidency—and for congress—line up on these issues.

General Affairs

Some people thought I would be kicked out of the corral because of the range rider letter. But I wasn't. There were many who probably got a chuckle out of the affair, just as I did. A man can walk softly and at the same time carry a big stick.

I have been asked about the response to the "Bundles for Buchanan" hunt. The response has been great. There will be many people throughout the United States who will be hearing about the crime for the first time. Requests have come in for more of the printed reward notices. Truckers have made requests for them. Interest has been more than gratifying. Even though it has been more than 8 months since the brutal crime was committed, results may come and they may be close at hand.

Leaving county affairs and crime, let's take a look at Lansing, after the legislators turned out the lights and went home. They only spent a record $329,200,000. That's why they left the pilot light burning. They may go back for a special session to add more to the tax burden.

They had to go home without their pension grab written into the law and will have to be con-

Cadillac

Expected Much...and Got More!

He had heard it time and again from his friends who drive Cadillacs.

He had heard, for instance, of Cadillac's marvelous performance... and of Cadillac's great comfort and handling ease... and of the satisfaction that comes to the man at the wheel.

And so, when he took the keys to his first Cadillac, he thought he knew what to expect from the "car of cars".

Well, here he is—a few miles out on his maiden journey—and he's learning a great truth about Cadillac: that nothing can adequately prepare a man for Cadillac ownership, save the experience itself.

How, for instance, could anyone fully foresee the joys of owning a new Cadillac? It gives a man a sense of pride and a feeling of fulfillment that literally defy description.

Or how could anyone anticipate the thrill of driving a new Cadillac? Smooth and quiet... eager and responsive... restful and relaxing—it simply has no counterpart on the world's highways.

And how could anyone foreknow the many other pleasures that await him... the joy of finding that his Cadillac, with all its quality and character, is among the most practical of motor cars to own and operate...

...and the satisfaction we believe he will find in his relationship with us as his Cadillac dealer—and in our honest concern with his motoring well-being.

Yes, it's a wonderful thing, this education in the ways of Cadillac ownership—and we hope that you will stop in soon for a personal preview of the experience.

We think you will be delighted to learn how quickly you can get delivery and to find how much your current car is worth to us in trade.

New Law Causes Boat Numbering

All inboard motorboats, regardless of their size, and outboards exceeding 16 feet in length, must be numbered by the U. S. Coast Guard.

The only exception to this law are public vessels, motor lifeboats carried as lifesaving equipment on inspected vessels, and other vessels documented by the U. S. customs department.

The numbering act is for the purpose of identification only, and is not a license, or permit, for any such boat to engage in trade.

To obtain a certificate of award of number, the boat owner must contact either the Coast Guard district commander in Cleveland, or any office of marine inspection, located in all major cities along the Great Lakes.

Once a number has been issued the boat owner, he must display that number upon both bows of his boat, in letters at least 3 inches high and in contrasting colors to the background.

Failure to comply with the numbering act is punishable by a fine.

This morning at the market a reporter questioned me:

Q. You're a home maker and mother?
A. Yes.

Q. Do you and your family attend Church?
A. Every week, unless prevented by illness.

Q. Surely you don't take the children when they're small?
A. Oh yes. It's been proved that habits formed during the first five years establish a pattern for life.

Q. When it's raining or snowing doesn't it often seem best to stay home?
A. No. Bad weather doesn't usually keep us from doing other things we want to do. Besides, children go to school on rainy days so why not to Church and Bible School?

Q. Then you feel regular worship is good for a family?
A. Not only good but necessary. Religious training is the fourth R, and the most vital part of our learning to live.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Teacher Group Circulates Petitions for Law Change

By ELMER WHITE
Michigan Press Association

Voters must deal with an important educational issue this November if petitions of the Michigan Education Association are filed. An effort is being made by the MEA to take the office of state superintendent of public instruction out of politics. Support for the plan has been given by present Superintendent Clair L. Taylor.

Basic provision of the proposal gives the state board of education authority to appoint the superintendent. This would replace the 2-year elective term now in force. Election to the board itself, now on a partisan basis, would still be continued. Number of members would be increased from 4 to 8 members; 2 to be elected each 2 years.

New plan calls for board members to serve 8-year terms. Candidates for these posts would submit petitions from at least 20 counties with a total of 25,000 signatures to secure a place on the ballot. Only restriction is that not more than 2 members shall reside in the same county.

The 219,000 name goal is in sight. According to A. J. Phillips, executive secretary of the MEA, their group has passed the half-way mark in collecting 218,712 signatures, the required number to place the proposition on the November ballot.

Both political parties remember the bitter and costly fight preceding the last election of a superintendent in April, 1955. As a "practical measure" plan which would save their campaign funds for "even year elections when more political offices are at stake.

Democratic leaders would like to see the office appointive rather than elective. They prefer that the appointment power be given to the governor.

Like to sign petitions? At least other Michigan groups are looking for signatures for proposals. Chances of their success in meeting the July 6 deadline vary.

No pun intended, but Michigan Amvel Commander Edwin Numbers is pushing a proposal to legalize charity bingo. This is a slightly modified version of the amendment which was defeated at the polls 2 years ago.

Township officials through their state association, are circulating petitions to their control. Much of their former assessment power is now in the hands of the state board of equalization.

A new method of selecting judges has support of the State Bar of Michigan. Know as the Missouri plan, this proposal requires that the governor appoint judges from a list of candidates submitted by a panel of laymen and attorneys. After serving one year, the appointed judge must be successful in an election if he is to hold his position.

A curb to limit the garnishment (forced payment) of wages is being presented by a group headed by Detroit attorney Gregory M. Pilon.

If passed, wages could not be garnished to pay bills due on any merchandise except groceries.

One other proposal is certain. The legislature itself is submitting an amendment. It specifies a minimum age of 21 for all legislators and disqualifies persons convicted of felonies involving a breach of the public trust or subversion.

Watch for the national advertising program Michigan will launch next month to promote our state for new industry.

Keyed to the theme "Michigan is Good to Industry," the Michigan Economic Development Department is readying a campaign based on the $100,000 fund voted at the last legislative session.

A larger cut of the huge industrial expansion "pie" is the campaign target.

Week of Westerns Takes Over at Fox

Barbara Stanwyck and Barry Sullivan furnish the romance and excitement in Zane Grey's "The Maverick Queen." The film will play at the Fox Sunday and Monday. Co-starring in the film are Scott Brady and Mary Murphy.

The picture also stars Barry Sullivan, Scott Brady and Mary Murphy.

This film is based on another Zane Grey novel of the same name. It is the story of a cattle queen of the golden years of the west who fought and rode like a man but knew how to be a woman, too.

"The Bottom of the Bottle," playing Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday stars Van Johnson, Joseph Cotten and Ruth Roman and offers 3 unusual angles in entertainment values. Faithful admirers of Van Johnson will see their "boy next door" in the peak performance of his career as an escaped alcoholic convict, a performance that bears out the suspected dramatic depths of this actor first encountered in "The Caine Mutiny." The second angle is the story line itself. The Buddy Adler production, based on a story by Georges Simenon and written for the screen by Sydney Boehm, combines the qualities of suspense with a biting commentary on one phase of modern-day American high life. The third measure gives a generous view of America's Southwest. The film relates the meeting of 2 brothers who have long since severed relationship; the one to build a ranch empire on the Mexican border land of Arizona; the other, a victim of "the bottle," to serve time in the penitentiary for killing a man in a barroom brawl. As the story starts, Johnson makes his escape and turns up at his brother's house. He has rightfully guessed that his brother, played by Joseph Cotten, would do almost anything to keep Van's identity from his wife (Ruth Roman) and his ranch wagon border river keeps them both prisoner, the tension of the situation is as fast rising as the flood waters, eventually drawing the whole community into its solution—a startling lynch-happy manhunt.

Involved members of the Cadillac cowboy set are played by Jack Carson as a pleasure-loving Arizona rancher; Margaret Hayes, as his too-curious wife; with Bruce Bennett, Brad Dexter, Peggy Knudsen, Jim Davis and Margaret Lindsay as various others in the fast-living ranch

"We are pleased that Michigan will now have a coordinated campaign to promote the state's virtues," Weeks stated. "We anticipate that the state government's $100,000 fund will be multiplied several times through tie-in advertisements by numerous companies and organizations."

A 5-phase program is outlined, according to Weeks, which includes advertising in national consumer and trade journals, traveling displays, a Michigan movie, a television film and direct mail advertising.

Michigan residents, most of whom have a stake in the state's economic growth, can help by plugging Michigan's advantages at every opportunity as an excellent location for industry. A successful campaign would provide through new industry more jobs for state residents and added money for the retail businessman.

Bureau Reports Products Value

The value of products sold in 1954 by operators of 2,328 farms in Ingham county was $11,442,730, according to a preliminary report of the 1954 census of agriculture published by the Bureau of the Census, U. S. Department of Commerce.

The value of all crops sold was $4,104,597 and included $3,373,326 for field crops, $364,845 for vegetables, $113,462 for fruits and nuts, and $252,874 for horticultural specialties.

The value of all livestock and livestock products sold was $7,295,835 and included $3,914,741 for dairy products, $705,384 for poultry and poultry products, and $2,675,710 for livestock and livestock products.

The value of forest products sold from the county's farms was $42,388.

Information on the value of farm products sold is presented for each county in a preliminary state report, copies of which may be purchased from the Bureau of the Census, Washington 25, D. C., at 10c each.

Friday and Saturday double bill at the Fox theatre features pictures from out of the west. They are different, though. In the first the Bowery Boys give Las Vegas a going over with their comedy routines. The second is a Zane Grey classic, "Robber's Roost."

Leo Gorcey and Huntz Hall star in their latest Bowery Boys comedy for Allied Artists, "Crashing Las Vegas," with David Condon and Jimmy Murphy, a newcomer, as other members of the group and Mary Castle in the feminine lead.

Winning an expense-paid trip to Las Vegas on a TV giveaway show, the boys almost break every casino in the Nevada resort when Sach develops the uncanny ability to guess winning numbers before they show up on the wheel.

That dean of Western action stories, the late Zane Grey, who wrote more than a hundred novels of the Old West, is the author of "Robber's Roost." This story of rival gangs of rustlers deliberately pitted against each other, reveals the master story teller Zane Grey at his best, and unlike many another of his tales, "Robber's Roost" has never before been told on the screen.

The picture stars George Montgomery with Richard Boone, Sylvia Findley, Bruce Bennett, Peter Graves and Tony Romano in featured roles. Bruce Bennett, cast as a one-active ranch owner, now confined to a wheel chair, who decides to protect his vast herd of cattle by hiring 2 of the West's toughest gangs of rustlers as overseers. He counts on their distrust of each other to act as a prevention against his cattle being stolen.

Among one group of rustlers headed by Richard Boone, is a strangely silent, crack-shot, straight-forward fellow, seemingly out of place with the gang of cut-throats. This is Montgomery's role; a man who secretly joins the gang to avenge his wife and child's deaths when that same gang raided his ranch a few months earlier.

The western atmosphere carries over to Sunday and Monday at the Fox theatre when "The Maverick Queen" takes over. Barbara Stanwyck has the title

Farmer-Peck's Wife

Happiness goes with business. Sally decides on no frills. A surprise picnic with Pete.

This is another wonderful morning! You know, it doesn't take much effort to be happy on a morning like this. You'd have to be a pure undiluted pickle-puss not to be!

The air is alive with the fragrance of flowering currant wafting in through the open windows . . . and with it fond memories of a tiny blond girl. For it was Evelyn Scott who gave me a bouquet of them as a first grader at Meacham school. (East of Banister). They rooted and I planted one under our bedroom window and another beneath the dining room windows. Each year they fill the yard with their perfume.

Evelyn graduates from Elsie high school this year but that bouquet has lasted all these years. She is in my teenage class of girls at the Bannister Methodist Sunday school. She knocks the theory into a cocked hat that an only child is a spoiled child for you'd have to go a long ways to find anyone nicer!

In that same first grade class were Carole Chmiko and Dick Peters. Carole also is a member of Elsie's this year's graduating class. Dick is in the navy. He is married and his wife, Mary Jean, attends our church.

You have to be busy to be really happy, I do believe. If that is true then that would account for the happiness around here this morning.

Everyone is as busy as a beaver . . . even Sammy. He is going around the yard with his wagon picking up grass left in waddy bunches by the lawn mower. Two puppies, a dog and several cats are helping him. It surely makes a nice picture. It is so easy to smile watching our small son romp like that; another memory to file away.

Sally is ironing. She is getting pretty good at it and, oh, how it does help. Both girls have ironed towels and hankies for a long time but this is hard stuff, everything but daddy's white shirts.

I spoke of that when we bought it but she insisted it was just what she wanted.

Now someday she'll find out for herself that some things are worth having and working for . . . even if they are difficult. The easiest way out isn't the most satisfying, in the long run, in all cases.

Susy is doing the eggs. She is singing away to beat the band in the basement. It sounds so cheerful.

The girls had their choice of several jobs to be done this morning. It seems it is a lot more fun to do something if you can pick it instead of being asked or told.

When this is done . . . and I'm hurrying . . . there are overalls to patch and more lawn to mow. There are several other things needing attention but we are going to call a halt at 11:30.

Dinner is in the oven. Unless something unforeseen comes up (and I'm wise enough now to include that) we're going to bundle our dinner into the car and go over to the other place back by the ditch and eat there with Pete. He'll be kind of surprised because he knew we had so many things to do today. Like spray trees, freeze asparagus, mow yard, this column, do eggs, tend to 800 young and old chickens and wash car and iron and a 4-H meeting tonight and I mentioned vaguely that there were letters unnumbered to answer.

But we intend to see what kind of birds those are which he has been telling about. They are small long-legged shore birds. He says there are several other kinds he has never seen before either.

A surprise! A picnic! Bird adventuring! It may not be the most exciting trip in the world but for a bushel of us Pecks it is first-rate.

Summer Is Due to Arrive At 5:24 a. m. on June 21

Summer will arrive astronomically at 5:24 a. m. Thursday, June 21, according to University of Michigan astronomer Hazel M. Losh. She won't make any guarantees about June's temperatures, however.

The sun has been steadily climbing north, and on the 21st will reach the summer solstice, 23 1/2 degrees from the equator, most northerly point reached by the sun in its apparent yearly journey, Professor Losh explained.

On that day we'll have our longest daylight, 15 hours, and shortest night, 9 hours, she added.

But we won't be having our warmest days even though we'll be having our longest, said the astronomer. The peak heat of the season usually comes from 4 to 6 weeks later, because the temperature continues to rise as long as more heat is received during the day than is lost at night.

Luckily we are farthest from the sun during our summer and nearest to it during the winter so our seasons are a little milder than those of the southern hemisphere, she explained. And because the earth is moving a little more slowly in its orbit around the sun during the summer, this season is slightly longer than the winter—even this year's winter, she maintained.

Moving on to constellations of the month, Professor Losh mentions particularly Scorpio, with its bright red star, Antares, rising around sunset in the south-east.

The Scorpion can be picked out easily as a line of stars curving up like a giant celestial fishhook. Unlike many of the other constellations it actually looks something like the figure it's supposed to represent.

Antares is one of the most interesting stars in the sky, the professor says, and its name means "rival of Mars."

"Those who named Antares probably didn't dream that it is really no rival of Mars at all, but a great sun, different from the planet in every way but appearance," she said.

Antares is so large that Mars and its whole orbit around the sun could be placed in the star

Rose Plantings Can Be Added

People can still add roses to their flower gardens this year, M. H. Avery, county agricultural agent, said.

Potted roses may be planted at any time during the year although the season for planting dormant roses is over.

Four types of roses seem to fit Michigan conditions well. They are hybrid tea varieties, Red Radiance, Crimson Glory, Etolle De Holland, and Edouard. The first 3 are red roses. Etouille is rose color, Etouille is yellow and Mme. Bouche white.

Large flowered varieties are Peace, Diamond Jubilee, Katherine Marshall (pink), Opera (red), Rex Anderson (white), Volcana (red) and Mandalay (yellow).

Floribunda varieties are improved La Fayette (red), Circus (yellow and red), Jimmy Cricket (orange), Fashion (red to yellow), Vogue (rose-red), Spartan (orange) and Pink Bountiful (pink).

Everblooming climbing varieties available are New Blaze (red), Dr. J. H. Nicolas (pink), Paragon (red), Climbing Summer Snow (white), Climbing Goldlocks (yellow) and Gladiator (red).

Home Schools Offer Opportunities

There used to be a theory widely held that school districts should always go outside to hire teachers. The theory was that the teacher from the home town might be handicapped by close acquaintance with pupils and parents, that personalities would interfere with school work.

That theory has been disproved many times and nowhere more emphatically than at Dansville. Most people believe that one of the primary reasons for the high level of attainment at Dansville is a policy of hiring teachers known in the community and whose training or experience lead school executives to believe that they have something extra to give to pupils. That something extra includes a personal knowledge of and interest in boys and girls as friends and neighbors. Home town teachers know the backgrounds of their pupils. They know aptitudes and attitudes. These teachers, if they are of the right calibre, have a distinct advantage over comparative strangers in the community. They generally have greater influence, because their roots are down in the community.

If a teacher has the right qualifications he or she can do effective work close to home. The school board which doesn't hire a good teacher only because he or she was brought up in the district is denying fair consideration to the teacher and to the pupils.

See what the Dansville district has done with a policy of hiring good teachers even though they happen to have come from Dansville.

A Needed Ballot Reform

For 2 years various volunteer and paid committees worked on changes in Michigan's election laws. All the changes recommended were not made. All the changes which were made by the legislature were not recommended by the study committees. There is some doubt about the need or about the workability of some of the changes. But on one change there should be unanimous agreement. That was to make it tougher for fringe parties to clutter up the general election ballots.

Year after year under the old law a few people, usually the same half-dozen, would meet to nominate each other for state office. They knew they had no chance to elect anyone. They never put on a campaign. They just added to election costs and confusion.

Here in Ingham county in 1954 there were 57,690 ballots cast for governor. The Prohibition party cast 183, the Socialist Labor party cast 14 and the Socialist Workers just 9.

To permit 23 people to list candidates on the election ballots and voting machine labels the cost ran high. There was the extra cost of the 2 added columns. There was the added danger of confusing voters. There was the added chance to make mistakes in counting the ballots and in canvassing.

The election law change which eliminates 2 of the minor parties will save confusion and money. It will not deny any party entitled to recognition as a legitimate party of an opportunity to gain and to hold a place on the ballot. It is a welcome change — one long overdue.

Learning by Doing

Leslie Future Farmers of America are engaged in an unique project. They bought a rundown farm. It was known as the Wild Eighty, just over the line in Rives township of Jackson county.

Upon that farm the Leslie students are putting their conservation and farming lessons into practice. They are reforesting the fields which will profitably grow no other crops. They are checking erosion. They are bringing the farm back into production, not necessarily for cash crops such as corn and wheat and beans, but to give it value if even only for recreation.

Agriculture students in every school could well adopt the Leslie program. They can prove to themselves and for themselves the theories set forth in their textbooks. In addition, they can learn the lesson that farmers above all others practice — the lesson of community cooperation.

What Is a Farm Family?

Mr. and Mrs. Abe Cohn on a recent trip to Minnesota passed hundreds of farm homes in Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota. They saw men and women and children in the fields. They asked themselves, "What is a Farm Family?"

In Minnesota they found the answer — in an advertisement by Cargill, Inc., in a Minneapolis newspaper.

This is the answer:
No one can say exactly, but...
To the highway traveler, they're people who never stop working.

To city people, they're often a mystery.
A congressman views them as let's-wait-and-see, independent voters.

An artist delights in the strength and character of their faces.
Their neighbors know they're always ready to help in time of need.

To their church, they're people with a strong, abiding faith.
To the county agent, they're wonderful, yet sometimes exasperating, folks.

Feed dealers respect them as shrewd buyers.
To the State Fair, they're fun-loving, yet eager learners.

To America, they're the backbone.
The world marvels at their production miracles.

To the lonely places they bring friendship, laughter and hard work.
The small-town editor sees them as warm, human people — the face of America.

To each other they are everything.

Lightning Rods Mean Little

Why don't farmers protect their buildings with lightning rods as they used to?

Because lightning rods, unless they are properly grounded, do more harm than good. Because lightning now has better targets in power line transformers.

The Ingham County Farmers Mutual used to quote a lower insurance rate for rodged farm buildings, until experience proved that the loss ratio on rodged buildings was the same as on unrodged buildings.

That's why farmers don't rely as much on lightning rods as they used to.

Down by the SYCAMORE

Revival for both soul and body is offered at the Aurelius Baptist church. I nourished my body on fried chicken there last Thursday night and also nourished my soul by eating at the same table as Pastor Robert Worgul, his attractive wife and 2 children. Mrs. Worgul actually sparkles with good looks and graciousness.

The pastor has a hobby. He collects clippings of news items about people with unusual names. He probably got the idea from reading Pilgrim's Progress — Great Heart, Mr. Malice, Love-Lust, Mrs. Timorous, Mrs. Light-mind and Mr. Lechery. He had just run across an item about a man named Higball being arrested for drunk driving.

In the Free Methodist magazine that night I read an item concerning Dr. H. Hinton Askew, an evangelist, which must mean an evangelist with a wry look, indicating scorn, contempt or envy. Of course, that's a contrast between name and action, not harmony as was the case with Brother Higball.

Telephone books offer interesting names as well as numbers. I guess I have said it before; the name of Temple Christian in the Mason phone book actually seems to ring. I hear those temple bells on the road to Mandalay. Then there's Caroline Countess, which has a distinguished ring, and John Angell, which gives off the sound of whirring wings, and Allen Adsit, who ought to be an accountant.

Last Friday and again Monday, the Ingham County News received letters from R. Dale Law of Grand Rapids. Yes, he's a lawyer.

If you're a fundamentalist you ought to be concerned that Cain and Abel both dwell in Mason and their names are listed in the telephone book — Clayton Cain and R. V. Abel and they've never even made a pass at one another.

The most hearing news I picked up at the Leslie school reunion at which I was a guest of my wife is that Willie Wardowski has switched from chemical engineering to pomology at Michigan State. Somehow I felt sad to see a young man who had gained so much experience raising and marketing fruit and vegetables go into any kind of engineering that would take him off the land.

Michigan people don't have to go to New England to see covered bridges. There are 4 such bridges in Michigan and not far from Mason. There are 2 in Kent county, north of Lowell and Saranac, one in Keene township of Ionia county and another over the St. Joseph river north of Centerville. The Fallsburg bridge near Lowell was built in 1862. White's bridge near Saranac in 1867. Both span the Flat river. There's also a covered bridge at Ada but it is now closed to vehicular traffic.

If you can afford to eat expensive pancakes, buy a pound of Wild Rice pancake flour at the IGA store. The price is 73c but you may call it a good investment. Last summer I watched Indians harvest the crop in Minnesota and it's a costly process. It takes an Indian brave and 4 squaws an hour to harvest a pound. The brave sits in the rear of a boat, with 2 squaws at the oars and 2 others with sticks to knock the grain into the boat. The brave commands.

Vernon J. Brown doesn't know whether he or Paul Oesterle's dog is psychic — or both.

Taffy had 6 pups ready for weaning. Paul said he would have to get rid of them but Neighbor Brown gave no indication that he was interested, and he wasn't. Saturday afternoon while plowing down wild oats at the back of the farm, he suddenly decided he ought to take a couple of pups. When he went up to the house he fixed an abandoned chicken coop to serve as a kennel. He went to the house for supper, intending to go to the Oesterle house a quarter-mile away after supper to dicker for the pups.

His supper was interrupted. Under a car in the garage was something moving. He investigated. What he found were 2 of the Oesterle pups. Paul said that on Saturday afternoon while his neighbor was plowing he noticed his dog Taffy take all 6 of her pups for a stroll through fields to the south. She returned with only 4, after leaving off 2 at the Brown garage.

Did Vernon J. Brown receive through mental telepathy the message that before nightfall he would have 2 pups to provide for and so he'd better fix the kennel? Or did the dog receive through mental telepathy the message that her neighbor would give a good home to 2 of her pups and so she made delivery of them?

Both Taffy and Vernon J. Brown want to know. If you have any ideas, speak up, or send them by telepathy to Taffy or to V. J.

Avery Gives a Testimonial to Cows

By M. H. AVERY
County Agricultural Agent

For many years when people thought about cows they usually pictured a now world-famous Chicago cow that started one of the greatest fires in history. Mrs. O'Leary, back in 1871, the legend goes, apparently wasn't too gentle one night while doing the milking. Bossie showed her resentment by kicking up her heels, knocking over a kerosene lantern and starting a fire which just about put Chicago out of existence.

Since that day in 1871 Chicago has come back pretty strong and is now a massive area of brick and concrete. The cow, on the other hand, moved out of Chicago and has become famous for other reasons.

Today you and I hate Bossie as a queen because we know she produces nature's most nearly perfect food. If we'll drink at least 3 glasses of milk every day, we can give thanks to the cow that we sleep better, that we find it easier to relax, that we can lose our paunches on a high protein milk diet—and in general, that we can enjoy our meals more because Bossie's milk is used to make a variety of products that add up to pleasant as well as healthful eating. We can thank Bossie, too, for the fact that she makes a tremendous contribution to the health and welfare of our nation at an extremely low cost. Did you know that dairy foods provide 30% of our nutritional needs, but cost us only 15 cents out of each food dollar? That's a fact produced by the U. S. department of agriculture, and it's been made possible because dairy farmers and the dairy industry have the black or brown cow which eats green grass and turns out white milk very efficiently.

In this country we have a "cow economy" so far as agriculture is concerned. Let's see what this means:

Here in the United States a large portion of our agricultural land is devoted to livestock. Our farmers raise grass and soil-building crops such as alfalfa which they feed to animals. The animals in turn help to build the soil which grows the crops that feed them.

The result of all this is that our livestock agriculture is helping to preserve our soil resources for the future while providing us with foods that are rich in protein, vitamins and minerals. Our people are healthier than the people whose economies are based on cereals.

Compare our wealth and health with that of the Asian countries where livestock agriculture is of minor importance. China and India have rice economies. Years ago they used large areas of land which they must now struggle to restore to production. They are dependent upon human wastes for fertilizer. Or, to make the comparison more personal, consider whether you would enjoy giving up the type of varied diet we have in the United States—a good thick steak, a salad topped off with a cheese dressing, fresh green beans made better with butter, ice cream for dessert and a good tall glass of cold milk—compare that with a meal that is a variation of cereals, without milk to add more flavor to them!

Yes, we've come a long way since those days when Mrs. O'Leary's use to keep their own cows in their backyards in order to supply the family with milk, or a dairy farmer on the outskirts of town brought in a can of milk from which he ladled supplies for his customers.

We've become a nation of specialists. It wasn't too many decades ago that half or more of our people lived on farms and produced just enough food for themselves and one or two people in the cities. Today one farmer produces enough to feed 17 other people.

Dairying is a specialized business too. It's the largest agricultural enterprise in America. In 1954 slightly over 20% of all farm income came from the sale of milk and dairy animals as beef. In every state in the union there are dairymen; about 2 1/2 million of them in all. They produce the milk which goes through more than 35,000 dairy plants and comes out in bottles or as butter, cheese, ice cream and other dairy products. There are about ten million people employed in the dairy industry. And there are other millions building the machines and trucks and factories and other equipment needed to keep our river of milk flowing from the farms to the consumers' tables.

In Ingham county there are 750 dairy farmers with 15,000 cows. These cows produce the milk and dairy products not only for the people of Ingham county but a considerable portion of our Ingham powdered milk goes to the city of Detroit.

When you, as a consumer, go to your back door or to the dairy case in the grocery store to pick up your milk and dairy foods, you don't think about what has gone into the production of those products nor do you worry about the healthful quality of those products. That's as it should be, of course.

The dairy industry wants you to look upon its products in terms of the enjoyment and good eating there is in them for you. When you look at a bottle of milk, we want you to see energy and smiling faces for your children, more pep to do your daily work in home or shop or office, and enough zing so that you too, can join in singing and dancing to "Mama Loves Mamba, Papa Loves Mamba."

It is interesting nonetheless, to look at this dairy industry during this month of June that we observe as Dairy Month. During the 1954 year the dairy farms of this nation produced almost 124 billion pounds of milk, which means about 56 billion quarts or 450 quarts for each person.

You might also be interested to know that you consumed an additional quart and a half of milk and cream in 1954 as compared with 1953. You ate more cheese and butter. To put it another way, you made a step forward toward better living and health.

In 1954 you consumed more dairy foods than ever before in a peace-time year—you did drink more milk and used more of some of the other dairy foods during those war-time years when you spent your money on food instead of new cars and washing machines. You are improving your eating habits every year and you are turning to more dairy foods because they rate right up at the top of the list of foods on both a nutrition and economic basis, as well as appealing to your taste buds.

To turn out this supply of healthful milk the dairy farmers of America kept almost 25 million cows. These are better cows than the one Mrs. O'Leary lost in the fire.

Last year each of these cows turned out an average of 2,500 quarts of milk, setting a new record. To you this means milk available when you need it and at low cost.

In the past 10 or 20 years the dairy industry has invested millions of dollars to give better service at lower cost. Farmers have built new and more modern barns. They have put electricity and tractor power to work so that one man can do the work of 5 or 6 men. In the processing plants new equipment that cuts costs is constantly being installed.

Today you can buy a quart of milk at lower cost than ever before in terms of the amount of time you must work to earn enough money to buy that milk. The same thing is true of the other dairy foods—butter, cheese, ice cream, evaporated milk and non-fat dry milk solids.

The dairy industry is keeping up with our changing world. It wasn't too many years ago that the milk wagon with genuine horsepower, clip-clopped along the street every morning of the week to deliver a fresh supply of milk to homes. Today there is good refrigeration—in most cities milk is delivered 3 days a week. Milk is available in different sized containers and different types of containers so that the homemaker may select what she finds is best for her use.

Pasteurization and homogenization of milk and the adding of Vitamin D are taken for granted, but they haven't been with us too many years. We've come a long way in a short time to provide a constant supply of nature's most nearly perfect food at bargain prices.

Corn & Oats Put in Silage Will Pay Off

A Michigan State university farm economist expects a greater proportion of corn to be harvested as silage in the future.

Ray Hoglund pointed out that corn as silage results in 25 to 40 per cent higher nutrient yields per acre than when harvested as grain. Also, the field chopping method has taken the drudgery out of harvesting corn silage and cut labor costs.

Hoglund expects to see an increased use of alfalfa or alfalfa-grass mixtures. Alfalfa yields a third more and costs less per ton to produce than clover-timothy. Even when alfalfa stands are left only one year, they are still more profitable than clover stands, Hoglund maintained. In Michigan, alfalfa acreage increased 40 per cent from 1949 to 1954.

More first crop alfalfa and other legume crops will be harvested as grass silage, too, Hoglund said. This year, southern Michigan dairy farmers will harvest 15 per cent of these crops for grass silage. By 1964, the acreage will be doubled, he expects.

The farm economist also prophesies the harvesting of more oats as grass silage. Dairymen can increase the yield of feed nutrients by 40 per cent and lower the cost per feed unit 20 per cent in harvesting oats as silage rather than as grain. This change in harvesting has the same effect as adding more land to the farm, Hoglund said. Seedlings will also be improved.

Same Spray Doesn't Affect All Kinds of Flies in Barn

In the annual farm battle against flies, it helps to know the odds you're up against.

For instance, did you know that there can be at least 40 different species of flies around the barn. Entomologist Gordon Guyer and his associates found that many around the various barns at the Michigan State university campus last summer.

And with so many species, Dr. Guyer pointed out, there are many different habits. So you can't expect to knock out all the species with a spray or bait.

Take the little housefly, for example. It comes about mid-spring and stays until July 1, then drops out of sight. Little is known about this pip-squeak nuisance because it's on the decline before most farmers get around to spraying.

But, then the common housefly takes over. In the M. S. U. survey, this pest was the most numerous around barns from July 1 to September 9, with the biggest number in August.

As far as the housefly is concerned, malathion or diazinon will give control for 3 or 4 weeks if it's sprayed on the walls of the barn. Baits of the insecticide and corn syrup will work, too, the entomologist said, if the barn has level spots where baits can be scattered.

But stable flies are another problem. Although they look exactly like houseflies to the person not trained in identification, wall sprays or baits won't phase them.

The reason is stable flies like to suck blood—houseflies don't. So in order to control stable flies you have to get some insecticide on the cow. The same thing goes for horn flies.

Most of the stable flies in the M. S. U. survey were in the calf barn. Guyer speculated that the stable flies are partial to the thinner hide of youngsters—a cow's skin may be harder to pierce.

Horn flies were problems off and on during the summer, especially in the loose-housing barns. That meant the researchers weren't able to get good control of flies with either sprays or

Wheat Loan Rates Stiffen

Farmers who want to store wheat under government loan this year will find the rules stiffer.

Men from the county agricultural stabilization and conservation committee office will examine the grain closely to see if it meets the new standards specified by the food and drug administration, M. H. Avery, county agricultural agent, said.

If the grain doesn't meet the standards on sanitation, the farmer won't get the loan, Avery pointed out.

The loan application can be rejected because of contamination from mice, rats, birds, cats or other animals; damage by insects; or because the grain may have some treated seed mixed with it.

Under a law passed by the last session of the legislature, all seed grain that has been chemically treated and sold must be stained or dyed. That means such seed can be detected easily in other grain.

The rules on grain sanitation are administered by the Michigan department of agriculture's food and standards division. The division handles all cases where there is a misbranding of products or where there is adulteration of food.

The department already has seized a large quantity of grain being shipped in Michigan, Avery said. The grain was not up to food and drug administration standards.

United States has 33 cities named Columbia (with variations).

Climate Is Right For Snap Beans

Michigan has a favorable climate for snap beans and they can be grown profitably in almost any area of the state, County Agent M. H. Avery said.

Details on climate needs and phases on snap bean production in the state are included in a new Michigan State university publication recently received in the Ingham county extension office.

Soil requirements, variety recommendations, fertilizers, weed control, cultivation, disease and insect control and harvest methods are explained in the folder.

The folder was authored by S. K. Ries, of the Michigan State university department of horticulture, along with members of the departments of botany and plant pathology, entomology and horticulture.

Farm Prices Move Upward, Back to Last Year's Level

By CARL COLLIN
Farm product prices increased 3% between mid-April and mid-May. This is one of the sharpest monthly upticks in a long time. The recent increases in farm prices have brought the level up to where it was a year ago. However, farm prices are still about 22.5% below the record high set in February, 1951.

Price advances for hogs, potatoes, tree fruits, lard and catfish, the heaviest level during the month, offsetting the declines in strawberries, cotton, eggs and wheat.

Farm costs also rose during the month ending May 15 but not as much as prices received for farm products. The parity ratio climbed a little bit, about 2%.

The slightly better farm price picture has been encouraging to GOP congressmen up for reelection this fall. Fears of a farm revolt in the mid-west seem to be subsiding. Forecasts by USDA economists that autumn hog, corn, egg and dairy prices will top 1955 figures, despite seasonal dips, have boosted the morale of many congressmen whose constituents haven't been happy with the prices they had been getting.

Farm officials still figure that 1956 farm income will sag below last year's. But they believe signs point to "a leveling off." They warn of too much optimism over a sustained uptick in farm commodity prices until the heavy surpluses are moved.

National average payment rates for under-planting acre allotments under the soil bank plan run $1.20 a bushel for wheat, 90¢ a bushel for corn, 15¢ a pound for cotton and $2.25 a hundredweight for rice. Rates for the other 2000+ commodities are listed in the accompanying table. Farmers who leave or make acreage idle will earn these rates multiplied by the average normal yields. However, soil bank payments will not be available for acreage on which crops are too far advanced. Deadline dates for plowing down already seeded crops will be set. They will vary by crop and region.

The long range conservation reserve section of the soil bank will apply to all crop land. Farmers will contract to plant and maintain grass or trees, instead of cash crops, for 3 to 15 years. Details of this section of the soil bank are being worked out. However, on the reserve acreage crops cannot be harvested or livestock grazed.

Just to clarify the 2 sections of the soil bank a little bit: Under the average reserve part the farmer gets, in addition to eligibility for price supports, payments for underplanting his base acreage. Under the conservation reserve part, he gets annual rental payments for taking the land out of commercial production and putting it into non-commercial uses such as trees, grass and other conservation uses.

Sometime ago, the USDA set individual farm allotments for corn. They totaled around 43 million acres in the corn producing area. But the new farm law directs the USDA to make new allotments, termed base acreages, for these farms. The new allotments will total 51 million acres.

A farmer automatically becomes eligible for the $1.50 support rate (that's the national average) if he plants within the original allotment. But if he uses the new and larger base acreage figure he will be eligible for the $1.50 support price only if he complies with the provisions of the new soil bank program relating to corn.

Now under the new acreage, a corn farmer must put crop land equal to 15% of his base corn acreage into either the average reserve or the conservation reserve parts of the soil bank. Under the average reserve part, the farmer gets (in addition to eligibility for price supports) payments from the government for underplanting his allotted acreage. Under the conservation reserve, he gets annual rental payments for taking land out of commercial production and putting it into non-commercial uses.

Farmers in the commercial corn area who do not comply with either the original farm acreage allotments or with the provision in the soil bank will be eligible for corn support at $1.25 a bushel. County ASC offices are really going to get a work-out keeping records on the new farm deal.

MISCELLANEOUS — USDA economists predict that egg prices in 1956 will average higher than last year's 38.9¢ a dozen. The latest round of coffee price increases has some roasters worried. The price rise has affected coffee sales already. When coffee prices reach the $1.00 per pound level, demand suffers. In addition the industry is running into a period when warm weather normally dulls consumers' thirst for coffee.

The U. S. Weather Bureau started this week issuing 5-day forecasts 3 times weekly—Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Formerly the 5-day forecasts came out on Tuesday and Friday. The bureau figures this earlier and more frequent revision will increase considerably the value of the service to farmers.

There's talk going the rounds of an emergency global food stockpile. When price supports for this year's crop will range from $1.06 to $2.27 a bushel. The national average is $2.00. The U. S. ranks 9th among the 18 important dairy producing nations in production per cow. Toppling the list are the Netherlands and Belgium with almost 8,500 lb. Then comes Denmark with 7,654 and Switzerland with 7,000. The U. S. average runs about 5,815 lb. per cow.

Country & Town

By Jim Brown

Never, no never, I have repeated many times, would I be caught wearing Bermuda shorts. It always looked to me like the dandies that sported such garb were a little out of their element. Then came an offer by that clothes horse, Jack Davis. He offered to give me a pair of the short pants if I'd wear 'em. That night after work, I slipped into the Bermudas while hiding behind the typewriter and sprinted down the alley to the car lest someone see my kneecaps. Arriving home, I burst from the car into the arms of my wife. For an instant, she believed I had been wearing them at work all day.

After we had ourselves a good laugh, I switched to something warmer. Little legs get cold easily when Bermuda shorts are worn.

But on warm days, Bermuda shorts are cool and comfortable. They beat long pants by 25 degrees.

City Attorney Howard McCowan was one of the first to introduce short pants in Mason. He's been wearing them for years and he looks real nifty. He sported a pair of plaid ones at the Kiwanis-Key club ball game last week and after 7 innings of play, the city attorney had required only 7 band-aids.

Others who have been quick to set the Bermuda style are Harold Bell, Howard Seibert and Donald Edgington. Someone reported that Don Deismore wears them, too.

Frank Schmidt, who like many of us, spends many hours, both waking and asleep, at club meetings, has come up with a good idea. He recommends that all people who are interested in charity work join in one new club and drop all of the others. The club could meet once a month. Then, all of those who are interested in community betterment could drop all other clubs and join in one big one. Frank has counted more than 50 clubs in Mason that justify their existence by trying to do good turns. Turn all of these little efforts into a couple of big ones, according to Frank, and little old Mason would really accomplish big things.

There could also be a club for those who don't want to do anything.

My wife literally beat the bush Sunday afternoon. She started out to trim our 15-foot forsythia bush and ended up with 7 tough old trunks about 2 feet high. It was one of those deals like the guy who tried to level up a table by cutting an equal length from each leg. Pretty soon the legs on the table were only an inch high and the table still wasn't level. It was the same way with the forsythia bush.

Michigan Ranks Second In Sales of Fluid Milk

Dairy farming is Michigan's largest agricultural enterprise and Michigan is one of the leading dairy states. It is second only to Wisconsin in the sale of fluid milk, used for bottling purposes, a factor influenced by the large industrial and urban areas in the southeastern and central part of the state.

Fluid milk is the leading dairy item in the Detroit market, accounting for 71% of all the milk produced in the southeastern Michigan milkshed. The rest goes into manufacture of ice cream, cheese, butter, cottage cheese and other dairy products.

More than 17,000 dairy farmers in 69 of the state's 83 counties, nearly 12,000 of them serving the Detroit market, are members of the Michigan Milk Producers' association, the state's largest farmer cooperative. Through their organization, these members provide the major portion of the fluid milk requirements of 32 city markets, including the metropolitan Detroit market.

The Michigan Milk Producers' association is a cooperative milk marketing organization. Through their association dairy farmer members cooperatively own and operate their own milk receiving stations, processing plants, testing laboratories and transportation facilities, and employ a large management and technical staff.

Not many decades ago the family cow, or a dairy farmer on the outskirts of town, was the direct source of urban milk supply. Today the arrival of the milk route man or a visit to the grocer's dairy counter marks the last of an elaborate series of steps by which the modern dairy farmer, and his manufacturing and distributing associates in the industry, carry out this responsibility.

Never in the history of the industry has the purity and the quality of milk been so high. The dairy cow is the sole support of the industry which supplies nearly a third of the food requirements of the people. The dairy herd supplying the greater Detroit market numbers more than a quarter of a million cows.

President Gets His Farm Bill

The revised farm bill passed by congress and signed by the president comes closer to what President Eisenhower asked for in January than the first bill, according to National Agricultural Research, Inc. The new act isn't much different from the act which has been in effect. Republicans, Democrats and farmers are becoming lukewarm toward the soil bank plan. The president got his soil bank plan, but without the pre-payment feature.

In most of the nation the soil bank came too late in the season for farmers to participate in 1956. Eisenhower made the opposition feel obligated to adopt the soil bank plan, then met them halfway on high supports to reduce the farm program as a campaign issue. Four months of argument in Washington ended up about a draw.

Dairy Income Reaches Top in Farm Revenue

Dairying is the largest single item in the Michigan farm income, and sales at the farm level in 1955 amounted to 180 million dollars. About 60% of the milk goes to the fluid market and 40% into milk products.

People should not be surprised to see a cow tied to a lamp post in front of a bank or department store. June is Dairy month, and from Maine to California cows are getting into the act to help remind America's multitudes that the milk which flows from the cows' udders is nature's most nearly perfect food.

Since 1938 June has been set aside to honor the cow and the industry that has built up around her. The cow probably has as much claim to fame as any critter man has ever managed to domesticate. She not only pours out a constant river of milk during her lifetime but also provides a big percentage of American's favorite meat, beef.

Poets have seldom been able to wax as sentimentally about the cow as they have about dogs and horses, but the cow has been an important part of man's civilization for an estimated 50,000 years. Cows moved into the American scene with the earliest settlers, and they followed the Conestoga wagons across the plains to the west.

Today dairying is one of the biggest industries in the nation. June Dairy Month, sponsored officially by dairy organizations, has the cooperation of the retail food industry, restaurants, government agencies and many other people who are interested in increasing the per capita consumption of dairy products.

June was selected as Dairy Month because that is usually the month of peak milk production. When cows have had a few weeks of wandering in green pastures, they turn on the milk flow full power. The result is that dairy products come to the market in great quantity and offer consumers a wide variety of excellent foods to please everyone in the family.

Still Wood to Split

Coal, oil and gas has cut into the demand for wood as fuel, yet wood for fuel still ranks third behind use for lumber and pulpwood. There are still many rural and small town homes in Michigan with woodstoves, although there doesn't seem to be any great promise of the comeback of wood in the luxury fuel market. It is continually being replaced by more convenient fuels.

Graf Herd Produces

The 39-cow Holstein herd of Fred Graf, Stockbridge, averaged 469 lb butterfat and 13,150 milk last year. The record was made on twice-a-day milking.

Announcement of the scholarships marks the first time such awards have been made by the beef sugar industry of Michigan. A spokesman for the industry pointed out that the awards were being made this year in line with the industry's feeling of community obligation.

The 2 winners were chosen from over 150 applicants. Scholarship ability accounted for 50% of the final decision, activities 15% and need of the applicants, 35%.
